MEMORANDUM FOR MR. HOOVERS

In his redic broadcast tonight, WALTER WINDHILL made the following remarks which were thought might be of interest to MR. MURPHY and yourselfs

"Byde Park, N. Y. - The President and his nother worshipped in the Protestant Episcopal Church here today. The Minister spoke on the indifference of most people to their Church. "We have a lot of heathens in Hyde Park", he said.

"Mashington, D. C. - Your reporter learns from intimates in the White House that the principal reason the Democratic Party is after the President to run again is not to bring harmony into the party but to prevent a third party.

"Sing Sing, W. Y. . It is reliably reported that thirty convicts will shortly testify before a Brooklyn grand jury and state that they have paid Brooklyn officials for 'fixed' but were sentenced to jail anyhous.

"Washington, D. C. - Tour reporter has it on the highest authority that ATTORNEY GENERAL FRANKWURPHY will shortly present evidence to Federal Courts which will result in the deportation of many 'phonics' masquerading as Americans. Their caths of allegiance will be challenged as franks,

"A witness before the DIES Committee last year alleged that he got support for his compaign from the Chairman of the Republican Mational Committee I said in my column that I did not believe it, and I don't. All I know is that JOHN D. M. MAMILTON was the first last year to come out and state he would discom candidate GERALD WINROD, because WINROD was running as a broad platform of narrow intolerance.

"New York, M. I. - FRITZ KUHN, the Bund leader, was individed the other day for allegedly stealing over $14,000.00 from his very own members. DESTRICT ATTORNEY DENKY accused KUHN of being just a common thief. In the early twenties a similar group, the KU KLUX KLAN, went out of business when the New York 'World' exposed the fact that the KLAN'S plan for a secret campaign was founded on the famous slogan, 'There's a sucker born every minute'.

4,750,000 criminals, a force larger than the A.E.F. They committed nearly 1,500,000 serious crimes such as murder, manslaughter, rape, robbery, burglary, and aggravated assault last year. Over, 13,000,000 lesser crimes such as frauds, forgeries, embezzlements, and vice occurred in 1938. Every eight minutes during 1938, a murder, manslaughter, rape, or an assault to kill was committed.

That there are more than four criminals in America for every school teacher. That our criminals out-number the total enrollment of our colleges and universities by three and a half to one.

That the FBI handled an average of 35 spy cases per year during the past five years, but investigated 634 such cases during 1938 and over 1,100 cases were reported during the first six months of 1939.

That while only 7 per cent of the criminals arrested last year were women, nevertheless an average group of 1000 female criminals commit more murders, assaults, larcenies and drug violations than an average group of 1000 male criminals.

That one of the Nation's most infamous bank robbers was the proud possessor of an excellent collection of such literary gems as produced by Shakespeare, Kipling and Tennyson.

That the average murderer serves less than 59 months in prison!

That no criminal could long exist without assistance. Alvin

That the St. Charles National Bank, St. Charles, Illinois, was robbed with the assistance of a member of the Town's Vigilantes, a merchant policeman, and an ex-deputy sheriff.

That the annual crime bill of America is fifteen billions of dollars, greater than America's food bill, or more than the combined National, State, County and Municipal Tax Bill.

That no crime is too complex to make its solution ultimately impossible. The more a crime is planned, the easier it is to solve. Somewhere along the tell-tale line the criminal will forget some detail, which always brings about his downfall. The most remote clues ofttimes are the best ones. The first two serial numbers of an automobile tag brought about the solution of the Arthur Fried kidnaping and murder case. Witnesses remembered that the number of the kidnapers' car license began with "7-N". Although 9980 license tags in New York began with these figures, the kidnapers' car was located. The hideout was found by checking the location of 452 pool halls, 177 meeting halls, and 228 churches, since the victims reported they heard pool balls clicking, music playing, and a church bell toll 36 times.

That no case is ever closed in the FBI until the wrongdoers are brought to justice. Only two of the 156 kidnaping cases remain unsolved. In the case involving the abduction and murder of the little Levine boy at New Rochelle, New York more than 8000 persons have been interviewed, 450 automobiles checked, some 500 premises inspected,560 anonymous and crank letters investigated and over 500 scientific laboratory examinations have been made. In the other unsolved case, involving the abduction and murder of the Mattson boy in Tacoma, Washington, over 20,000 suspects have been investigated and eliminated, and still the search goes on.

That bank robberies have declined over 80 per cent in the past few years. Bank robbery insurance has been reduced by over 30 per cent since the FBI began investigating such cases. For Release - On Receipt.

That the test tube is mightier than the rubber hose. Often a single fibre is better evidence of a suspect's guilt than actual eye witnesses. Daily in the Crime Laboratory of the FBI the most routine examinations reveal facts that are stranger than fiction. A knife blade used to cut a screen in a burglary case was identified by the tiny particles of copper which were hardly visible to the naked eye.

Forgers were so skilled in one case that they were able to change the figures on the serial number of a bond that could not be detected even with a high-powered microscope, yet when photographed with infra-red light the obliterated numbers were revealed. A western sheriff sometime ago was concerned over the large number of chicken coops which were being raided by marsuding dogs. He suspected 4 dogs and secured specimens of the hair of each, which were forwarded to the FBI Laboratory together with hairs found in the chicken coops. Scientists made their comparisons with high-powered microscopes. The killer dog was identified.

That the Crime Laboratory maintains a reference collection of hairs from every known type of animal in the United States. Like-wise the laboratory experts have on hand blood sera made from the blood of scores of animals and fowls. Among other reference collections are 1837 specimens of different types of ammunition, 368 guns, 2563 specimens of rope, cordage and twine, 2793 blue prints of tire treads, 773 specimens of typewriter standards, 36,465 watermark descriptions, 834 specimens of rubber heels and soles.

That Massachusetts, Rhode Island and South Dakota tied with the lowest number of homicides last year; New Hampshire had the lowest robbery rates; Louis and the lowest burglary rates, and New Hampshire the lowest number of larcenies and automobile thefts.

That crime does not pay is revealed by the figures which show that the average robber secures only $88.95, the average burglar secures only $63.52 and the average thief secures only $29.56 for each offense committed.

That it has cost the taxpayers of America less than $50,000,000 to maintain the FBI during the past 15 years while it was returning to the taxpayers of the Nation over $240,000,000. Last year for every $1.00 that was spent, $7.64 was returned to the taxpayers in the recovery of stolen property, fines imposed in cases investigated by the men of the FBI and savings effected for the Government.

The fingerprints form before birth and never change. No two fingerprints have ever been found to be alike. The FBI files contain nearly 11,000,000 sets of fingerprints and a record can be located within less than three minutes. Over 1,300,000 citizens have filed their fingerprints with the FBI for their protection in case of kidnaping, loss of memory or disaster. Fingerprints are searched mechanically in the FBI at the rate of 375 a minute.

I appresiated very much indeed the apirit in which you wired we on July 10, 1939, reparding the guest column which I prepared for Mr. Walter Vinchell during his vacation.

The eftent of crime during the past few years has been a source of great concern to me, and I am convinced that widespread lamieseness with its attendant cerruption is grodually making inroads into the very vitals of our social order. The subversive forces of lamieseness are undermining the foundations of increase democracy and I can assure you that it is not pleasant for me to face the facts as they are, and it is less pleasant to have to acknowledge them publicly, since lawleseness is a national blenish as well as a national menace. I am sure it is most embarrassing for every increasing it is not the references made by distators of other countries to increase lawleseness as a fuetification for their gangeter tactice. The orize problem is one that must be met with action and net with estrick-like attitudes, which fail to fore the facts as they are. In a championship race, the odd games present a relief, a burden and a help all at the same time. Using your best pitchers about his golf career scores d against the topflight teams, you can generally depend upon the times and always do it smilingly "fifth, sixth and seventh" pitchers to win a certain number of the games with the second-division clubs.

There's a double reason for this. On a staff there will always be a man who is not a starting pitcher, who will be able to beat second-division clubs. Not simply because they are second-division clubs, but perhaps because the odd man who is not a regular starter—maybe a fellow who requires lots of rest between starts-will be effective to handle certain clubs.

Good Pitchers Sometimes Find Weakest Clubs Hardest to Beat

When the A's were burning up the baseball world a few years ago, Grove was their best pitcher. Washington was much of the time less than a ball of fire. Yet the Senators with a left-handed batting order, supposedly weak against left-handed pitching, gave Grove more trouble than any team in the Charley Ruffing was another example of this. He was very effective against the Cleveland club, but it seemed impossible for him to get by the Browns, habitually a last-place club.

It may be that the good pitcher is primed for a meeting with the star aggregation and unable to work himself to an effective pitch against lesser opposition. Whatever the reason. it is true that the second-division teams very often give the better pitchers more trouble than the topflight teams.

So you have the policy of using the odd men against the teams sunk deep in the second-division; and saving your best men for the teams in your own back yard. Naturally, this is not a routine that is followed too R. closely. Because, when the heat is on in a close race, the r championship club is the team which holds its own with the B topflight teams and annihilates the lesser clubs. Remember, 2 there was a year in which the Yankees defeated the last-place club 21 out of a possible 22 times.

Picking the spots, so-called, is nothing more than playing of the percentage. If a pitcher has trouble beating a club, why Gi pitch bin against it consistently? If you have a man on the

The Fan's Game By MICKEY COCHRANE

In yesterday's instalment, Cochrane told how pressure finally caused Schoolboy Rowe and Lefty Grove to break their long winning streaks,

In previous chapters, Mickey has related interesting experiences sprinkled between his ideas of sound baseball. He has told the duties of all platers, difference between American and National League strategy and fundamentals of the game.

Handling of the pitching staff is one of the most important jobs of a manager.

The four best men on the staff must be selected for the starting staff, and there must be two men who are good at relief roles. In the relief roles, as we have pointed out before, you must have men able to step into the clutch and come through with their best stuff. They must have control, a fast ball they can fire through at top step for an inning or two, a sinker which bites into the dirt and makes for double-play balls, or a curve that is hard to get to in quick fashion. The men cited heretofore were perfect examples of good relief men-Marberry with that fireball in the dark shadows of a late afternoon, Wilcy Moore with his funny sinker ball, and Johnny Murphy with his

Gomez explained that he was better if he could work himself into a starting assignment over a 24-hour period. There are other men, of course, who can take the call right in the midst of a rally and walk out from the bench and stop it.

Handling each pitcher in his proper order is a matter of individual discovery. Just as a catcher must learn how to get the best out of each pitcher he is asked to receive, the manager must learn by the process of elimination how best each individual pitcher will work.

In the major league club staff of at least eight or nine pitchers, it is essential to give it enough work so that it is effective. Things are always cropping up which will interrupt the order of your starting pitchers - injuries, ineffectiveness against certain clubs, and insufficient rest when the entire group the search goes on.

That bank robberies have declined over 80 per cent in the last few years. Bank robbery insurance has been reduced by over 30 per cent since the FBI began investigating such cases.

It's Test Tube Age

THAT the test tube is mightier than the rubber hose. Often a single fiber is better evidence of a suspect's guilt than actual eye witnesses. Daily in the Crime Laboratory of the FBI the most routine examinations reveal facts that are stranger than fiction.

Forgers were so skilled in one case that they were able to change the figures on the serial number of a bond that could not be detected even with a high-powered microscope, yet when photographed with infra-red light the obliterated numbers were revealed.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, "America's Fighting Thinker," Writes Daily for the Times. whe the suil persons would discover that "course littler, and still one more, to better against a chap who has been working and is losing his grip on the pune than to bring on a cold-armed hurler and send him to the chopping block to get his brains knocked out. Substituting a pitcher who is not warmed up and ready is worse, much worse, than giving the waning hurler a chance to pull out of his own slump.

There are exceptions, of course. Oftentimes in major-league circles you will see a pitcher walk from the dugout to the mound and pitch a side out of a hole. This is a rare type of smart control pitcher who requires very little loosening up; a man who has taken a good workout before the game and remains loose and ready for two hours or so afterward.

A weakening pitcher, however, has a much better chance of staving off disaster than the cold reliever has. If he knows that relief is coming—that there will be only one more hitter, or that the imning in which he is working is the last—the tiring pitcher can sometimes pull himself up by the bootstraps and give that final spurt, like a sprinter heading for the tape. He calls on all his cunning and reserve, and may get out of the jam without further trouble.

'Insult' Helps Leity Grove

In a situation where a pitcher is getting tired, much depends upon the hurler's knowledge of himself. A catcher who asks a pitcher if he needs help must have some doubts, and next to the pitcher he should know best. He gets to know the speeds of a pitcher's stuff better than the pitcher himself.

Many times in my career I saked pitchers whether they did not think they needed a little help, to get the surprised look of an insulted artist. Once I asked it of Lefty Grove when we were kids breaking in.

"Got back there and do the catching, I'll do the sitching," he snapped.

I went back and he nearly tore my hand off with three fireballs that the hitter still hasn't seen. Lefty had been unconsciously letting up, and when he got sore at me he wanted to knock me out of the park with every nich.

me he wanted to know me out of the park with every pitch.

I used to do that with Earnshaw all the time. He'd get so sore at me that he'd try to knock me down with a fast ball.

Other times you could ask Grove whether he needed help and he'd admit that he was getting tired. He knew it.

(In tomorrow's instalment Mickey continues telling about strategy and psychology.)

Aces Always Take Tricks

Of course, in World Series the ace-versus-ace theory, the spot pitchers, everything goes into the discard. In a short series where every move is important, you come out with your best on every play. Play your aces as long as they hold out.

If your ace gets beaten, come back with him as soon as he can go, perhaps in the third game, as we did with Rowe in a relief role in the 1935 series; Dean and Dean against us for the Cards in 1934.

In the short series it is always the aces that take the tricks.

STRATEGY AND PSYCHOLOGY

The percentage is always with you in the long run, if you play it.
There are no unmistakable signs that a pitcher has lost his stuff and should be home eating his and should be nome eating his supper instead of pitching, or that your batting power is going to collapse completely and finally. But there are certain warnings for which you can watch.

which you can watch.

Strategically, the bull pen is the most overlooked and underestimated position. Its importance cannot be overemphasized. There a young ball player can pick up a lot of knowledge about the game of baseball; and the more a man plays major-league baseball, the more he must learn about it. And that does not mean for the big lengues alone. Even in sandlot or college baseball, in the industrial or Class D circuits, the pitcher waiting his turn to relieve a mate can pick up a lot of baseball.

Up in the big top, battling for position with contending teams in championship race, the bull-pen catcher, manager, tactician or whatever you want to call him, is a very important link in the chain that makes up the composite—

BY J. EDGAR HOOVER.

O YOU KNOW: That the F. B. I. has the fingerprints of over 4,750,000 criminals, a force larger than the A. E. F. They committed nearly 1,500,000 serious crimes such as murder, manslaughter, attack, robbery, burglary and aggravated assault last year. Over 13,000,000 lesser crimes such as frauds, forgeries, embezziements and vice occurred in 1938. Every eight minutes during 1938 a murder, manslaughter, criminal assault or an assault to kill was committed.

That there are more than four criminals in America for every school teacher. That our crimschool teacher. That our crim-mals outnumber the total enrollment of our colleges and univer-atties by $1/2 to 1.

Spies

That the FBI handled an average of thirty-five spy cases per year during the past five years, but investigated 634 such cases during 1938 and over 1,100 cases were reported during the first six months of 1939.

That while only 7 per cent of the criminals arrested last year were women, nevertheless an average group of 1,000 female criminals commit more murders, assaults, larcenies and drug violations then an average group of 1,000 male criminals.

That one of the nation's most infamous bank robbers was the proud possessor of an excellent collection of such literary gems as produced by Shakespeare, Kipling and Tennyson.

That the average murderer serves less than fifty-nine months in prison!

Politicians

That no criminal could long exist without assistance. Alvin Karpis and the Barker boys-in-famous sons of "Ma" Barkercontributed thousands of dollars to the campaign of one candidate for mayor in a great metropolis. Later Karpis was harbored by the chief of police and chief of de-tectives of Hot Springs, Ark., who are now in prison.

That the St. Charles National Bank, St. Charles, Ill., was robbed with the amistance of a member of the town's vigilantes, a merchant policeman and an ex-deputy aberiff.

That the annual crime bill of America is $15,000,000,000, greater than America's food bill, or more than the combined national, state, county and municipal tax bill.

That no crime is too complex to make is solution ultimately impossible. The more a crime is planned, the easier it is to solve. Somewhere along the telitale line the criminal will forget some detail, which always brings about his downfall. The most remote clues obittimes are the best ones.

This Post of the timerican Legion was formed by a group of outstanding theatrical and motion picture veterans years ago, and numbers among its membership some of the most promiment producers, performers, lawyers, doctors and government employees.

A group of prominent citizens in the community and the members of this Post feel that Walter Winchell has contributed a great deal to Americanism and should be honored in some way by those who appreciate his fine work. Accordingly, we have approached a number of distinguished persons whom we know are interested and have asked their cooperation and advice in the matter of tendering a dinner to Mr. Winchell, under the auspices of this Post and jointly with Serve America, Inc., a patriotic organization of which I am President. This to be in appreciation of Walter Winchell's efforts for America and his humanitarian acts for all downtrodden.

I would ask you to please consider accepting the honbrary chairmanship of this proposed testimonial dinner, to be held on a convenient date very early, at one of the leading hotels in New York.

It is my idea that any proceeds derived should be either turned over to Mr. Winchell for the benefit of any worthy-organization which he shall himself designate, or to be distributed to a color worthy veteran cause or group of causes to be agreed upon by the Committee. Mr. Winchell is a member of the American 34 477 Legion and at one time was a member of this Posts [3]

It is also to be understood that there will be no expenses attached other than the regular employees' salaries and the actual costs of the dinner.

Dear Commander Landes:

John Edgar Hoover told me about the dinner you plan to give in my behalf, for which thanks.

However, the way things are breaking these days, I do not want to give an immediate answer. By hours are so indefinite that I never know when I am going to sleep or waking up. For instance, today I went to bed at 2 o'clock. The only day I must get up at a certain time is Sunday, at five in the afternoon, so you boys can imagine the screwy routine I have. Because I have no assistants to help me in my radio and column work the burden is very tough.

The mere fact that you want me, is honor enough. Let's not make it definite now. Perhaps some time in the future I will be able to say yes.

My kindest regards to all,
