FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription June 26, 1978

Section Chief Robert L. Shackelford, presently assigned to the Identification Division at FBI Headquarters and formerly the Section Chief of Section IS-2 in the Intelligence Division, contacted Special Agent [redacted] by telephone. After being reassured Special Agent [redacted] was assigned to the defense discovery operation, Mr. Shackelford advised he still had some materials from his old tickler files in IS-2 which he wanted to turn in to our possession. b6 b7C

Mr. Shackelford was advised we had intended to contact him today to determine if he retained any such ticklers. We agreed to meet in his office (Room 10853) to take custody of the documents and to furnish him a receipt.

Accompanied by [redacted], who has been conducting the inventory of documents originally seized at FBI Headquarters during August 1976, I went to Mr. Shackelford's office, reviewed the material, and furnished a two-page receipt to him, a copy of which is attached and included as part of this record of interview. b6 b7C

Mr. Shackelford advised he had two filing cabinets, each containing two drawers in his old office in IS-2. Following the seizure of the documents in August 1976 and their subsequent return to the rooms in which they were located, he became concerned since he knew some highly sensitive FBI materials were in the folders. He noted many of the folders had been inherited by him from his predecessor Section Chief in IS-2. He, therefore, went and spent approximately one-half day or more reviewing the folders, one drawer at a time.

Most of the materials did not pertain to the Weatherman investigation but related to general overall policy in IS-2 Section. He emphasized he had seen nothing relevant to the prosecution case. He had [redacted], his secretary, destroy the material which he found to be insignificant or completely unrelated to the inquiry into the FBI's investigation to locate Weatherman fugitives. He retained material which he considered either very sensitive or of potential use to the defense in this case or to himself in making any explanation he might be required to give. b6 b7C

Investigation on June 22, 1978 at Washington, D. C. File # None

by Special Agent [redacted] /dmd b6 b7C Date dictated June 22, 1978

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

The material furnished was located in two large loose-leaf binders which were full and each of which contained a few loose documents. There were also five legal-sized folders containing various documents, some of which were loose and some of which were bound by Acco fasteners. Finally, he furnished a large handful of loose documents, further described in Items 3 through 13 on the attached inventory.

Mr. Shackelford exhibited a small black loose-leaf binder which was full to the point of bulging, containing handwritten notes. He stated these were his conference notes. He acknowledged there could be a difference of opinion on whether they were personal property or Government property. He preferred to regard it as personal property but offered to make it available for copying. He noted the Department had possession of the notes for a period of several weeks in 1976 and might already have a copy of it. He was advised Special Agent [redacted] would determine from the Department what they wanted to do about the notes. b6 b7C

Mr. Shackelford was later advised, on the same day, that Departmental Attorney [redacted] wanted a copy of the notebook made, with Mr. Shackelford retaining the original with instructions not to destroy it. Mr. Shackelford then furnished the notebook for copying. b6 b7C

MEMORANDUM FOR

Clarence M. Kelley
Director
Federal Bureau of Investigation

SUBJECT: Surreptitious Entry Investigation

This is to confirm my telephone conversation with you of yesterday.

1) You have agreed to provide us by next Wednesday, June 2, 1976, with a list of fifteen employees from which we will choose between ten and twelve persons to constitute the FBI Inspection Team. Such persons will be chosen based upon criteria we discussed in your office Tuesday. We will promptly set out to interview and select those persons upon receiving your list.

2) You have suggested, as in the case of Mr. Dowd's investigation in Richmond, that a senior coordinator of the FBI Team would expedite the investigation. In this regard, you will be providing two or three names of persons from whom we might chose a coordinator. If we do so, it is understood that the conduct of the investigation in all regards will be directed by the Civil Rights Division, and that the supervisor will act only to coordinate and expedite Bureau work.

3) We have tentatively agreed to use Bureau personnel to assist in this investigation. With this in mind, we are going forward with the foregoing two steps. If, prior to actual deployment in the field, either you or I decide that the use of the Bureau is ill-advised, either of us can reverse our current course, in which case the Civil Rights Division will conduct the investigation through other means.

4) We understand from Tuesday's meeting that you will shortly send a protective memorandum to all field offices reminding them of their already existing obligation not to destroy any documents, whether official or in their personal possession, relating to surreptitious entry or any other security or intelligence files, memoranda, data, information, or papers. We would appreciate receiving a copy of that memorandum as soon as it is sent.

5) Mr. Shaheen advises me that the new Senate Oversight Committee goes into effect next Tuesday, June 1, 1976, and that the probable chairman will be Senator Daniel K. Inouye (Dem., Hawaii). We may be well advised to inform appropriate members of the new Oversight Committee of the existence of the investigation, without disclosing compromising detail. I will advise you further of our views on this matter before seeking an appointment on the Hill.

6) We have drafted a press release, which I read to you on the telephone, which confirms only that an investigation into sensitive matters involving the FBI is taking place. I would not at present seek to release this information, but will keep it on hand in the event that the Department feels it necessary or appropriate to respond to press inquiries.

7) You have indicated a possible interest in canvassing all members of the FBI, nationwide, for their personal knowledge about surreptitious entries or other questionable intelligence or counter-intelligence activities. Last week I suggested that you refrain from executing this idea (if you were inclined to do so) until we had our meeting on Tuesday. Following our discussion on this matter Tuesday, I have decided, as I indicated on the telephone, that the decision as to whether or not to conduct such a canvass should be entirely and independently yours. As I indicated, our only request is that should you decide to make such a canvass--and again, at this time we wish to express no views for or against such a move--we would appreciate some advance notice so that we can avoid conflict with our existing investigation and conflict with the Garrity decision.

Our investigation is now formally underway, and we sincerely appreciate your cooperation under the guidelines of this memorandum and our discussion of last Tuesday.

MANUAL FOR BUREAU SUPERVISORS

Enclosure 7

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

January 2, 1952

ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED
HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED
DATE 08-05-2009 BY 60324 UCBAW/DK/SBS

MANUAL NO. 23

Contents of this manual must be held in strict confidence and may not be disseminated outside this Bureau. Manual must be maintained in a safe and secure place so it will not be available to unauthorized individuals.

1. DAILY ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

Supervisors should sign in on #1 register chronologically in order of arrival when ready to commence duty and sign out chronologically at time of departure. Time shown must be exact time of signing register and not rounded off to any convenient multiple. Overtime should be shown in column so headed after final departure for the day. If supervisor is unexpectedly called back to duty and, therefore, has additional overtime to record, he should draw a line through previous figure and record total after new departure time.

When supervisor departs on leave prior to close of workday, he shall indicate time of departure in column headed "Departure on Leave." If he is not going to return that day he should also sign out in right-hand column headed "Departure." If he is going to return from leave prior to end of regular workday, he should sign out only in leave column. When he returns from such leave, he should indicate time of return in same space where he signed in at beginning of workday.

Departure from office for breakfast or dinner and return should be indicated on register. All departures during workday must be approved and there must be appropriate charge to leave. Deductions from overtime should be made for absences during nonworkday. Overtime is to be computed at close of each workday and not carried over to following day.

Travel overtime shall not be counted for FBIHQ representatives proceeding to any field division while on special assignment, including travel of inspectors and aides on inspection, travel of FBIHQ representatives on speeches or other special assignment, and travel between FBIHQ and Quantico.

2. MAINTENANCE OF FIREARMS IN OFFICES

Firearms assigned to a supervisor may be maintained in his desk drawer provided desk is locked at all times when supervisor is not present. Firearms may also be kept in locked brief case provided it is maintained in suitable and safe place, such as desk drawer or file cabinet drawer assigned to the supervisor.

3. PHYSICAL CONDITION AND MAINTENANCE OF OFFICES

Rules concerning physical condition and maintenance of offices and desks are substantially same as those applicable to field offices. The offices must be maintained in proper physical condition at all times.

Supervisors may maintain Bureau manuals, memoranda, and ticklers covering matters over which they have supervision. An excessive amount of supplies should not be maintained in a desk. The interior of desk should be clean and well arranged.

Each office should have access to white-rimmed confidential wastebaskets in which all wastepaper of confidential nature is placed. All employees should be instructed in use of confidential and non-confidential baskets.

(11) Notations on yellow

When appropriate, file copy of outgoing correspondence should include notation indicating either that there is no record in Bureau files relating to correspondent or summarizing available data.

(12) Special tags on outgoing mail

Special tags should be used only on mail of urgent nature. When

Supervisors should retain tickler copies of correspondence for 60 days, so that they can be readily located when called for. To maintain tickler for more than 60 days, approval of appropriate Assistant Director must be obtained. Periodically each Division will review its practices re preparation of ticklers, checking with recipients and eliminating those where there is no demonstrable need.

(15) Correspondence from publishers, editors, etc.

When correspondence is received from publishers, editors, journalists, or anyone in the writing field, the correspondence shall be discussed with the appropriate officials of the External Affairs Division before a reply is prepared.

(16) Correspondence dealing with public relations

Correspondence dealing with public relations and any correspondence which does not easily fall within a particular investigative classification will be prepared in the Correspondence and Tours Section. Such letters should be sent by routing slip to the chief of the Correspondence and Tours Section.

(17) Letters of commendation

Letters of commendation to Special Agents should be prepared in the [Finance and Personnel] Division. Letters of commendation to law enforcement officers and others outside the FBI should be prepared in the Correspondence and Tours Section. FBI National Academy mail is prepared in the Training Division.

(12) Special tags on outgoing mail

Special tags should be used only on mail of urgent nature. When an employee places a special tag on outgoing communication, he should initial and date tag.

(13) Rewrites

When a letter has been rewritten by someone other than original dictator, copy of rewritten letter should be designated for person who prepared original correspondence.

(14) Ticklers on correspondence

[Retention of tickler copies of unclassified documents will be at the discretion and good judgment of each individual FBIHQ supervisor. The number of documents made should be on the basis of need and must be carefully controlled to avoid the indiscriminate preparation of unnecessary copies. Each Assistant Director will have the freedom to monitor the preparation and retention of tickler copies in a manner most compatible with the division's work.]

(15) Correspondence from publishers, editors, etc.

When correspondence is received from publishers, editors, journalists, or anyone in the writing field, the correspondence shall be discussed with the appropriate officials of the [Public Affairs Office] before a reply is prepared.

(16) Correspondence dealing with public relations

Correspondence dealing with public relations and any correspondence which does not easily fall within a particular investigative classification will be prepared in the Correspondence and Tours Section. Such letters should be sent by routing slip to the chief of the Correspondence and Tours Section.

(17) Letters of commendation

Letters of commendation to Special Agents should be prepared in the Finance and Personnel Division. Letter of commendation to law enforcement officers and others outside the FBI should be prepared in the Correspondence and Tours Section. FBI National Academy mail is prepared in the Training Division.

(d) The overall polygraph program is coordinated by [the Laboratory.] Statistical data and comparative reports are submitted quarterly.

(e) Tickler copies of all communications regarding all polygraph matters should be designated for the [Laboratory,] Polygraph Subunit.

38. BUREAU LIBRARY

(1) The FBIHQ Library at the present time maintains current reference books as well as a limited amount of other literature which are catalogued immediately upon receipt. These reference books are indexed in the main index which is now maintained at Quantico.

(2) Current Bureau publications and news magazines are reviewed, catalogued and filed in the FBIHQ Library. In addition the out-of-town telephone directories are maintained by the FBIHQ Library.

39. DELETED

40. PUBLICATIONS - RENEWAL

Each division should set necessary administrative ticklers to insure an annual reevaluation of all subscriptions to publications to coincide with subscription renewal date. A control file should be maintained for filing the annual reevaluation memoranda and this control file is to be purged after each annual inspection.

The Executives Conference of March 5, 1953, consisting of Messrs. Tolson, Tracy, Laughlin, Parsons, Mason, Belmont, Glavin, Holloman, Gearty, McGuire and Mohr, considered the present Bureau rule with respect to the retention of ticklers by Bureau officials and supervisors and specifically the rule with respect to the retention of original memoranda prepared by the Director.

The Conference was advised that the present Bureau rule with respect to tickler copies of correspondence is that they shall not be retained in excess of 60 days and should be destroyed sooner if they have served their purpose. It is further provided that at least every 60 days each Assistant Director shall review the ticklers in the possession of the supervisors in his division to definitely determine whether the supervisors are abiding by the instructions. Should the Assistant Director determine that the ticklers in certain types of cases of a continuing nature should be retained for a longer period of time, the Assistant Director may so instruct the particular supervisory employee. However, the Assistant Director is instructed to submit a memorandum to Mr. Tolson advising him of the identity of the supervisor and the ticklers he has approved for retention beyond the 60-day period. Whenever a supervisor has been transferred from a division or has resigned, before such supervisor departs on transfer or ceases active duty, all ticklers in his possession shall be obtained by the Assistant Director for review to determine whether they should be destroyed or assigned to the supervisor's successor.

The Conference was advised that there was no instruction specifically covering original memoranda prepared by the Director for Mr. Tolson or some other Bureau officials and on which original memoranda a yellow copy has been prepared for file purposes. In other words, an Assistant Director could conceivably keep these original memoranda indefinitely, which some do.

The Conference was unanimously of the opinion that original memoranda prepared by the Director for which a yellow copy is prepared for the file should be retained for not more than six months, after which period of time they should be destroyed. The Conference felt that the six-month period should be utilized because these original memoranda are frequently referred to, particularly those which are received by Mr. Tolson, and it was felt that a 60-day period of time was too short but that six months would permit a sufficient period to retain such memoranda.

I. INTRODUCTION

As one phase of an Office of Planning and Evaluation (OPE) study regarding the security of FBI operations, a survey was conducted concerning the maintenance of tickler copies of communications at FBIHQ and existing practices concerning the accountability of documents. This matter was also a topic of discussion at the Executives Conference.

This survey pertains only to unclassified documents. The area of classified material at FBIHQ will be dealt with separately.

II. METHODOLOGY

In connection with the survey concerning accountability of documents, the Assistant Directors or Deputy Assistant Directors were contacted in the Training, Administrative, Files and Communications, Inspection and the three investigative Divisions. In addition, a Task Force Study on Paperwork Management and Document Control, conducted in March - April, 1973 was reviewed. The Task Force Study was a five-part study of which, "Controls on the Number of Copies on Document Copying Equipment," was one of the parts.

III. DETAILS

All persons interviewed agreed on the necessity for maintaining tickler copies of documents and policy folders as an efficient paper management system. This allows prompt response time by eliminating document retrieval delays.

All but one of the Bureau officials contacted in connection with this survey felt that the present rule in the Bureau Supervisors' Manual regarding ticklers on correspondence, which requires the approval of the Assistant Director to maintain ticklers for more than 60 days, was not realistic and should be changed. It was felt that a more realistic approach would be to drop the arbitrary sixty-day retention rule and leave tickler retention to the good judgment of each individual desk supervisor. A system such as this could be monitored by the Section Chiefs who would be responsible for insuring that excessive and unnecessary ticklers would not be maintained. He could make a review on a monthly basis.

One Assistant Director felt that the present system worked well in that it gave him a chance to review, every ninety days, what ticklers were to be kept in his Division.

With the above suggested change, each individual Bureau supervisor would be responsible for maintaining only those copies of documents necessary for the practical and efficient operation of his desk. Each Assistant Director would be free to monitor the system in any way he felt was compatible with the type of work in his Division and establish any additional controls he felt necessary.

The regulations of The National Archives and Records Service (NARS) contain no requirement to maintain or account for tickler copies of documents preserved only for convenience or reference.

In an effort to control unnecessary copies of documents, a memo should be promulgated to all Bureau officials and supervisors, cautioning against the preparation of unnecessary copies of communications.

Emphasis should be placed on sending copies of Bureau communications only to those personnel who have a need to know the information.

Based on a review of the findings and recommendations of the Task Force on Paperwork and conversations with the previously mentioned Headquarters Divisions, there appears to be no additional controls necessary on duplicating equipment that would be practical. Any additional restrictions would impair our efficient operations to an extent that would outweigh any slight increase in security.

IV. RECOMMENDATIONS

(1) That the regulation regarding ticklers on correspondence be changed to eliminate the 60-day written rule. In the future, tickler retention will be up to the good judgment of each Bureau Supervisor. Each Assistant Director will establish a system whereby a monthly review by Section Chiefs will be made to insure no unnecessary ticklers are being maintained.

(2) If recommendation #1 is approved, OPE will handle Manual changes and inform all Headquarters Divisions of the changes.

MEMORANDUM TO THE DIRECTOR
RE: SECURITY OF BUREAU OPERATIONS

(3) That a memo be circulated to all Bureau officials and Supervisors cautioning against the preparation of unnecessary copies of documents and the restricted circulation of Bureau documents to persons with the "need to know."

(4) If #3 is approved, OPE will prepare the necessary memo.

RE: SECURITY OF FBI OPERATIONS

The Office of Planning and Evaluation (OPE) has completed a survey concerning the accountability of tickler copies of unclassified documents retained by FBIHQ personnel.

The current Bureau policy regarding ticklers on correspondence states that "Supervisors should retain tickler copies of correspondence for 60 days, so that they can be readily located when called for. To maintain tickler for more than 60 days, approval of appropriate Assistant Director must be obtained. Periodically each Division will review its practices re preparation of ticklers, checking with recipients and eliminating those where there is no demonstrable need."

In connection with their survey, OPE contacted the Assistant Directors or Deputy Assistant Directors in the Training, Administrative, Records Management, Inspection, and the three investigative Divisions.

All agreed on the necessity for maintaining tickler copies of documents and policy folders as an efficient paper management system. This allows prompt response time by eliminating document retrieval delays. However, the OPE survey determined there was significant indication that the present rule which requires the approval of the Assistant Director to maintain ticklers for more than 60 days was not realistic and should be changed. It was felt that a more realistic approach would be to drop the arbitrary 60-day retention rule and leave tickler retention to the good judgment of each individual desk Supervisor. A system such as this could be monitored by the Section Chiefs who would be responsible for insuring that excessive and unnecessary ticklers would not be maintained. He could make a review on a monthly basis.

I have agreed to adopt this approach on a one-year trial basis after which I have instructed OPE to evaluate this method and advise me.

With the above suggested change, each individual Bureau Supervisor will be responsible for maintaining only those copies of documents necessary for the practical and efficient operation of his desk. Each Assistant Director will be free to monitor the system in any way he feels is compatible with the type of work in his Division and establish any additional controls he feels necessary.

During this one-year trial period, the Inspection Division in its inspections of the Headquarters Divisions should ascertain that proper supervision is being given by the Assistant Directors and the Section Chiefs.

Although the regulations of the National Archives and Records Service contain no requirement to maintain or account for tickler copies of documents preserved only for convenience or reference, I feel that in many cases there are too many copies of a document being prepared and distributed at Headquarters. I want the originators of documents to be selective in their distribution and prepare only the minimum number of copies necessary to efficiently accomplish the task. Emphasis should be placed on sending copies of Bureau communications only to those personnel who have a "need to know" the information.

As part of the OPE survey, a "Task Force on Paperwork Management and Document Control," which was conducted in March and April, 1973, was reviewed. The "Task Force Study" was a five-part study of which "Controls on the Number of Copies on Document Copying Equipment" was one of the parts. Based on a review of the findings and recommendations of this Task Force and conversations of OPE personnel with the above-mentioned Headquarters Divisions, there appears to be no additional controls necessary on duplicating equipment that would be practical. Any additional restrictions would impair our efficient operations to an extent that would outweigh any slight increase in security.

Nevertheless, it is incumbent upon all Bureau officials and Supervisors to be aware of the potential problems in document control with unrestricted duplicating equipment and to caution employees to use this equipment only when essential for efficient operations.

Very truly yours,

/s/ CM Kelley

SUBJECT: SECURITY OF FBI OPERATIONS

Reference H. E. Hoxie memorandum to the Director dated 2/27/76, captioned as above (copy attached).

PURPOSE:

To provide the Director with an evaluation of the year's trial period during which a change in the guidelines for retention of tickler copies of unclassified documents was instituted on a trial basis. This change allowed for retention of tickler copies based upon the discretion of FBIHQ supervisors.

EX-106 REC-39

SYNOPSIS:

EX-106

Current Bureau policy states, "Supervisors should retain tickler copies of correspondence for 60 days, . . . To maintain tickler for more than 60 days, approval of appropriate Assistant Director must be obtained." By reference memorandum, the Director approved the elimination of the 60-day rule on a trial basis and permitted tickler retention to be at the discretion of each individual desk supervisor. Each Assistant Director was free to monitor the system in any manner most compatible with the division's work. During the trial period the Inspection Division was requested to insure that proper supervision was provided the maintenance and retention of tickler copies. Director requested that an evaluation be made after the year's trial period. Survey conducted of FBIHQ divisions 3/77, established that none of the divisions experienced any difficulties under the modified retention guidelines. All divisions agreed the modified guidelines permitting tickler retention at the discretion of FBIHQ supervisors remain in effect. The Office of Inspections found nothing to indicate other than proper supervision was being provided by division management for the proper maintenance and retention of tickler copies.

Memorandum to the Director
RE: SECURITY OF FBI OPERATIONS

RECOMMENDATIONS:

1. That the Director approve the proposed tickler retention guidelines which permit retention of tickler copies of unclassified documents to be at the discretion and good judgement of individual supervisors to be monitored by Assistant Directors.

2. That upon approval of recommendation number one above, the Forms Desk, Training Division, make the necessary manual changes.

DETAILS:

Bureau policy states, "Supervisors should retain tickler copies of correspondence for 60 days so that they can be readily located when called for. To maintain tickler for more than 60 days, approval of appropriate Assistant Director must be obtained. Periodically each Division will review its practices re preparation of ticklers, checking with recipients and eliminating those where there is no demonstrable need." By referenced memorandum the Director approved eliminating the rule requiring the approval of an Assistant Director to maintain ticklers for more than the 60 days and instead permitted tickler retention to be at the discretion and good judgement of each individual Desk Supervisor. This new procedure allowed monitoring by Section Chiefs who would be responsible for insuring that excessive and unnecessary ticklers would not be maintained. It also allowed each Assistant Director the freedom of monitoring the system in any way he felt would be compatible with the type of work in his Division. Any controls he felt necessary could be established. During the one year trial period, the Inspection Division, when inspecting Headquarters Divisions was to ascertain that proper supervision was being given by the Assistant Directors and Section Chiefs to the maintenance and retention of tickler copies. The Director requested an evaluation be made after a one year trial basis and that he be advised of the results.

An evaluation of the year's trial period was made through a dissemination of a questionnaire form to all FBIHQ divisions. Responses from the divisions were unanimous to each question indicating that: (1) none of the divisions experienced any difficulties during the trial period regarding the maintenance and retention of ticklers under the modified guidelines, (2) all divisions agreed that the modified guidelines which allow tickler retention of unclassified documents be left to the good judgement of each individual FBIHQ supervisor and that each Assistant Director is free to monitor the system in a manner best suited to his division and the division's work should remain in effect, and (3) none of the divisions recommended that tickler retention be limited to a certain time period such as 60, 90 or 120 days.

The Records Management Division noted the new retention guidelines would be in keeping with good records management practices and would be in line with the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 41, Section 101.11. This section primarily contains rules promulgated by the National Archives and Records Service regarding record keeping which is applicable to all federal agencies.

This division also noted that a procedure followed by one of their branches to control tickler retention is a monthly reminder sent to all Section and Unit Chiefs to destroy all unnecessary ticklers.

The Administrative Services Division suggested that it be emphasized that ticklers should be made on the basis of need only as opposed to indiscriminately making ticklers.

The Office of Inspections, Planning and Inspection Division noted that only two FBIHQ divisions had been inspected during the trial period, External Affairs and Records Management Divisions. The maintenance and retention of tickler copies of unclassified documents was specifically looked into during both inspections and there were no findings to indicate that other than proper supervision was being given by the division's management to this matter.

March 31, 1977

PROPOSED CHANGES TO MANUAL
FOR BUREAU SUPERVISORS

It is proposed that Section 20, Item 14, be changed to read as follows:

Retention of tickler copies of unclassified documents will be at the discretion and good judgment of each individual FBIHQ supervisor. The number of documents made should be on the basis of need and must be carefully controlled to avoid the indiscriminate preparation of unnecessary copies. Each Assistant Director will have the freedom to monitor the preparation and retention of tickler copies in a manner most compatible with the division's work.
