an individual by the name of JOSEPH LEVITSKY. He did state, however, that he was absolutely certain that he did not attend the Signal Corps Training School at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey with JULIUS ROSENBERG inasmuch as he specifically recalled having first become acquainted with JULIUS ROSENBERG in either January or February of 1941 when he, ROSENBERG and other Signal Corps inspectors were inspecting material then being produced for the United States Government at a company named Cardwell Condensers then located in Brooklyn, New York. ALVARADO related that he specifically recalled ROSENBERG due to the fact that ROSENBERG was in the habit of telling "dirty jokes" which seemed to ALVARADO to be somewhat unusual in view of the excellent educational background which he understood ROSENBERG to have. ALVARADO also said that the trial of ROSENBERG for espionage a few years back also helped him to recall that he had met ROSENBERG while both were inspectors for the Signal Corps in the New York area.

ALVARADO related his association with JULIUS ROSENBERG consisted of official business only for approximately a two week period when both worked as Signal Corps Inspectors at the Cardwell Condenser Company, Brooklyn, New York. He did not associate with ROSENBERG either before or after business hours but did state that he occasionally had lunch with ROSENBERG while both were working at the Cardwell Condenser Company. He said that inasmuch as he specifically recalled having met ROSENBERG for the first time at the Cardwell Condensers Company, he was quite certain that he and ROSENBERG were not classmates in approximately November, 1940 when he, ALVARADO, attended the thirty day Signal Corps School for Inspectors at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey. ALVARADO reiterated that, to the best of his knowledge, he had never met anyone by the name of JOSEPH LEVITSKY although he did state that it was possible LEVITSKY may have attended the thirty day Signal Corps school at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey in November, 1940 inasmuch as he, ALVARADO, could not recall the names of his classmates at this school.

Inasmuch as ALVARADO stated he was not acquainted with JOSEPH DEVITSKY and had only a passing acquaintance with JULIUS ROSENBERG, the above information is not mentioned in the report enclosed herewith and is being forwarded to the Bureau by cover letter for the information of the Bureau.

Re: DAVID STEINBERG
LOYALTY OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

Dear Sir:

ReNYlet to Bureau 10/24/50: "MAX ELITCHER, HELENE ELITCHER; ESPIONAGE - R."

The following additional information has been received from MAX ELITCHER, whose identity should be concealed:

From sometime in 1943 to approximately 1945 (ELITCHER is not absolutely certain of the period) ELITCHER attended meetings of the "Chairmen's Group" of the Communist Party in Washington, D. C. He was at the time Chairman of a Communist Party cell in the Navy Department.

ELITCHER stated at that time one DAVID STEINBERG was Chairman of the Communist Party cell in the War Department. ELITCHER further recalled that STEINBERG was Chairman of War Department cell of the Communist Party at the time the War Department and Navy Department cells consolidated for meetings.

According to ELITCHER, STEINBERG was employed in the War Department in either the Publication Distribution Department or in the Publicity Department. He resided in an apartment in Brentwood Village, Washington, D. C. He was married and had at least one child. At this time (1951) he would be about 32 years old.

ELITCHER stated that he believes STEINBERG left Washington, D. C., but does not know where he went.

NELSON, at first, could not recall any conversations he had had with the subject which dealt with Communism, but later recalled that GERBER told him shortly after the arrest of MORTON SOBELL that SOBELL lived in Flushing and was employed by the same firm by which he (GERBER) was employed. GERBER said, further, that SOBELL had picked him up on numerous occasions and had driven him to work. NELSON recalled that GERBER commented at the time that he did not know SOBELL was mixed up in such matters.

It will be recalled that MORTON SOBELL was convicted along with ETHEL and JULIUS ROSENBERG in 1951, in the Southern District of New York, on a charge of conspiracy to commit espionage and was sentenced to thirty years imprisonment. The ROSENBERGS were also convicted and given the death sentence. Appeals from these convictions have been carried to the United States Supreme Court which recently refused to issue a writ of certiorari.

THE ROSENBERG RINGS, which are tied in Congressional and court room testimony to the old Federation of Architects, Chemists, Engineers and Technicians, had agents in the Army, Navy and Signal Corps. They had access and walked out with bulging brief cases filled with data on the Bureau of Ordnance. They were in a Navy cell which had the most detailed information on two of our latest battleships.

They had a military ring which worked under the following orders from Julius Rosenberg: to get information on "military equipment, any new equipment, plans, books, anything of value to the Soviet Union." Rosenberg himself got into such classified factories as the Hugh Warner-Swasey turret lathe plant in Cleveland. He had his most talented agents planted in the terrifically concentrated Ohio war industries.

They got our latest sonar anti-submarine firing devices. In the words of one Rosenberg agent: "These were particular ones which computed for missiles to be fired against submarines."

THEY PLANTED an agent in the Navy, which sent him into the GE plant at Schenectady — which counted on the Navy to screen its people. They had our latest fire control system (gun firing).

Soviet agent Morton Sobell, now in Alcatraz, gave the Russians "devices which are part of the systems used to control and to drive equipment and to take (electronic) intelligence and to use it in any way that is necessary for computation" in firing or handling guided missiles. Just a bagatelle.

At one point, Julius Rosenberg simply walked out of the Emerson Radio plant where he was a government inspector with our vital proximity fuse in his brief case. Later this master spy and payoff man told David Greenglass, who told the Senate investigators the other day that Julius boasted of giving it to the Russians.

IN 1947 Rosenberg disclosed to Greenglass that he had stolen the sky platform from us. And when Greenglass asked what that was, Julius described it as "some large vessel which would be suspended at a point of no gravity between the moon and the earth and as a satellite it would spin around the earth." So the Russians have that, too. Begin to look skyward friends. They waste little time.

Rosenberg revealed that he was the agent most trusted by the Russians. He called on courier Betty Bentley for something. He knew of her. She didn't know of him, except by password. And so they got into the Explosive Arsenal at Picatinny, N. J., the Aberdeen Proving grounds in Maryland, where they picked up the aerial bomb sight detector as well as into Oak Ridge and Los Alamos.

Finally, the Soviet agents became suspicious and started running their boys out via Mexico. In the Federal jail at Lewisberg, Pa., Greenglass told the Senate probers that Rosenberg tried to get him out too and when he demurred, Julius said "It can be done, one of my boys, Joel Barr, did it." Well, Barr and his girl friend, Vivian Glassman, worked at Monmouth's secret radar labs. Barr, who is undoubtedly peeping at us from behind the Iron Curtain, was the Rosenberg link there.

SO IT GOES, O. John Rogge, attorney for Greenglass and others who were in Soviet espionage, says:

"There still is Soviet espionage. But it's a vast jigsaw puzzle. The full story hasn't been told. My clients will cooperate and tell the authorities what they know."

That's good. Now what will the authorities do?
