WARNING ON SPY CLEARLY IGNORED.

(Special to The Ensign)

OTTAWA — Positive proof that the Canadian Royal Commission on espionage had ample reason to suspect that Dr. Klaus Fuchs was involved in the Russian spy ring — and that these suspicions were passed on to the United States and British authorities in 1946 — was disclosed to The Ensign last week.

Despite these clear warnings, Fuchs was permitted to continue working for four years in the highest branches of atomic research in Britain and to have access to top U.S. and British atomic secrets. It was during this period that he passed most of the atomic information to Russia

"Euthanasia is a pathway down a road of activity which may end in all sorts of ruthless extermination — despite whatever safeguards may be placed on it.

"It should be remembered that it was one of Hitler's earliest ideas to eliminate the incurables, the physically unfit and the mentally retarded. This ended in the extermination of at least 6,000,000 people in the incinerators of concentration camps — people who were called unfit or unsuitable because of their religious convictions."

Warning On Spy

for which he was sentenced on Feb. 28 to 14 years in prison.

Until last week, all that was publicly known, apart from Fuchs' trial confession, was that his name had appeared in a notebook belonging to one of the men accused in the Canadian spy trials of 1946.

(A United Press cable from London that a Russian agent's notebook containing Fuchs' name and the word "Nash," (Russian for "ours"), was "found in Canada last year" was inaccurate. This notebook belonging to Col. Vasiliy M. Rogov, Soviet Embassy director of Atomic espionage, was shown to Igor Gouzenko, Soviet embassy cipher clerk who broke the spy ring, and its contents reported to the Royal Commission four years ago.)

Last week The Ensign learned that the Royal Commission knew in 1946 that Col. Rogov revealed Fuchs' spy role to Igor Gouzenko. Both Fuchs and Dr. Allan Nunn May were considered for assignment to Canada to collect and report atomic secrets. Dr. May was selected but Fuchs was held in reserve. Then Fuchs was sent to the United States in 1943.

These facts were passed to U.S. and British authorities in 1946. The Federal Bureau of Investigation in the U.S. wanted to make further investigation of Fuchs (and a number of other suspects), but was not permitted to investigate atomic espionage until 1947. Actually, they have been working on the Fuchs' case for less than a year.

Why British authorities did not enquire into Fuchs' activity in 1946 and prevent him from passing atomic secrets to Russia during the last four years remains a mystery. M.I. (War Office counter-espionage branch) knew that Fuchs had fled Germany in 1933 as a self-confessed Communist.

They had the reports from the Canadian Royal Commission in 1946. They knew also that Fuchs openly visited the Russian Embassy in London, a curious practice for an atomic scientist.

Other evidences of grave weaknesses in Britain's security system alarmed the United States last year and undermined British efforts to persuade the U.S. to share more of its atomic secrets. The Fuchs' case merely confirmed earlier fears.

In Ottawa, one indigant official told The Ensign: "Unless the authorities in Canada, the United States and Britain quickly realize that every Communist — and every fellow-traveller — is suspect, our security measures will not give us much protection. The least we can do is to clean them out of places of authority and trust."

Informant advised that YAKOLVLEV of the Consulate contacted AGAPOV (undoubtedly I. AGAPOV of AMTORG) and suggested that since the plans for the party-meeting are not as yet definite, AGAPOV should not invite anyone. YAKOLVLEV stated that the probable date is December 5 and that the hour will be decided-on later, and then YAKOLVLEV will contact AGAPOV.
