WINCHELL

"New York - A source very close to Columbia University told me this tonight - that a top scientist at Columbia U is in great trouble with the Federal Grand Jury investigating espionage. The explosion will rock 'em any day."

COMMENT

Winchell may be referring to [redacted] who is definitely implicated in the Rosenberg espionage ring, although he is not considered a top scientist. He has for the past 2 months been employed as an instructor at Columbia. Before that he was with the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

"The Communists in California are planning a mass meeting on March 23, 1951, at San Francisco. William Z. Foster, who dodged being tried with the 11 convicted Reds, claiming illness, will be the principal speaker. How do you like that?"

COMMENT

Our San Francisco Office has indicated that Foster has been invited to appear as a speaker at this meeting on March 23, 1951, at San Francisco; however, there has been no definite information reported to the Bureau that Foster has accepted and will attend. The New York Office is very closely following all the pertinent activities of Foster.

Walter Winchell in his broadcast of March 4, 1951, stated that the New York Police Department has been alerted to limit and screen all visitors to Trans-Atlantic liners such as the Queen Elizabeth and Mary. A bomb not high explosive was found on the "Coronian" and the "Mauretania" before their recent departure from England.

At your direction I called the New York Office and spoke to Special Agent Carl L. Bennett at 10:50 p.m. March 4, 1951, and told him that although this did not appear to be a matter within our jurisdiction it was desired that the New York Police Department be contacted the first thing Monday morning March 5, 1951. That the full facts should be ascertained in order to determine if there is any information of an intelligence interest to the Bureau.

I advised Agent Bennett that the desired information should be furnished to you at the Bureau Monday, March 5, 1951.

The Walter Winchell broadcast for Sunday night, February 25, 1951, was monitored by Supervisor Orrin H. Bartlett, and the following items were noted:

WINCHELL:

Washington, D. C. A ^{WASHINGTON} Communist figure, who supported convicted Communist William Remington, is himself now under investigation for sneaking government papers to a Communist reporter."

COMMENT:

This apparently refers to [redacted] of the "W. S. News and World Report", the David Lawrence publication. [redacted] has now been dismissed from this position. At one time, William Remington introduced [redacted] to Elizabeth Bentley. It is alleged that [redacted] gave Elizabeth Bentley information at the time he was employed by [redacted]

WINCHELL:

"Attention Arizona newspapers. One of the 11 convicted Communist leaders, John Gates, now free on bail, is vacationing right now in Tucson. He is no good."

COMMENT:

John Gates was granted court permission to travel to Arizona. [redacted]

WINCHELL:

"New York City. Salvatore Sollazzo, the key man in the New York basketball scandal, was hit for a tax lien for over a million dollars yesterday. The papers reported that. This, however, is exclusive. The Department of Justice will throw a criminal rap at him in a very few days."

COMMENT:

No information is available at the Bureau concerning this criminal charge.

WINCHELL:

"The Senator McCarthy-Owen Lattimore fight is slated for another round. The documents in this case will make the Whittaker Chambers pumpkin look like a pickle."

COMMENT:

This apparently refers to documents of the Institute of Pacific Relations now in possession of the McCarran Committee. These documents, which were stored on the farm of Edward G. The text of the Walter Winchell broadcast on Sunday night, February 4, 1951, was monitored by Supervisor O. H. Bartlett and the following items are noted:

WINCHELL: "The William Remington perjury case will go to the jury late Tuesday afternoon."

WINCHELL: "The Soviet newspaper 'Pravda' will soon make news in Paris. Top Russian agents masquerading as 'Pravda' newspapermen will be arrested any moment by the Government of France."

Comment:

The above two items are set out for your information.

WINCHELL: "Miami Beach. The $30,000 gem burglary in the 7th floor apartment of the Tropical Park owner, N. Hirschfeld, points to three suspects. Two men. One woman. Their initials--F.G., C.W., and J.N. C.W. has served time. He was arrested two weeks ago and is now out on bail. F.G. is a very slick card player, likes to play Canasta. Her male companions are not sissies. At two other hotel robberies, F. G. always happened to be on the premises at the time."

Comment:

This last item was telephonically discussed with Supervisor C. A. Evans. Mr. Evans advised that the Night Supervisor in Division Six would immediately contact the Miami Office by phone to secure additional facts concerning this jewel robbery. These facts will be forthcoming. (See attached memorandum.)

The Walter Winchell Broadcast for Sunday night, March 4, 1951, was monitored by Supervisor R. W. Gorman and the following items are of possible interest to the Bureau.

Winchell -

"Omaha, Nebraska - The desperate convicts who escaped today are still at large. They snatched a third victim, a farmer tonight. They have crossed into Kansas. This means death under the Lindbergh Law."

Comment -

The Omaha Office advised by teletype on March 4, 1951, that Dewey Battershaw and Victor Sweet escaped from the Douglas (Nebraska) County Jail at 2:00 P.M. on March 4, 1951, where they were being held for robbery of a gas station. They escaped with the aid of an unknown subject who forced [redacted] to accompany them at gunpoint. Upon leaving the jail they forced [redacted] an Omaha Attorney, to accompany them and he is believed to have been taken as a hostage. They abandoned a 1937 Ford automobile containing the keys to the jail at the farm of [redacted] near Gretna, Nebraska, about 4:30 P.M. on March 4, 1951. The subjects took [redacted] 1950 Chevrolet and also took [redacted] as an additional hostage. No federal prisoners were involved in the escape, and according to the Night Supervisor in the Investigative Division who was in telephonic contact with the Omaha Office at 10:30 P.M. on March 4, 1951, there was no indication the subjects had crossed the state line into Kansas. Agents are maintaining continuous contact with local authorities in order to be immediately apprised of any developments within our jurisdiction.

Comments -

This relates to the Rosenberg case, the trial of which is scheduled to commence March 6, 1951. There is no indication that the defendants will take the stand, but David Greenglass is one of the defendants and has already pleaded guilty. He will be one of the prosecution witnesses. You will recall that AUSA Miles Lane made a special trip to Washington to confer with Atomic Energy officials in order to ascertain what information concerning the bomb could be disclosed at the trial of this case and undoubtedly there will be testimony by Atomic Energy officials about the manufacture of the bomb.

Office Memorandum • UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

TO : Mr. E. T. Harbo RB
 FROM : D. J. Parsons P
 SUBJECT: WALTER WINCHELL BROADCAST
March 11, 1951

DATE: March 16, 1951

Reference is made to the memorandum of March 12, 1951, from Mr. F. J. Baumgardner to Mr. A. H. Belmont concerning a WALTER WINCHELL broadcast in which he stated that Civil Defense would shortly debunk germ warfare and it would be assured that the best defense against germ warfare is a toothbrush and a bar of soap. Reference is also made to the Director's inquiry as to the reliable value of the suggested antidote.

There is no reason to believe that an ordinary or extraordinary use of a toothbrush with or without dentifrice would offer any appreciable protection against contaminated food or drink and none whatever against contaminated air.

Soap in itself has practically no bactericidal properties. Its use with water does remove germs from the skin in addition to dirt to which germs attach themselves. Other than this, soap offers no protection.

From all of the information presently available, it appears that bacteriological warfare or sabotage would involve the use of germs which can infect by being breathed or swallowed with food or drink, the former probably receiving the greater consideration. Tests already conducted by the Army Chemical Corps have demonstrated that bacteria sprayed from a moving vehicle can result in contamination of the air within the Pentagon with bacteria sprayed from the vehicle. Officers in charge of these tests feel that bacteria could be sprayed from a vehicle moving down a city street in such a manner that the spray of bacteria would not be seen nor would there be any observable sound accompanying the spraying of the bacteria into the air. The Chemical Corps are continuing their experiments. As yet they have not ascertained what portion of the people within a given area might be infected. The Laboratory will continue to follow the progress of these experiments and the results obtained.

1... Pastor Martin Niemöller, who is now lecturing in the United States, is the leader of that group in Germany, which is against collaboration with the Western Powers, for "unity" and "neutrality."

tells the following true story from Austria:

Immediately after the defeat of the Nazis, the Russians stationed 25,000 soldiers in a small town in Lower-Austria with a population of 60,000. The Mayor ordered the erection of a huge monument of Stalin with the inscription: "In gratefulness to our Liberator..." When the Mayor, who is a member of the People's (Catholic) Party, was asked if he really likes Stalin that much, he replied::: "What would you do with 25,000 Russians in town?"

 SUBJECT: WALTER WINCHELL BROADCAST
 March 18, 1951

DATE: March 19, 1951

The Walter Winchell broadcast for Sunday night, March 18, 1951, was monitored by Supervisor R. W. Corman and the following items are of possible interest to the Bureau.

Winchell -

"Washington. The FBI will make new headlines with another roundup of Spies."

Comment -

Winchell may be referring to the possibility of the arrest of [REDACTED]

The Department of Justice and the United States Attorney, however, have not as yet authorized the arrest of these two individuals, as they apparently feel the case against them is not too strong.

Winchell -

"New York City. The weeks eyebrow raiser, I think, is in a book published by the Yale University Press. The title 'The New Soviet Empire.' The author is David Dallin, one of the pioneer Anti-Communist fighters, an authority on Russia. He is the shocker. The author declares that after Russia is defeated, we should not dismember Russia because, he says, we will need Russia as a potential ally against Germany."

Comment -

None. Dallin is a well known Anti-Communist author.

Winchell -

"To the Washington Post. The President is fully aware of very serious charges by United States intelligence against the State Department demotā (phonetic). The Senate investigators will have them by tomorrow."

Comment -

It is not known what he means by "demotā" or to what he is referring.

Winchell -

"Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph. The newest Red Front is called the 'Pittsburgh Three Committee to defend Steve Nelson, Andy Onda, and James Dolsen,' now facing state charges in Pittsburgh."

Comment -

You will recall that Steve Nelson, Andy Onda and James Dolsen were arrested last Fall in Pittsburgh on State Sedition charges on the basis of a complaint brought by Judge Musmano. The headquarters occupied by the three was searched and numerous documents seized which were the basis for their subsequent indictment on State Sedition charges. Their trial in Pittsburgh has started, however it has been delayed by the illness of Judge Musmano. No information has been received that such a committee has been formed, however the Pittsburgh Office has been alerted to the possible existence of this front.

The Walter Winchell broadcast for Sunday night, March 25, 1951, was monitored by Supervisor R. W. Corman and the following items are of possible interest to the Bureau.

Winchell -

"New York City. Federal Judge Irving Kaufman is expected to send the big Atom Bomb Spy trial to the jury by Thursday or earlier."

Comment -

This refers to the Rosenberg case the trial of which, as you know, is in progress in New York and nearing completion.

Winchell -

"The McCarran Committee behind locked doors is readying an Espionage explosion 60 days from now."

Comment -

We do not know specifically what Winchell has in mind unless he is possibly referring to the Institute of Pacific Relations matter, about which you are already familiar. It is known the committee has the various documents in this matter under consideration, and the Bureau is maintaining liaison with the committee.

Winchell -

"The Intelligence Services know that Dictator Peron hasn't any atomic bomb, period!"

Comment -

The press on 3-25-51 carried an announcement by Juan D. Peron, of Argentina, that Argentine Scientists have produced atomic energy by a new method much cheaper than the usual processes. Peron declared the Argentine system "deals with creating artificial suns on the earth."

Dear Walter:

I assume you know that Honorable Alexander Wiley, United States Senator from Wisconsin incorporated in the Congressional Record of March 27 your article of the same date on the gambling situation.

Senator Wiley's comments in the record prior to the insertion of the article read as follows:

"Mr. Wiley. Mr. President, I have before me this morning's column by Mr. Walter Winchell on the subject of the real source of responsibility for inter-State gambling. Mr. Winchell, who fought communism, cancer, and crime long before it became fashionable to do so, has written another of his hard-hitting columns - punching straight from the shoulder. RECORDED - 133 MAR 31 1951 13-31615-663

INDEXED 133 MAR 31 1951
His remarks, I believe, raise blood pressures, lift eyebrows, but most important, elevate the sights of a lot of people so that they can see exactly what one very keen observer feels is really involved in the multi-billion-dollar gambling syndicate. Whether or not one agrees entirely with Mr. Winchell - and there will be some heated differences - I doubt very much that there will be many folks who do not respect the frank approach on this subject of hypocrisy and gambling. I ask unanimous consent that the article be printed in the Appendix of the Record.

Walter Winchell mentioned that Argentine dictator Peron's claim on the development of a new process of atomic energy was completely false. Contact with a number of officials of the Atomic Energy Commission has reflected the following:

There is no basis for the belief that any new important discovery has been made by Argentina in the field of atomic energy.

The announcement by Peron did not mention atomic weapons.

AEC has no information from any of its sources indicating Peron's report is true.

Reference is made to Winchell's statement "In the future, crime investigators will concentrate on a professional bondsman of Washington, D. C. Why do nationally known gamblers, they will inquire, all use the same Washington bondsman," and to the comment that the Bureau has no information as to the identity of this bondsman but that in U. S. Attorney Morris Fay's gambling inquiry last year in Washington such a bondsman was referred to as Mr. X. The Director appended the notation "We should try and get the name."

Supervisor Kurtzman of the Washington Field Office advised that he made contact with both U. S. Attorney Fay and Assistant U. S. Attorney Charles Murray, who handled the crime probe before the Grand Jury in Washington and that the designation of "Mr. X" came about in the following manner.

When the Davis Committee held their hearing in connection with gambling in the District, Meyer Weinstein, who paid the bond premiums, stated that he did not know the source of the money for such bond premiums; that it was just sent to him and he only received it. The newspapers thereupon made an issue of the matter and called the unknown source of the money "Mr. X".

So far as there being one Washington bondsman who is used by all nationally known gamblers, Kurtzman advised that this statement is not in accord with the facts known to the Washington Field Office and to the office of the U. S. Attorney. He stated that for example both Margaret Connor and William P. Ryan, the latter being the former U. S. Deputy Marshal, made the bond for those racketeers brought before the Kefauver Committee. Kurtzman advised that other bondsmen who have been known to make bond for gamblers were Jimmy Conroy and Bill Neil. He stated that there was no one master bondsman who handled the bonds of nationally known gamblers according to the best information the Washington Field Office could secure.

FROM : A. H. Belmont

SUBJECT: "LOOK" MAGAZINE ARTICLE
ON ATOMIC BOMB
WALTER WINCHELL BROADCAST
APRIL 22, 1951

DATE: April 25, 1951

PURPOSE

To advise you of the results of a check with the Atomic Energy Commission regarding the "Look" article.

BACKGROUND

Reference is made to my memorandum to you of April 23, 1951, entitled Walter Winchell Broadcast, April 22, 1951. Winchell made the following comment:

"'Look' Magazine has a terrific scoop on the stands next Tuesday--the first picture of the atom bomb--the size, the shape, the weight, etc. heretofore top secret."

Mr. C. A. Rolander of the Atomic Energy Commission was contacted on April 22, 1951, regarding this statement. He stated he would check into the matter and would advise the Bureau further.

RESULTS OF AEC INQUIRY

Mr. Rolander advised on April 23, 1951, that several weeks ago the Commission received information that an article would appear in "Look" Magazine regarding the atomic bomb. Chairman Dean of the Commission immediately contacted officials of the Air Force and was advised by the Air Force that Jim Berryman, the author of the article, had been given an unclassified briefing by Air Force officials. The Air Force assured Dean that Berryman had been given no access to any restricted data. The Air Force further advised Dean that they had reviewed the article and found nothing objectionable. Dean asked the Air Force for a copy of the article, but was advised that they did not have one but would attempt to obtain one for him. This article has not been furnished to Dean.

As a result of the Bureau's inquiry, Rolander has furnished the following statement by the Atomic Energy Commission's Office of Classification:

"The references to size, weight, and shape of the atomic bomb and to the location and approximate size and shape of the firing unit of the bomb would be considered restricted data if made by an individual who, at any time, may have had access to AEC restricted data. However, in view of positive assurance from the Air Force that the author of this article has not had access to any restricted data, these references may be considered to be mere speculation and of no security significance."

After the release of this story in the "Washington Star" for April 23, 1951, the Atomic Energy Commission made the following press release:

"The writer of this article did not see any actual atomic weapon. The Air Force has assured the Atomic Energy Commission that the writer of the article did not see a representation of an atomic weapon".

Rolander advised that the Commission was disturbed about the Air Force action in this matter, and intended to discuss it with them further.

Agent Bates of the Liaison Section pointed out to Captain Waters, Director of Security for AEC, and Rolander that it did not seem logical for the Bureau to be making investigations of laborers, bulldozer operators, etc. when information regarding size, weight, and shape of the atomic bomb is published in the newspapers. It was pointed out that the vast majority of construction workers would certainly not see anything which would be as classified as the information in the "Look" and "Star" article. Both Captain Waters and Rolander agreed that this was true. Captain Waters pointed out that he was contacting the classification people in an effort to declassify information which would do away with the necessity of investigating certain construction personnel in particular locations.

Mr. Rolander pointed out that as a result of the statement made by the classification office, there would appear to be no basis for an investigation by the Bureau at this time.

CALIFORNIA: University of California students got the left-wing National Guardian restored to the Student Union store newstand by turning store management's rule against it. Publication was banned because three or more students protested. Students then protested in force against Life, Time, Saturday Evening Post, Reader's Digest, and Hearst newspaper. . . . Effects of the university's prolonged loyalty oath controversy were shown in booklet issued by faculty committee on academic freedom. More than 100 scholars were lost to the institution, either through dismissal, resignation, or refusal to accept appointments; 55 courses were dropped; and academic authority was lost.

WASHINGTON, D. C.: Supreme Court invalidated Wisconsin law prohibiting strikes in public utilities as in conflict with Taft-Hartley. Similar laws in other states may be endangered. . . . District of Columbia Board of Education censorship for school speakers has been liberalized because of protests. Former procedure of checking potential speakers against unvaluated files of House Committee on Un-American Activities brought bans on Pearl Buck and Marquis Childs. Armed services report "satisfactory progress" in their programs to end segregation. . . . Subcommittee of Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee charged southern textile employers with "shocking" violations of Taft-Hartley, including denial of free speech and assembly. CIO Textile Workers said that as a result its union membership has declined in south since the war.

LOUISIANA: Archbishop Joseph F. Rummel of New Orleans told clergy and parishioners that segregation must end in Catholic churches and activities and efforts were made to end the practice in social and civic functions.

NEW YORK: American Jewish Congress urged Commission on Internal Security and Individual Rights to investigate "alarming tendency throughout the country to blacklist persons even remotely associated with any form of liberal activity", as well as abuse of Congressional immunity and investigatory powers. . . . NAACP Counsel Thurgood Marshall charged Army with continuing segregation, despite Army's more optimistic report. Marshall also criticized courts martial system.

Harvard Refuses To Ban Guild

The Harvard Law School upheld the "legitimate freedom" of its students by refusing to outlaw the campus unit of the National Lawyers Guild.

Contrary to what Samuel P. Spears, president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, criticized a scheduled talk by Omond K. Fraenkel, vice president of the National Lawyers Guild and an ACLU board member. Spears advised Harvard to "stop playing host to the Communist party"—a reference to the House Committee on Un-American Activities listing of the Guild as a Communist-front organization.

Writing the Harvard law dean, Patrick Murphy Malin, executive director, said:

"No organization has a constitutional right to exist in any educational institution, but—as Harvard has long led in emphasizing—its students and/or faculty members should be freely granted the privilege of maintaining legal organizations, and of inviting any speaker whom they desire. And, whatever else one may think about the Guild, it is a legal organization."

Lawyers opposing loyalty oaths for members of their profession lost out in their most recent attempt to kill the anti-Communist statement recommended for members of the American Bar Association. The ABA's House of Delegates voted down a request that the oath recommendation be reconsidered.

HYSTERIA DECRIED

Former Attorney General Francis Biddle has called on lawyers to lead the fight against current expressions of hysteria which leave a mark on civil liberties.

In a Los Angeles talk, Biddle, who is an ACLU National Committee member and head of ADA, declared that "lawyers generally have not appreciated the gravity of the present hysteria affecting not only civil liberties but fundamental human decencies."

He cited as manifestations of this trend the McCarran Act, the renewed activities of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, the spread of loyalty oaths—even to bar groups—and recent accusations against Anne Rosenberg, Asst. Sec. of Defense.

A new bill which would allow Mrs. Okuma Kasenkina to qualify for American citizenship has started its rounds in Congress.

The new measure would extend Mrs. Kasenkina's period of residency in the U.S. The House earlier approved a bill to let her stay in the country if she paid a visa fee and head tax.

Mrs. Kasenkina leaped from the Soviet consulate at New York in 1948 to escape return to Russia.

ACLU Considering Problems Posed By Crime Telecasts

ACLU is earnestly studying civil liberties problems posed by the televising of Congressional investigating committees, as shown in the recent Kefauver Crime Investigating group.

Under consideration is a wide range of questions arising from the basic conflict between freedom of the press and principles of due process and individual privacy.

In the meantime, the Union announced support of a proposed Congressional inquiry to determine whether regulations for telecasting committee hearings are needed.

In identical letters to the Senate and House majority and minority leaders, Patrick Murphy Malin, executive director, said:

"We are most concerned over these problems (presented by telecasts) and are giving them careful study in an effort to suggest solutions which will preserve the rights of Congress, the public, and the witnesses. When this study has reached its conclusion, we should appreciate an opportunity to appear before any legislative committees which may undertake such an inquiry."

ACLU Study

In making its own study, ACLU recognizes that the need for procedural fairness at trials or hearings increases as the kinds of publicity media covering the events is broadened and also that the differences between the media may be great enough to justify different sets of rules to govern the conduct of each.

Among possible safeguards which the Union is considering are these: completeness and accuracy of testimony, as well as of information about witnesses, and the preservation of the rights of privacy at least to the extent that it exists in already established types of publicity.

Questions which the Senate crime inquiry telecasts brought to the forefront include the following which the Union will consider:

Should press photography (with flashlight bulbs), newscast and television cameras (with klieg lights), and radio microphones—or any of them—be excluded from the hearing room because they represent a sufficient possibility of distracting witnesses generally from giving as complete and accurate testimony as possible?

Should any or all of them be excludable by decision of the body conducting the hearings?

Should the use of any or all of them be subject to the agreement of a given witness?

Can possible bad effects be minimized, e.g., no flashlight photographs after a witness begins his testimony, klieg lights diminished in intensity?

Do press photographs, newscasts, broadcasts, and telecasts, increase or decrease the completeness and accuracy of the informational basis of the witness?

Should there be a requirement that any newscast, broadcast, or telecast which carries material adverse to a witness also must carry his rebuttal adequately?

Caution Film Industry On Reprisals As House Group Begins New Inquiry

ACLU has warned the movie industry against punishing film people who refuse to answer questions before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Joyce O'Hara of the Motion Picture Association of America was reminded in a letter from ACLU Executive Director Patrick Murphy Malin of the nation's constitutional guarantees against possible self-incrimination and its tradition of free opinion, expression, and association.

Malin's letter was prompted by a published report of a speech in which O'Hara was quoted as indicating that movie people who failed to deny association with Communist or Communist-front organizations undoubtedly would have trouble getting film work in the future.

The Right

"A person may invoke (the self-incrimination) right merely on the basis of a reasonable fear of prosecution; and invoking it is not the equivalent of admitting either the existence of a crime or commission of it," Malin wrote.

Two witnesses—Gale Sondergaard and Howard Da Silva—already have sought protection of the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions put by the House Committee during its most recent investigation of alleged Communist influence in the movie industry.

The ACLU head called upon the MPA to respect the spirit of civil liberties, including equality of treatment in employment where no risk to national security is involved.

"As you know," he stated, "our concern does not arise from any sympathy with Communism; on the contrary, it arises from our democratic belief in civil liberties for everybody, in diametric opposition to the totalitarian tyranny of Communism. . . . The long-run interest of the film industry, like the interest of democracy and national security, lies in preventing and punishing illegal acts without sacrificing the time-tested American freedom of opinion and expression and association."

Adherence to these principles was illustrated by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences when it disregarded complaints that several nominees for Oscar awards reportedly had subversive affiliations. Judy Holliday and Jose Ferrer, who won Academy awards, were among those so accused by Ward Bond, according to a published report.

In a telegram to Academy President Charles Brackett, Malin lauded the organization for "apparently refusing to be influenced by allegations regarding nominees' political opinions".

Anti-Censorship Parley Scheduled for May 9th

To meet the rising threat of censorship and suppression, the National Council on Freedom From Censorship will hold a major public meeting in New York City on Wednesday evening, May 9th at 8 P.M. in the Town Hall, 123 West 43rd Street. The meeting is open to the public and all ACLU members and their friends are invited to attend.

Outstanding personalities from the stage, screen, radio, publishing and theatrical fields will address the meeting. Invitations have already been accepted by Lillian Glah, actress, radio commentator H. V. Kaltenborn, playwright Elmer Rice, who heads of the National Council, Francis Downing, publisher of the Catholic Worker, dramatic critic Brooks Atkinson, and publisher Donald Ogden Stewart. Head of the Publishers Censorship Council, writer-director-producer Joseph Mankiewicz, whose film, "All About Eve," recently won the Academy award as the best film of 1950, has indicated his deep interest and will make a special trip from Hollywood to speak at the parley, if his schedule permits.

State Anti-Red Bills Assailed

A new rash of anti-subversive moves, which would curb rather than strengthen civil liberties, has broken out in state legislatures.

Particular danger points are Illinois, California, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts, where bills aimed against Communists have been introduced. ACLU affiliates are trying to rally public opinion in efforts to prevent their passage.

Both House and Senate of the Illinois legislature are considering measures of this type. Proposed bills would outlaw Communism and provide one to five-year prison terms for Communists; set up a state seditious activities commission again to investigate persons or groups suspected of subversion; require public officers to take loyalty oaths; provide for immediate dismissal of "suspect" public employees; forbid teachers to advocate subversion; and ban teaching materials that are not "friendly to democracy and non-subversive".

ACLU Chicago Division

Urging defeat of these proposals, ACLU's Chicago Division reiterated that Illinois already is protected by laws covering treason, sedition, and criminal syndicalism.

The Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts likewise has been active in opposing similar measures proposed for that state. Its special target at the moment is a report of the Committee to Curb Communism, which requests that the committee be kept in operation, that legislation patterned after the notorious Ober law of Maryland be enacted, and that members of the Massachusetts bar be required to take loyalty oaths. With the state ACLU in the vanguard, 200 prominent citizens previously had been instrumental in getting before the legislature a bill to abolish the committee.

Penn. Bills

American Legion-sponsored anti-Communist bills introduced in the Pennsylvania General Assembly drew the fire of liberal groups and persons. Among them were Owen J. Roberts, former U.S. Supreme Court justice, and Clarence E. Pickett, honorary secretary of the American Friends Service Committee. The measures would set up mandatory oaths for state employees, including teachers, and would provide the death penalty for persons who intentionally delayed or interfered with defense preparations. Roberts and Pickett charged that the bills "would fail of their purpose and endanger and destroy some of our most precious and fundamental rights and liberties".

Anti-subversive measures introduced in the California legislature would set up a joint Assembly and Senate committee on un-American activities; require loyalty oaths of varied groups of persons, including law-

WASHINGTON ROUNDUP:

Proposed Immigration Law Changes Criticized As Unworthy Of America

Edward J. Ennis, a former assistant U.S. attorney general, threw welcome light on some shortcomings of our present immigration and naturalization laws.

As chairman of the ACLU Alien Civil Rights Committee, Ennis appeared before joint hearings of the Senate and House Judiciary subcommittees to register Union objections to proposed bills amending the laws now in force.

For the most part, Ennis' recommendations on behalf of ACLU would make it easier for aliens who are former Communists to enter the United States. But their primary purpose was to amplify our basic democratic principles.

For one thing Ennis objected to a proposal that former Communists be admitted only if their entry were "in the public interest".

Good Faith

"If their renunciation is in good faith," he pointed out, "then there is no justification for this special burden on them, since their capacities to become acceptable U.S. residents and citizens is as great as any other potential immigrant."

As it stands, Ennis said, the proposal would benefit only a "few well-known authors and political figures. It is doubtful that the average person who has become disillusioned with Communism or Fascism... will be at all benefited by this provision so long as the 'public interest' requirement remains."

For ACLU, Ennis also opposed deporting aliens who formerly belonged to Communist or other totalitarian groups.

"If one believes that the purpose of freedom of speech is to persuade," he said, "and that people can be changed from previously held totalitarian beliefs to democratic ones, then this provision does a disservice to that concept."

Deportation

Moreover, he took occasion to repeat ACLU's long-standing opposition to deporting aliens who still belong to such groups.

"Our position is hardly based on any love of Communists, Fascists, or other totalitarians," Ennis told the hearing. "It rests on our fundamental concern for the preservation for all persons of the freedoms guaranteed by the spirit and letter of the Constitution, regardless of how deviant, obnoxious, abhorrent, or stupid the beliefs or political associations of such persons may be."

The way to deal with security problems created by Communists, he said, is to pass "proper and wise legislation directed at the threat and not by making a distinction based on the status of citizenship".

A companion point made by Ennis for ACLU concerned restrictions on visitors' permits for people who are barred as permanent immigrants because of their political views. Under the present setup about the only persons from Communist and Communist-controlled countries able to enter the U.S. temporarily are diplomats and others coming to America on official international business.

Exclusion

"Of course we have no objection to the imposition of fair security safeguards to be applied to such temporary visitors," Ennis said. "But our nation's fundamental belief in the principles of free expression, and our status as host to the United Nations, demands that we should not exclude visitors on account of their political beliefs or associations."

ACLU also recommended that persons who were "nominal" members of Communist or other totalitarian organizations be allowed entry, and no person under 16 in this group should be barred. (Since then a special bill, amending a section of the McCarran Act, has been passed by Congress and signed by President Truman which, in effect, would accomplish this purpose.)

New York Passes Bill Stopping Housing Bias

New York City has a new law which forbids discrimination in private housing projects built with financial help from the city—in the form of funds or tax exemptions.

Final approval and signing of the bill followed a long campaign sparked by the New York State Committee Against Discrimination in Housing to which ACLU belongs.

Pressure for such a measure arose after the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company was accused of discriminating against Negroes at its huge Stuyvesant Town project in Manhattan. Metropolitan's attempted eviction of 31 Stuyvesant Town and Peter Cooper Village tenants who vigorously protested the alleged bias was upheld recently in municipal court. They planned an appeal.

Provisions

The new law prohibits discrimination because of race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry. It provides a $500 fine for each violation and permits victims of discrimination to seek injunctions in the state Supreme Court.

The State Committee Against Discrimination in Housing urged passage of the act after the U.S. Supreme Court declined to review a New York State Court of Appeals ruling that Metropolitan was not required legally to admit Negroes to its Stuyvesant Town apartments since Federal equal protection laws were not involved. During hearings on its eviction case against the 31 tenants, the life insurance firm ignored the question of discrimination, claiming only that a landlord had a right to choose his tenants.

yers and those operating under license from the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards, such as doctors, barbers, pest control inspectors, dry cleaners, and undertakers; provide repressive restrictions on teachers; require registration of Communists and Communist organizations; and create anti-Communist investigatory commissions.

ACLU of Northern California is fighting the bills.

No Teacher Ban Against Clerics

ACLU has recommended that members of religious orders be permitted to teach in public schools so long as they do not wear religious habits.

The Union stand was disclosed in a friend of the court brief filed with the New Mexico Supreme Court. That body is considering an appeal from a state district court ruling that declared 139 Roman Catholic priests, brothers, and nuns ineligible to teach in the public schools and that also prohibited distribution of free textbooks by the state to parochial schools, transportation of parochial school pupils in public school buses, and use of church-controlled property for public school instruction.

One appeal from the lower court decision was filed by Protestant residents of Dixon, N.M., who filed the original test suit and now want the ruling enlarged to cover all Catholic priests and nuns and to forbid the wearing of religious garments. A second appeal, filed by the Catholic church, seeks to set aside the lower court ruling entirely.

In its brief, ACLU argued that the First and 14th Amendments would be violated by any ruling disqualifying members of religious orders per se as teachers. On the other hand, it said, permitting teachers to wear clothes designating their religious affiliation likewise violates the First Amendment by injecting religion into the public school system.

ACLU Appeal

If New Mexico can bar Catholics from teaching in public schools, ACLU declared, it may, and in order to treat all sects equally it must, disqualify members of the Protestant Episcopal orders and ordained ministers of the Protestant and Jewish and other faiths. The important question determining teacher qualifications is not "creed, religion, ideologies and associations," ACLU asserted, but integrity of work with students and whether the classroom has been used to inculcate religious beliefs.

(The New Mexico district court decided that the 139 Catholics cited had been promoting their religion in classes.)

Each teacher's case in short, must be judged separately on its own facts, and in terms of deeds, not on the basis of beliefs or associations, according to the brief. "It would be a violation of basic constitutional principles to disqualify a teacher merely because of his religious affiliations, Roman Catholic or otherwise. It would invoke the doctrine of guilt by association."

Thus a teacher should be accorded all freedoms guaranteed by the Bill of Rights, the brief pointed out, and while a state may set teacher qualifications it cannot "under the guise of qualifications" in effect discriminate against Catholics.

"Prohibition against wearing of religious garb by public school teachers," the brief added, "is merely the proper application of the constitutional doctrine of separation of church and state which tries to keep religion and government from commingling in the public schools in order to secure the independence of every religion and to preserve the children in the public schools from the influence or control of any of the many religions and denominations." Otherwise, said, classrooms would become centers for the various religions.

LENIENCY SOUGHT

ACLU has urged Governor Fielding Wright of Mississippi to commute Willie McGee's death sentence to life imprisonment.

The Union wired Fielding to take such action to eliminate charges of discrimination against Negroes. No white man in the state has been executed for rape, the crime of which McGee was convicted.

ACLU took no position on defense contentions that perjured testimony was used against the southern Negro. The Supreme Court recently refused for the fourth time to review the case. McGee's execution has been set for May 24th.

School Board Praised For Lattimore Stand

ACLU's Maryland Civil Liberties Committee has warmly commended the Baltimore school commissioners for permitting Owen Lattimore to address a high school assembly in the face of opposition.

At the urging of American Legion leaders, the Baltimore City Council had asked the commissioners to cancel the scheduled talk. Lattimore, a Johns Hopkins University professor and a Far East expert, has been called a Communist by Senator Joseph McCarthy.

"In these times such action (as the commissioners took) requires courage, integrity, and a greater respect for the Constitution and the Bill of Rights than for the opinion of demagogues and their followers," the Maryland committee said in a letter to the commissioners. "We wish to express our thanks . . . for preventing a most un-American display of ignorance and repression."

Decision

In announcing its decision to ignore the City Council's recommendations, the school board declared:

"We do not agree with the suggestion that high school students should be shielded from all controversial subjects and personalities. . . . If we were convinced that Mr. Lattimore is disloyal we would not grant permission for him to speak. But Mr. Lattimore has not yet been found guilty of disloyalty by any responsible agency."

The United Nations Youth Council at Baltimore City College had invited Lattimore to address an assembly. A Senate subcommittee cleared him of McCarthy's charges.

Loyalty, Defense Bills Condemned

ACLU and its New York City Committee tried unsuccessfully to prevent passage of two state bills which they felt encroached on civil liberties.

In telegrams and in testimony before a legislative committee, the Union and its affiliate pointed out cogent objections to the New York civil defense act and to the loyalty act.

A joint telegram to the state Senate and House majority leaders from ACLU Executive Director Patrick Murphy Malin and the Rev. John Paul Jones, head of the city committee, asserted that the civil defense measure would give "the governor dictatorial powers and (permit) censorship of forms of communications other than newspapers". They recommended that no defense legislation except that necessary to "avert physical disaster should be enacted at once".

Albany Testimony

Earlier, Herbert Monte Levy, ACLU staff counsel, had traveled to Albany to testify against the civil defense act. Levy told a joint legislative committee that after necessary defense laws were enacted a commission should be appointed to conduct full hearings, consult civil defense experts, study current defense problems, and make appropriate recommendations. He added that ACLU objected also to the bill's lack of safeguards in loyalty matters, its threat of protective labor law suspension, and its provisions for turning legislative responsibility over to the governor. ACLU did not oppose conscription for civil defense, he said.

Safeguards

The telegram which Malin and Jones sent to legislative leaders concerning the controversial loyalty bill charged that "procedural safeguards to insure fairness to government employees are almost entirely lacking" in it.

The loyalty law provides that any civil service employee in sensitive work who is suspected on "reasonable grounds" of being subversive may be fired or transferred. Such action may be taken by any state officer or agency following an investigation. The worker may appeal and in event of an adverse ruling may take his case to the State Civil Service Commission. But hearings will not be restricted by regulations such as apply in courts and the commission's decision will be final.

Malin and Jones said ACLU and its affiliate did not oppose the objectives of the loyalty bill but only its methods of dealing with suspected employees.

LEGISLATIVE BOXSCORE

CLOTURE REFORM: Under the Senate's present cloture rule, 60 yeas are required to end debate on a bill. Three bills for democratic limitation of debate are now before the Sub-Committee on Rules of the Senate Committee on Rules and Administration: S. Res. 97, sponsored by Sens. Tyus and Lodge; S. Res. 41, sponsored by Sens. Morse and Humphrey; S. Res. 105, sponsored by Sens. Lehman, Murray, Magnuson, Neely, Douglas, Humphrey, Green, Benton, Pastore, McMahon and Kilgore. Let the members of the Rules Sub-Committee—Democrats Carl Hayden of Arizona, chairman, and Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, and Republican Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska—know that you favor reform of the cloture rule and ask them to schedule hearings on all of these resolutions in an effort to determine the best way to allow full debate but prevent the filibuster technique.

Mr. Speaker,

I should like to call to the attention of the Members of this House a new book entitled "The Communist Trail in America" by Jacob Spolansky.

In the book, the author points out that the Communists in the United States conducted an organized campaign against newspaper men and commentators and that Mr. Walter Winchell was the only one against whom the Communists carried out a systematic attack for a period of years. The excerpts from the book which I am inserting in the Congressional Record, are a fine tribute to Mr. Winchell and show that the Communists consider him a formidable enemy.

It is gratifying to learn that Walter Winchell's ceaseless efforts in the battle against Communism are recognized. During the past month, some of my Colleagues and I have inserted in the Congressional Record a number of articles written by Mr. Winchell. However, very little has been said about him up to this time. I am pleased to have this opportunity to describe him to you as an eminent writer, columnist, and champion of human rights. Yesterday, he was named as winner of one of the "Michael" awards of the Academy of Radio and Television Arts and Sciences, as "Best consistent radio news commentator." Also, we must not overlook his sincere and unselfish endeavors in the interest of the public good. The May 22, 1951 issue of LOOK which reached the public stands on May 8, 1951 carried a story about Walter Winchell and his interest in the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund Crusade, and I am also inserting that story in the Record.

Because he is so widely read and heard, Walter Winchell's thoughts, words, ideals and campaigns for the right, are brought to the attention of millions. In these dark days when we face the reality that our enemies would destroy us from within our nation, Walter Winchell stands out as the Number One Enemy of Communism. His fearlessness, his attacks upon those who would undermine our democracy, arouse our admiration. I consider him a great fighter for liberty, freedom and Americanism.

Walter Winchell, patriot, is performing a splendid service for our nation and I am happy publicly to acknowledge that service.

FROM PAGES 51-53 of "The Communist Trail in America":

"In his Sunday night broadcast, Walter Winchell told of the secret Communist gatherings at which strike strategy was laid out. Because he had excellent sources of information, he was able to startle the Communists by quoting, nearly verbatim, just what was transpiring at these secret sessions. Winchell described the minute doings of the conspirators and even reported the way in which they boasted of their success in particular plants then gripped by strikes.

"Writers and commentators who exposed them were given the slandier treatment. Literary gentry, friendly to the Communist cause would be enlisted in the all out effort to blacken and defame him. To squelch Walter Winchell, however, colossal preparations were needed - Winchell was a formidable enemy. Not only had he mercilessly pursued them through the years, but he was rubbing salt into their wounds by reporting every word and gesture at their clandestine sessions. The time had come for vengeance.

"To crush Walter Winchell and his distributors, a special conference was called in an obscure Chicago meeting room on April 8, 1942.

"Extra precautions were taken to insure that absolutely no one except the trusted hierarchy was admitted to that room. Credentials were checked and double-checked to prevent any intruder from slipping in. Yet an undercover operator did manage to sneak in! The Communists, we learned from him, were furious over Walter Winchell's success in pointing his accusing finger at them and were determined to punish him.

"The meeting, called at the insistence of Robert Wiser, National Secretary of the Communist Party, was presided over by Pat Toohay, then State Organizer for Illinois. Toohay got to the point immediately. 'We've got instructions,' he said, 'to start a campaign to take Winchell off the air. Nobody needs to be reminded how important that job is' - - This was the plan. Hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions of letters were to deluge the radio network and Winchell's sponsor, all protesting his attacks upon 'an innocent political party.' Organizations, thousands of them, some real but most of them fictitious, were to join to fight Walter Winchell's 'persecution.'

" 'Above all,' Toohay warned, 'the name of the Communist Party must be kept out.'

" 'The protests should seem spontaneous and real.'

"The scheme elaborately drawn up, was doomed to failure because Winchell exposed it before it got under way. His information about the Communists was accurate to the last detail...powerful ammunition."

Mr. Walter Winchell

Dear Mr. Winchell:

Your broadcasts are becoming better each week. Last night (22nd) I got a particular kick out of your "STAND UP AND BE COUNTED" line. In fact, you may have invented this line some time back in a broadcast, after which I put the enclosed song together.

Naturally nobody wants to perform it, because it tells the truth about the Commies, altho not mentioning them by name. All of which makes me wonder if the show business isn't a bit over-permeated with red herrings. Evidently this is the case, even with the music PUBLISHERS, as I see in Ed Sullivan's column in today's Daily News (23rd) that, quote: "FBI is wrapping up expose on Commies in the music business"....

Just thought you might like to have a copy of a good but unknown ASCAP song. Keep up your fine work.

Cordially,

Lindsay McPhail

MAY 20, 1951

DATE: May 21, 1951

The Winchell Broadcast of May 20, 1951, was monitored by Supervisor L. G. Davis and the following items of possible interest were noted:

WINCHELL:

"Mexico City - Ambassador William O'Dwyer has made up his mind - he will resign shortly to spare the administration further embarrassment. I said so February 23, also March 18."

COMMENT: None

WINCHELL:

"Harold Shapiro, the Department of Justice man who kissed and told on Judy Coplon was secretly married recently to another Government girl."

COMMENT: None

WINCHELL:

"The Warden of Utah State Prison reports a rebellion. The prisoners, he says, have taken over. All State Police and County Sheriffs have been rushed to the scene - 20 miles from Salt Lake City. - - - I talked to the Deputy Warden about the rebellion at Utah State Prison. He says the prisoners hold seven guards and have complete control of the prison. Prison officials are barricaded at the Warden's headquarters. 'Anyone killed?' I asked. 'Not yet.' was the reply."

COMMENT:

SAC Newman has telephonically advised the Bureau concerning this matter and stated that he is keeping in touch with the situation. A memorandum and separate caption has been prepared.

The Walter Winchell Broadcast for Sunday evening, June 17, 1951, was monitored by Special Agent Smith Blair and the following items of interest were noted:

WINCHELL:

"Boston Record. Professor Harlow Shapley plans going to Russia in July. Can Harvard tell us why? The State Department may not issue the Professor a passport."

COMMENT:

Professor Shapley booked passage May 18, 1951, on the Pan-American World Airways to fly from Boston July 28, 1951, for Leningrad. His plans call for attending the annual meeting of the International Astronomical Union (IAU), Leningrad, August 1-8, 1951. He is scheduled to return to Boston on August 16, 1951, on Flight 103. The State Department is being advised of Shapley's proposed trip.

Shapley, one of the founders of the IAU, has rarely missed attending the international meeting of this group. In November, 1950, he canceled plans to attend this meeting due to possible embarrassment which he felt would result from the fact that certain Soviet scientists whom he had entertained in the United States had sent a telegram dated August 23, 1950, addressed to Izvestia which attacked the United States, and particularly its Far Eastern foreign policy.

WINCHELL:

"Special. The Senate Sub-Committee on Internal Security will shortly make this public regarding Communists in radio and TV. Over 400 stars, writers, producers, directors and others will be named for their link to Red front outfits. Good names down to small fry. Senator Willis Smith of North Carolina and Senator McCarran of Nevada will confirm this at the end of this month. Besides all the TV and radio people, the Voice of America, too."

"Attention, editors of the Chicago American. The proposed speakers at the Communist rally in Chicago July 29 are the following so-called Americans; Paul Robeson; Gale Sondergaard, the movie actress and wife of Herbert Biberman of the Hollywood ten; Dr. W. E. B. Dubois, who headed the Peace Information Center in New York City; and Professor Philip Morrison of Cornell University. He is one of our top atomic scientists."

COMMENT:

The Communist-inspired American Peace Crusade has arranged a mass peace conference which will be held in Chicago June 29-July 6, 1951, rather than on July 29 as Winchell stated. We are aware of all the details concerning this conference and full coverage will be afforded the rally itself.

WINCHELL:

"The Washington Post. The story of the 2 missing British diplomats with top atomic secrets will positively involve Dr. Klaus Fuchs, now behind bars. This is the big atomic spy sensation I tipped two weeks ago."

COMMENT:

Burgess and MacLean are not known to have fled with "top atomic secrets." During 1946-48, Donald MacLean, while attached to the British Embassy in the United States, was on the combined Policy Committee of the United States, Canada, and Great Britain, which considered political questions arising in connection with atomic energy. The only known connection of Dr. Klaus Fuchs with this case is that in 1947, Dr. Fuchs and MacLean attended the Declassification Conference which was held in the United States.

WINCHELL:

"New York Mirror. Last Sunday night, however, I said the top Communist leaders over here would be picked up by the FBI and sent to jail. At any moment, I said. The rest of them will be any day."

Twenty-one of the top Communist Party leaders in the New York area will be apprehended this week, probably on June 20, 1951, at which time the Federal Grand Jury in New York City is expected to return secret indictments.

2 Mental Cases Caught After Flight in Car

CHARLTON, Mass., June 21

—The second of two Korean war veterans who escaped from Mitchell Air Force Base on Long Island in a stolen Air Force ambulance was captured by State police here tonight without a struggle.

One of the veterans, a 19-year-old shackled service man who said he was from Richmond, Va., stopped the Cadillac ambulance, got out and surrendered to police at Pelham Manor, N. Y. But he had released the other man from a strait jacket and the freed man then sped off in the ambulance toward Boston.

The men had been taken to Mitchell Air Force Base from Westover Air Force Base, Mass., in a Military Air Transport Service C-47. They were to be taken to the psychopathic ward at St. Albans Naval Hospital on Long Island.

While the ambulance driver and an aide were unloading baggage, the manacled veteran got into the front seat of the vehicle and drove off with the other man.

Air police, seeing the ambulance speeding toward the field exit, assumed it was on an emergency mission and let it go through without halting it.

The Walter Winchell Broadcast for Sunday, July 8, 1951, was heard by Special Agent Dick H. Young and the following items of interest to the Bureau were noted:

WINCHELL:

"Attention police everywhere in the forty-eight. Robert G. Thompson, one of the four escaped Red leaders, is believed to be heavily armed and hopes to get revenge before he is caught."

COMMENT:

The Bureau has no information indicating that this is true. Thompson is a veteran of World War II and was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for "heroism in action." He, therefore, is familiar with firearms and their use; however, we have no information to indicate that he or any of the fugitive Communists are armed and dangerous.

WINCHELL:

"Los Alamos, New Mexico - A forest fire, still burning inside the Atomic Energy project is now under control. Seventy five acres destroyed."

COMMENT:

The Atomic Energy Commission nor the Albuquerque Office has advised the Bureau of this fire and therefore it must not have been of an incendiary nature, or considered as serious.

WINCHELL:

"Pleasantville, New York - Mystery writer Dashiell Hammett, long suspected, must appear in New York Federal Court tomorrow morning. He is one of Frederick Vanderbilt Fields' co-trustees on that Red bail."

COMMENT:

True. Presumably Hammett will be asked the names of the persons who furnished the bail, which question was asked Field last week.
