Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Dear Sir:

Reference is made to your letter of August 15th requesting to be advised of the status of the above case.

Attention is called to the reports of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, dated 5-3-33, and New York City, dated 8-10-33. You will note from the report of Agent that investigation at Philadelphia failed to locate Daniel Sterm, and the report of Agent to flects that investigation at New York City failed to locate who had written a letter to the German Embassy with reference to a conversation he had overheard of a movement on foot to assassinate Chancellor Hitler.

A review of the file in this office reflects that under letter of May 27th you forwarded to this office a letter which had been written by Tucson, Arizona, to the German Embassy, which stated in effect that he had overheard a conversation wherein an attempt was to be made to take the life of Chancellor Hitler. This case at that time was assigned to Agent of this office, who was shortly thereafter called away on special assignment.

It seems that no action was taken by this office at that time to have interviewed. However, a telegram was sent from this office on August 14th to the Los Angeles office requesting an interview to be had with

He advised that in May, 1933, he was in a room at the San Carlos Hotel visiting a friend and that when the latter left the room for a few minutes and he was left there alone he chanced to overhear a conversation in Yiddish in an adjoining room. The two men he overheard were speaking about conditions in Germany and Chancellor Hitler and the latter's antipathy for the Jews. One of the talkers told the other that Hitler would not last long; that a number of Jews in New York City were sending a man to Germany to assissinate Hitler. They named the German boat on which the assassin was leaving sometime in May, 1933. The assassination was to take place between May and September, 1933. Hitler was either to be poisoned or shot.

He stated as they went out he asked one of the bellboys who they were and that he furnished him their names. his letter to the German Embassy he had requested it to never divulge his name. As Agent continued to talk with him he launched into a tirade against the Jews in this country, stating that it will have to take the same action against them within 10 years that Germany has taken.

He advised that he is attempting to patent and market an alloy of lead and copper to be used as bearings, but that the Jews in this country have prevented his financing of same.

With the assistance of the San Carlos Hotel, its register was searched from April to June, 1933, without finding any man by the name of STERN or STERN registered in. One of the most striking contradictions was the discrepancy be-tween the magnetism he exercised over millions and the unprepossessing appearance of this champion of Aryan race purity. Professor Max von Grober, noted German authority on race hygiene, gave the following description of Hitler when he met him for the first time at a political trial in a German court in 1923:

"Face and head, bad—mongrel Low, receding forehead, unhand-some nose, broad cheekbones, small eyes, dark heir. Expression of the face not that of one commanding full self-control, but of one instantly excited. At the end-the expres-

Many who watched Hitler from the time when he first made his appearance on the political scene noticed his megalomania, his ganibler's readiness to take risks, his habit of wild exaggeration and inability to greep the full implica-tions of things he said and did. Unlike his father, who was a fervent supporter of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy and wanted his son to follow him in the Govern-ment service, Adolf Hitler was from early youth a strong acherent of Germany. He was convinced that it was the historic mission of the Germans to rule the Austrians and the complex of races inhabiting Franz Josef's land.

Hitler had no love for his father and resented his insistence that he prepare himself for the Government service. Nevertheless, he considered himself to be an artist of talent and hated the world for not according raphy that up to his twenty-fifth year he was what is known as good-for-nothing, a spoiled idler. Moved by a sensitive ego, a restless spirit and a quick mind, heyearned passionately to make an impression, to gain recognition, to attain to great achievements, to know everything, to attract atten-tion, to master the world.

Politica His Ruling Passion

His greatest passion was for polltics. A shy and beaten youth, Hitier would become transformed as soon as conversation turned on matters political. His tongue would oosen and a torrent of words would rush from his lips. In those days before the First World War Hitler never formed friendships, male or female. He never communicated with his family, who thought him dead. Jeered at by acquaintances, he wept.

The one thing that gave him hope and courage was the disintegration of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, which he foresaw, and evidences of which had become apparent to many long before the war. Considering himself a German, he felt superior to those ground him. For the Slavs of the apparent he felt contempt For the empire he felt contempt. Peopl. laughed at him and his dreams. Germany lay crushed and prostrate after her defeat in a four-year war. Poverty and misery were abroad in the land. It seemed as if many decades would have to pass before the nation could pull itself together on the basis of a new order. But Hitler persevered.

Strategy Formula Simple

His strategy was based on a simple principle; to obtain the support of powerful and influential elements in the army, industry and finance and to butiress that with support among the masses. He addressed himself first to the middle classes, ruined by inflation, and managed to obtain some assistance from elements among the workers disappointed in the revolution.

To the middle classes he promised relief from what he called the tyranny of big business, particularly the department stores, with which aniall tradeamen found it difficult to compete. He promised them that when in power he would a like was one of the greatest upsets dissolve the department stores and in the turbulent history of the sholish all interest. To the works them that when in power he would abolish all interest. To the workers he promised dissolution of the trusts. Neither of these promises was kep!

He was at work on "Mein Kampf," begun in prison, but at the same time con-tinued quietly at the task of rebuilding his shattered group and developing the foundations for his mass movement.

Within the next seven years he obtained a huge following, which came to number 3,000,000. It was built along military lines, with army corps, regiments and com-panies. The men wore uniforms and were subject to strict military discipline. This army consisted of the Storm Troops, who were brown shirts, and the Black Guards, representing more carefully picked Men like Guatav Stresemann, formations, wearing black shirts, say nothing of Socialists and Details. The two authors, one an Italian and the other a German are both apparently refugees and members of the Graduate Faculty of the New School for Social Research. There is presented in the book an account of two fascisms, one German and one Italian. The authors analyze the international character of fascism and its threat to world peace and American democracy. The book has a very complete index.

LORDS OF THE PRESS by George Seldes, published by Julian Heasner, Inc., 1938. The book is directed to The American Newspaper Guild and others interested in a free press. It is noted that there is a brief chapter on Hoses L. Annenberg on pages 240 to 241. The book has a good index and appears to contain a good volum of information regarding persons prominent in the newspaper world. Seldes is attempting in his book to show the extent to which the public press is free, bought, yellow, vicious or scared and to what extent those who run the press are servants of "the lords" who control it.

WASHINGTON, Fab. 28.—Hans Dieckhoff, the German Ambassador, called on Secretary Hull at the State Department today, and informed him that the German Government had again warned its nationals resident in this country against membership in the Amerika-Deutsche Volksbund or any "possible substitute organisations of that kind."

The government's announcement, made originally through the German News Bureau at Berlin, climaxed a series of disturbances precipitated by speeches to the Naxi meetings in New York and elsewhere by Fritz Kuhn, Bund leader. The order calling on German citisens to resign from both the Amerika-Deutsche Volksbund as well as the Prospective Citisens League read:

"On account of numerous inquirtes being received from German citizens living in the United States the German Government reiterates that German citizens must not belong to the Amerika-Deutsche Volksbund or to possible substitute organizations of that kind.
"German citizens who in ignorance of this standing order have become members of the Amerika-Deutsche Volksbund or the so-called Prospective Citizens League must resign from these organizations at

The Bund is called a German-American Nazi organization, which has been attacked due to the activities of Kuhn. A recent meeting of a branch of the organization at Buffalo ended in a near-riot when American Legion members heckled Kuhn from the floor and offered more physical evidence of their resentment if he would leave the speaker's platform.

The instructions contained in the government's announcement affect about 400,000 German citizens living in the United States, although only a minority of the total are believed to be members of the Volksbund. The exact number of Bund members is not known but a majority of them are believed to be American citizens.

Hull Explained Our Oath

Mr. Hull covered the matter earlier this month in the following

"I desire to stress that all persons of foreign birth who acquire United States citizenship by naturalization declare on oath in open court that they will support and defend the Constitution of the United States, and that they absolutely and entirely renounce and abjure all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign Prince, Potentate, State and Sovereignty and particularly by name to Prince, Potentate, State or Sovereignty of which they were be-fore citizens or subjects; that they will support and defend the Consti-tution and laws of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic, and bear true faith and allegiance to the same.

"It is thus clear that with their new allegiance their undivided duty is the support of our Constitution, our laws and our flag."

What effect the German Government's announcement today might have on pending proposals for a Congressional investigation of the Bund was problematical. Several such proposals are pending in the House and Senate, notably one introduced by Representative Dick-stein of New York.

While the order against member-ship of German nationals in Amerian Nazi organizations might prove effective on its own citizens, it could have no effect on American citizens now having such member-ship. In any event, however, the proposals such as spensored by Mr. Dickstein are not expected to win the approval of the House or the

A noted psychologist analyzes mental patterns of Europe's strongest strong men

By JOSEPH BASTROW

r Adolph Hitler, Benito Mussolini and Joseph Stalin had been, or even now could be examined as cases X. Y and Z in a psychiatric clinic, would we have a better understanding of their personalities, views and behavior? I think so. Such an analysis, if candid and cooperative, would be free of the footlight glamor which colors journalistic interviews of Europe's strongest but not otherwise notable men in power. As clinical revelation is out of the question, however, a speculative long-distance analysis, documented merely by the dictators' public utterances and political actions, is the only substitute offered us. It is possible that, even so handicapped, we may approach an authentic psychological interpretation.

Adolf Hitler is commonly referred to as the madman of Europe. This designation is apt, for no sane man could exhibit the composite characteristics of the German Fuehrer. Benito Mussolini and Joseph Stalin, too, have been described as mad by some observers. How far do these dictators qualify for a fair degree of sanity? How far do they approach the psychopathic?

The case of Hitler is by far the most clear-cut. The clue to his mental condition lies in paranoia, which has been described by Dr. F. A. Moss as "a constitutional, and so far incurable, mental disorder—causes unknown. Owing to their lack of deterioration and to their untiring energy, paranoiacs are often able to accomplish unusual things in life; they are often good organizers."

Paranoia is formal Greek for informal American "off one's base." The typical paranoiac is an individualist, a man who "goes it alone." With rare exceptions, paranoiacs are disturbing and undesirable citizens. The world can assimilate a fair number of them without constant dread of their upsetting the organized achedule of the human scene.

The man possessing a partial and tempered paranoiac make-up is called a paranoid by psychologists. Many varieties of minds fall into this category. The paranoid may be an aggressive individual, with an absorbing, compulsive, unbalanced desire to impress his personality upon his fellowmen regardless of means, reckless of consequence. Or he may be withdrawing and secretive of nature, beset by delusions, yet relatively innocent and socially inconsequent.

In a full-fledged paranoiac, the psychologist often finds present all three factors of the paranoid complex. The first factor is hypertrophy of the ego—in Greek, megalomania, in American, "swelled head." Unlike the delusions of grandeur that appear in other mental disorders and develop imperial Napoleons and royal Victorias resigned to menial tasks, the aggressive paranoiac has the urge to translate his self-inflation into practice, and may become viglent if balked.

A second factor is a grievance, some rankling hurt which keeps the ego irritated, making it feel wronged. Delusions of persecution may readily develop. According to Alfred Adler, the compensation for a blasting sense of inferiority induces the assumption of exceptional superiority.

The third factor is a scheme of reform, which may take one of as many forms as there are interests in life. Crack-brained cultists, including occultists, wild redeemers, social panaceists, even perpetual motion machine inventors, are of the paranoid family or persuasion—most of them of a harmless type. When a person with a paranoid complex becomes dominated by the desire to master, and makes the political world the scene of his activities, the result is the dictator.

The psychologist does not have to search far to find the grievance complex in Hitler's mental make-up. It rides him like a fury. Beginning possibly as an under-dog frustration in a youthful rebellion for recognition, it is now expressed as a blind rage, a ruthless onslaught, as if the only form of expression open to his paranoid mind were hate. His complex has led him, now that he is in power, to persecute Jews, burn books, torture objectors in concentration camps. His distorted ego disregards history, banishes learning, makes women servile race-bearers for his cause, dispossesses religion, reviles all other nations and ideals with fish-wife scurrility, purges and suppresses all opposition. The edicts which Hitler has issued while in power would serve as protocols of paranoia.

Hitler lives in a paranoid world not unlike the dream of many a patient in an asylum, but which has come into existence for causes over which historians will debate long after the Hitlerian catastrophe has gone the way of all delusion. To me it seems that without the background of armed force, the unwisdom of Versailles, the collapse of deliberation at the League of Nations, the paranoid world of Hitler would have been impossible. To exist, dictatorship must destroy freed dom and build up fear and force.

It is only by an accident of history that the "Aryan" myth and Nordic nonsense was inherited from pre-War Germany. The delusions of Teutonic superiority were developed in preparation for Der Tag of 1914. They grew out of a thesis advanced by an eccentric French literateur, Gobineau. In The Inequality of Human Races, Gobineau set forth the notion that the Teuton was the supreme race. The greatness of Leonardo, Michelangelo and a host of others he declared was due to the fact that Teutonic blood flowed in their veins. The "Aryan" cult was further developed by a renegade Englishman, Houston Chamberlain, son-in-law of Richard Wagner. And this literature of "political anthropology" flourished from 1910 to 1918, years during which learning was highly regarded in Germany!

The popularity of the work of Gobineau and Chamberlain and others illustrates the ideological gullibility of the German people. More realistic historians declare that it shows a lack of desire for or appreciation of true civic freedom, a liking for a land plastered with Verboten signs, and a craving for goose-step regimentation.

Mussolini and Stalin are not in quite the same psychological class as Hitler. Yet if the Italian and Russian dictators had been more normal men, more loyal to the accredited standards of sanity, the history of the world certainly would have been far different. As a psychologist I am inclined to agree with John Gunther's conclusion that "all dictators are abnormal; this may be accepted as an axiom," for "the vanity of the normal male is not capacious enough to accept such extreme responsibility."

Except for his megalomania—which is a gigantic exception, indeed—Mussolini is normal enough a human for most careers. Certainly he possesses an abundance of normalizing, extraverted compensations. If early in life he had been induced to wear an orthopedic device which inflicted a reminding sting whenever he strutted, the Caesar pose might have been nipped in the bud. Yet his personal record is fairly damaging, and the price the world has had to pay to satisfy his over-gorged ego is far too high.

It is quite likely, in view of the fact that he is well versed in history, that Il Duce early in life deliberately adopted the principles of Machiavelli. There is nothing psychopathic in deciding that politics is a gangster's game to be played according to gangster's rules, with a few regards for the urbanites, for there are many cases.

Mussolini told Emil Ludwig what a dictator learns from history is to shoot first. "I want to make my mark on history with my will, like a lion with his claw." His crowning satisfaction is in conquest and the applause of bombastic oratory. He has had to go far to find an outlet for his desire for glory. The son of the modern Caesar, sharing his father's precepts, records that he found mowing down innocent Abyssinians from the air to be glorious sport, and his victim's consternation in finding themselves, family and shelter suddealy exterminated most amusing.

Mussolini once told Nicholas Murray Butler that freedom was not only moribund but dead. Between the benefits of human freedom and the ego satisfaction of one man he has made his choice.

Of contemporary dictators, Joseph Stalin is certainly the most normal. In personal demeanor he is serene, and he has a sense of humor. He is a man of ability, with an appreciation of historical forces. His personality in many ways is an enigma.

In contrast with Hitler and Mussolini, Stalin did not create the political state which he dominates. With the passing of Lenin, who warned his party against Stalin's methods as crude, violent and menacing, the contest for control of the U.S.S.R. split the state into warring factions. Stalin fought his way to power by indefatigable energy and command of organizlifficult revolutionary situation. He used drastic, inhuman methods to win his cause, as is shown by his past records and amplified by his present record of purges. He resorts freely to terrorist methods, apparently without a twinge.

Stalin's make-up suggests a suspicious, withdrawal trend. He rarely sees diplomats or journalists, and even in attending a gala celebration of the Moscow Art Theater, remains screened behind a curtain in a box.

Despite the apparent ovations of their following, the lives of the dictators are as constantly threatened as those of autocratic tears, thus causing them to have phobias quite similar to psychopathics. Stalin leaves the Kremlin in a cavalcade of three fast-moving cars. He lives in a guarded country house surrounded by high walls. Mussolini's cars have one-way glass so that he can see but not be seen. Hitler has a bomb-proof cellar under his closely guarded mountain retreat, with a charged barbed wire enclosing the estate. The strongest men and, according to their followers, the most adored men in Europe are in constant fear for their lives, which hardly adds to the sanity of their state of mind.

The dictator's following is recruited among a population in despair, and is reinforced by propaganda. Once under way, the dictator imposes his will upon the masses by ruthless compulsion and the silencing of opposition. Dictatorship and freedom, no more than sanity and insanity, can live under the same roof.

"Stalin is serene and he has a sense of humor. His personality in many ways to an anisma-

The draft of a new disarmaor of the German people.

Germany Desires Peace

And in this moment I can only repeat, within the hearing of the world, that no threat and no force will ever induce the (intrins) mation again to renounce those fundamental rights which no sovereign nation can be denied. But I can also give the assurance that this sovereign nation knows no other wish than to apply its political, moral, and economic energies not only to the healing of the wounds which the past has inflicted upon human society, but also to helpful cooperation with those civilized nations which, according to the true word of an English statesman, make life in this world beautiful and worth living through their works of intellectual and physical labor.

This first year of the national-socialist revolution has made the German state and the German people inwardly and outwardly more fit to assume that share of responsibility, for the prosperity and happiness of all peoples, which Providence has assigned to so great a nation and which therefore human beings cannot dispute.

Our readiness to fulfill this truly international duty cannot be symbolized more fittingly than by the figure of the aged marshal who, as an officer and victorious commander in wars and buttles, fought for our people's greatness, and who today, as President of Germany, is the most venerable sponsor of the work for peace in which we all are engaged.

Nobody in the world has the authority to deny reat nation such equality of rights, and nobody will be verful enough to permanently prevent it. But we who are viving witnesses of the horrors of the great war, feel that re is nothing farther from our minds than the thought that se fears and demands, so comprehensible on either side, suld ever lead to a desire to see the two peoples again sure their strength on the field of battle—an undertaking consequences of which would infallibly result in inter-

In the following considerations:

1. This is the only question pertaining to territory which ill remains unsettled between the two countries. As soon as is issue is settled, the German government will be ready and solved to assent truly and sincerely to the formal provisions of the Locarno Pact because then, in the German government's opinion, there will be no territorial question left between France and Germany.

2. Although the plebiscite will doubtless result in an enormous majority in favor of Germany, the German government is afraid that, in the course of the preparation for the plebiscite, there will be a renewed incitement of national passions, augmented by the agitation of irresponsible emigrant circles. Such new stirring up of the passions would be all the more deplorable as it seems absolutely unnecessary and useless because there can be no doubt as to the final outcome of the ple-

3. No matter how the voting may turn out, it is bound to create in one of the two nations the feeling of defeat. While we hope that then the bonfires of jubilation will burn in Germany, we would for the sake of conciliation much prefer it if, without a final plebiscite, there could have been found a solution equally satisfactory to both countries.

4. We are convinced that, if France and Germany had anticipated the solution by jointly preparing the draft of an agreement, the entire population, of the Saar would, by an overwhelming majority ballot, have expressed its joyous consent to such a regulation, and thus the Saar population's right to self-determination would have been fulfilled without either of the two interested nations having cause to regard the outcome as victory or defeat, and without giving propaganda another chance to interrupt the mutual understanding which has begun to spring up between the German and French peoples.

I am sorry that the French thought it impossible to adopt the idea. But I will not abandon the hope that, in spite of it vernment will eadure in the long run by relying exclusively force. And so the national-socialist government of Gerany will also in the future make it a rule to ascertain again a again to what extent the will of the nation is personified in the government at its head. And in this sense, I think, that we savages," after all, are the better democrats.

Understanding with Austria

Finally I, who with joyous pride calls the Austrian brother untry his and his ancestors' homeland, must protest against ie idea that the German sentiment of the Austrian people is a need of any kind of incitement coming from Germany. I link I know my homeland and its population well enough, wen to-day, to know that the pulse-beat of the sixty-six milons of the Germans in Germany, throbs also in their hearts and senses.

May fate grant that at last and in spite of every thing, a way e found which will lead out of these calamitous conditions to real concilation and settlement. Germany, fully respecting he independent will of the German people in Austria, stands and at any time to join hands with Austria in a real undergading.

German-Italian Friendship

I cannot in these remarks on our foreign relations refrain rom expressing my joyous satisfaction that, during this year, ew and abundant confirmation has been given to our traditional friendship with fascist Italy, so highly cherished by national-socialism, and to the high esteem in which the great leader of that nation is held also among us. The German people gratefully appreciate the statesmanlike and objective justice of which present-day Italy has given so many proofs during the Geneva negotiations and thereafter. The visit which the Italian secretary of state, Mr. Suvich, paid to Berlin afforded us the first opportunity to give expression here, however inadequate, to our feelings for the Italian people, whose outlook upon the world and life is so closely related to ours, and our feelings for the superior Italian statesman.

The Milliand Book of the Sand Park States

Franco-German Relations

Just as the national-socialist government during the past which we will therefore never abandon, can in my opinion best be brought to an end by a reconciliation between the two great the spectacles of cool professional politicians and diplomats, twelve months laboured to come to an understanding with Poland, just so have we honestly endeavoured to mitigate the conflicting interests between France and Germany and, if possible, by a general settlement of issues come to a final understanding. The German struggle for equality of rights, which we regard as a struggle for the honour and inalienable right of our people and nations who so often during the last centuries have spilled the blood of their best sons on the fields of battle without essentially changing thereby the underlying final facts. I also believe that this problem should not be viewed merely through hearted resolve on the part of those who once faced each other but that its final solution can be effected only through a warm-le to check the active interference of German emigrants my, no more than the rest of the world has hitherto been road with German developments here at home. If the Austrigovernment complains of a political propaganda which is eged to be carried on from Germany against Austria, then German government might with much more right complain o by the Austrian government may be a bit awkward for the the anti-German propaganda carried on by the political igrants living in other countries. The fact that the German ss is printed in the German language and can thus be read sent Austrian administration, but chanot very well be changby the government of Germany. But when in non-Germanaking countries German newspapers are printed in millions vernment might see in this a real reason for protest, for it copies and then shipped into Germany, then the German es not seem very plausible why certain Berlin papers, for tance, should be published in Prague or Paris.

Emigrants in Foreign Countries

How difficult it is to check the influence of political emigrants on their homeland, is shown by the fact that even the League Nations, in a district where it manages public affairs under own authority, seems powerless to prevent emigrants from erfering with matters in their former homeland. It was only ew days ago that the German political police on the bordere of the Saar District had again to arrest sixteen comnists who tried to smuggle large quantities of hostile and oversive propaganda material into Germany. If such things a possible even under the jurisdiction of the League of Nations, then it would be unjust to blame Germany for alleged occurrances of a similar nature.

further complaints with neighboring states on account of the Consequently the German government refrains from lodging anti-German emigrant propaganda tolerated there, even when that goes to the length of conducting a mock-trial calculated to ridicule the highest German tribunal, or as to-day when it finds expression in vile agitation for an economic boycott against Germany. The German government can afford to do without such a formal complaint because it feels itself to be the impregnable representative and trusted executor of the German nation's will. It obtained this inner security because it the world, to appeal several times within a single year to the did not fail, for its own satisfaction and for the enlightment of firmed by popular vote although it was under no obligation to could at once be disposed of if the latter would bring itself to ascertain before all the world whether the will of the people is electorate among the people and to have this confidence recondo so. The attacks against the present Austrian administration appeal likewise to the German people in Austria in order to dentical with the intentions of the government.

I don't believe that the government of Switzerland, for example, which also has millions of citizens of German race, could complain of any attempts by German circles at meddling with its internal affairs. The explanation, it seems to me, is this that the government of Switzerland is evidently supported by the confidence of the Swiss population and therefore need not account for internal difficulties by blaming foreign interference. Without wishing in the least to get mixed up in the internal affairs of other countries, I must say at least this: No

The national-socialist emblem and the swastiku fing are acknowledged symbols of the present German nation, Excepting the so-called "Emigrants", all the Germans that every one of them.

東京の神事の一年、七年五人

If the Austrian government is displeased because Germany prevents her citizens from entering a country whose government shows such hostility, even to individual representatives of the view of life now prevalent here, it ought to consider that an omission of the precautionary measures taken on our part an omission of the precautionary measures taken on our part would necessarily lead to situations which would actually prove unbearable and extremely dangerous. The present-day prove unbearable and extremely dangerous. The present-day citizen of Germany has too much pride and self-respect to allow his national badge of honour to be torn off his body without his national based of honour to be torn off the difficulty offering resistance, and so there is no way out of the difficulty but to spare such a country the importunity of our visits.

As to the other claim of the Austrian government saying that Germany is attempting, or even as much as contemplating, some sort of aggression against the Austrian state, I must most decidedly repudiate such an idea. If the tens of thousands of political fugitives from Austria, who are in Germany to-day, take an ardent interest in the doings in their homeland, such a state of affairs may have a deplorable effect now and then, but it cannot be prevented by any measures on the part of Ger-conformity with these intentions the German governhas been striving to establish new and better relations the Polish State. hen I took over the government, on the thirtieth of ary, the relations between the two countries seemed to be than unsatisfactory. There was the danger that an ty might develop out of doubtlessly existing differences in had their causes in the territorial stipulations of the tilles Treaty and in a mutual hervousness resulting there. It was to be feared that a prolongation of such a state fairs could assume for both sides the character of a tradi-

Furthermore, it ed to be wise to treat the problems of the two countries therefore, more appropriate to change a state of affairs ternational intercourse which is more useful for peace, nence for the welfare of the two nations, than the political ultimately the economic paralysis which must necessarily in a free and open discussion directly rather than to entrust a third or a fourth party with this task. No matter what the differences between the two countries may be in the future, the attempt to settle them by war would lead to a catastrophe out of proportion to any possible gain! Therefore, the German shal Pilsudski, equally broad-minded, embodied this mutual to the Polish and the German peoples but will also substantially contribute to the maintenance of general peace. Following the spirit of this treaty, the German government is willing to promote also the economic relations with Poland so that a government, happy to find the leader of the Polish State, Marrecognition in a treaty which will not only be equally useful state of unproductive restraint can be followed by a period of useful cooperation. It is a matter of particular satisfaction that within this same year the national-socialist government of Danzig was able to come to a similar clarification of its relations with the neighboring state of Poland

Austrian Relations

Much to the regret of the German national government the relations of Germany to the present administration in Austria are not satisfactory. This, however, is no fault of ours. The allegation that Germany intended to do violence to the Austrian state is absurd and cannot possibly be substantiated or proved by anything. On the other hand, it is nothing but plausible and natural that an idea which has taken hold of the entire German people, agitating it to the very core of its being, will not stop short at the boundary-posts of a country whose history shows it to have been, under the name of "the German Eastern March", caruin of not merely the German trade, but also to a large tent of the world trade that a treaty put an end to a produce which was already impossible because of Germany's mplete destitution.

When the new German government took up the struggle r German equality of rights, it was convinced that it was ing its share also in the political sphere to establish sound momic relations throughout the world.

For it is obvious that without taking the venom out of the litical relations of nations, and from the political atmossere in general, no economic cooperation, which always quires confidence, is possible.

Such cooperation will be necessary if the great economic oblems are to be tackled seriously in coming years. These sks result, on one hand, from changes in the markets of the orld and, on the other, from the fact that it remains a cessity for certain nations to export.

Feeling Toward Other Countries

As a matter of principle it is immaterial to the German overnment, in its relations with other countries, what form f constitution and government those countries have chosen. t is most decidedly each nation's own affair to determine its iternal life according to its own judgment. It is, therefore, lso the German nation's own affair to determine, according to its own judgment, the spiritual content and the outer form its state organization and government.

Much to our regret we must state that for many months the difference between our conception of things and that of other nations, has been made the reason for accusing the German people and the German nation not only of numerous unjustifiable acts but also for treating Germany with unjustifiable suspicion.

pacts shall not serve political tactics but rather the strengthmaybe unbridgeable differences between the ideas of those states and ours. Whether we had to deal with democratic states or with others of an anti-democratic character, it has always tion and for adjusting differences. Thus, it was quite comprehensible and possible that, in spite of great differences in their philosophies of life, the German nation should have enleavoured, during this year, to promote friendly relations with Russia. When Mr. Stalin in his last great speech expressed a fear that there might be anti-Soviet forces at work in Germany, ao more than a German national-socialist tendency would be colerated in Russia, will we tolerate a communistic tendency or propaganda in Germany! The more clearly this obvious fact is recognized by both states, the more natural will be the fostering of the common interests of the two countries. We, therefore, welcome the endeavor to stabilize conditions in the East by a system of pacts, as long as the leading principles of these ocen our aim to find ways and means for international cooperamust immediately correct such an opinion by saying that: aim, during the past months, to foster, in a spirit of reconcilialion and understanding, the relations between the German nation and all other states, even when there were great, and We have not followed this course. hen, on the thirtieth of January, I was entrusted with ew government by the President of Germany, I as well as the members of the cabinet and the whole German nation, were moved by one fervent wish: May God Almighty make us the tool to restore to the German people, honor and equal rights in the world. We have made this idea the guiding principle of all our actions in regard to foreign relities.

injustices upon the outlawed nations, cannot but lead to an abhorrent moral chaos in international life. Experience proves that humble servility on the part of the vanquished tends less friendship. We were convinced that it must be again possible without always thinking of brute force. One of the worst results of the Peace Treaty of Versailles is that it perpetuated the conception of victor and vanquished. Thus, it necessarily brought about the danger of perpetuating the idea that differences of opinions and interests in international life must either not be voiced by the weaker party at all, or must be answered with brute force by the stronger party. The idea, that by means of sanctions one may have the right to heap new nations, had only one wish,—to live with them in peace and to mollify the victor than to spur him on to new encroachments. in this world to talk about differences in internationl life, The new Germany, in dealing with all peoples and all of the year of the national-socialist revolution and of its government arc, the fact is still more remarkable that this great revolution in our nation could take place like lightening Men of the German Reichstag! However great the results and almost without any bloodshed.

If the churches should be ready to ake care of these people inflicted with hereditary discase we would be only too glad to give up their sterilization. As long as the state is obliged to take from the citizens yearly increasing enormous sums of money --- surpassing the sum of three hundred and fifty millions per year in Germany today—in order to support these pitiful diseased people, it is forced to remedy the necessities of life in order to support millions of diseased conditions. The state must see to it that such undeserved public welfare would dangerously approach the number of churches that feed the armies of these unfortunate ones, but suffering is not transmitted from generation to generation.

And among these enemies of the new government I would ke to count also the clique of those incorrigible diehards who unsider nations nothing else but scattered commercial stations ithout masters, and who are waiting for a ruler to insure their aly possible happiness by his claims to divine right.

And, finally, I count among them that insignificant little roup of ultra-nationalistic idealogists who believe that the cople of Germany can only be made happy by eradicating is experiences and results of a listory of two thousand years, and wandering forth anew in imaginary bearskins.

All these opponents in Germany comprise together less than ro-and-a-half millions in comparison with more than forty illions acknowledging the new state and its government. hese two millions cannot be considered as opposition as they matitute a chaotic conglomeration of the most diverse opinars and conceptions totally incapable to pursue a common ositive aim, and only united in a common negation of the rate of today.

But there are two categories of people more dangerous than lese groups just mentioned, who must be considered as a real ability of the state today and of the future.

We have, first of all, those political migration-birds who ways appear at harvest-time. They are fellows weak in naracter, but out and out opportunists, who rush into every accessful movement to forestall or to answer questions about neir previous activity by boisterous clamor and by posing as undred-and-ten per cent adherents. They are dangerous because covered by the mask of the new government they are trying to satisfy their purely personal egoistic interests. Thus, they become a real liability of a movement for which millions of decent people have sacrificed everything for years and years without ever having thought that they might be rewarded for their sufferings and privations. It will be a very important task of the future to cleanse the state and the party of these obtrusive parasites. There are many people, decent at heart, who could not join the movement for very comprehensive, even cogent, reasons. They will, then, find their way to the party without risking to be taken for such obscure elements.

On Sterilization

And another heavy burden is the army of those who, diseased by heridity, constitute a negation of national life.

The state will have to take truly revolutionary measures. It is a great merit of the national-socialist movement that already in the past year it attacked this danger of slow decay of the nation by erstwhile legislation.

If there is opposition against this legislation—especially from the churches—I have to reply:—

It would have been more appropriate, more honest, and, above all more Christian, to have opposed in past decades those who intentionally annihilated healthy life, instead of carrying on a mutiny against those who wanted to do away with disease. The laissez-faire in this sphere is not only a cruelty against the individual innocent victims but also a cruelty against the whole of the nation. If the development should go on as in the past hundred years the number of those under

The primitive formula that instead of the people not serving business and business capital, but rather that capital must serve business and business the people, has already in this year been the supreme guiding principle of the government.

And due to this more than anything else it has been possible to continue intelligently and enthusiastically the great practical and effective work of the government. Thus it was possible by the medium of removing taxes and prudently applying state subsidies, to stimulate national production to an extent which most of our critics considered quite out of the question twelve months ago.

Many of the measures thereby introduced will be only fully appreciated in the future, especially the furthering of the motorization of German traffic in connection with the building of state motor-roads. The old rivalry between the railway and the motorcar has found a solution which one day will be of great profit to the whole German nation.

We were convinced that, to set our economic life in motion, it was primarily necessary during this year, to provide first a primitive form of employment, in order to increase the consuming power of the great masses, as a first step towards making possible the increased production of the higher class goods.

At the same time efforts were made to put in order the completely disorganized financial life of the nation, states and communes, on the one hand by large-scale measures and on the other by most brutal economy.

The extent of the economic revival is shown most clearly by the very substantial reduction in the number of our unemployed, and by the none the less important increase in the total income of the nation.

Because of the prime necessity of setting in motion our national production and reducing the number of unemployed, many otherwise desirable tasks had to be renounced.

Naturally, our activities this gear, in spite of everything, have been attacked by numberless enemies. We have borne this burden and shall also be able to bear it in the future. If degenerate exiles, most of whom more for criminal than for political reasons, left the country, which as the scene of their former activities had became too dangerous, now try to mobilize a credulous world with the skill of true rogues and a criminal lack of conscience, their lies will be increasingly exposed, as tens of thousands of respectable and honourable men and women in growing numbers come to Germany and are able personally to compare the accounts of these international "persecuted persons" with the actual reality.

Furthermore we shall take little heed of those communist ideologists who consider it their duty to turn back the wheel of history, and serve a sub-human species which confuses the idea of political freedom with the letting loose of criminal instincts. We mastered these elements when they were in power, and ourselves in opposition. We shall master them with greater certainty in the future, now that they are in opposition and we in power.

Some of our bourgeois intellectuals also believe themselves unable to face hard facts. However, it is certainly more expedient to regard these rootless intellectuals as enemies rather than to count them as adherents. They turn away from every-

No,—we are one nation, and we want to live in one country. And those who in former German history so often sinned against this principle, could not assert that they owed their position to the will of God, but as history unfortunately only too often shows, to the opportune grace and backing of our worst enemies.

Therefore we have in this year deliberately asserted the authority of the state and of the Government against those, who as weak descendants and heirs of the past policy, thought they could also establish their traditional opposition to the national-socialist state.

It was one of the happiest moments of my life when it became evident that the whole German people approved of this policy which exclusively represented their own interests.

With a full appreciation of the merits of monarchy and with all due respect for the really great emperors and kings of German history, to-day the question of the final form of the German government is beyond discussion. However, no matter to what decision the nation and its leaders may come in the future, there is one thing which they must never forget: Whoever is at the head of German affairs, is there by appointment of the German nation, to whom alone he is exclusively responsible.

I, personally, only consider myself empowered by the nation to execute those reforms which may enable the nation some day to make the final decision as to the ultimate form of government in Germany.

This stupendous undertaking of forming and creating our new nation will also be in the future the foremost aim of the national-socialist government. The preparatory work, carried

Only one fact is hangeable:

What has been, will never return.

Attitude Toward Church and Monarchy

No less fundamentally decisive is the new relationship been the state and both Christian confessions. Filled with the ire to secure for the German people the great religious, ical and moral values which are anchored in the two Christon confessions, we have abolished political organizations and so doing strengthened religious institutions. For, an agreent with the powerful national-socialist state is more valuable church than conflict between confessional political society which in their coalition-conditioned policy of compromise, anys must barter personal advantages for members of their try at the cost of sacrificing the ideals of inner religious feeling and national consolidation. At the same time we are hoping that the uniting of the various national evangelical churches to a uniform Evangelical Church of Germany will satisfy the longing of those who, because of the uncertainty of evangelical life, feared a weakening of the evangelical faith.

When the authority of a government and the confidence of a whole nation unite in determined action, they will be able to solve this most difficult problem, because they must solve it.

And we are determined not to give in to this task which has to be accomplished, but to grapple with it.

Hitler Appointed Chancellor

When on January 30th, a year ago, our General Field Marshal, our highly esteemed President of the Nation, by means of a decision, truly magnanimous in view of everything that had happened and preceded it, entrusted me with the formation and leadership of the government of Germany, the national-socialist party shouldered a responsibility the greatness of which did not seem to correspond to its influence or to the part it had previously played. At that time, with only two ministers, I entered a cabinet which then held a reserved opinion of the movement and of me personally, and I gave before the nation my promise to tackle the tasks imposed upon us by history and providence, and to seek for them a comprehensive solution.

In that hour I considered myself to be only a representat of and a fighter for my people. I was convinced that even at that moment, a countless multitude inevitably lacked understanding of the true meaning of the mission which movement had to perform, nevertheless in a short time actual deeds would meet with the intuitive assent of the natification to be other than one of the whole German nation, e if consciously or unconsciously millions of men then did realize this fact or possibly did not want to believe it.

I have never seen in purely outward power any posssubstitute for the confidence of the nation, but have alve honestly striven to convert the power of authority intostrength of confidence. I can, therefore, admit with pride just as the national-socialist party had its roots exclusived the people, so we as a government have never had any thou than that which did not originate in the people, with people, and for the people.

And only out of this deeply inward alliance with the Ger nation, there grew up within us the power to fight an overcome the conditions which we had to consider not mas external burdens, but in the long run, as factors leading the ultimate destruction of our nation.

When, during the fourteen long years of our struggl power, I again and again proclaimed as a preliminary neck for the reascent of the German nation the destruction with compromise of all the middle class and marxist parties, this appeared to the majority of my political opponents to be hallucination of an insane visionary, to be sheer madness

New Social Order Arises

The body of the nation, threatened by decay, had to be ovided with a new social order as a basis for the formation a new solidarity. The fundamental theses of this order, wever, could only be found in those eternal laws which things immaterial, of the basic foundation of the nation elf and its preservation, had to be established with imconformity with our mode of life, both promoted and were ental to it. The will to preserve this substance, however, d to find an expression which, in a manner conforming to vern the basis of constructive life. The prominence, over e peculiarity of the people, made that will distinctly evident ation. From this point of view the new state leadership gnifies no more than a better expression of the will of the ople than that which is afforded under time worn parliaentary democracy. Thus and in that sense the new state is tturally bound to the task to fulfill all necessary conditions essive clarity. It was furthermore quite clear that the very ture of this foundation contained all those elements which, eful to its preservation or on the other hand were detrid lead to its practical realization. The conception of democcy underwent therewith a thorough investigation and clarir the further preservation of the nation.

Freeing the nation from all purely formal and customary inceptions of republicanism and democracy it will now be lead by the people themselves and this leadership of the people, by he very form of the inner national conditions, will constitute to real government of the state. Political, cultural, and ecomic rasks can, therefore, be approached only in this the state and can be solved only from a uniform point of view. This national conception will then lead not only to the overbridging of all hitherto existing class extremes, although these extremes vary, in contrast to the eternity of radical foundations and are therefore unimportant because not permanent, but also to a clarification of the attitude towards the problems of foreign policy.

本本事を見ける事と人とせいます あるるものあ

The national-socialist racial conception and the science signed task, namely to practically preserve and continue the life of our own nation. This thought inevitably leads to a natural respect of the life and character of other peoples. It frees foreign political activities from any attempt to dominate foreigners in order to rule them or even to incorporate them as a mere numerical mass in one's own nation by forcing them to speak that nation's language. This new conception compels a great and fanatical devotion to the life and thus to the honour and freedom of one's own people, and in like manner a respect underlying it does not lead to a lack of appreciation or of respect for other nations, but rather to a recognition of our asfor the honour and freedom of other nations. This thought can therefore provide an essentially better basis for the effort toward a true pacification of the world than the sorting of the nations, from mere considerations of strength, into victorious and defeated groups, into groups of those which are justified and into those who have been subdued and possess no rights.

But one result of such an inner revolutionizing of the thought of the nation can be the attaining of authoritative determination and firm instinctive confidence, both preliminaries for the abolition of economic distress.

The following is clear: The German nation has a million of its best men and women unemployed, all of whom want to against a great nation simply because that nation had had the misfortune, after heroic resistance, to lose a war which had been forced upon it.

THE REAL PROPERTY.

The wire-pullers of the communistic revolution immediately realized the unheard of possibilities which resulted out of this treaty, and saw how it showed a practical way to revolutionize the German people. In making themselves the banner-bearers of the fight against Versailles, the communists succeeded in mobilizing men and women who in desperation believed that chaos alone afforded a way out. The world, however, did not seem to notice that, while insisting in a state of blindness on the literal fulfillment of inconceivable, even downright mad, impossibilities, there was taking place a development in Germany which, as a first stage to a communistic world-revolution, would have, within a short time, presented the victorious powers with a plague-infected bearer of germs instead of with a profit-bearing slave to the treaty.

Therefore, the national-socialist movement had not only rendered a service to the German people but also to Europe and the world outside of Europe by preventing, through its victory, a development which would have given the deathblow to the last hopes of salvation from the sufferings of our time.

In the face of the fact that a complete break-down was threatening, tasks of truly historical greatness presented themselves. Not any of the customary changes of government could save the nation from plunging into an abyss but only an inner reformation of the greatest magnitude and of the deepest conception. Not outward political or economic problems, but, ranging far above these, problems of the soul and of the nation were to be solved.

Thus, since 1930, only two things have been possible: ither, as a logical continuation of the way which had been repared for it, victory would fall to the share of communism, ith all its unforeseeable consequences, not only for Germany, ut for the whole world, or national-socialism would succeed, t the eleventh hour, in beating its international opponent. The lack of understanding among the middle classes of the reaning of this fight, which imperiously demanded a clear ecision, was proved by the fact that in Germany, up to twelve conths before, they seriously believed that, as silent neutrals.

they would ultimately be the victors in the struggle between these two philosophies of life, each philosophy being filled with a desire for the complete destruction of the other. The demands made upon our movement by this fight were terrific. Just as much proud courage is necessary to stand ridicule and mockery, as heroism and bravery is necessary to defend oneself against daily calumnies and attacks. Ten thousand national-socialist fighters were wounded during this time, and many were killed. Great numbers were imprisoned, hundreds of thousands had to leave their positions or otherwise lost their means of livelihood. But out of these fights there was born the unshakeable guard of the national-socialist revolution, the immense host of the political organization of the party, the S. A. and the S. S. It is to them alone that the German nation owes thanks for its liberation from a mania which, had it triumphed, would not only have kept seven millions workless but would have soon condemned thirty millions to starvation.

Previous Foreign Relations

Concerning foreign policy,—when the German nation in November 1918, stirred and encouraged by the assurances given it by President Wilson in the Agreement of Compiègne, laid down its arms, it held, just as it does today, the deep, unshakeable conviction that it was guiltless of the outbreak of the war. Even the signature, to a so-called German confession of guilt, forced from weak men against their better knowledge, does not at all alter this fact. The vast majority of the German

It could only be a question of time until the ruthless agressive doctrine of marxistic equalization would have finally over-run the last of the bourgeois political strongholds which protected the economic system; the end would have been the definite overthrow of the political and economic ideology of the bourgeoisie age.

This development would have taken place even without the world war. But this war undoubtedly materially accelerated the course of events.

Background of Present Situation

In order to understand what happened this year in Germany it is essential to take two factors into consideration. First, the terrible war undermined the solidity of the authoritative rulership of the old regime and lead, by way of its elimination, not only to an internal but also to an external breakdown. Marxism was the active bearer of this development, but the bourgeoisdemocracy, by its passiveness, shared responsibility.

Second, the dictate of Versailles destroyed the independence and the freedom of the nation in its foreign relations by dissolving and disintegrating all power and capacity of resistance ing and disintegrating sequence of political and economical The result was an endless sequence of political and economical

This part of the program is to be retained Wednesday, but the traditional ceremony on November 🛢 consisting of a solemn parade to two "temples" containing the re-mains of the men who fell in the putsch, has been canceled.

FBI Ear Test Shows Hitler Has Double

LONDON, Nov. 23 (Thursday) (C.T.P.S.).—Checking one of the latest "Hitler" photographs against an incontestable one of the German Fuehrer, an eminent London surgeon has determined that Nazi leaders have been using a double to impersonate Hitler ince the attempt to kill him July 20.

This morning's Daily Express asserts its proof was obtained by the surgeon's application of the ear identification test method used by the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation in "typing" criminals.

The main features of the difference in the pictures, according to the doctor, are the length of the ears, whereas the ear of the authenticated Hitler picture is stubby, that of one of the latest Fuehrer photo is elongated.

The Daily Express concludes that the Nazis' use of a fake Haler lends color to the parade of reports lately that he is ill seriously injured, insane or dead

As of possible interest to you, I am attaching hereto a memorandum of information received from a confidential source, to the effect that Chancellor Hitler of Germany has designated three Army officers to succeed him in power in the event of his sudjen death.

I have also furnished this information to Major General Rivin M. Watson, Secretary to the President, The White House; Honorable Adolf A. Berle, Jr., Assistant Secretary of State, Department of State; Brigadier General Sherman Miles, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, War Department; Captain T. S. From a confidential source information has been received to the effect that wide-spread reports have been circulating in Germany that Chancellor Adolf Hitler has changed his former plans for his successors and now in case of his sudden death, three German army leaders will succeed him: Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, General Heins Guderian and Field Marshal Earl von Ruddstedt. It is said that these three Army officers will continue to rule Germany for a period of five years after the peace in Europe has been established.

It will be recalled that Hitler first designated Marshal Hermann Goering and Rudolph Hess as his successors. However, Hess is now a prisoner in England and it is said that Hitler is likely to outlive Goering.

News of this change of the designated heirs to Hitler's power is being spread in Berlin by word of mouth. It has been suggested that this is a logical arrangement, insanuch as the Nazis now realise that the war may last a long time and even though there is a German victory in Europe, the victor will have to cope with disorders and military problems for some time.

Widespread reports have been circulating in Germany that Adolph Hitler in changed his testament and named as his heir, in case of his sudden death, three German army leaders. These three high officers have been:

Field Marshal Willelm Keitel, General Heinz Guderian

Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt.

This military triumvirate is to rule Germany for 5 years after the peace in Europe will have been reestablished.

As we know Hitler in his first will designated Marshal Goering and Rudolph Hess as his successors. Hess however is now an English prisoner and it is more likely that Hitler will outlive Goering than vice-versa.

The news of the new regulation is being spread in Berlin by word of mouth. It would be the most logical and sensible arrangement as the Nazis now realize that the war may last long and even a Europe based on German victory will have to cope with vast disorders and military problems.

Thrusts at the economics of the Third Reich are often stiletto-sharp. According to one alleged rumor, "the kangaroo will soon replace the black eagle on the German insignia—because the kangaroo is the only animal able to go far on an empty pocket." Many a gag centers on the citizen who has his breakfast by pulling in another notch on his belt. Particularly devastating are those aimed at Exists, the German program of manufacturing substitute or synthetic products, made necessary by increasing war preparations.

I told that the Bureau would not evaluate any information of this kind -- that the Bureau was an investigative agency and that we would conduct investigations of such matters as the War Department referred to us which were within our investigative jurisdiction, but that we positively would not attempt to "evaluate" information which was not the subject of investigation by the Bureau. that there was a variety of information appearing from various sources alleging that Hitler and many of his associates were hiding out in the Argentine and the War Department needed someone to evaluate it. I told 1 that the Eilitary Attache at Buenos Aires, General Lang, had established himself as the supreme authority upon all mundane matters; that he recognized no delimitation agreement and that consequently the Ear Department might consider calling upon him for such evaluation.

also wanted to know whether the Bureau would distribute for the War Crimes Commission through the Bureau's international exchange, circulars printed for the apprehension of wanted persons whose apprehension was sought by the War Crimes Commission. I inquired of whether fingerprints would be available upon these people and he stated they would not, but in some instances they might have photographs of the wanted persons. I advised that I would refer this question to you for your consideration. I recommend against utilization of the Bureau facilities for distributing such circulars, first, because they will not contain fingerprints and the other identifying data will probably be vague and inadequate, second, because the legality of many of these proceedings is subject to considerable doubt, including the question of means of extradition, and, third, because I don't think we should lend the prestige of the Bureau's name and reputation to the War Crimes Commission and by the association of the Bureau's name with the circulars give the impression to the public generally that the Bureau is attempting to apprehend these war criminals, most of whom I think will never be apprehended.

HEKORANDUM

RE: KARL BENRY VON FIROAND

Karl You Wiegand advised he has known Chanceller Adolph Hitler of Germany for many years. He stated he wrote articles on Hitler for the Cosmopolitan Magazine in 1938, which he claims were written to bring out the baser side of Hitler and which were not looked upon favorably by Der Tuehrer. Because of these, he feared that he never would get back or be able to maintain his contacts in Germany, but despite this fact, during this last war he has been in Berlin and over Europe generally, and on June 19, 1949, had a fifty minute interview with Hitler at a chatenu in Belgium.

Von Wiegand stated that diplomate and attaches of Hitler are terrified in his presence and are very such afraid of him. He pave an example, and easi that even You Ribbentrop was afraid of him, and when the interview with Hitler was submitted to You Ribbentrop for censorship, he was afraid to authorize its release until Hitler himself had officially declared that the article was agreeable.

You wiegend claims that he is not afraid of Hitler, and that he even would interrupt him in his speech at times and sak questions which he stated were necessary because Hitler would talk uninterruptedly for hours on the subject that he had started on, and for the purposes of his interview it was necessary to continually interrupt him, which was all right with Der Yushrer.

Von signed mays that Hitler has an amaring vocabulary, and a phenomenal memory; that he never forgets. He has been known to recall etatements in reports which were written months before by officials, and has reminded them of their incommissionals at later dates.

Ton Wiegand described Eitler as an abnormal personal supplies of transmedium; he never forgives; he treats people with utter contempt. 28 19 scorns than - even those closest to him, and yet at other times he is evercome by a streak of kindliness, and he will give them the chattanux and expensive gifts.

Wor

Mitler has a great paychological weakness, according to Yon Viegand, it being a marked fear of being considered weak. He will do things to preclude an appearance of weakness and appears to compensate for this fear. In talking with him, Yon Fiegand claims he noted three personalities - the statesman, the politician, and the demagague.

Von Viegand stated that Hitler expressed himself that he felt certain of victory in Europe, and that while if the United States came into the war as an ally of England it would no doubt delay the outcome, it would not change the final result in any manner. Hitler was very much irritated and impatient in response to an inquiry on the Maxis' coming over to the United States. He said it was nonsense, invading the United States — it was fantastic. He stated, "What do you think I went?" You isgand replied, "But if you defeat England, you will get its Mayy--" Hitler interrupted stating, "I am not being misled by any idea that I will get the British Mayy even in a British defeat. Anyway the old fleets are no good. The British fleet will be junked by the end of the war or at such time when we might get it. Furthermore, fleets are not as important in modern war as they were."

Von Wiegand stated he then asked Hitler about the Fifth Column in the United States, and Eitler replied that it didn't exist. Hitler, according to You Wiegand, said. "If President Roosevelt thinks he can win a war with the Fifth Column, let him try it."

The Fifth Column (You Wiegend agreed with Hitler) was a name for collective opposition, not propagandists. It was, according to him, a fighting column in Madrid. You Wiegend said that was what it was since he saw it operating there. Hitler told You Wiegend, "We can conquer from the air, but how can we get mear the United States. Aircraft carriers are obsolete and they will be scrap iron anyway no big bombers can take off from thom." Hitler then again repeated, "We can't get the English fleet - we haven't the fleet ourselves - we wouldn't be able to build one, and furthermore, we don't want anything over there anyway." You Wiegend stated that he added very pointedly, "That goes for South America too.",

You wiegend then said that he queried Hitler about his trade methods, and Hitler replied that "if we have better methods, why shouldn't we use them?" - referring to themselves.

Von Viegnad was naked, "who is behind Hitler!" and he replied that no one is behind Hitler - that Hitler is the rower of the Mazi regime. You degrad etated that Hitler has a demonical energy and an incredible human tenacity to hold to a course. You degrad stated he does not think it has been equalled since Mayoleon. He believes that Hitler is psychic at times; that he has the ability to see things accomplished. Hitler has said that all he has to do is do it, as it is already laid out for him. You Wiegand claims that it is an intriguing and faccinating side of the man.

You Wiegand was questioned as to whether Hitler had patterned himself after Hapoleon and whether or not his ambitions were the same, and he replied that Hitler is humble in that he claims not to be God. He draws a distinction in that he is only the instrument of God. He says that he knows that his time is short, and when his mission is completed that he will go.

Discussing further the psychological side of Hitler, Von Wiegand said that he learned from those who are close to him that he borders on insanity; that he is am insane genius. In some of these moments he has had the most brilliant ideas. He explained that Hitler gets streaks when he thinks out loud and he walks up and down talking incessantly, and whatever he thinks comes tumbling out.

For Misgand advised that Herr Hevell who replaced Captain Prits Misdemann, presently German Consul General at San Francisco, California, as limited between You Ribbentrop and Hitler told him that Hitler has fits similar to epileptic fits, and that once during such a fit, he threw himself on the ground in Berechtsgarten, and cried, "I don't want to weaken the white race - I don't want to attack England." You Wisgand explained that Hitler has an obsession that the white race must be supreme in the world. He claims that he is supposed to have told Kussolini that they must avoid anything that would weaken the white races, also that England must keep India in order to maintain the dominance of the white races in the world.

Von Viegend was asked who was behind Hitler in view of their financial efforts and the strategic moves in handling money, and he advised that Herr Schacht was the real brains behind the financing of the Maxi scheme until he came into contact with the radical wing of the Maxi Party.

Von Viegand claims that Hitler leans to the Communistic side as compared to the capitalistic views which are represented by Goering.

You Wiegand was questioned as to the manner followed in guarding Hitler and he stated he was unable to give any details except that when he mot Hitler in Belgium for his interview, he was in the front seat, and there were only several apparently personal guards in evidence.

You wiegand was asked what would happen when Hitler was gone and he stated that it is accepted that Goering will be the successor. He explained that Goering is in bad health and that he doesn't think that he will live very long. The mext san in line is Hess who is likewise very ill, and may die at any time because of subsrculosis of the bone. He emid that after that would come the general fight for control, and because of the fact that the leadership, in his wind, is definitely limited in longth of life, that the Mail scheme was not a world threat. He said the military regime would undoubtedly come in after Hees was gone.

Discussing Goering for a moment, he pointed out that there is a possibility that Hitler might even retire in favor of Goering as Goering appears to be anxious to take over. He says that is why Goering is so subservient; that he takes abuses that one would not bolieve a man would take but that he knows that he has to play that kind of a game since he knows that Hitler has the power to eliminate him just by the scratch of a pen.

Hitler is a prime dound. You cannot suggest anything to him, whereas Goering is silent and claims to have a sincere fordness for the United States. It is Goering's view that friendship with the United States must exist; that reconstruction of Surope cannot be accomplished without the sid of the United States. You Wiegand claims that Goering is sound morally; that he has never broken his word and from his personal friendship with Balbo in Italy, who was fond of Goering, he believes that Goering is a big man.

For Viegnal stated that Coering told him that the German Government is willing to negotiate for peace since it has accomplished getting England off the continent, which it wanted to do. You Viegnal stated Coering indicated that the terms of peace as far as Germany is concerned would be a "status quo with England giving back Germany's African colonies".

You Viegend advised that early in the war he had been told that upon its conquest of France, the German Government would "literally dismember her". However, just before his recent return to the United States he learned that Hitler's idea now is a complete restoration of France to a competent government, except possibly the territory of Aleace-Lorraine, and "even then he might consider a plebiscite". You Viegand declared this information is checked by the fact that Hitler precluded Mussolini from moving into and taking any part of France even after the French troops had retired. He advised that there was a non-military corridor established which indicates in his mind that Hitler did not want to dismember France at the present time.

Von Viegand stated that Hitler is most desirous of having a competent government in France which will prevent revolution which is one of the things Hitler fears most, because then they can have no control over their conquered areas. He added that Hitler has a fear of driving the British Government to Canada. If that were true, they would have no English Government to deal with in Great Britain, and it might cause a merger of the British Espire with the United States.

Questioned as to the basis for Hitler's success so far, You Wiegand stated that ninety per cent of it was due to the . British and French policies which developed the situations that made Hitler possible and that he exploited it.

Von Viegani advised that Communian has "grown very strong"; that the Germans needed police and arms in order to most this Communistic threat but that they were turned down repeatedly by the French and English. He recalled that Hitler came into power legally (granted that it was by trickery, but it was no different in his mind than some of the deals pulled by some of our own politicians). Then with the personality that Hitler has, the situation having been created, he exploited it to his personal advantage.

A discussion followed concerning the strength of the German armed forces. In this connection. You Misgand stated the Germans have a strong army. He advised that there are eighteen million men from eighteen to fifty years of age, and the "losses have been unbelievably light". He advised that he talked to people in Belgium privately and they talked freely and stated that the slight loss of man power was due a great deal to the excellent equipment furnished the men. He stated that he has "been in ten wars" and has never seen an army equivalent to that of the present German army. He advised that the physical limitations of the German army are that it must confine itself to land conquests. He stated that the German nation has ample man power to cover the conquered fields; the reserves are good; their men are in excellent spirits; the equipment is good; the quality of the material is good, and there are plenty of replacements.

You Wiegand was questioned as to the methods of offense, and he pointed out that Germany had actually developed the tank to its full use. The allies had neglected the development of mechanised material which the Germans were using to great advantage, including the use of flame throwers which had a devastating effect upon defending armies. You Wiegand pointed out that the morals of the men was very high and yet in a peculiar quiet manner. He said that when he was in Paris (being the first newspaper man to get in after it fell) there was no exaltation or jubilation, no parades as was evidenced in the last war on equally victorious occasions. He said it was astonishingly quiet, a self-confidence permenting their activities, and there was no evidence of the former German attitude.

For Viegnod claims that he has heard of no glaring weakmesses with respect to the German forces but stated "they may show up later".

Von Miegand enid that in talking to Coering, it is Coering's belief that their greatest need is for personnel for the air corps. They can make all the planes they need, but they must have three years of training in order to be good pilots. They are now down to the point where they are using men with only two years of training and they are not able to carry on as it is desired with this loss of one year's training.

You Wiegend advised that the food supplied the army is good and that clothing is ample.

Von Viegand was unable to give any further information concerning the German armed forces except that the army had opposed Mitler in going into Norway, to such an extent that he had actually set up a special unit to take over that conquest because he did not even trust the army, but he was so sure that this was the right thing to do that he went to that extreme. In Holland he was again apposed by the army; they were very dubious, and even Coering opposed him, but he prevailed, and they were successful. As far as the conquest of Ingland is concerned You Yiegand claims that the military men wanted this and Hitler opposed it, but they overruled him.

You Wiegand was questioned concerning the Maxi espionage system and he claimed that the articles written in the United States on German espionage are inaccurate since he believes that the writers do not know what they are talking about. He has advised that he has noticed that one Micoli has been pointed out as the head of German intelligence. He stated that Micoli has no influence and definitely is not the chief of the German intelligence. It is his belief that the chief of the German Intelligence Service is one Admiral Canaria.

You Viegand claims that he has avoided Herr Himler and those engaged or who might be engaged in any espionage. He claims to know little about their activities in this field.

You Wiegard was taked whether German sabotage, espionage and propagands were separate efforts or united, to which he replied that he did not know. You Wiegard could not furnish any information concerning how the German Government selected its agents, whether it used exchange students, refugees, representatives of travel bureaus, or whether it had any alliance with criminals in the United States or whether any pressure was placed on families in Europe of people in the United States.

You Viegand did not know how the German agents were trained er where - how they are instructed where to report or to whom. He did not know how the Gestapo operated. He claimed not to know any of the lending agents. He admitted having known a Herr Feldmann, an Oxford man who is Chief of the Foreign Political Department in London, who died suddenly prior to the opening of the war.

You Wiegrad advised there is no formal official consorship in Germany, but that the Government "takes the risk of what is sent out".

With reference to German propagands. You wiegand stated that all Europe has been propagandised by the German Government. He stated that he never attends press conferences himself, but that he understands in the press conferences that there are certain things pointed out to those in attendance which should be avoided, and certain things which should be emphasized.

Von Wiegend stated that it was his impression that the German Covernment is limiting its propaganda activities in the United States to attempting to influence the United States that it should stay out of the present European conflict.

Von Viegand was questioned concerning the purported German plans to be followed when a country is taken over and particularly whether the stories that certain groups of people in each of the countries would be liquidated is true. You Viegand said that, of course, was a story from Poland but that he "hadn't been there and didn't know".

You Wiegand was asked how the German Government selected its puppets and he replied that he did not know of any puppets presently but that it had men selected who were ready to take over when the region was occupied.

Questioned about eo-called "industrial elavery" You Viegand stated he doubted that because one of the things that Hitler needed most was material, which certainly could not be produced by workmen who were not in a productive frame of mind.

You Viegand was then asked how the populace was controlled, other than by military control. He said through the press, radio, schools and mail consorship they had control; that they took over the police who had to go along with them.

You Wiegand stated that little attention is paid to the churches in occupied countries.

Von Viegand was asked about "atrocities" and he manted that there aren't any atrocities stories from Belgium or Holland - only from Poland. He claimed that the Czechoslovakians are doing very well - that they are prosperous.

He claimed that the Dutch are extremely etubborn, and that the Germans are having a great deal of difficulty subjugating them.

Von Wiegend stated that Hitler was "offish" about discussing Japan and would not talk about it. He stated that he believes that it "goes along with Hitler's idea of wanting the white races to dominate the world". Hitler had said that he had nothing to do in the Far East - that he had nothing to say there, and indicated that he did not want to be caught in any tension between the United States and Japan.

As far as Italy is concerned Von Viegand stated that this was an alliance between two men, Hitler and Mussolini - that there was a genuine and mutual trust between these two men, but not between the people.

According to Von Wiegand's statement, Spain is being inspired by the Germans to consider a renaissance of the Spanish Empire. It is Von Wiegand's view that Spain should be watched in South America instead of Germany - that the activities will be by the Spanish, of course prompted and inspired by the Nazis.

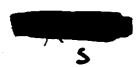

You diegrad was questioned concerning German intentions with reference to Iceland and Greenland and he stated that Goering laughed at the idea of Germany using these as air bases.

You Viegand was unable to give any details about internal conditions in Germany but did state that there is no organized criticism of Hitler. He advised there is, however, a feeling among the people that they would like to be informed when the war will be ever. He stated that generally the people appear to be "fed up" with war.

MEMORAPOUS FOR THE DIRECTOR

Ret FIRE YOU SECOND

31, 1940. I had approximately an hour in which to talk to him.

YOU EIRCAND has known Albert VIII. It for many years, he states. He wrote pricies on HITTLE for the cosmopolitan He azine in 1938, which he come written to bring out the baser side of Hitlor, and which were not looked upon favorably by her Fuebrer. Because of those, he feared that he never would get back or be able to maintain his contacts in Germany, but despite this fact, during this last war he has been in Berlin and over Europe generally, and on June 10, 1940 had a fifty minute interview with Hitler at a chateau in Relgium.

Ritler are terrified in his presence and are very much afraid of him. He have an example, and said that even Voll AIR PARKER was afraid of him, and when the interview with mitter was submitted to Volk RIBERTROP for consorable, he was afraid to give it an O.K. until Hitler himself had officially declared that the article was agreeable.

VON PIRMAND claims that he is not afraid of Mitler, and that he even would interrupt him in his speech at times and ask questions which he stated was necessary because Hitler would talk uninterruptedly for hours on the subject that he had started on, and for the purposes of his interview it was necessary to continue lly interrupt him, which was all right with Der Fuehrer.

VON "INGAMD says that wither has an amazing vocabulary, and a phonominal memory; that he never forgets. He has been known to recall statements in reports which were written wouths before by efficials, and has reminded them of their inconsistencies at later dates.

Voli VINDAMD described hitler as an abnormal person - a transmedium; he never forgives; he treats people with utter contempt, scorns thom - even t osc closest to him, and yet at other times he is overcome by a streak of kindliness, and he will give them chateaux and expensive gifts.

Hitler has a great psychological weakness, according to Toll WIMMAND, it being a marked fear of being considered weak. He will do things to produde an appearance of weakness and appears to compensate for this fear. In talking with him, YUN WIROAND claims be noted three personalities - the statesman, the politician, and the demagogue.

-Enquiry-as_to_bis_attitude-a-aimst-the-United States, Von TIEDER stated that hitler expressed himself that he falt certain of victory in Europe, and that our if the United , dale coming into the war would no doubt delay the outcome. invould not change the result in any manner. Hitler was very irritated and impetient in response to an enquiry on the Mazis Coming over to the United States. He said it was nonsonse, invading the U. S. - it was fantastic. He stated. "That do you think I want?" YOU HISGAID replied, "But if you defeat England, you will got its Kavy - Bitler interrupted Stating, "I am not being misled by any idea that I will get the British Havy even in a British defeat. Anyway the old fleets are no good. The British fleet will be junked by the end of the war or at such time when we might get it. Furthermore, fleets are not as important in modern war as they were."

Hather statedha TON WIEGNED, then soked Mis about the Fifth Column in the United States, and Hitler replied that it didn't exist. Hitler, according to YON RIBOAND, said, "If President Roosevelt thinks he can win a war with the Fifth Column, let Ma try it.

The Fifth Column (YOR VIRAND agreed with Hitler) was a name for collective opposition not propagandists. It was, according to him, a fighting column in madrid. You TINNED said that was what it was since he saw it operating there. Hitler told VON KIEDAND, Wie can conquer from the air, but how can we get near the United States. Aircraft carriers are obsolete and they will be scrap iron - anyway no big bombers can take off from them." Hitler then again repeated. Fre can't get the English fleet - we haven't the fleet purselves - we wouldn't be able to build one, and

furthernore, we don't want anything over there anyway."
YON YIRO'NO Stated that he added very pointedly, that ross for South America too."

Vall MI-MAND then said that he queried him chaut his trade sethods, and littler replied that "if we have better sethods, why shouldn't we use them?" - referring to thouselves.

I questioned VON FISCAND as to who was behind Ritler and VON EISCAND reglied that no one was behind littler and the interpolation of the hear regime. He has a descript energy, and an incredible has a tenneity to held to a course. Vel's ISCAND says he doesn't blink to him hear equality dimen himpoleon. He believes that hitler is psychic at times; that he has the ability to see things accomplished. Hitler has said that all he has to do is do it, as it is already laid out for him. Von HIMAND elains that it is an intriguing and fescinating side of the land.

questioned by me as to his being like Repoleon and whether or not his ambitions were the same, and if you replied that littler is humble, in that he claims not to be seed. He draws a destination in that he is only the instrument of God. He says that he knows that his time is short, and when his mission is completed that he will go.

Discussing further the psychological side of Hitler, Vol 1197610 said that he learned from those who are close to him that he borders on insanity; that he is an insane genius. In some of these moments he has had the most brilliant ideas. He explained that Hitler gets stranks when he thinks outloud and he walks up and down talking incessantly, and whatever he thinks comes tumbling out.

Herrian all who took Tenance. place of linion between VOL 618-217417 and littler told Vol 11804 of that littler has fits similar to epileptic fits, and that once during such a fit, he threw himself on the ground in Berechtsgarten, and cried, "I don't want to weaken the white race - I don't want to attack ingland." You Finally explained that littler has an ebsession that the white race must be supposed in the world. He claims that he is supposed to have told Mussolini that they must avoid anything that would weaken the white races, also that Ungland must keep India in order to maintain the dominance of the white races of the world.

I questioned VON VI GAMD further as to who was behind littler in view of their financial efforts and the strategic moves in handling money, and VON HISGAMD said that Herry SCHACHT was the real brains behind the financing of the Mari scheme until he came into contact with the radical wing of the Mari Party.

VON NIMBAND claims that Hitler leans to the Communistic side as compared to the capitalistic views which are represented by CORRIGO.

VON BISCARD was unable to give me any details except that when he met him in Belgium for this interview, he was in the front seat, and there were only several, apparently personal guards in evidence.

Curationed as to what would happen when Ritlar was gone, Voll 186845 stated that it is accepted that Comming will be the successor. He explained that Godhika is in bad health and that he doesn't think that he will live very long. The mext man in line is Hass who is likewise very ill, and may die at any time because of T.B. of the bone. He said that after that would come the general fight for control, and because of the fact that the leadership, in his mind, is definitely limited in length of life, that the Hazi scheme was not a world threat. He said the military regime would undoubtedly come in after Haza was gone.

Discussing CORRING for a moment, he pointed out that there is a possibility that Hitler might even retire in favor of CORRING as GOERING appears to be anxious to take over. He says that is why GOERING is so subservient; that he takes abuses that you would not believe a man would take but that he knows that he has to play that hind of a game since he knows that Hitler has the power to eliminate him just by a scratch of the pen-

Hitler is a prime donne. You con't suggest anything to him, whereas GORRING is silent and claims to have a sincere fondness for the U.S. It is GORRING'S view that friendship with the U.S. must exist; that reconstruction of Europe can not be accomplished without the U.S. sid. YUE SIERUS claims that GORRISG is morally O.K.; that he has never broken his word and from his personal friendship with BAIBO in Italy, who was fond of GORRING, he believes that GORRING is a big man.

questioned as to the basis for Hitler's success so far, Voll FINGAND stated that 90 percent of it was due to the British and French policies which developed the situations that made Hitler possible and that he exploited it.

had gotten very strong; that the Germans needed police and arms in order to meet this Commist threat, but that they were turned down repeatedly by the French and English. He recalled to me that it should not be overlooked that Hitlor care into power legally (granted that it was by trickery, but it was no different in his mind than some of the deals pulled by some of our own politicians). Then with the personality that Hitlor has, the situation having been created, he exploited it to his personal advantage.

I discussed with him the armed forces. Vok aleaking said that there is a strong army; that there are 15,000,000 men from 18 to 50 years of age, and the losses have been unbelievably light. He talked to people in Selsium privately, and they talked freely and stated that the slight loss of man power was due a great deal to equipment. He said that he has been in ten wars and he has never seen such an army as Hitler's. He believes that the physical limitations to the army are that it must confine itself to land conquests. He said that the German nation has ample man power to cover the conquered fields; the receives are good; their men are in excellent spirit; the equipment is good; the quality of the material is good, and there are plenty of replacements.

I questioned him as to now methods of offense, and he pointed out that Germany had actually developed the tank to its full use. The allies had neglected the development of mechanised antorial which the Germans were using to great advantage including the use of flame throwers which had a devastating effect upon defending armies.

Wery high and yet in a peculiar quiet manner. He said that when he was in Paris (being the first newspaper can to get in after it fell) that there was no exaltation or jubilation, no parades as was evidenced in the last war on equally victorious occasions. He said it was astonishingly quiet, a self-confidence permosting their activities, and there was no evidence of the former German attitude.

He claims that he has heard of no glaring weaknesses; he says they may show up later.

VON MI TOWN said that in talking to GOMMEG, it is GOMMEG'S belief that their greatest need is for personnel for the air corp. They can make all the planes they need, but they must have three years of training in order to be good pilots. They are now down to the point where they are using men with only two years of training and they are not able to carry on as it is desired with this loss of one year's training.

Food is good; the elothing is good. The core of the army is of the finest trained athletic men in the world. The generals are young, pliable in mind, and not steeped in the old traditions.

He was unable to give me anything further relative to the armod forces except that the army had opposed littler in going into Horway to such an extent that he had sctually set up a special unit to take over that conquest because he didn't even trust the army, but he was so sure that this was the right thing to do that he went to that extrans. In Holland he was a ain opposed by the army; they were very dubious, and even GOERING opposed him, but he prevailed, and they were successful. As far as the conquest of England is concerned VON MINDAMS claims that the military sen manted this, but Hitler opposed it, but they everwhed him.

I questioned him then about the Sazi capionage system, and VON VIROUD claimed that the stuff that is written here on German espionage is inaccurate mixes be does not believe they know what they are talking about. He has noticed that NICOLI has been pointed out as the head of the Jerman Intelligence. He says that NICOLI has no influence; he does a little research, but is definitely not the chief of the Intelligence. It is his belief that the chief of the Intelligence is one Admiral CAPARIS.

VON PINGARD claims that he has avoided Herr WINTER and these engaged or who might be engaged in any aspinance. He claims to know little about their activities in this field.

I asked him whether sabotage, espionare and propagands were separate efforts or united, and he was unable to inform me. He could not tell me anything about how they selected their agents, whether they need exchange students, refugees, business representatives or travel bureaus or whether they had any alliance with originals in this country or whether any pressure was placed on families in Europe of people over here.

He did not know how these men were trained or where - how they are instructed where to report or to whom. He did not know how the gestape operated. He claimed not to know any of the lending agents. He admitted baving known a Herry MALMANN, an Oxford man who is Chief of the Foreign political Legartment in London, who died suddenly prior to the opening of the war.

I did not question him in such a manner that he would think that our questions were based upon weakness of knowledge on our part should be happen to be a German agent, my questioning being along the lines of general information for informative purposes. I was porticularly careful in the portion of the interview with remark to foreign agents not to let him learn anything from us by the manner in which I asked my questions. Somehor, I just can't feel that a man who has had the experience he has in Europe could be so close to so many things and yet not know enything of the German espions of system. His failure to discuss these points with no - at least in my mind, without any other basis of fact to substantiate it, would indicate that he at least is an individual with when I would be careful.

I talked about consorable with him, and he said there was no formal consorable in Germany, which we know; that they take the risk of what is sent out. on the matter of propaganda, he said all Europe was propagandized. He said he never attends press conferences himself, but that he understands in the press conferences that there are certain things pointed out to those in attendance which should be svoided, and certain things which should be emphasized.

I stated that I felt that they must be trying to build up something in our minds in the U. S., and he said, yes - that was to stay out of the war.

I was able to go into the matter of Mitler's plans for world do mintion briefly and having already covered the Mari attitude to us, I asked him about the Marian plans when a country is taken over, particularly the staries that we hour about liquidating certain groups of recopie. You wiffCAND said that, of course, was a story from ibland; that he hadn't been there - he didn't know.

I maked how they selected their puppets, and he stated that he didn't know of any puppets presently, but that they had men selected who were ready to the error than the resion was occupied.

recationed about so-called "industrial playery" he said he doubted that because one of the things that littler needed most was meterial, which certainly could not be produced by workmen who were not in a productive frame of mind.

I then asked him about how they controlled the populace, other than military control. We said through the press, radio, schools and mail consorship they had control; that they took over the police who had to go along with them.

restioned about the church, he stated that there was little attention paid to the church in occupied countries. At this point YON VIFCAND said that there was one matter which he had forgotten to mention with regard to G ALA, namely, that GOTRIYA had told him that they rould we willing to regotiate since they had accomplished getting lagland off the continent, which they wanted to do. He indicated that the terms of the peace as for as Germany were concerned would be a status quo with England giving Germany's colonies back to her in Africa.

He said that they first talked about breaking up France - literally dismembering her, but just before he left he learned that litter's idea now is a complete restoration of France to a competant government except possibly Aleace Lorraine, and even then he might consider a plebiscite. VON WIEGAND pointed out that this was true, and could be checked by the fact that Hitler precluded MUFSOLINI from moving into and taking any part of France even after the French troops had retired. There was a non military corrider established which indicated, in his sind, that Mitler did not want to discounter France at the present time.

He said that Hitler is most desirous of having a competent government in France which will provent revolution which is one of the things Hitler fears most, because then they can have no control ever their conquered them. He added that Hitler has a fear of driving the Fritish government to Canada. If that were true, they would have no English government to don't with in Great Fritain, and it might cause a merger of the British ispire with the United Lines.

I asked him about atrocities, and he said that there aren't any atrocities stories from Belgium or Bolland only from Poland. He claimed that the Gacabaslavakians are doing very well - that they are prosperous.

He claimed that the Dutch are extremely stubborn, and that the Sermans are having a great deal of difficulty subjugating them.

I arked him about Japan, and he said that Hitler was "offish" about discussing Japan, and wouldn't talk about it. He believes that it goes along with Hitler's idea of wenting the white races to dominate the world. Hitler had said that he had nothing to do in the far east - that he had nothing to say there, and indicated that he did not want to be cought in any tension between the United States and Japan.

As for as Italy is concerned Voll timeANN stated that this was an alliance between two men, Nitler and Tucsolini - that there was a genuine and mutual trust between these two new, but not between the people.

According to Vov VI. TAD, Spain is being inspired by the Sermans to consider a remissance of the Spanish Empire. It is VON FILEARD'S view that Spain should be watched in South Ascrican instead of Germany - that the activities will be by the Spanish, of course prompted and inspired by the Resis.

Visit Time and that addition and troopless, and Visit Time and that addition and lumphed at the large of Ger any using theme as air bases.

He was unable to recall anyone indicating that Correny was interested in taking over the Dutch or French possessions.

I has we all to get into each detail that interest for any, but Voll Indust did advice on that there is no communic a criticism of Hitler. There is a decling excent the people that they want to know then it fill be all over and mint they are going to get out of it. Hence-ally they appear to be fed up with war.

I had planned a series of questions regarding Russin, but in view of the fact that I rad unable to interview YON FIRMAND ony longer, I was unable to go into the Russian situation or the internal picture of Sermany.

Vol TOWN is a little men in his cirties; very German in appearance; weers heavy lone glasses; speaks perfect Unglish. During the interview, I could not help but feel that he leened the Pazi way and yet he expressed the opinion that he didn't feel any concern over the Vazis as they would soon reach the end of their achieve of influence.

I should have liked to have introviewed him at least several hours longer in order that I could have gone back on some of the points that I hurriedly envered with him, since I was trying to cover a great deal of territory in the limited time available to me.

I have nothing with which to substantiate this belief, but it is my personal opinion that he is sympathetic to the Mazi regime, and as stated before, I cannot believe that he knows as little as he claims regarding German espionage.

Further, unless the Germans were going to use him when they were displeased at the Cosmopolitan articles in 1933, he never would have had a chance to get to littler. Fith my limited experience, it would be my view that Hitler isn't seeing anybody unless he sees a way to use them.

Respectfully submitted,

M. J. L. PIKING Special Agent in Thoras
