

supporting the bills.

The State Department, together with the U.S.I.A., has been consistent in its avowed policy to American taxpayers. In 1944, the U.S.I.A. held an exhibition loaded with works by pro-Communist artists to Europe. This misrepresentative exhibition was recalled by Secretary Marshall as great expense to the American taxpayer.

Another American exhibition was circulated in France at the expense of the French government. The cost of organizing this show at this time fell upon the U.S.I.A. and private individuals. It again contained mostly bad works of art which was to be expected, since the policy of selection was entirely communistic.

"Sport in Art," (not an all American show) originated by Sports Illustrated of Time, Inc., but gathered together by the American Federation of Art, started traveling around this country on its way to represent America at the Olympic Games in Melbourne. The American Federation of Art had been paid substantial fees for the previous two exhibitions mentioned above, and for the third time they stopped out of line by recruiting Communist staff. When identified with sport, it became even less understandable than in any other motif. This show was in Dallas, Texas, where the alert and well informed citizens of Dallas, including those in the Public Affairs Luncheon Club, art organizations, labor organizations, and patriotic societies, joined forces in the Dallas County Patriotic Council to protest the showing of this exhibition. The Dallas people discovered that the U.S.I.A. should have known from previous experience, and that Sports Illustrated could have checked upon -- that the Federation had quietly guided the Communist boys into a position from which they thought there was no escape.

Fortunately, the U.S.I.A. withdrew its sponsorship, and shortly thereafter stopped another exhibition, "Twentieth Century American Painters," which had been destined to misrepresent our culture in another determined drive by the Federation of Art to force acceptance of its monopoly of radical culturalists at the expense of the American taxpayer. This organization should be stopped cold now. It advocates that freedom of art means freedom to continue to control art for the benefit of the radical Communists and the venal clique it claims as representative of American art.

"The human art terrifies, disciples of multiple 'isms' that compose so-called modern art, boring industriously to destroy the high standards and priceless traditions of academic art, find comfort and satisfaction in the wide dissemination of this spurious reasoning and wickedly false declaration, and its casual acceptance by the unwary."

"Cubism aims to destroy by designed disorder.

"Futurism aims to destroy by the machine myth. The futurist leader, Marinetti, said: 'Man has no more significance than a stone.'

"Dadaism aims to destroy by ridicule.

"Expressionism aims to destroy by aping the primitive and insane. Klee, one of its three founders, went to the insane asylum for his inspiration.

"Abstractionism aims to destroy by the creation of brainstorms.

"Surrealism aims to destroy by the denial of reason.

"Let me touch briefly on some of the 'isms': The four leaders of the Cubist group were Picasso, Braque, Leger, and Duchamp, but what these reds are today is another matter. The artists of the 'isms' change their designations as often and as readily as the Communist front organizations. Picasso, who is also a dadaist, an abstractionist, or a surrealist, as unstable fancy dictates, is the hero of all the crackpots in so-called modern art. The left-wing critics call him the 'gag' by which American modernists may measure their own radical worth, and a dozen years ago it was arranged that he address his disciples in the Red American Artists Congress by international telephone hook-up. But no matter what others call Picasso, he has said of himself: 'I am a Communist and my painting is Communist painting.'

"Concerning the other three, Braque, Leger, and Duchamp, there is a variation only in degree of unbalance. Leger and Duchamp are now in the United States to aid in the destruction of our standards and traditions." The former has been a contributor to the Communist cause in America; the latter two are now fancied by the neurotics as surrealists.

The American Federation of Art is not performing as an educational institution if it permits notorious Red publicists intent on brain washing and propaganda to evaluate our culture. Already this outfit has had four strikes. Normally it would be three and out, but there is some peculiar relationship between the U.S.I.A. and themselves that seems to keep them up at bat, and each time representing substantial cash rewards, which obviously are being used to disgrace this country.

Exhibitions sent abroad by our Government as representative of American art must fulfill a purpose. Imposed downgraded standards of evaluation to include what so-called art experts call leading tendencies in American art, permit the many subdivisions of the Red contortionists to hold predominance in many art exhibitions. This should not be permitted in our Government-financed shows.

The art if the 'isms' is the art which has been transplanted to America straight from the Russian revolution. It is intended to destroy an enemy. Communist art in Russia is to delude the Russian workers -- a medium of propaganda picturing and extolling the imaginary wonders, benefit and happiness of existence under the socialized state.

All of these cockeyed 'isms' are of foreign origin and should have no place in American art. The contents of our Art Exhibition in Brussels is non-objective paintings with one or two exceptions. It is based on the theory that we must abandon the logical and adopt the illogical. How did we ever let this hoard of art distortionists, these international art thugs, descend upon us? Daniel G. Rich, Director of Fine Arts of the Art Institute of Chicago, explains: "The arrival of a boatload of famous European, modernists just before the war, also vastly stimulated the non-representational -- the present group of refugees met and influenced American painters -- other modernists -- had already landed in American universities and art schools where they set to work busily teaching the precepts of advanced European expression." Now let us see who Mr. Rich is. He was a pupil of Paul Sachs, head of the Fogg Museum of Harvard University and he sits as Chairman on the panel of visual art of U.N.E.S.C.O. along with three delightful specimens from the Museum of Modern Art, Ben Shahn, San Lewisohn, and William Koraosh. These latter three have an aggregate of over twenty references against them in the reports from the Committee on UnAmerican Activities, while Paul Sachs is an honorary trustee of the Museum of Modern Art.

Thomas Craven, foremost art critic in the United States, refers to the Fogg Museum as "the rendezvous of an effeminate and provincial tribe." Under the administration of Paul J. Sachs, it has accepted, nurtured and exalted the whole school of so-called modern and contemporary art, but more catastrophic than that, the Fogg Museum has trained many of its effeminate elect to be directors of museums throughout our land. These individuals have promoted the art of the 'isms' and to a large degree have been responsible for the acquisition at inflated and fictitious prices of the so-called master works of this jigsaw-scrapple of art that the public does not like, does not understand, and does not want to buy. Not only do they persist in jamming this art into museums from Maine to California, but they have effectively aided in excluding the works of our real American artists from exhibitions and competitions by loading the juries against academic artists. In innumerable instances, the committees on invitations are so fixed that the traditional artist is no longer invited to send his paintings. These tactics and subversive methods of alienating our real artists from the public shade the works of truly great artists such as George Bellows, Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, Edward Hopper, Robert Rigg, Arthur Heintzelman, and many of the real masterpieces of Whistler, Sargent, Ryder, Inness and others.

We are now faced to face with the intolerable situation where public schools, colleges, universities, art and technical schools, invaded by a board of foreign art manglers are selling a doctrine of 'ism' Communist inspired and Communist connected which have one common goal -- the destruction of our cultural tradition and priceless heritage. Sometimes it is difficult to uncover a very active lower stratum of pink, fairyish, busybodies, who squander institutional funds in an orgy of spending to hasten the destruction of the art of our great inheritance. The record is appallingly bad for the State Department and the U.S.I.A., in their joint relationship with the American Federation of Art and the Museum of Modern Art.

The official catalog of the American Art Exhibition at the Brussels World Fair contains a foreword by Harris K. Prior, Director of NOLK The American Federation of Arts. It says practically nothing, but one paragraph is a beauty, "The objects in these exhibitions have been lent by a wide variety of owners; by artists, art dealers, private collectors, art museums and educational institutions. Their great generosity in lending is testimony to their belief in the importance of the arts in America." This paragraph is pure hogwash as it does not tell the reader or the viewer the background of the ^{and} 18th Ars. Suffice to say, at least 25 works are out of the same rubbish pile which contributed to other Red-dominated shows, fostered by the American Federation of Arts. The preface to one of the four sections of the exhibition, "Seventeen ^{Contemporary} American Painters," was written by Grace M. Harley, Director, San Calif. Francisco Museum of Art, who has at times acted as hostess to the Red-dominated Artist Equity Association, and in addition, is also listed as a member of the National Council on the Arts and Government, which has for its address the Whitney Museum in New York City. A bit of her sneaky philosophy is contained in a short paragraph:

Before arriving at its definitive choice, the Committee of Selection reviewed national and regional exhibitions of the preceding year or two, saw paintings available in New York, and called in for consideration works from other cities. The result is a representative cross-section of the varied aspects of contemporary art in the country.

Other members of this choice little group of termites are William Lorch and Leon Kroll. These latter two were involved in the Dallas affair and have continually supported Communism and Communist-front organizations for decades.

It would be a complete give-away as to why this indescribable dribble was selected. Needless to say, there is no sign of a conservative work of art in the entire exhibition. (The Edward Hopper excluded) The show is a complete mutilation of what conservatism represents. It is junk, of the lowest conception.

George W. Staempfli signed his name to this gem of a paragraph under the heading of "Contemporary American Sculpture," "Nobody knows where this experiment of the 20th Century will lead....As a group, they reflect the creative ferment of our generation, and interpret its reaction to the insecure climate of our age." Who gave this so-called coordinator any right to make our art exhibition at the Fair an experiment and who in the world can understand art in relation to the words "insecure climate of our age." This kind of an expression patterns itself along the same lines as the art assembled for this show. The only thing certain about the two sections, "Young Contemporary American Painters" and "Contemporary American Sculpture" is the total insecurity of it. It has no place in Brussels; it has no place in this country; and the sooner we get rid of this team-work so cleverly designed to destroy us, the better our future. Fortunately, these bunglers who somehow gained entrance into Commissioner General Howard Cullman's good graces could not injure our display of Indian art or the American folk art. As a gesture of protection to these two divisions, there are now in Brussels some 100 cowboys and Indians. They just won't stand for anymore tampering and incidentally, they could be used very nicely for lassoing the Brussels junk and holding an old-fashioned lynching party.

Recently, because of the violent criticism of this whole mess,

... head of the U.S.I.A. was rushed to Brussels to whitewash the whole affair. His quoted opinion was on the cool side, which is suspiciously like an indictment without admitting the facts. What did not come out in his cleansing statement is the fact that the Director wired an S.O.S. to the Whitney Museum, of all places, for 17 substitutes. These are now at the Fair, hidden upstairs where the tourist can see them if he or she is too critical of the main floor exhibition. These ninth inning utility pieces are not the slightest bit better. Mr. Allen has murdered the American people. He had an opportunity to throw out the guests and replace them with worthwhile tenants. His was that of pussy-cat action. The unfortunate sweet young things acting as guides are beginning to disobey their orders. A counterfeit is usually discovered and when it is, it is usually burned and replaced by the real thing.

It is unfortunate that the American pavillion stays open until 10:00 P.M., while the Russian pavillion closes at 6:00 in the evening. It gives more people an opportunity to laugh at us, which is the prime objective of the 'ism' boys, the pinkos, and the fairies who have combined with the help of the State Department, the U.S.I.A., and the American Federation of Arts and the Museum of Modern Art to shoot us in the back as a nation, while pleading self-defense.

Some years ago, a certain Mr. Paul Porter was chosen by the State Department to head up the then new American E.C.A. operation in Athens, Greece. He lasted two years and during that time, millions of dollars of our taxpayers money went down the drain through misdirected energy of a contaminated mind. This same Mr. Porter was unveiled as a member of the Communist Party. In his defense he said, "I was a member for 12 years and ended my association 24 hours before the State Department hired me to go to Greece." Somewhere in this area of government there must be a check of no-goods; somehow they must be erased, because some time, unless they are, not only our art heritages will evaporate and be consigned to the basements of museums, but all our other great wealth of culture will be crushed.

It shouldn't take a Sherlock Holmes to find out who is responsible in the State Department for giving the American Federation of Art the opportunities as described, to damage all of us and to further their obvious clandestine program. What is the connection between the two and where is the connection?

Dear Mr. Winchell:

About four years ago I happened to tune in when you were telling about a midwestern city where if one were sued in Federal Court, and any one of a small group of attorneys filed the suit, it would be next to impossible to secure the services of a first-class law firm. Your description fits perfectly in this midwestern city, Tulsa.

b-6

Ten years ago I brought suit in State Court for an accounting against a partner that I had had. He then came back at me in Federal Court claiming a Patent which I had applied for in July or August 1946. His attorney was one [REDACTED] former clerk in our Federal Judge's law office. My attorneys suddenly became too busy to give my affairs their attention and asked me to get someone else to take my case. I went to other leading attorneys who, when they learned about [REDACTED] they gave me what is generally referred to "as the brushoff". Finally, when discussing the matter with a friend who was operating head of a large corporation here, he suggested that he would make their law firm take the case. When he called them and told them he had a new client for them they were very happy about it, but afterwards in their office they definitely did not want it. They told us why but it wouldn't be quite fair to quote them. They took the case and as seems to be the custom, we settled out of court and had an agreement where they dropped all claims on the Patent but I sacrificed my suit for an accounting. Shortly afterwards, the Patent was granted. They filed suit again in State Court but just before it was due for pre-hearing, they removed it to Federal Court. It laid there for months until they pulled it again and filed it a second time in State Court. The next time, they removed it to Federal Court and we pinned them down with a cross-petition in State Court, where on the strength of the agreement at a pre-hearing, I won the case on the evidence of the agreement alone. We then had to answer again in Federal Court where the agreement didn't mean a thing. My attorney then asked ~~for~~ that they be made to file a new petition because the one filed had been settled in State Court. This was refused. My attorney then asked for another judge to hear the case and was turned down. He then turned to me, made a statement that he couldn't do me any good in that Court and asked me to get someone else and walked out.

I finally ended with a young attorney with very little experience and the Judge ruled that neither one of us invented it and killed the Patent.

I appealed this case to the Federal Court of Appeals in Denver and lost again. After hearing you on the radio, I went to the legal paper here with the names of these so-called favored sons. I made a notation of every suit filed by them in Federal Court over a period of ten years. First of all I found that at least 80 per cent of their lawsuits were settled out of court. I also called five of the victims, two would not talk, but three did. They all had the same experience that I had in regard to getting an attorney to defend them and their cases were settled out of court.

While in Denver, Colorado on two occasions, I visited the Docket Room of the Federal Court of Appeals and ran down a large number of cases appealed from decisions from this Court here, and came up with the opinion that anything appealed from Tulsa is thrown in the lap of Judge Murrah as he wrote the opinion of all of the cases appealed from Tulsa.

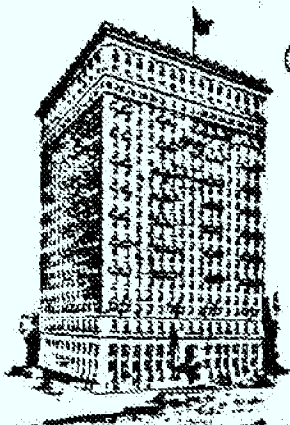

Judge Murrah and our Judge Savage here were members of a school fraternity at Oklahoma University. They were very active in raising campaign funds to elect their former English teacher at O. U., Josh Lee, to the U. S. Senate and he was responsible for having them appointed judges.

On my last look at the Dockets in Denver, I afterwards had dinner with friends and told them what I had been doing. A short time later, this friend sent me a clipping from the Denver Post which gave a short history of Judge Murrah's life. It told about him and another "Rover Boy" named Bohannon, opening their first law office at Seminole, Oklahoma during the oil boom in 1928. Then, it also told his nickname (Fish).

During the 20's the writer operated [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] and I had a number of men working for me [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] In those days I used considerable liquor for entertaining. One day I asked one of my men if he knew any of the bootleggers. He said he did not know them but had a telephone number which he had been told was a law office and if I would call that number and ask for "Fish" and give him my order it would be delivered. Since I received the clipping from the Denver Post, I have run down some of his old customers, in my spare time and recently located the man who was [redacted] at that time. He confirmed what I had already learned from others, that Fish Murrah was the biggest bootlegger in Seminole, [redacted] is now [redacted] in Oklahoma City, but due to the fact that [redacted] has fallen off during the past eight months, [redacted] I have not been back to see [redacted]

An investigation of the above will also lead to a lot of good news on how things have been operated in the Internal Revenue Office in Oklahoma City. [redacted] is head of a law firm in Oklahoma City, is badly mixed up with the Internal Revenue Office. A man [redacted] was the attorney [redacted] He lived with a brother at that time who was a member of [redacted] law firm. He would report, apparently, anyone who was being investigated. [redacted] firm would then have one of their men call on you and recite any number of cases where they got the boys off on very small fines. One man here did not make a return while he was building a million dollar fortune. They got him off with a $2,500 fine but they collected a $25,000 fee. That man is now ready to talk and there is a tape recording record which one of my friends made of that particular incident, along with many others that they told him about.

The man who checked the return of [redacted] of this city and found his 1947 return in bad shape is ready to talk [redacted] paid off to him $3,600. The man with the State Income Tax somehow exposed this and the man was arrested and fined $2,500. It has been intimated to me that the fine was paid by the man's former boss. Some of these men had to resign on account of it. This attorney [redacted] was one of them.

I have a number of contacts, that if you are interested, I will be glad to turn over to your representative. I wish only that I could hear you tell over the radio about how they made Federal Judges out of bootleggers and hoodlums in Oklahoma.

Yours very truly

P. S. For your information most of the data that I have on [REDACTED] Law Firm and Internal Revenue was given to me by one of my associates here who recently passed on. His wife has five recordings which she will give only to the FBI. There is a State Tax man who will only talk to the FBI or if he is forced, he will give it to a Congressional Investigation. He cannot talk about what he knows on account of his position but I am sure that he is anxious to tell the what he knows about five different cases. He gave me a contact to make, several days ago, with a wealthy man of Pryor, Oklahoma. He said this man could tell me plenty so I drove to Pryor yesterday but the man is away and won't return until the 10th or 11th of this month.

Note: [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] is said to be one of the favorite sons here and is also said to be a member of [REDACTED] Law Firm of Oklahoma City.

Reporter Reports Case

In May, 1958, Walter Winchell, the well-known syndicated columnist, furnished the Las Vegas Resident Agency information about a possible violation of the Interstate Transportation of Stolen Property Statute. Winchell advised he was acquainted with a dancer, [REDACTED] who, while in Las Vegas at the time, cashed nine American Express Traveler's Checks which were returned because they had been reported stolen. [REDACTED] claimed to have received these checks as a gift "with no strings attached." This case is currently under investigation.

Interest Explained

Subsequent investigation developed considerable additional information regarding [REDACTED] which was not furnished by Winchell. [REDACTED] a Las Vegas bartender [REDACTED] advised that he was well acquainted with her and that she was a high class "call girl" who received $200 a night for her services. [REDACTED] advised that Winchell, along with the well-known entertainers [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] had all "dated" [REDACTED]. He also advised [REDACTED] left Las Vegas shortly after the Traveler's Checks were returned and that Winchell escorted her to the airport. [REDACTED] advised that he heard later from a source which he could not recall [REDACTED] had returned to New York City with Winchell and that Winchell had paid for her ticket. [REDACTED] also stated that in addition to his relations with [REDACTED] Winchell had four or five other girls "in his stable" while in Las Vegas and that he freely passed out money to all of them. The Headliners

Nelson Rockefeller's most valuable asset is the fact that he always had the things money cannot buy: integrity, sincerity and a sense of dedication to public service. He held posts under three Presidents—both Democratic and Republican—long before he sought elective public office. Undoubtedly, Mr. Rockefeller's youthful discipline played a major role in shaping his character. When he earned $5-a-week (doing mental chores), young Rockefeller wasn't allowed to spend the money frivolously. He saved ten percent of his salary and gave another ten percent to charity.

He once explained: "We children were brought up to regard waste almost as a sin. We were not supposed to take more food on our plates than we could eat, while to leave anything uneaten was looked upon with disfavor. My father used to say that one of the easiest ways to make money was to save it."

Among the more momentous bulletins from Celluloidia is the report that the production schedule of Miss Monroe's "Some Like It Hot" movie is lagging. The foregoing is hardly a surprise. Marilyn Monroe is no stranger to tardiness. As a matter of fact, being anti-prompt is almost a compulsion. At one time she went to a psychoanalyst to do something about it. Alas, that failed to solve the problem. She always arrived late for her appointment.

With wonderful illogic, Miss Monroe explains it: "It's not really me that's late. It's the others who are in such a hurry."

Cyril Ritchard has a gift for the quicksilver aspects of comedy. See him juggling soap bubbles in "The Pleasure of His Company" and you'll appreciate his remarkable talent. Mr. Ritchard is no fan of the Big Daddy school of drama. He'd rather have big laughs. "I can't stand the gutter type of play," he says. "I feel I should make people grin a bit. I like naughtiness but I don't like dirt." His secret? "If I can give my audience the feeling I am having the time of my life then I consider myself successful."

Despite his love for laughter, his career includes a rather grim experience: He was a drama critic!

When destiny plays its weird music, everybody dances. And when Barrie Chase danced with Fred Astaire on teevee—fate played a magic tune. Several moments on the Big Eye made the 23-year-old darling a star. But she has been in show biz since she was 3-years-young. And now she has the world wrapped in cellophane. Networks are offering tv shows, film producers are offering fabulous contracts and reporters are constantly calling for interviews. Every pumpkin is a glittering coach. But success hasn't flipped Miss Chase. She shrewdly pointed out to a newsmen: "Being an overnight success is fine, but being a lasting success is something else again."

A golden typewriter is more of a victory than a gift. As in most fields of endeavor, the source of success in literature is hard work. Truman Capote's latest, "Breakfast at Tiffany's" is destined for best-sellerville. It is his first published effort in almost a half-dozen years. Nevertheless, he is constantly writing. He keeps a journal of personal events, a diary of everything he reads and even jots down detailed descriptions of his dreams.

Cyd Charisse, a girl who is a Girl, is currently igniting the "Party Girl" flicker. She recently gave her formula for keeping men happy: "Treat as any pet. Three meals a day, plenty of affection, a loose leash. Do not disturb while eating."

Of course, the best way to make a male a slave is to look like Miss Charisse.

Jean Simmons, who is giving an Oscar-halting performance in "Home Before Dark," arrived in Hollywood after clicking in Olivier's "Hamlet" and was considered one of Britain's leading twinklers. At a Knoxville party a producer gave in her honor—Miss Simmons came with an autograph book and busily collected signatures of Mr. and Mrs. Stardust.

Now more sophisticated, Miss Simmons describes current-type performers as "convertible actresses—they act with the top down."

CLOSURE

Harry Revel, who composed "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking as Sweet as You Are" and countless other dandies, passed this week. He was born in London and had never visited Uncle Samville when he wrote "I'm Going Back to Old Nebraska." It was his initial click and resulted in offers from the U. S.

The end came for Revel when he was only 52. Ironically, he once made this prophetic comment: "The trouble with youth is that it is not permanent. The trouble with life is that it is so temporary."

Gian-Carlo Menotti, who created "Maria Golovin," is a tremendously gifted composer. His interviews, however, are sometimes off-key. Two Sabbath papers carried yarns about him. One quoted Mr. Menotti: "Opera should be an art, not an investment. For me, money is poison." Another quoted his explanation for bringing the "Maria Golovin" opera (which closed Satdee) to B'way: "I need the money."

In short, the only time money is important is when you need it.

Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Flower Drum Song" is being serenaded by reviewers in try-out-towns and rolling up a fantastic advance sale. The critic who has the greatest influence on Mr. Rodgers is Mrs. Rodgers. He relies on his bride for the first reaction to a new song. If she says it's nice, he worries. He's sure he has something only when he gets an emotional response—as he did with "Hello, Young Lovers," which caused her to burst into tears.

Fate is constantly underplaying its dramatic aspects. Seemingly innocuous events have vital repercussions for individuals involved. . . . Lovely Diana van der Vlis, who opened this week in "Comes a Day," became an actress because her father teased her about lisping. Finally, he sent her to a school to correct it. There she studied diction and speech and that led to the theatre.

Playwright S. N. Behrman's "The Cold Wind and the Warm" will soon open on Broadway—but Behrman won't attend the premiere. When his plays open, he stays home. "I have amusing ways of getting through an evening," he says. "Among other things I try to dope out what Brooks Atkinson's attack is going to be—I know his phrases and his style. I have improvised openings for him for 30 years. Not once have I been right. It's a delicious annoyance."

There is no reason to disgrace J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI with a defense. The most effective reply to foolish critics is the 34 years Mr. Hoover has devoted to defending the United States. One reason we still enjoy the Bill of Rights—and the privilege of criticizing Hoover—stems from the great, tireless job by this dedicated public servant.

Widespread Liberal Democrats were landslide victors. In brief, FDR won another election.

Mr. Walter Winchell
c/o New York Mirror
New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Winchell:

Knowing what a great job you did for Director J. Edgar Hoover's book, "Masters of Deceit", which I read and thoroughly enjoyed, I would like to call your attention to a book written by a former Bureau agent.

The book is called "The Naked Communist" and was written by W. Cleon Skousen, who is now Chief of Police of Salt Lake City. It is published by the Ensign Publishing Company, Salt Lake.

I have read many books on this subject, but find this one the best of them all. Knowing how you feel about Americanism vs communism, I thought you might be interested, in not doing Mr. Skousen a favor, but doing a favor for the American people as a whole.

I for one would like to see this book in every school in the United States, however, I am well aware that such could never happen.

The last section of this book is called "Five Vital Questions" and for people who do not have the time to go into this subject thoroughly I think these 30 to 40 pages interestingly composed and written would teach them more about the communist movement in this country than anything yet published.

I know you are a very busy man, but I also know you are interested in America. I hope you will either read this book, or have it read for you.

Respectfully

"Washington, D.C. - The Air Force will refuse to deliver its accounts for auditing on grounds they are classified. The Account Office will insist on grounds Air Force may be covering up corruption waste and graft."

COMMENT

For your information.

WINCHELL SAID

"Los Angeles Herald Express - State Racket Committee investigating the publishing of Lana Turner's letters wants to know what I did with them. I turned them over to Miss Turner's press agent last July when I was in California."

COMMENT

These letters possibly refer to ones sent to Lana Turner, well-known Hollywood movie actress, by Johnnie Stompanato, an associate of Mickey Cohen. Stompanato was stabbed to death by Lana Turner's 14-year old daughter, Cheryl Crane, on April 4, 1958.

WINCHELL SAID

Chicago American - Attention John J. Madigan, Jr., the Department of Justice probe will involve a hate sheet editor in Chicago.

COMMENT

Statement possibly refers to F. Allen Mann, publisher, "The Revere" under the name of his organization "The Christian Patriots Crusade" also known as American Christian Patriots Party. This is a one-man organization and "The Revere" has been described as anti-Semite, profascist, prosegregation. John J. Madigan, Jr., is the assistant managing editor of the "Chicago American."

"Philadelphia - a Federal Grand Jury is conducting a secret investigation of Red spying activities around New York City and Philadelphia."

COMMENT

This is erroneous information. Check of interested sections of Bureau, New York, and Philadelphia fails to indicate such Grand Jury is in session.

WINCHELL SAID

"Washington - U.S. Attorney General's office offered Frank Costello a deal last week whereby Costello would be deported to Italy instead of doing five years in prison if he would become a Government witness. Costello, 65, turned it down."

COMMENT

Costello was sentenced to 5 years, $30,000 fine on income tax evasion in 1954. He served 11 months and was released on an appeal. He must now return to prison for remainder of sentence.

WINCHELL SAID

"Capetown, Africa - Independent nations of Africa will meet in December, their first historical convention. One of their principal speakers will be the American, Paul Robeson. He will attack the U.S. This is a very heavy blow by an ingrate in a very crucial area."

COMMENT

Paul Robeson, well-known Negro singer and Soviet apologist, is referred to above.

WINCHELL SAID

"Buenos Aires - Argentina Government, backed up by its loyal army, has dictator Peron's fifth column with its back to the wall. Peron at Trujillo City is asking Moscow for immediate assistance."

COMMENT

Trujillo City is Ciudad Trujillo which is located in the Dominican Republic. Juan Peron, ex-dictator of Argentina, has sought asylum in the Dominican Republic.

WINCHELL SAID

"Washington - The new Congress will publicly investigate the private investigation of the Galindez murder."

COMMENT

Jesus de Galindez, former Columbia University professor, mysteriously disappeared in March, 1956, at New York City. The above possibly refers to an investigation conducted by Morris Ernst, New York City attorney. Ernst, a registered agent of the Dominican Republic, conducted an investigation concerning Galindez on behalf of the Dominican Republic. His investigation supposedly cleared the Dominican Republic.

WINCHELL SAID

"Washington - Cyrus Eaton, the mid-West critic of the FBI, made another speech at the National Press Club (Washington, D.C.). He said he and Mr. Khrushchev walked freely on the streets of Moscow where he said he saw only one female cop. Mr. Eaton's own publicity man, by the way, privately admits his employer's boner. Mr. Eaton's walk with Mr. Khrushchev was not on the streets of Moscow but inside the Kremlin grounds. That's like walking in the White House driveway."

COMMENT:

Departmental Attorney William Hundley advised on December 8 that there is no truth to Winchell's statement and that no indictment has been returned in the Galindez case.

WINCHELL SAID:

"Authorities have discovered a new racket in the sale of arms to Latin American and other rebels. The people involved in these sales are said to be located near Newark, New Jersey. Federal agents know that some of these men collect twice. Once when they sell the guns and again when they report the buyers to American Customs. That is in return for a bounty. They are strangely and oddly enough legitimate when they report these people to Customs. A lucrative but very unhealthy business."

REC-75 62-31615-1080

The New York Division by communication dated December 8, 1958, forwarded the December 8th issue of "The Militant," the official weekly publication of the Socialist Workers Party. This issue contained an article by Henry Gitano, also known as Henry Spiro, who is a member of the Socialist Workers Party. The article is very critical of the Bureau and is entitled "J. Edgar Hoover, Chief of Thought-Police." The opening paragraph states that the true role of the FBI is to insure the witch hunt. The December 8, 1958, issue of "The Militant" indicates that the article is the first of a series but gives no indication of the number of the series or when they will be published. The New York Division is following this matter.

"To the 'Cleveland News' - Three white horses and a Troika - that's a Russian chariot - will arrive from Moscow tomorrow for Cyrus Eaton, critic of the FBI, at a dock in New York. The sender is Mr. Khrushchev. The gift will be shipped to Mr. Eaton's farm near Cleveland."

COMMENT:

Shortly prior to his broadcast, Mr. Winchell informed SAC Teague, Miami, that he planned to use above item on broadcast if his lawyers would permit and wanted to call it to the Director's attention. Winchell said his source was a teletype to Mutual Broadcasting System from a section manager of Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. The Director was informed of Winchell's call by Assistant Director Belmont on evening of 1/4/59. Bureau was previously furnished data concerning the gift, and press has carried items about it.

WINCHELL SAID:

"A terrific intelligence war has broken out between Nasser and Moscow. The Russians this week publicly announced the forming of two official Communist Parties in two countries - Syria and Lebanon. This means the United States Marines may soon be back there."

COMMENT:

January 2, 1959, press reports indicate Nasser had more than 100 communist leaders arrested on 1/1/59 in Cairo, Alexandria, and other key Egyptian and Syrian cities.

WINCHELL SAID:

"Washington - The big scandal in the Capital tonight involves a former United States Senator, a Congressman's girl secretary and her husband to be. It reached the point where the young man ~~was~~ to kill the lecherous Senator."

Comments:

New York teletype 1-12-59 advised the missing baby, Lisa Rose Chionchio, was located on 1-11-59, alive and well, and that the father has positively identified her.

Winchell Said:

"Miami - G-Man John Edgar Hoover just turned down another offer to spearhead the racing group's new outfit. The salary - $100,000 for ten years - that's a million dollars."

Comments:

For your information.

Winchell Said:

"Cleveland - Red leader Mikoyan's host in Cleveland, industrialist Cyrus Eaton, may be rewarded. Insiders say Mr. Eaton, violent critic of the FBI, will eventually get an award from Russia for helping world peace."

Comments:

We have previously received information indicating Eaton is agitating for a peace award for himself. 23 JAN 13 1959

Winchell Said:

"Mr. Castro is expected to invade Nicaragua - tentative invasion date is February 17th. He will invade by way of Costa Rica. Rich Venezuelans provided him with the arms. This explains Castro's visit to Caracas."

Comment:

Press reports indicate Castro has declared that dictators in Nicaragua, Dominican Republic and Paraguay must be prepared to join Batista in exile and that further governments of those countries have expressed fears that Castro might launch expeditions against them. We have received no information indicating Castro's alleged plans for invasion of any country have crystallized.

Winchell Said:

"Standing room only is expected in Judge Bushell's court tomorrow morning for the case of very attractive school teacher Virginia McManus, who has been arrested again for being very naughty."

Comment:

Washington "Daily News" for 2-7-59, page 3, reflected McManus was arrested in the nude by New York City police who alleged McManus and Mrs. Beatrice Garfield, a convicted madam, were part of a call girl ring operating in the $50-100 per night bracket. McManus had been previously arrested in 1958 as a prostitute and was formerly a New York school teacher.

We have received no information indicating this case involves a Federal violation.

Comment:

This crisis developed on 12-31-58 when Guatemalan planes strafed Mexican fishing boats, killing three Mexicans. As Guatemala refused to apologize, Mexico broke off diplomatic relations and has admitted re-enforcing its troops along the Guatemalan border. We have received no information indicating Guatemalan exiles have formed an army in Mexico for action against Guatemala.

Winchell Said:

"Havana - Fidel Castro informed Washington this week that the American ambassador is no longer the uncrowned king of Cuba. Mr. Castro plans suing American banks for 285 million dollars taken out of Cuba - he says - by the Batista crowd."

Comment:

Press reports indicate that Batista and his associates who escaped from Cuba fled with cash and securities in amounts ranging from 200 to 300 million dollars. We have not received any information indicating Castro has initiated legal action against American banks to recover any of the above amounts, which may be actually deposited in such banks.

Winchell Said:

"Washington - The House Un-American Activities Committee will hold new hearings on the moving picture industry because of the recent announcement that communists will not be barred from receiving 'Oscars.'"

Comment:

Memorandum Baumgardner to Belmont 1-20-59 recommended and the Director approved that the House Committee on Un-American Activities be alerted concerning possible renewed Communist Party activity in the film industry inasmuch as the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences had repealed the restriction banning communist and Fifth Amendment witnesses from receiving "Oscars."

The Department of Justice plans an investigation of several diplomatic executives - people who had meetings with Mikoyan on his recent visit. The Government has reports that something more serious than diplomacy was discussed.

Comment:

The Department of Justice did receive nonspecific inquiries concerning the possibility that some public relations firm or firms had made arrangements for Mikoyan's recent visit. These were referred to the Bureau for investigation under the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, as amended. The Washington Field Office made inquiries among State Department personnel who travelled with Mikoyan and who would usually know of any such arrangements. It was determined that no United States public relations firms were involved and that the Soviet Embassy had made all arrangements with the exception of some arrangements made by Cyrus Eaton in Cleveland, Ohio, and by Robert Dowling (President of the City Investment Company, New York City) in New York. Press accounts also disclosed that the Soviets themselves had made the necessary arrangements. In view of the nonspecific allegations the Justice Department was advised the Bureau was taking no further action.

Winchell Said:

The State Department expects a lot of trouble - shooting trouble - in Guatemala, Panama and Haiti. The Haiti situation, first tipped by me several weeks ago, is the most serious.

Comments:

Intelligence reports have indicated the Haitian Government is in a precarious economic condition and has rapidly been losing popular support. It is generally expected to be the next trouble spot in Latin America. There is also unrest in Guatemala and Panama.

Winchell Said:

One of the most outspoken enemies of corruption in the Teamsters' Union is being investigated by the Justice Department for embezzlement of union funds.

Comments:

The Bureau does not have jurisdiction over investigation of embezzlement of union funds, as such. Internal Revenue Service has been investigating union officials for income tax violations which would include failure to report income received as the result of embezzlement.

Winchell Said:

The NATO nations believe both United States and Russia have started mobilization. So far as Washington is concerned this is not true. It is true that American forces in the field are now on battle alert. The Reds never demobilized and have been on a war footing since 1945. The President is being urged to declare a national emergency. This would mean calling up the reserves. The Army Chief of Staff told the Senate we can hold Berlin if we mobilize in time. We have 90 days to call the first fighting class, 21 to 32, to the colors. The Reds say they intend to smash into Berlin by June 1. This week the President told you we will not yield one inch. Prime Minister Macmillan told Khrushchev this week that if Russia uses force, Britain would accept battle. All commonwealth countries will stand by Macmillan except for Nehru. Nehru is expected to offer a compromise - that Berlin remain as it is but that Germany be denied atomic weapons. The Red high command is terrified at the thought of an atomic arsenal in the hands of Germany.

Winchell Said:

There is an axiom in U.S. intelligence that goes like this: once is an accident; twice is a coincidence; three times means enemy action in time of war.... If the Atlantic cable was cut by the Russians it was an act of war.... Red planes reported along the Red Sea, trouble in Panama, both fall into the same plan of striking at communications. In Washington this week, top intelligence people said that Russian submarines in the Atlantic have been testing radio interference on our rockets being shot from bases on the Florida Coast.

Havana - Despite denials by Mr. Castro a liberation army is being organized to invade the Dominican Republic. Plans for the landing have been delayed by differences. Venezuela opposes Castro's cooperation with Dominican Reds.

Comment:

Dominican and Haitian exiles are known to be concentrating in Cuba, augmented by Cuban, Nicaraguan and other Latin American revolutionaries. Numerous reports have been received from other intelligence agencies as to possible invasion attempts from Cuba against Dominican Republic and/or Haiti. We are conducting intensive investigation regarding all United States angles.

RE: WALTER WINCHELL BROADCAST

Winchell Said:

Moscow - Russia now fears estrangement with Mr. Nasser. It is sending the Feiping foreign minister to Cairo to do two things: one, to patch up relations with Cairo; second, to arrange a visit to Egypt by Mr. Khrushchev.

Comment:

Winchell Said:

Havana - Castro's troubles are starting. An underground movement against him is spreading. The new rebels have connections inside Castro's top ranks. Communists now control 25 out of 29 labor groups in Cuba. I have been told not to be surprised if the Castro government is completely overthrown within the next 6 weeks.

Winchell Said:

Inside the U. S. Communist Party. Top reds over here made another demand on the U. S. Attorney General that the Smith Act indictment against William Z. Foster be dismissed and that red chief Foster be allowed to visit Russia.

Comment:

Foster and his attorneys have been attempting to do this for some time and the most recent attempt was in the form of a letter to the Attorney General from Mary Kaufman, one of his attorneys, on 2/28/59 in which she requested him either to order dismissal of the indictments against Foster or, in the alternative, to consent to allow him to travel to the Soviet Union to obtain medical care and treatment. We have and will continue to keep the Attorney General advised of Foster's efforts along this line.

Winchell Said:

March 28 is the date for a secret meeting between the Red leaders and procommunist youth.

Comment:

In connection with the Party's efforts to establish a youth organization, they have announced plans to hold a meeting of communist and procommunist youth in New York City on 3/28/59. We will have appropriate coverage.

Winchell Said:

Winchell Said:

The FBI has started an intensive inquiry into the ladies garment industry in the New York area. Some top hoodlums may be involved.

Comment:

A grand jury was empaneled in the Southern District of New York by the Antitrust Division to look into the garment industry. On 3-11-59 this grand jury indicted Local 25 of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, three associations of manufacturers of ladies garments and five individuals, including Harry Strasser, a reported hoodlum previously convicted for a Federal narcotics violation. They were indicted for fixing prices in violation of Antitrust laws. The Department is currently studying information obtained during the grand jury hearings and from investigation by the Bureau looking toward possible prosecutions under the Antiracketeering Statutes. Specific investigation requested by the Antitrust Division has been completed and the Bureau has received no requests for additional investigation since 3-11-59.

Winchell Said:

Havana - The April issue of "Coronet" magazine has a big scoop - the name of the woman behind Fidel Castro. "Coronet" says she is Haydee Santamaria DeHart, known to all Cubans as Maria. That magazine also alleges that she masterminded the revolution, that Maria handpicked Castro as the rebellion chief. Today this woman, without portfolio, is still a tremendous power in the new Government.

Memorandum to Mr. Tolson
Re: Walter Winchell Broadcast
March 22, 1959

Comment:

Bureau investigation of DeHart disclosed that in 1956 she was one of the leaders in Cuba of the July 26 Movement of Fidel Castro. In 1958 she was reported to be the wife of Armando Hart, another rebel leader who was imprisoned in 1957. She was in the Sierra Maestra Mountains in Cuba with Castro. In September, 1958, she was described as a top person in the July 26 Movement in Miami, responsible for financial expenditures for Castro and in charge of most of the July 26 underground operations in Miami. In interview with Bureau agents in October, 1958, she said she had nothing to do with military aspects of the July 26 Movement, but was a member of the Political Section. Four receipts for the payment of a total of $361,039.97 in "taxes" to the July 26 Movement by four sugar companies in 1958 bore the signature of Haydee Santamaria. On 1-3-59 she reportedly left United States for Cuba and her presence in Cuba was later verified. The information concerning her has been disseminated to Department and all interested agencies.

Havana - The headlines that Castro was to be shot during his tour of the United States was a big publicity stunt dreamed up in Havana. It landed on ever front page in the world.

DE TEXAS

Comment:

We have not received any information regarding this. (that threats we publicity effort by Castro go)

Winchell Said:

Washington - The FBI has turned over new evidence to the Department of Justice that might lead to the indictments of a dozen Red leaders.

Comment:

We have not-presented any new evidence regarding any communist leaders to the Department and there is no basis for the above comment by Winchell.

Winchell Said:

The international news - London - The military experts have cautioned their governments to watch Iran. They believe it is more dangerous than Iraq. The Russians are demanding oil concessions. Moscow has approached Nehru to act as middleman. The Reds now have a very strong mobile striking force all along the Iran border.

Memorandum for Mr. Tolson
Re: Walter Winchell Broadcast
April 26, 1959

Winchell Said:

Washington - Fred Seaton, the Secretary of the Interior, has privately told friends the name of the President's selection for his successor in the White House. His name is Robert Anderson, Secretary of the Treasury, DC but Mr. Eisenhower will not try to swing the nomination to Mr. Anderson. The President recently wanted to name him as Secretary of State but he was dissuaded from doing so by various congressional Republicans and Mr. Dulles.

Winchell Said:

New York City - The New York police assigned to protect Dr. Castro are convinced he is a "big ham." He loves the spotlight, they say, the limelight and the fuss he is causing. But to the Police Department in New York, Castro is also a very big nuisance. The extravagant expense bill, by the way, is being paid by a famous hotel man's stockholders.

Comment:

We have not received any information regarding this.

Winchell Said:

Inside the Communist Party (CP) - One of the largest of the very secret meetings is going on right now. The national committee of the CP in New York City all this week. Commie headquarters is secretly setting up a highly specialized Marxist school for communist youth. They will conduct classes on being sneaky and other Red activities from June 6th to June 23rd. San Francisco communists are planning a longshoremen's strike for sometime in June. The Michigan State committee will hold its next secret meeting in Detroit on May 3rd.

Re: Walter Winchell Broadcast
April 26, 1959

Comment:

The Party's national executive committee met in New York City on April 25 and 26. Our sources have advised that the national executive committee will prepare a new youth program for the Party, including plans to form a new Marxist youth organization.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~
We have also received information regarding a CP school to be held at New York City from June 6th to 23rd. It is anticipated that we will have informant coverage. New York following.

Confidential informants and sources of the San Francisco Office have advised that Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) fully expects to strike the Pacific Coast waterfront in June, 1959, when its current contract expires. Information received indicates the ILWU is seeking alliances with east coast longshore unions and that the first step in furthering such alliances would be to obtain common expiration dates for contracts on both coasts. The east coast contracts expire in September, 1959. We have disseminated this information to the appropriate agencies and are following developments through our sources.

Detroit has advised that a meeting of the Michigan CP committee is scheduled for May 3, 1959, at Detroit. Detroit Office following.

Washington - Senator McClellan's friends say he will file a large damage suit against the United States Government over the plane crash that killed his son last year. Ark. D.C.

Comment:

We have received no information concerning a possible suit by Senator McClellan. On 7-22-58 McClellan's last surviving son, James H. McClellan, was killed in a plane crash near Little Rock, Arkansas. He died in the crash of a twin-engine Beechcraft about ten miles south of Conway, Arkansas, along with three other persons including one W.D. Hill, a Civil Aeronautics Administration inspector.

Geneva - Sporadic military action from Quemoy to Iraq is expected at the time of the conference in Geneva. The ordinary Red tactic of starting local fighting as their big chips in the big game stakes - and the big danger is that both sides think the other is bluffing. This means the double call would mean war.

Winchell said:

Mexico City - The reports persist tonight that Dr. Castro is looking for money from Monte Carlo in return for the Havana gambling concessions - very wealthy. Monte Carlo money means the big Greek ship owners who holiday in Prince Ranier's village. Another angle to the deal would be the use of Cuban soil as the base for operation against Panama. Very interesting to the shipping world.

Comment:

The invasion group of some 80 men which recently landed in Panama came from Cuba. The group has surrendered to Panamanian authorities

Winchell said:

Washington - The President has turned down a suggestion that he fly to Berlin on Armed Forces Day May 16th to symbolize American determination not to back down on Germany. He said it would not be proper with a conference going on.

Our country has a new compound of great importance to our defense. It is a new solid fuel for missiles 15 per cent more powerful than existing solid fuels. The substance is so new the Army has not yet given it a name. This development puts Russia even further behind us in solid fuel rocketry.

Winchell said:

Inside the Communist Party - The first of a series of so-called secret Red-sponsored classes will be held for trade-unions at an address on Powellton Avenue in Philadelphia on May 4th.

Comment:

We have previously received this information which is in line with the stepped-up education program of the Party.

Winchell said:

The comrades are urging Party members and others to send letters to the President of the United States demanding a pardon or commutation of sentence for communist Robert Thompson, the commie chief now out on bail. This would be a waste of stamps. The President would never see them.

Comment:

We are aware of this campaign. The Party is attempting to get Thompson a rehearing before the Supreme Court or have his sentence commuted to the time already served or have his return to prison barred on ill health grounds.

Winchell said:

This to let all Reds know that we know what they discussed at their very special New York City conference on last April 24th - ways to sneak into the railroad industry, etc.

Comment:

Winchell refers to the Communist Party National Committee meeting of which we were aware.

Winchell said:

Washington - A three-way split has divided old hands of the FDR-Truman days in the Capitol. It was caused by preconvention jockeying. At one private luncheon to Mr. Justice Douglas, the host, were veterans of the New Deal (sic.) Douglas put in a big plug for Senator Lyndon Johnson for President in 1960. The plug, however, did not bring down the house because many of those present already are committed to Senator Symington. Then

Winchell said:

"New York Daily Mirror" - Jayne Meadows, Mrs. Steve Allen, lost a big diamond bracelet to burglars in Chicago, a gift from her husband last sweetheart day. The robbery took place while she was on the stage in "The Gazebo."

Comment:

We have received nothing on this. The Investigative Division is checking with Chicago.

Winchell said:

Albany, New York - Governor Rockefeller believes that Commissioner Monaghan will resign before removal hearings start. The governor will begin the investigation of another top state official as soon as the racing scandal ends.

Comment:

Monaghan identical with former New York City Police Commissioner George F. Monaghan who is now connected with the New York State Harness Racing Commission and who is presently under fire on charges of breach of code of ethics for public officers.

Oklahoma City - The headlines gave a very misleading impression about Lucille Ball the other day. She was accused of refusing to appear at a benefit for juvenile delinquent children. The star said she was told the auditorium would have an audience of about 14,000 children. She learned when she got there that only about 350 grownups showed up, so in a tizzy she took the next plane back to Hollywood. Lucille Ball, ladies and gentlemen, does not need any defense. As she says, "I have played in dugouts for only 13 soldiers." She has appeared at countless benefits all over the country. We who know her well, know her great generosity to all the needy groups. That's why they all love Lucy.
