

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION AND PRIVACY ACTS

SUBJECT: BARKER/KARPIS GANG BREMER KIDNAPPING

FILE NUMBER: 7-576

SECTION : SUB A - Section 10

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

THE BEST COPY OBTAINABLE IS INCLUDED IN THE REPRODUCTION OF THESE DOCUMENTS.
PAGES INCLUDED THAT ARE BLURRED, LIGHT, OR OTHERWISE DIFFICULT TO READ ARE
THE RESULT OF THE
CONDITION OF THE ORIGINAL DOCUMENT.
NO BETTER COPY CAN BE REPRODUCED.

SUBJECT Barker/Karpis Gang (Bremer Kidnapping)

FILE NUMBER 7-574

SECTION NUMBER Sub A Section 10

SERIALS 1/21/35 only

TOTAL PAGES 136

PAGES RELEASED 136

PAGES WITHHELD 0

EXEMPTION(S) USED NONE

KARPIS TRAPPED; SHOOTS WAY OUT

Continued from Page 2

their barrage and covered their retreat to a nearby garage and while one kept the officers at bay the other drove out the Pontiac car belonging to Mrs. Harold A. Brand, wife of a Boardwalk auctioneer.

After driving a few blocks, they abandoned the Pontiac and seized a Ford V-8.

It disappeared toward the causeway and was later reported as having turned toward New York.

The police revealed later that they had found in the car a loaded sawed-off shotgun and a loaded .45 calibre revolver. The shotgun was hidden behind the rear, while the revolver was in a dashboard compartment. The fugitives had nine bags of clothing with them when they arrived here.

Officers along the route received and passed on conflicting reports of the bandits' movements and the trail was lost.

The battle started when Detectives Archie Witham and Edward Mulhern went to the Hotel Denmore seeking the two men known to them only as suspects in the theft of a car in Miami, Fla.

The officers drew their revolvers and crashed the door of Room 23.

Inside Karpis and Campbell were seated with Thompson sub-machine guns across their laps.

"Stick 'em up," Witham said.

"You stick 'em up!"

All four men started shooting.

A scream came from the next room where the women were hiding.

The detectives were forced to fall back before the flailing fire from the superior weapons of the thugs.

A bullet creased Witham's cheek.

Seeking every vantage point the officers continued their retreat, down three flights of steps and to the street, reloading their weapons in doorways and behind newel posts that were literally riddled with bullets, none of which, miraculously touched them.

PANIC REIGNED.

The neighborhood was in an uproar. All but the police officers sought cover deep down. Patrolmen joined the two detectives and the firing redoubled, but the bandits were safely in the garage by then.

An instant later the stolen car zoomed out and, taking a corner on two wheels, shook the police off the trail before they could get another car started and take up the pursuit.

Up in the hotel room the Delaney woman moaned, with a bullet wound through her leg and the bones broken in her fall suffered when she received the wound.

Policemen crowded into the building and placed the women under arrest.

Department of Justice agents, rushed here from Philadelphia, took over the search for the men and the guarding of the women.

Police revealed last night that Karpis called a doctor to attend Miss Graham, believing she was about to bear her child. She was taken to a hospital, but returned to the hotel later in the night.

Upon reaching the hospital today, Dr. Carl Surran, police surgeon, disclosed that he was the doctor consulted by the girl last night, but that he had not known Karpis or the girl's identity. He said Karpis offered him a fee of $250 to attend the girl.

CAME FROM FLORIDA.

Last night the two women left Atlantic City with Department of Justice agents for an unannounced destination, believed to be Philadelphia. The women accompanied the agents voluntarily, it was reported.

The agents were in a hurry to get the women out of Atlantic City so that no legal obstacles could be raised to prevent them from holding them as material witnesses.

It was learned tonight that Karpis and Campbell and the two women left Florida Sunday, Jan. 13. The women arrived here by train on Thursday, while the men arrived by automobile yesterday.

The men registered at the hotel as C. Carson and G. Cameron.

Heavily-armed Department of Justice agents continued to patrol Atlantic City last night. Four of the agents came here at 10 A. M. today, and a squad of reinforcements, believed to number eight, arrived this afternoon.

But the Federal agents are armed with the new shrapnel guns, like those that blasted "Baby Face" Nelson out of existence recently. Another battle would be more even.

Not much is known about Campbell, except that he was connected with the Bremer kidnaping and is generally accredited "a bad egg."

The Delaney woman, said to be his sweetheart, is an expectant mother, police report, giving that as a reason for the stop-over of the gangsters here Sunday night when they were apparently on their way to a hideaway in either New York or Chicago.

All night long an official "reception committee" rested on their arms awaiting the expected arrival of Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell. Department of Justice Agent —, a "G" man stationed in Trenton, notified Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan that the men were headed this way.

Deputy Inspector Michael McDermott was instructed to order on duty immediately every available detective, and they were thrown about every possible "gate" to the city. Six times the word that the bandits were headed this way was flashed to all radio cars. The detectives were told that upon being sure of the identity of the two wanted men, they were "to take no chances."

Every auto route, every ferry, every possible entrance to the city, was guarded all night as not before war time.

KARPIS, PAL SHOOT OUT OF POLICE TRAP

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 20.—^{Special to the Daily Mirror}Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, most eagerly sought of the remaining Public Enemies, escaped police here today in a sensational gun battle—Tommy guns against police service revolvers—and fled in the general direction of New York.

Their "molls," Winona Burdette and Dolores Delaney, were captured and are under guard of two strong detachments of Department of Justice agents from Philadelphia.

The Hudson Tunnel police were warned that the fleeing desperadoes might come their way, in a pea-green Pontiac 1934 coach with New Jersey license plates. The warning added the information that the men are deadly dangerous and heavily armed.

Chicago police have thrown cordons around known haunts of the now scattered Karpis-Barker gang, acting on a recent tip obtained from women friends of the gangsters and accidentally confirmed by "Doc" Barker, co-leader of the gang, who is now under arrest in St. Paul. He is facing trial as the ringleader of the $200,000 kidnapping of Edward J. Bremer in which Karpis and Campbell are known to have participated.

A week ago Fred Barker and Kate Barker, brother and mother of "Doc," were killed by Federal agents in a pitched battle at a Florida resort.

DESERTED WOMEN

Karpis and Campbell blasted their way to safety with the usual bravado of gangdom, spraying the scenery in general with hot lead

HARRY CAMPBELL

*His life means nothing to police
...and nobody's life means anything to him.*

and deserting their women, one of whom was wounded by one of their own bullets.

The police, armed only with revolvers, were forced to flee before the hose-like spray of lead from the two sub-machine guns.

Karpis and Campbell followed

Continued on Page 8

Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman..
Chief Clerk.....

BREMER KIDNAPERS ESCAPE IN GUNFIGHT

Story on Page 2

Alvin Karpis (above) has gunned his way

(International)
Winona Burdett, radio singer of Ponca City, Fla., who was held as Campbell's girl friend.

(Mirror)
This Atlantic City hotel was pock-marked with bullet holes after the raid. Karpis's room is arrowed.

Alvin Karpis (above) has gunned his way through a police net. He's in flight... desperate.

RAT-TAT-TAT-TAT—
The death stutter of machine guns pushed back raiding Atlantic City policemen, until Alvin Karpis, Uncle Sam's No. 1 Enemy, could slip through the law's fingers with henchman Harry Campbell. Two "molls" ... one soon to be a mother, had to be left behind. "Doc" Barker, a 3rd kidnap gang survivor (right) is in custody in St. Paul, Minn.

(International)
Arthur "Doc" Barker (left) with William Gates, chief jailer at Ramsey County Jail, St. Paul.

7-576-A
4

GANGSTER AND PAL ESCAPE IN HAIL OF LEAD

Then Come Back to Rescue Women.

Bremer Hideout Found

After months of painstaking detective work, following such clues as the voices of school children, the ringing of church bells, the sound of railway trains and the blowing of a town fire siren as a daily test, federal agents located a flat in Bensenville, in Du Page county, in which Edward Bremer was held prisoner by the Karpis gang of kidnapers for three weeks a year ago. Details on page 2.

SCENE OF FIGHT.

Photos sent by wire of the woman left behind by Karpis and Campbell and the Atlantic City hotel, from which they fled, are on the back page of this newspaper.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]
Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 20.—The nation's latest ace of bad men, the 25 year old Alvin Karpis, machine-gunned his way out of Atlantic City early today.

With him, firing a pistol, was another of the middle west's most hunted criminals, Harry Campbell.

Behind them they left their women, one of them wounded and an expectant mother.

Trapped just before dawn in a hotel room to which they came only yesterday, the two desperadoes—wanted for crimes ranging from robbery to kidnap and murder—answered with roaring the police demand to surrender.

Beat 20 in Pursuit.

Fighting their way from their fourth floor quarters to an alley, blazing so close to policemen that one officer's cap was shot from his head, they stole an automobile and then, pursued by 20 policemen and with every traffic light in the city flashing on and off—a general police alarm—they drove toward Camden, distancing pursuit.

There was a report tonight, unconfirmed, that Campbell, who was in his underwear when he was surprised by detectives, had been wounded.

Karpis' 21 year old "girl friend," known both as Dolores Delaney and as Louise Graham, was wounded slightly in the leg. She is soon to bear a child, the police surgeon said.

The other woman is Winona Burdette, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell. She is 22.

A chase through the city's streets, during which on two occasions the fugitives drove their car down blind streets, wheeled about and shot their way anew through the pursuing police forces, added to the sensationalism of the escape.

Believed Still in City.

Police Capt. Sam Wheatley said tonight that he did not believe it possible that the two men had been able to get clear of the city. With Mayor Harry Bacharach taking personal charge of the police department, a thorough search was instituted tonight.

The word that the notorious Karpis—hunted as the master mind of the Edward Bremer kidnaping in St. Paul, Minn. last year—was in Atlantic City followed a telegraphed tip from Florida to be on the watch for a car bearing Florida license D5-306.

"Be careful," the information said. "These are two bad men, heavily armed."

Detectives checked garages and found the car parked in the Coast garage at the foot of South Kentucky avenue, close to the boardwalk.

They traced Karpis and Campbell to the Danmore hotel, close by.

Registered Day Before.

They learned that the two men had arrived the day before and had taken a fourth floor room adjoining that occupied by the two women, who arrived a week ago Friday.

With surprising bravado Karpis had gone shortly after his arrival to the police surgeon, Dr. Carl Surran, and had made arrangements with him for the delivery of the baby the Delaney girl is expecting.

"We've got plenty of dough, and we want the best for the little girl," said "Public Enemy No. 1" with a record of terms in the penitentiaries of Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

Detectives, tracing the occupants of

Chicago Tribune

JAN 21 1935

The stolen car with the Florida license, arrived at the hotel about 5 o'clock this morning. Two of them went to the fourth floor. The door of the room occupied by Karpis and Campbell was ajar.

One of the officers poked a pistol through the opening and cried out:

"Stick 'em up! We're officers."

The response was immediate. Karpis shouted back:

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers! We're coming!"

Campbell whirled, a pistol in his hand. He was either carrying it at the time or snatched it up quickly at the approach of the officers.

Karpis grabbed a machine gun and the hotel echoed with gunfire.

The detectives, surprised, sought the protection of a bend of the corridor, firing all the time. As Karpis and Campbell came out, the fire from the officers' pistols drove the desperadoes toward the back of the hall, then down a rear stairway to an alley.

Run for Car in Garage.

Waiting there were three officers, and Karpis and Campbell raced for the garage where they had left their car, exchanging more than 200 shots with the police as they ran.

Their car had been taken over by police, but the gunmen piled into another and wheeled down the street.

Twice they circled the hotel, apparently seeking to rescue the women. Balked in this effort, and with several cars of police pushing them hard, the men headed out of the neighborhood.

Twice their unfamiliarity with Atlantic City thoroughfares—many of which end in blind alleys at the board walk—appeared to have them cornered. Each time, however, they spun their car around and, with the underwear-clad Campbell standing up behind and pulling the trigger of the machine gun, shot their way free. They finally were lost to their pursuers.

The Delaney woman was taken to a hospital. She had been ~~severely~~ shot from Karpis' weapon, police said. The wound was superficial, and she was later taken with the Burdette girl to Philadelphia in custody of federal men.

Seven suitcases were found in the girls' room. One of them told police questioners they had been in Florida recently and that while there they had seen and talked with Fred and "Ma" Barker, who were killed as they resisted a federal agents' siege last week. Barker has been coupled by department of justice agents with Karpis as co-leader of the gang blamed for the Bremer kidnaping.

The girls came to Atlantic City by train.

Find Guns in Auto.

New York, Jan. 20.—[Special.]—In the automobile left behind at Atlantic City by Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell a loaded revolver and a loaded sawed-off shotgun were found. Effects left in the hotel included nine valises, filled with clothing. The investigation was continued in the hope the clothing might yield valuable clues and also because of the possibility that one of the police bullets might have wounded Campbell or Karpis, causing them to hide out in the vicinity.

The Burdette girl, it was stated, is also known as Mrs. Louis Campbell. She told the police she came from Oklahoma, where Karpis once served a prison sentence for burglary. Dispatches from Tulsa, Okla., said she was arrested there in 1932.

Campbell is known in Tulsa as a gunman and is wanted there for the murder of J. Earl Smith, an attorney, in August of 1932. The release of the Burdette woman after her arrest was ordered after she had agreed to lead the police to Campbell, the dispatch said. The woman did not keep her promise to do this.

Chicago Tribune

JAN 21 1935

KARPIS AND PAL ESCAPE TRAP IN GUN FIGHT
The Danmore hotel, near boardwalk in Atlantic City, N. J., where Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, long hunted gangsters, shot up police net yesterday.

Chicago Tribune

JAN 21 1935

BREMER'S KIDNAP PRISON IS FOUND IN BENSENVILLE

His Remarkable Memory Identifies Hideout.

(Pictures on back page.)

A rambling old frame house, divided into three flats, in the town of Bensenville, 18 miles west of Chicago in DuPage county, has been identified by Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul, Minn., banker and scion of the noted brewing family, as the place where he was held prisoner for three weeks last January, while his kidnapers collected $200,000 ransom.

This was learned last night as federal agents asked Chicago police to broadcast a description of Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, southwestern gunmen and members of the kidnap gang who escaped a police trap in Atlantic City early yesterday by shooting their way to freedom with machine guns.

While it was not expected that the two desperadoes would have been able to reach Chicago from the seaboard city last night, all squad cars were furnished descriptions of the two outlaws as well as a description of the automobile bearing New Jersey license tags A-3073, in which they fled. Instructions were given to "shoot first and ask questions later."

Positive in Identification.

Although department of justice officials refused to corroborate the discovery of the kidnap lair, friends of the banker in Minneapolis revealed last night that he visited Bensenville Saturday and established positively the identification of the house.

Residents of the remodeled Bensenville dwelling confirmed this last night. Several of them had lived in the house while Bremer was held prisoner, but they insisted they noticed nothing unusual which might have aroused suspicion during the banker's incarceration.

Bremer identified the four room flat at the rear of the building as his prison. The tenant of this flat at the time he was a prisoner there was named as Harold Alderton, 38 years old, and who lived in the flat with his mother, who was about 60 years old.

Herman Baucke, the landlord, who lives alone in the other first floor apartment, said he rented the flat about five years ago to Alderton, who said he came from Indiana. Alderton was known as a world war veteran and there was an impression that he was drawing compensation for war wounds which prevented him from working regularly.

About five months ago, Baucke said, he was forced to oust Alderton for failing to pay his rent, and Bensenville has not seen nor heard of him since.

Agents Grill Other Tenants.

W. R. Cord, a barber, who moved into the "Bremer" flat after the departure of Alderton, said he, his wife and two small children were routed from their beds at 5:05 o'clock last Wednesday morning by half a dozen government agents armed with machine guns.

Cord and his family were brought to Chicago to the federal bureau of investigation offices in the Bankers' building, 105 West Adams street, where they finally convinced the agents that they had moved in months after the kidnaping.

The third flat in the building is occupied by Edward Morschell and his family. The Morschells and Baucke, as well as Cord, were subjected to long questioning by the agents, whom they convinced of their entire innocence.

The house in which they live is a low rambling structure on the southwest corner of Green avenue and South May street, two blocks from the main business district of the town. It is diagonally across from the Bensenville grade school, and two blocks southwest from the switch yards of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad.

Chicago Tribune
JAN 21 1935

Set well back from the street is a spacious yard, surrounded by a number of shade trees, it affords an ideal place for concealment. The entrance to the flat in which Bremer was held is from May street, the address being No. 180.

Another door on the Green street side is used by Baucke and the Morshells, whose second floor apartment extends only on the Green street side for half the length of the building.

When the federal men first descended on peaceful Bensenville last Wednesday, Chief of Police Herman Wagner questioned them, as did several of the other 2,000 townsmen. The agents admitted their identity to the chief, but refused him any additional information.

"From their conversation," stated Chief Wagner last night, "I learned they believed they had found the place where Bremer was held. Then when Bremer came here Saturday I knew for sure. I recognized him immediately from his newspaper pictures."

Cord Verifies Identification.

Cord also was positive in his identification of Bremer as the distinguished appearing man who, accompanied by eight agents, made a minute examination of his apartment on Saturday.

"I knew him from his pictures, although he never was called Bremer in my presence," said Cord. "From the way he talked about tape over his eyes and the wall paper, and other points about the room and the neighborhood, I knew he was identifying the place as the kidnaper's hideout."

The Cord apartment is a small four room and bath arrangement. At the rear, facing on an alley, is the bedroom Bremer identified as his prison cell. During the time he was a prisoner the windows were boarded up, but now they are open.

Before Bremer arrived the agents tore a two foot section of paper from the wall. This probably will be a court exhibit in the event Karpis and Campbell are brought to trial, for the odd design of the wall paper impressed itself on Bremer's mind during the brief periods when his captors removed the bandages from his eyes.

More Conclusive Evidence.

The paper has a design of a small picket fence around green trees. The pickets in the fence make the design which, according to Cord, Bremer described to the agents. Another point was the series of five nail holes, long since painted over, on either side of the window frame, which Bremer counted and fingered during his imprisonment.

"Bremer identified the brass bed," added Cord. "I watched him count the steps from there, through a corner of the living room, into the other bedroom and bathroom. He said that when he went to the bathroom he always touched his head against the drop cord from the hanging light in the bedroom. Then on leaving the bedroom he recalled how he had to step up a few inches into the other bedroom, the floor of which is a few inches higher."

In addition to the bedroom itself, which clinched the identification, Bremer's recollection of certain sounds he had heard in the neighborhood made the agents certain. It was said, that they had found the right house. Their year long search, based on information supplied by the banker, had led them on an intensive hunt throughout Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Nebraska, and finally northern Illinois.

Sounds Help Restore Picture.

Bremer told of hearing a truck start up every morning outside his bedroom window. Edwin Sprandel, a grocer, keeps his truck in a small frame shack across the alley from the bedroom window, and every morning about 7 o'clock drives it out.

The sound of children playing nearby and their shouts and laughter as they ran to and from school etched themselves indelibly on Bremer's mind as he sat day after day, blindfolded, hoping for release. The Bensenville grade school is on the northeast corner of Green avenue and South May street.

His recollection of the chiming of church bells was one of the most important clues furnished the investigators by Bremer. Bensenville has three churches. Two near the kidnap house have bells. One, Frieden's Evangelical Lutheran church, is almost directly two blocks west of No. 180 South May street. The other, the First Evangelical church, is a block north, back of the school house.

Then there were such noises as the sound of switch engines puffing at their work. Two blocks northeast of the house are the switch yards of the Milwaukee railroad.

Four times a day, Bremer said, he heard the blowing of what sounded like a factory whistle. At 7 a. m., 12 noon, 2:20 p. m., and 3 p. m., the whistle atop the Milwaukee railroad roundhouse, about four blocks due east, is sounded.

One other sound of importance was a siren, which was sounded at the same time as the second whistle. Every noon the telephone operator in Bensenville's business district tests the fire siren with one short blast.

During the 20 minutes Bremer spent in the house Saturday he made one other check. At one time in his three weeks of imprisonment, Bremer said there was trouble with a stove in the living room, and some one came in to fix the grate. He asked Baucke, the landlord, about this.

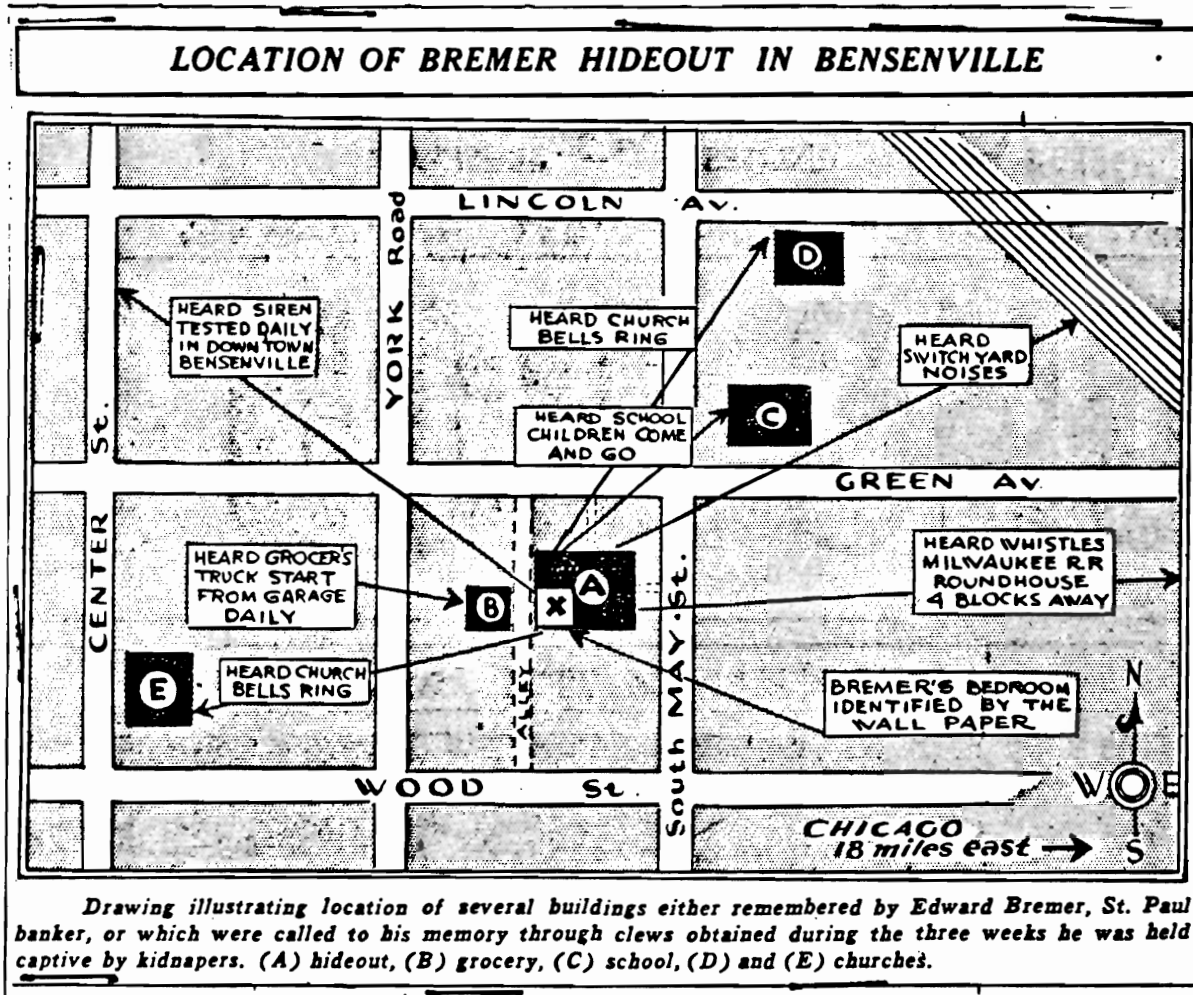

Verifies One More Link.

"Sure, I remember," said Baucke. "It was last January, and the stove was acting up. I went in and fixed the grate." The landlord appeared astounded that this should have happened while Bremer was a prisoner there and he was unaware of it.

The parents of Karpis, one of the leaders of the Bremer kidnaping gang, John Karpavicz and his wife Anna, live at 2842 North Francisco avenue. They were informed last night of his battle with the police and his escape in Atlantic City. The mother said she wished she could urge her son to surrender and avoid being killed.

Chicago Tribune

JAN 21 1935

Chicago Tribune
JAN 21 1935

HIS KIDNAPING PRISON LOCATED NEAR CITY
 Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul, Minn., banker, from whom the Karpis-Barker gang collected $200,000 ransom after kidnaping one year ago.

| |
|----------------------------|
| Nathan..... |
| son..... |
| 1933..... |
| Broughman..... |
| Chief Clerk..... |
| Mr. Coffey..... |
| Mr. Edwards..... |
| Mr. Egan..... |
| Mr. Harbo..... |
| Mr. Keith..... |
| Mr. Lester EB |
| Mr. Quinn..... |
| Mr. Schilder..... |
| Mr. Tamm..... |
| Tracy..... |
| Miss Gandy..... |

Chicago Tribune
 JAN 21 1935

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

GENERAL VIEW OF INTERIOR OF BUILDING WHERE KIDNAPERS IMPRISONED EDWARD G. BREMER

The room on the left of this picture was identified by the St. Paul, Minn., banker as the one he occupied during the three weeks he was held prisoner a year ago. Bremer visited the house, which is in Bensenville, 18 miles west of Chicago on Irving Park boulevard, with half a dozen federal agents Saturday.

(Story on page 2.)

JAN 21 1935

Chicago Tribune

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

BUILDING IN BENSENVILLE IN WHICH EDWARD G. BREMER WAS HELD PRISONER FOR THREE WEEKS.

Rambling frame structure eighteen miles west of Chicago on Irving Park boulevard which has been identified by the St. Paul, Minn., banker as the place where kidnapers held him until $200,000 ransom was collected for his release. The house is set well back from the street, surrounded by a spacious yard.

(Story on page 2.)

Chicago Tribune
JAN 21 1935

PRESENT OCCUPANT.
V. R. Cord, who now lives in house where Edward Bremer was imprisoned.

BEDROOM IN WHICH CAPTORS HELD BREMER.
In this bed in Bensenville house Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul, Minn., banker, said he was held for three weeks until $200,000 ransom was paid to kidnapers.

Chicago Tribune
JAN 21 1935

- Mr. Nathan.....
- Mr. Tolson.....
- Mr. Clegg.....
- Mr. Baughman.....
- Chief Clerk.....
- Mr. Coffey.....
- Mr. Edwards.....
- Mr. Egan.....
- Mr. Harbo.....
- Mr. Keith.....
- Mr. Lester.....
- Mr. Quinn.....
- Mr. Schilder.....
- Mr. Tamm.....
- Mr. Tracy.....
- Miss Gandy.....

[Acme Photo.] [Associated Press Wirephoto.] [Acme Photo.]

OUTLAWS SHOOT THEIR WAY TO FREEDOM; WOMAN THEY LEFT BEHIND.
 Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, who machine gunned their way out of Atlantic City, N. J., yesterday, and Winona Burdette, one of two women they left behind. The Burdette woman was known as Mrs. Louise Campbell. (Story on page 1.)

Chicago Tribune
 7-576-A JAN 1 1935

TRAPS SET

Mr. Nathan
Mr. Tolson
Mr. Clegg
Mr. Baughman
Chief Clerk
Mr. Coffey
Mr. Edwards
Mr. Egan
Mr. Harbo
Mr. Keith
Mr. Lester
Mr. Quinn
Mr. Schilder
Mr. Tamm
Mr. Tracy
Miss Gandy

TO KILL

KARPIS!

7-576-A

Chicago Herald & Examiner

JAN 21 1935

FIVE LAIRS OF OUTLAW BARED TO U. S. AGENTS

Sweetheart Betrays Desperado's Haunts; Armed Groups on Watch at Each Place

Department of Justice agents, set to kill on sight, waited yesterday for Alvin ("Bo") Karpis, the nation's No. 1 public enemy, to step into any one of five traps in and about Chicago to which they know he must return.

Once more the penchant of gangsters for confiding their secrets to sweethearts is expected to spell the end of another desperado, for Karpis made the same mistake that sent eight others of the Dillinger and Karpis-Barker gangs to their deaths.

BETRAYED BY WOMEN.

The locations of his hideouts have been betrayed by a woman who was found by government men and induced to talk. Squads of agents are waiting for him, armed with the new automatic rifles capable of penetrating bullet-proof vests.

Meanwhile Karpis' partner, Arthur ("Doc") Barker, who chased the direction of the Bremer kidnapping case a year ago, was awaiting a grand showup in St. Paul, where he was to be confronted by the victim of the abduction, Edward G. Bremer, banker and brewer, who was held for twenty-three days before he was released on $200,000 ransom.

BARKER QUESTIONED.

He was questioned almost continuously regarding the whereabouts of Karpis, and he, too, was reported to have talked. But it was the information provided by women of the underworld that was expected to bring Karpis' doom.

They had brought about the capture of Barker himself on January 8, the same night that another of his gang, Russell Gibson, was shot to death when he refused to surrender to federal agents in an apartment at 3920 Pine Grove av.

Last week information from the same source sent Special Agent E. J. Connelly to Florida with a dozen agents, there to surround and kill Barker's brother, Fred, and his mother, "Ma" Barker, both implicated in the Bremer case, when they shot it out with the government men from their cottage on the banks of Lake Weir.

FIVE LAIRS KNOWN.

The leads obtained from women friends of Karpis and the Barkers supplemented by information brought in by wire-tappers, indicated three places in Chicago and two outside as the logical hideouts for the hunted Karpis when he is driven here for money and aid.

Chicago Herald & Examiner

JAN 21 1935

KIDNAPERS' DEN

Where Edward G. Bremer
Was Hidden by Abductors

NEAR CHICAGO

(Pictures on Page 6.)

Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul was held captive by the Barker-Karpis kidnap gang in a house in Bensenville, only twenty-five miles from Chicago, until $200,000 ransom was paid a year ago, it was learned yesterday.

Details of the place being indelibly stamped on his brain during the twenty-three days he was held, the St. Paul banker and brewer has positively identified the house.

This development, federal men said, proves Bremer was taken across state lines by his kidnapers and places Arthur ("Doc") Barker and Alvin ("Bo") Karpis in jeopardy of the death penalty under the Lindbergh law.

Two residents of Bensenville were reported arrested, but government officials would not confirm this.

Bremer was taken to Bensenville last Saturday and immediately recognized a bedroom in the house, on Green st. near York, as his place of imprisonment.

Daily sounds which Bremer heard during his incarceration helped to locate the house. They included the shouts of children as they passed en route to school, chimes from a nearby church, the testing of the village fire siren at noon, the passing of trains not far away and the sounding of the whistle at the Milwaukee Railroad shops.

He remembered vividly the design of the wallpaper and the cracks in the ceiling plaster. He recalled, too, that it was just eight steps from the bedroom to the bath.

A rise in a hall floor, an electric light hanging from the ceiling, nail holes in a window frame, escaping gas from a coal stove in an adjoining room—those were other things he recalled. The table and tan oil cloth from which Bremer was fed as he sat with hands bound still were in the house.

The house now is rented by W. R. Cord, a barber. Every room has been redecorated except the bedroom since Bremer was held.

Chicago Herald & Examiner
JAN 21 1935

WHERE KIDNAPERS
HELD BREMER

FINAL PROOF—Photograph shows wallpaper design in Edward G. Bremer kidnaping prison. Mr. Bremer identified it.

25 MILES DISTANT—Here's the $20-a-month house in Bensenville, northwest of Chicago, that was identified by Edward G. Bremer as the one in which he was captive of kidnapers for twenty-three days. His identification means the kidnapers took him across state lines, violating the Lindbergh law, and face the death penalty.

Chicago Herald & Examiner

JAN 21 1935

Outlaw and Pal Battle 20 Police

Girl Friend Shot in Atlantic City Hotel Fight

BABY CLOTHES

Alvin's Sweetheart Will Become a Mother

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 20.—The nation's latest public enemy No. 1, Alvin Karpis, 25, shot his way out of Atlantic City early today.

With him, triggering a machine gun, was another of the Middle West's hunted criminals, Harry Campbell.

Behind them they left their women, one of them wounded and an expectant mother.

Trapped just before dawn in a hotel room to which they came only yesterday, the two desperadoes—wanted for crimes ranging from robbery to kidnap and murder—answered with roaring gunfire the police demand to surrender.

Shoot Cap From Officer's Head.

Fighting their way from their fourth floor quarters to an alley, blazing so close to policemen that one officer's cap was shot from his head, they stole an automobile and then, pursued by 20 policemen and with every traffic light in the city flashing on and off, they drove toward Camden, distancing pursuit.

There was a report tonight, unconfirmed, that Campbell had been wounded.

Karpis' "girl friend," known as Dolores Delaney and as Louise Graham, was slightly wounded in the leg. She is soon to bear a child, the police surgeon said.

Cars in Pursuit Through City Streets.

The other woman, arrested with the Delaney girl, who is 21, is Winona Burdette, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell. She is 22.

A chase through the city's streets during which on two occasions the fugitives drove their car down blind streets, wheeled about and shot their way anew through the pursuing police forces, added to the sensationalism of the escape.

Police Capt. Sam Wheatley said tonight he did not believe it possible that the two men had been able to get clear of the city.

Word that the notorious Karpis—hunted as the master-mind of the Edward Bremer kidnaping in St. Paul, Minn., last year—was in Atlantic City followed a telegraphed tip from Florida to be on the watch for a car bearing Florida license D5-306. The information warned:

"Be careful, these are two bad men, heavily armed."

Detectives found the car parked in a garage in Kentucky av., close to the boardwalk.

Trace Karpis From Garage to Hotel.

They traced Karpis and Campbell to the Dan-Mor Hotel.

They learned that the two men had arrived the day before and had taken a fourth-floor room adjoining that occupied by the two women, who arrived a week ago Friday.

With surprising bravado, Karpis had gone shortly after his arrival to the police surgeon, Dr. Carl Surgen, and had made arrangements with him for the delivery of the baby the Delaney girl is expecting. He said:

"We's got plenty of dough, and

Chicago Herald & Examiner

1 1935

...want the best for the little girl."

Detectives arrived at the hotel about 5 o'clock this morning. Two of them went to the fourth floor.

ESCAPES NET—Alvin Karpis, Public Enemy No. 1, who shot his way out of a trap.

The door of the room occupied by Karpis and Campbell was ajar.

One of the officers poked a pistol through the opening and cried out:

"Stick 'em up. We're officers."

The response was immediate. Karpis shouted back:

"Stick 'em up yourselves, cops!"

Campbell was in his underwear, but Karpis was fully clothed. Campbell whirled, a pistol in his hand.

Karpis grabbed a machine gun,

and the hotel, so silent before, echoed with gunfire.

The detectives, surprised, sought the protection of a bend of the corridor, firing all the time. As Karpis and Campbell came out, the fire from the officers' pistols drove the desperadoes toward the back of the hall, then down a rear stairway to an alley.

Waiting there were three officers, and Karpis and Campbell raced for the garage where they had left their car, exchanging more than 200 shots with the police as they ran.

Their car had been taken over by police, but the gunmen piled into another and wheeled down the street.

Twice they circled the hotel, apparently seeking to rescue the women. Balked in this effort, and with several cars of police pushing them hard, the men headed out of the neighborhood.

Twice their unfamiliarity with Atlantic City thoroughfares—many of which end in blind alleys at the board walk—appeared to have them cornered. Each time, however, they spun their car around and, with Campbell standing up behind and pulling the trigger of the machine gun, shot their way free. They finally were lost to their pursuers.

The Delaney woman was taken to a hospital. She had been struck by a shot from Karpis' weapon, police said. The wound was superficial, and she was later taken with the Burdette girl to Philadelphia, in custody of federal men.

Seven suitcases were found in the girls' room. A trunk, belonging to Dolores Delaney, was filled with baby clothes and everything needed for a new-born infant.

One of the girls told police questioners that they had been in Florida recently and that while there they had seen and talked with Fred and "Ma" Barker, who were killed as they resisted a federal agent's siege last week.

Coupled With Barker in Bremer Kidnaping.

Barker has been coupled by Department of Justice agents with Karpis as co-leader of the gang blamed for the Bremer kidnaping.

Two days ago in Chicago the mother of Karpis—an ex-felon with prison terms in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma penitentiaries behind him—appealed to her son, through the newspapers, to surrender as the only way to escape death by pursuers. But Karpis showed no notion of acquiescing.

Chicago Herald & Examiner

JAN 21 1935

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman..
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Rosen.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

KARPIS, ENEMY NO. 1,

SHOOTS OUT OF TRAP

Chicago Herald & Examiner

JAN 21 1935

7-576-A

KARPIS' PAL

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman..
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

REPORTED SHOT

Chicago Daily Times
7-576-A JAN 21 1935

SPREAD TRAPS FOR KILLERS; GRILL WOMEN

BULLETIN

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP).—Harry Campbell, who with Alvin Karpis blasted his way through a police trap in Atlantic City, was reported here today to have been seriously wounded in the encounter. A check on hospitals and doctors known to treat racketeers was ordered as the hunt for the men was pressed.

By John W. Lear

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 21.—The nation's "public enemy, No. 1" and a fellow gunman from the midwest were hunted in eight states, from Massachusetts to Maryland today, but police were confident they had bottled in this island resort the two desperadoes who machine-gunned their way past a raiding squad.

Alvin Karpis, wanted as co-leader of the Bremer kidnaping gang and currently No. 1 on the government's list of wanted men, cleared a path with lead when police sought to arrest him yesterday for the theft of an auto.

With him went Harry Campbell, who, clad only in underwear, stole another car and drove off as Karpis fired a final blast from the tonneau.

TRAPPED ON ISLAND

Police today asked that a warning be broadcast to clothing store operators to be on the lookout for men seeking to purchase apparel.

Authorities were certain they were bottled up in Atlantic City because the resort, situated on an island, is connected with the mainland only by three highway bridges which were under heavy guard.

Karpis was clad in trousers, slippers and an overcoat and Campbell in underwear, slippers and an overcoat when they made their escape. Police said Karpis and Campbell probably would attempt to acquire more clothing to divert suspicion.

WOMEN REVEAL NAMES

The police learned their identities from two women companions seized in the raid on a little hotel. The women were listed as Dolores Delaney, 21, and Winona Burdette, 22, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell.

Shot in the leg but not seriously wounded, the Delaney woman was treated at a hospital where she already had registered in anticipation of childbirth. A detective's check was gashed by a slug from the submachine gun.

Department of justice agents, their roundup of the reputed Bremer band complete except for Karpis, poured into Atlantic City with submachine guns and tear gas bombs.

"SHOOT FIRST" ORDERS

"Shoot first and talk afterwards," was the advice from Chicago, where officials thought Karpis might seek a new hideaway.

"Shoot first and talk afterward," echoed police wireless and telephone-typewriter alarm systems throughout the east.

New York and Philadelphia police guarded bridges and ferries leading into those metropolises.

An automobile speeding through Hammonton, on the main route to Philadelphia, gave rise to a report that the gangsters had switched from their pea-green machine and were trying to reach the Quaker city.

The gun fight began before dawn yesterday. Atlantic City police had received a request from Florida to be on the lookout for a stolen car. The men who left it in a garage were traced to the adjacent Dunmore hotel and a squad of police set out to arrest them.

OUTLAWS ELUDE POLICE

Officers were stationed at front and rear entrances of the building. Another stood in the lobby and two went to the fourth floor room where Karpis and Campbell were quartered. The women were asleep in an adjoining room.

Smashing in the door, Det. Dan

Chicago Daily Times

JAN 21 1935

Mulhern stepped into the opening with pistol in hand.

"Stick 'em up," he commanded, "we're officers."

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers," retorted Karpis, who was fully dressed and holding the submachine gun.

Firing as he turned, the bandit sent a burst of slugs at the doorway. Two detectives tried to halt the outlaws' flight from a corner in the hallway, but their revolvers were no match for Karpis' weapon.

Karpis fired a volley through the door of the women's room to awaken them. Police said it was one of those shots which struck his companion—

"SHOOT 'EM FIRST!" ORDER ON KARPIS

"Shoot 'em first and talk afterward!"

Chicago police were under these orders today in event they encounter Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, Bremer kidnapers, who shot their way out of a trap set by federal agents in Atlantic City yesterday.

A message broadcast over the police radio warned officers "to take great precaution" if they meet the fugitives, said to be riding in a Pontiac coach bearing New Jersey license plates A-3073.

and then dashed down a back stairway. They slipped past the outside guards and next were seen dashing to the garage.

STEAL ANOTHER AUTO

Karpis stood off the officers while the half-clad Campbell, who found police had confiscated their car, appropriated another. Off drove the fugitives, Karpis firing until they disappeared.

The police, who flashed a quick alarm, believe they got word to guards at the bridges before the Harry Campbell . . . gets away. Fugitives could get across. For that reason they felt sure the men still were in the city.

Hide Karpis Molls in Philly for Grilling

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (AP).—Federal agents early today brought Winona Burdette and Dolores Delaney, arrested in the attempted capture of Alvin Karpis in Atlantic City, to Philadelphia for questioning.

The agents said an X-ray showed the bullet wound Miss Delaney received in the leg in the shooting yesterday was not serious.

After their arrival here, the agents refused to reveal the whereabouts of the women.

Chicago Daily Times
JAN 21 1935

ESCAPES — — IN BATTLE — — HELD

Winona Burdette was one of the two women left behind when Alvin Karpis (shown with her) and Harry Campbell shot their way out of a hotel in Atlantic City.

Chicago Daily Times

JAN 21 1935

THE GIRL HE (HARRY CAMPBELL) LEFT BEHIND.—Winona Burdette, an intimate of the Alvin Karpis gang, taken to headquarters following Karpis' and Campbell's escape at Atlantic City. —Story on page 3. (A. P. Wirephoto)

Chicago Daily Times

JAN 21 1935

Mr. Nathan.....
 Mr. Tolson.....
 Mr. Clegg.....
 Mr. Baughman.....
 Chief Clerk.....
 Mr. Coffey.....
 Mr. Edwards.....
 Mr. Egan.....
 Mr. Harbo.....
 Mr. Keith.....
 Mr. Lester.....
 Mr. Quinn.....
 Mr. Schilder.....
 Mr. Tamm.....
 Mr. Tracy.....
 Miss Gandy.....

HIS KIDNAP PRISON FOUND

(A. P. Photo)
 Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker who paid $200,000 ransom to kidnapers, has positively identified a house in Bensenville, a suburb of Chicago, as the den he was locked in for 23 days.

Arrest Two Men After Finding of Bremer Hideaway

Two men were in custody of federal agents today following location of the house where Edward G. Bremer, banker and brewer of St. Paul, spent 23 days in the hands of abductors. He bought freedom with a $200,000 ransom.

Arrest of the pair became known after a visit by the federal men last night to the house, at York and Green sts., Bensenville. The prisoners, Elmer Farmer, 40-year-old tavern keeper, and Harold Allerton, 35, former resident of the suburb, were being grilled today. Herman Baucle, owner of the rambling, frame apartment house, was questioned and freed.

Establishment of the fact that Bremer was brought from his Minnesota home into Illinois makes possible the indictment of Alvin Karpis and Arthur Barker, named as the kidnapers, under the new federal kidnaping law. A death sentence is possible.

Barker is in custody at St. Paul, and new evidence was to be presented against him to the federal grand jury today. Regarding a report that Bremer accompanied the federal agents to the Bensenville house yesterday, the brewer refused to comment.

1-516-4
Chicago Daily Times
 JAN 21 1935

POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED AS KIDNAP LAIR.—Exterior of the Bensenville house, subdivided into apartments, where banker and brewer, Bremer, was held captive before the eyes of other tenants, who ~~didn't~~ suspect. —Story on page 5.

JAN 21 1935

Chicago Daily Journal

WHERE BREMER WAS HELD.—The St. Paul banker and brewer spent most of his 23 days of confinement last year in this bedroom.

Chicago Daily Times

JAN 21 1935

(TIMES Photos)
The dining and living room of the Bremer kidnap hideout.

PRIVATE ENTRANCE BY WHICH KIDNAPERS CAME AND WENT.
—The Barker-Karpis kidnap gang entered and left the house in Bensenville by this door while holding Edward G. Bremer a prisoner.

Chicago Daily Times
JAN 21 1935

PAPER TELLS THE STORY.—W. R. Cord in the room at Bensenville where Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul was held for $200,000 ransom last year.

Chicago Daily Times
JAN 21 1935

Mr. Nathan.....
 Mr. Tolson.....
 Mr. Clegg.....
 Mr. Baughman..
 Chief Clerk.....
 Mr. Coffey.....
 Mr. Edwards.....
 Mr. Egan.....
 Mr. Harbo.....
 Mr. Keith.....
 Mr. Lester.....
 Mr. Quinn.....
 Mr. Schilder.....
 Mr. Tamm.....
 Mr. Tracy.....
 Miss Gandy.....

Bremer's Kidnap Hideout Is Found in Bensenville

The house where Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul (Minn.) banker and heir to brewery millions, was held for twenty-three days a year ago until payment of a $200,000 ransom, has been located in Bensenville, Ill., eighteen miles west of Chicago, in DuPage county.

Bremer was taken to the house Saturday, it was revealed today, and identified the wall paper of the bedroom where he was kept a captive while ransom negotiations were being carried on.

Makes Death Penalty Possible.
Federal agents said that identification of the two-story rambling frame structure makes it possible under the Lindbergh law to ask the death penalty for Arthur ("Doc") Barker and Alvin Karpis, leaders of the mob which kidnaped Bremer.

Karpis and Harry Campbell, another Oklahoma outlaw, shot their way out of a police trap at Atlantic City only yesterday.

W. R. Cord, a barber, now occupies the rear flat in which Bremer was held prisoner. He was routed out of bed early one morning last week and brought to Chicago, where he finally convinced department of justice investigators that he had moved into the three-flat building several months after the Bremer kidnaping.

Two Held by United States.
Federal agents are holding Harold Allerton, 35 years old, said to be a former Bensenville bootlegger, the tenant of the quarters where Bremer was held, and Elmer Farmer, 40, who federal agents say operated a gambling place in the town.

7-576-A

Chicago Daily News
JAN 21 1935

'PUBLIC ENEMY' IN ATLANTIC CITY; POLICE BELIEVE

Warnings Broadcast to Block All Avenues of Escape.

PAL WOUNDED, REPORT

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 21.—(AP)

—Strengthening the net they were confident they had cast about Alvin Karpis, public enemy No. 1, police today asked that a warning be broadcast to clothing-store operators to be on the lookout for men seeking to purchase apparel.

Karpis, wanted as coleader of the Bremer kidnap gang, and a companion, Harry Campbell, shot their way out of a police trap yesterday. Authorities were certain they were bottled up in Atlantic City because the resort, situated on an island, is connected with the mainland only by three highway bridges which were under heavy guard.

Karpis was clad in trousers, slippers and an overcoat and Campbell in underwear, slippers and an overcoat when they made their escape when police sought to arrest Karpis for automobile theft. Campbell stole another car and drove away as Karpis fired at the officers with a machine gun from the tonneau.

Police said Karpis and Campbell probably would attempt to acquire more clothing to divert suspicion.

Learn Identity from Women.

Police learned their identities from two woman companions seized in the raid on their hotel. They were listed as Dolores Delaney, 21, and Winona Burdette, 22, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell. The two women were taken to Philadelphia today by federal agents for further questioning.

Shot in the leg but not seriously wounded, the Delaney woman was treated at a hospital where she already had registered in anticipation of childbirth. A detective's cheek was gashed by a slug from a submachine gun.

Department of justice agent, their roundup of the reputed Bremer and complete except for Karpis, poured into Atlantic City with submachine guns and tear gas bombs.

Shoot First, Is Advice.

"Shoot first and talk afterward," was the advice from Chicago, where officials thought Karpis might seek a new hideaway.

"Shoot first and talk afterward," echoed police wireless and telephone-typewriter alarm systems throughout the east.

New York and Philadelphia police guarded bridges and ferries leading into those cities. State troopers patrolled the intervening highways.

An automobile speeding through

Hammononton, on the main route to Philadelphia, gave rise to a report that the gangsters had switched from their pea-green machine and were trying to reach the Quaker city.

Stolen Car Gives Clew.

The gun fight began with startling suddenness before dawn yesterday.

Atlantic City police had received a request from Florida to be on the lookout for a stolen car, the occupants of which were known to have a shotgun and automatic pistol. Patrolman Elias Saab spied the machine in a garage near the boardwalk.

The men who left it there were traced to the adjacent Dun-Mor hotel, on Kentucky avenue, and a squad of detectives and police set out to arrest them.

Officers were stationed at front and rear entrances of the building. Another stood in the lobby and two went to the fourth floor room where Karpis and Campbell were quartered. The women were asleep in an adjoining room.

Opens Fire on Police.

Smashing in the door, Detective Dan Mulhern stepped into the open door, with pistol in hand.

"Stick 'em up," he commanded, "we're officers."

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers," retorted Karpis, who was fully dressed and holding the submachine gun.

Firing as he turned, the bandit sent a burst of slugs at the doorway as Mulhern ducked. The two detectives tried to halt the outlaws' flight from a corner in the hallway, but their revolvers were no match for Karpis' weapon.

Karpis fired through the door of the women's room to awaken them—the police said it was one of those shots which struck his companion—and then dashed down a back stairway.

Apparently climbing out a window, they slipped past the outside guards and next were seen dashing down the street to the garage.

Chicago Daily News

JAN 21 1935

Seize Another Auto.

Karpis stood off the officers while the half-clad Campbell, who found the police had confiscated their car, appropriated another. Away drove the fugitives, Karpis firing until they disappeared into Atlantic avenue.

Detective Arch Witham discovered his cheek had been gouged by the only shot of more than 200 rounds which took effect.

The police, who flashed a quick alarm, believed they got word to guards at the bridges before the fugitives could get across. For that reason they felt sure the men still were in the city.

Twenty-five federal agents grubbed through night clubs and hotels. The police made two raids on suspected places, but found only vagrants.

Karpis and Campbell arrived from Florida only Saturday, the police said. The women, however, had come by train Friday. Federal agents took the two to Philadelphia.

Karpis Sought as Kidnaper.

Karpis was advanced to the first position on the public enemy list after more notorious criminals had been reduced to gun notches by the federal agents. He was given the ranking largely because his fingerprints were found on an oil can dumped from the automobile in which kidnapers carried off Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, a year ago. Bremer was released after payment of $200,000 ransom.

Arthur ("Doc") Barker, his alleged partner, is under arrest. Barker's brother, Fred, and his mother, Kate, were slain in Florida, and several Chicagoans have been indicted as accessories.

Both Karpis and Campbell are wanted for midwestern killings, as well as lesser crimes.

CAMPBELL WOUNDED IN BATTLE, POLICE REPORT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—(P)—

Harry Campbell, who with Alvin Karpis blasted his way through a police trap in Atlantic City, was reported here today to have been seriously wounded in the encounter.

A check on hospitals and doctors known to treat racketeers, was ordered as the hunt for the men, named as participants in the abduction of Edwin G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was pressed.

Arrival of Karpis and his partner in New Jersey marked the first instance known to federal investigators in which the gang had come into the northeast.

Its ramifications have been understood to extend from the Pacific coast up and down the middle west and into portions of the south, but not to have included the northern Atlantic coast.

Chicago Daily News

JAN 21 1935

SEEK

| |
|-------------------|
| Mr. Nathan..... |
| Mr. Tolson..... |
| Mr. Clegg..... |
| Mr. Baughman..... |
| Chief Clerk..... |
| Mr. Coffey..... |
| Mr. Edwards..... |
| Mr. Egan..... |
| Mr. Harbo..... |
| Mr. Keith..... |
| Mr. Lester..... |
| Mr. Quinn..... |
| Mr. Schilder..... |
| Mr. Tamm..... |
| Mr. Tracy..... |
| Miss Gandy..... |

'HIDEOUT'

OF KARPIS

7-576-A

Chicago Daily News

JAN 21 1935

SEIZE GIRL AS KARPIS FLEES

Winona Burdette.
[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Alvin Karpis.
[The Associated Press.]

Harry Campbell.
[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Their women were left behind to do the explaining when Alvin Karpis, ace criminal wanted as leader of the Bremer kidnaping gang, and Harry Campbell shot their way out of a trap laid by government agents here. Winona Burdette, 22, a former radio singer, was also known as the wife of Campbell. The other woman, Dolores Delaney, 21, was shot in the leg in the battle.

Chicago Daily News

JAN 21 1935

Madhouse Fight With Karpis Described

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 21. —(P)—Bullets spattered on the walls of a narrow, dimly-lit hotel hallway, gunfire flashed in the darkness of the hotel stairs, and Alvin Karpis was free from one more police trap.

Outside, in a pouring rain, men waited with guns in their hands, trigger-fingers ready for their part in the battle that raged within.

Every exit was covered. Every door was watched. But Karpis was gone.

While two detectives blazed away from the landing the "No. 1" of America's underworld walked into thin air from the fourth floor of his hotel hideaway—a stone's throw from the Boardwalk, vacation haunt of thousands.

Not until his sub-machine gun barked again, from a garage across the street, were the police sure what had happened.

How it happened is a puzzle yet.

MYSTERY IN THRILLER

How Karpis with a machine gun under his arm, and his crony, Harry Campbell, garbed in only a coat thrown over his underwear, could melt into the darkness and rain is the mystery touch that was needed to complete the detective-thriller story of the gangsters' getaway.

The villain was there, raking the narrow hotel hall with a hail of death that zipped all around but never touched the three detectives—Eddie Mulhern, Arch Witham and George Brennan—who sought to trap him but were trapped themselves.

The marksman played his role, shot a key from a woman's hand without touching her fingers.

Policeman Jimmy Campbell topped off the drama by dropping his empty pistol and shouting to his machine gun duelist:

"Drop that gun and come out in the street and fight like a man."

A deadly "rat-a-tat-tat" was the answer to that challenge.

WHAT A SURPRISE!

The answer was the same from the time the detectives entered the Dan-Mor Hotel to surprise what they thought to be "an ordinary tough guy." One policeman said:

"It was like war. It was a madhouse. I don't see why some one isn't dead."

When the raiders reached the fourth floor of the hotel they met a man walking down the hall in his underwear. The man asked:

"Looking for some one?"

"Yes, who's the fellow in that room there?"

"Oh, he's a pal of mine. Wait a minute and I'll tell him you want him."

And Campbell—for it was he—went in the room, locked the door and snapped off the lights.

The hotel owner's wife, Mrs. William Morley, was summoned with a pass key. A bullet spat through the opening as the door swung back and the key in her hand flew to pieces.

Mulhern stuck his pistol through the door way. He yelled:

"Stick 'em up! We're officers."

A voice answered:

"Stick 'em up yourself!"

The door swung wide and a machine gun began to chatter.

The detectives, outlined clearly in the light, could see only the gun flashes in the darkened room. They scurried for safety, but bullets hit into the walls around them.

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

Chicago American
7-576-A JAN 21 1935

| |
|-------------------|
| Mr. Nathan..... |
| Mr. Tolson..... |
| Mr. Clegg..... |
| Mr. Baughman.. |
| Chief Clerk..... |
| Mr. Coffey..... |
| Mr. Edwards..... |
| Mr. Egan..... |
| Mr. Harbo..... |
| Mr. Keith..... |
| Mr. Lester..... |
| Mr. Quinn..... |
| Mr. Schilder..... |
| Mr. Tamm..... |
| Mr. Tracy..... |
| Miss Gandy..... |

KARPIS' ESCAPE AUTO FOUND; PAIR FLEE NET

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—(AP)—

The bullet-riddled sedan in which Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell fled from Atlantic City after a gun fight with police yesterday was found today on a farm lane in Richland Township, in nearby Bucks County.

The spot where the car was found is two and a half miles south of Quakertown, which is forty miles north of Philadelphia.

A detail of state police was rushed to the place after the car was found. Police believe the two desperadoes have taken refuge in that area, known as the Haycock Mountain district, a wild and lonely expanse.

The car, police said, contained a number of machine gun shells. Karpis and Campbell used a machine gun in making their escape from Atlantic City.

— Finding of the green sedan which Karpis and Campbell stole from a shore garage blasted the belief that a posse of federal agents, New Jersey state police and Atlantic City police had bottled up the shore area against their escape.

The sedan, with bullet holes in the windshield, the back and through one tire cover, was found by a farmer in the lane leading to his farmhouse.

Federal men concentrated in Atlantic City were ordered to Bucks County.

7-576-A Chicago American
JAN 21 1935

| |
|--------------------|
| Mr. Nathan |
| Mr. Tolson |
| Mr. Clegg |
| Mr. Baughman .. |
| Chief Clerk |
| Mr. Coffey |
| Mr. Edwards |
| Mr. Egan |
| Mr. Harbo |
| Mr. Keith |
| Mr. Lester |
| Mr. Quinn |
| Mr. Schilder |
| Mr. Tamm |
| Mr. Tracy |
| Miss Gandy |

WOUNDED MAN KARPIS AID?

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—(By International News Service.)—Search for Alvin Karpis, Public Enemy No. 1, and his companion, Harry Campbell, was concentrated in Detroit, after three men, one wounded, riding in a bullet-scarred sedan, were reported seen at a garage here today.

The trio drove into the garage, operated by Alfred Wagner, to have a tire changed. Wagner told police he saw a wounded man in the back seat, noticed the bullet holes, became frightened and refused to fix the tire.

The men then drove away.

The man in the rear seat of the Ford V-8 sedan, which bore Michigan licenses, was wounded in the right arm and side, Wagner said.

7-576-A Chicago American

JAN 21 1935

Mr. Nathan.....
 Mr. Tolson.....
 Mr. Clegg.....
 Mr. Baughman.....
 Chief Clerk.....
 Mr. Coffey.....
 Mr. Edwards.....
 Mr. Egan.....
 Mr. Harbo.....
 Mr. Keith.....
 Mr. Lester.....
 Mr. Quinn.....
 Mr. Schilder.....
 Mr. Tamm.....
 Mr. Tracy.....
 Miss Gandy.....

2 Held Here in Bremer Hunt

Find Kidnap Prison of Banker at Bensenville.

Two Bensenville men have been in secret custody of federal agents since last Wednesday. The Chicago American learned today, in connection with the government's relentless investigation of the $200,000 Edward G. Bremer kidnapping.

One of the men, it was reported, occupied an apartment in a rambling old frame house in Bensenville where Bremer, wealthy St. Paul man, was kept a year ago during negotiations for his release on $200,000 ransom.

Edward G. Bremer.

Bremer personally identified the apartment Saturday as his place of imprisonment.

The two prisoners are Elmer Farmer, a tavern keeper, and Harold Ellerton, 35, reputed former speakeasy operator.

Herman Baucke, owner of the old house, which has been divided into three apartments, has identified one of the men, a tenant, ejected five months ago for non-payment of rent.

Federal agents refused any information about the prisoners.

IDENTIFIES BREMER.

Although federal agents refused to corroborate identification of the house by Bremer, W. R. Cord, a barber, who moved into the "Bremer" flat several months ago, revealed he and his wife and two small children were routed from their beds early last Wednesday morning by government agents armed with machine guns. He and his family were brought to the Chicago office of the department of investigation, Cord said, where they were questioned.

Cord identified Bremer as the man who, accompanied by a squad of agents, made a minute inspection of the apartment Saturday.

REMEMBERS NAIL HOLES.

Bremer's principal means of identification was by sounds, it was revealed. He recalled the starting of a small truck about seven o'clock in the alleyway near the window of the room where he was kept prisoner. A grocer keeps his truck in a shack on the alleyway.

The banker identified the apartment by various peculiarities he remembered, including a series of five nail holes on either side of the bedroom window frame, and the drop cord hanging from the light in the bedroom.

Discovery of the kidnap lair in Illinois proves Bremer was taken across state lines, and places Arthur "Doc" Barker and Alvin "Doc" Karpis, who shot his way out of a police trap in Atlantic City yesterday, in jeopardy of the death penalty under the Lindbergh law. Barker is in custody in St. Paul.

A federal grand jury in St. Paul today was asked by Harold Nathan, first assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the division of investigation of the Department of Justice, and District Attorney George F. Sullivan to indict Barker and others for the kidnaping.

Barker already is under indictment for conspiracy in the case. It was understood that Bremer would testify before the grand jury.

Chicago American

JAN 21 1935

7-576-A

KARPIS MOTHER SHOVELS SNOW. AS HE FLEES

BY ESTHER SHULTZ.

Mrs. Anna Karpavicz was out at 5:30 o'clock this morning shoveling snow off the sidewalks in front of the apartment building at 2842 N. Francisco av., of which her husband, John, is the janitor.

At the same moment her son, Alvin Karpis, Public Enemy No. 1, was hiding out somewhere in the neighborhood of Atlantic City, not far ahead of the eight federal men who had shot him out of his hide-away last night.

And she was thinking of him as the boy she hasn't seen in three years, as she scraped the shovel across the sidewalks and returned to the basement apartment where she lives.

TOO LATE TO REFORM.

Removing her heavy coat, which she wore over a multiplicity of jackets and aprons and sweaters, she said:

"I think of him every minute. And every Sunday I burn a candle for him and say a prayer. Every day I cry because of him."

"No one in our family was ever bad before. He stole auto tires first, and got $5 for each one he stole, so they sent him to the reform school. There he met many bad ones."

"Now, maybe he wishes he could be different, but he doesn't know how. It is too late."

NEVER SENDS MONEY.

Mrs. Karpavicz breathed a heavy sigh and her eyes grew red with the effort to keep back tears.

Not a dollar of all the spoils of kidnaping or robbery has come to the purse of his mother, she said.

"No, he has never sent me any money. I work. Sometimes I work at Logan Square and get a dollar."

"It is better than ten dollars of his money, because I am not afraid of it."

The news of his escape while shielded by the machine gun barrage which he laid down between him and the government agents last night, she could not read, and she insisted on not hearing it, except from the lips of one of her three married daughters, who, she said, will tell her tonight of his latest battle with the law.

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

Chicago American
JAN 21 1935

7-576-A

| |
|-------------------|
| Mr. Nathan..... |
| Mr. Tolson..... |
| Mr. Clegg..... |
| Mr. Baughman.. |
| Chief Clerk..... |
| Mr. Coffey..... |
| Mr. Edwards..... |
| Mr. Egan..... |
| Mr. Harbo..... |
| Mr. Keith..... |
| Mr. Lester..... |
| Mr. Quinn..... |
| Mr. Schilder..... |
| Mr. Tamm..... |
| Mr. Tracy..... |
| Miss Gandy..... |

Exterminating Gangsters

No Other Way to Deal With Them.

Federal agents kill a man and a woman (his mother), said to be involved in the kidnaping a year ago of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker.

The "battlefield" is in Florida, a long way from Minnesota.

Crime knows no state lines.

Neither does the federal government when it hunts kidnapers.

It is well for law and order that it does not.

Sentimentalists will say that it is "terrible," this killing of suspects without a trial.

They will be even more shocked at the thought that one of the slain was a woman.

Sane persons, not too sentimental, will regret the death of the mother.

They will remember, however, that she was the brains of the kidnaping ring, and that she was a criminal as well as her son.

"Another victory against crime," is the sentiment of the people of the United States toward this latest coup of the federal men.

The only way to deal with gangsters is to exterminate them, and slowly but surely ~~this~~ IS BEING DONE.

RZ

7-576-A

Chicago American

JAN 21 1935

| |
|-------------------|
| Mr. Nathan..... |
| Mr. Tolson..... |
| Mr. Clegg..... |
| Mr. Baughman..... |
| Chief Clerk..... |
| Mr. Coffey..... |
| Mr. Edwards..... |
| Mr. Egan..... |
| Mr. Harbo..... |
| Mr. Keith..... |
| Mr. Lester..... |
| Mr. Quinn..... |
| Mr. Schilder..... |
| Mr. Tamm..... |
| Mr. Tracy..... |
| Miss Gandy..... |

Newspaper Article

from
The Buffalo Evening News
dated January 21, 1935
entitled

"POLICE CLOSE IN ON BADMAN NO. 1 WHO FLEES TRAP"

7-576-A

1-27
F

From
The Buffalo Evening News
January 21, 1935

Police Close In On Badman No. 1 Who Flees Trap

Alvin Karpis, Noted Desperado, and Half-clad Pal Shoot Way Out of Atlantic City Hotel.

Copyright, 1934, by Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 21.—The nation's "public enemy No. 1" and a fellow gunman from the Midwest were hunted from Massachusetts to Maryland today, but police were confident they had bottled in this island resort the two desperadoes who machine-gunned their way past a raiding squad.

Alvin Karpis, wanted as co-leader of the Bremer kidnaping gang and currently No. 1 on the government's list of wanted men, cleared a path with lead when police sought to arrest him Sunday for the theft of an automobile.

With him went Harry Campbell, who, clad only in underwear, stole another car and drove off as Karpis fired a final blast from the tohneau.

Two Women Seized.

The police learned their identities from two women companions seized in the raid on a little hotel. The women were listed as Dolores Delaney, 21, and Winona Burdette, 22, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell.

Shot in the leg but not seriously wounded, the Delaney woman was treated at a hospital where she already had registered in anticipation

Girl Friend of Karpis Left After Battle

Department of Justice agent leading Winona Burdette from a hotel

Alvin Karpis, Noted Desperado, and Half-clad Pal Shoot Way Out of Atlantic City Hotel.

Copyright, 1934, by Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 21.—The nation's "public enemy No. 1" and a fellow gunman from the Midwest were hunted from Massachusetts to Maryland today, but police were confident they had bottled in this island resort the two desperadoes who machine-gunned their way past a raiding squad.

Alvin Karpis, wanted as co-leader of the Bremer kidnaping gang and currently No. 1 on the government's list of wanted men, cleared a path with lead when police sought to arrest him Sunday for the theft of an automobile.

With him went Harry Campbell, who, clad only in underwear, stole another car and drove off as Karpis fired a final blast from the tofneau.

Two Women Seized.

The police learned their identities from two women companions seized in the raid on a little hotel. The women were listed as Dolores Delaney, 21, and Winona Burdette, 22, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell.

Shot in the leg but not seriously wounded, the Delaney woman was treated at a hospital where she already had registered in anticipation of childbirth. A detective's cheek was gashed by a slug from the sub-machine gun.

Department of Justice agents, their roundup of the reputed Bremer band complete except for Karpis, poured into Atlantic City with sub-machine guns and tear gas bombs.

"Shoot first and talk afterward," was the advice from Chicago, where officials thought Karpis might seek a new hideaway.

Highways Are Watched.

"Shoot first and talk afterward," echoed police wirelegs and telephone-typewriter alarm systems throughout the East.

New York and Philadelphia police guarded bridges and ferries.

(Police Closing in, continued on Page 8, Column 4.)

Department of Justice agent leading Winona Burdette from police headquarters to question her a short time after she was arrested as an aftermath to the pitched battle between police and Alvin Karpis, nationally notorious bad man, in which he and Harry Campbell escaped. (AP WIREPHOTO) leading into these metropolises. State troopers patrolled the intervening highways.

ALVIN KARPIS

POLICE CLOSING IN

(Continued from Page 1.)

An automobile speeding through Hammonton, on the main route to Philadelphia, gave rise to a report that the gangsters had switched from their pea green machine and were trying to reach the Quaker city.

The gun fight began with startling suddenness before dawn Sunday.

Atlantic City police had received a request from Florida to be on the lookout for a stolen car, the occupants of which were known to have a shotgun and automatic pistol. Patrolman Elias Saab spied the machine in a garage near the boardwalk.

The men who left it there were traced to the adjacent Dun-Mor hotel, on Kentucky avenue, and a squad of detectives and police set out to arrest them.

Karpis Ready for Them.

Officers were stationed at front and rear entrances of the building. Another stood in the lobby and two went to the fourth floor room where Karpis and Campbell were quartered. The women were asleep in an adjoining room.

Smashing in the door, Detective Dan Mulhern stepped into the opening with pistol in hand.

"Stick 'em up," he commanded. "We're officers."

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers," retorted Karpis, who was fully dressed and holding the submachine gun.

Firing as he turned, the bandit sent a burst of slugs at the doorway. Mulhern ducked. The two detectives tried to halt the outlaws' flight from a corner in the hallway, but their revolvers were no match for Karpis' weapon.

Escape in Stolen Car.

Karpis fired a volley through the door of the women's room to awaken them. Police said it was one of these shots which struck his companion—and then dashed down a back stairway.

Apparently climbing out a window, they slipped past the outside guards and next were seen dashing down the street to the garage.

Karpis stood off the officers while the half-clad Campbell, who found police had confiscated their car, appropriated another. Off drove the fugitives, Karpis firing until they disappeared into Atlantic avenue.

Detective Arch Witham discovered his cheek had been gouged by the only shot of more than 200 rounds which took effect.

The police, who flashed a quick alarm, believe they got word to guards at the bridges before the fugitives could get across. For that reason they felt sure the men still were in the city.

Hired Police Surgeon.

Twenty-five federal agents

KARPIS PICKED CITY WITH ONLY 3 EXITS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP).—Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell committed a tactical error when they came to Atlantic City—they chose as a hideaway the resort center with the fewest exits of any important city in the state.

Atlantic City is on an island and only three highway bridges connect it with the mainland.

If they did get across a bridge only four highways offered the midwest gunmen well-marked trails to other possible refuges.

Troopers were sent to patrol all of them.

told police they had become "skeptical" of its secrecy.

Karpis, at only 25 a graduate of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma penitentiaries, is known in Southwest as a burglar, thief, jailbreaker. He was accused of Fred Barker of slaying Sheriff R. Kelly at West Plains, Mo., in December, 1931.

Police Director Otto P. Higgins of Kansas City names Karpis as one of five men responsible for the murder last Summer of John L. Bremer, Democratic factional leader. Because of the old indictment in St. Paul, the Bremer case, Karpis is wanted for questioning about the slaying of A. W. Dunlap of St. Paul.

KARPIS TO FACE CHAIR FOR BREMER KIDNAPING

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (AP).—The electric chair loomed today for Alvin Karpis, ace bad man, if the police who believe they have him pinned in Atlantic City with a pal take him alive.

With the discovery Sunday of the house in which Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker, was imprisoned a year ago until he bought his release for $200,000, the government's path was cleared for application of the Lindbergh law making a death sentence possible for kidnaping.

Karpis is wanted with Arthur (Doc) Barker, already in custody as the only surviving member of the gang which abducted Bremer.

Although he refused to confess or deny it at St. Paul, Mr. Bremer was understood to have identified a rambling frame structure in suburban Bensenville as the place where he was held prisoner.

another stoop in the lobby and two went to the fourth floor room where Karpis and Campbell were quartered. The men were asleep in an adjoining room.

Smashing in the door, Detective Dan Mulhern stepped into the opening with pistol in hand.

"Stick 'em up," he commanded. "We're officers."

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers," retorted Karpis, who was fully dressed and holding the submachine gun.

Firing as he turned, the bandit sent a burst of slugs at the doorway as Mulhern ducked. The two detectives tried to halt the outlaws' flight from a corner in the hallway, but their revolvers were no match for Karpis' weapon.

Escape in Stolen Car.

Karpis fired a volley through the door of the women's room to awaken them. Police said it was one of these shots which struck his companion—and then dashed down a back stairway.

Apparently climbing out a window, they slipped past the outside guards and next were seen dashing down the street to the garage.

Karpis stood off the officers while the half-clad Campbell, who found police had confiscated their car, appropriated another. Off drove the fugitives, Karpis firing until they disappeared into Atlantic avenue.

Detective Arch Witham discovered his cheek had been gouged by the only shot of more than 200 rounds which took effect.

The police, who flashed a quick alarm, believe they got word to guards at the bridges before the fugitives could get across. For that reason they felt sure the men still were in the city.

Hired Police Surgeon.

Twenty-five federal agents grubbed through night clubs and hotels. Police made two raids on suspected places, but found only vagrants.

Karpis and Campbell arrived from Florida only Saturday, police said. The women, however, had come by train Friday. Federal agents took the two to Philadelphia.

Karpis had brazenly retained the services of Dr. Carl Surran, a police surgeon, for the maternity case.

"We've got plenty of dough and we want the best for the little girl," the physician quoted him as saying.

Karpis was advanced to the first position on the public enemy list after more notorious criminals had been reduced to gun notches by the federal agents. He was given the ranking largely because his fingerprints were found on an oil can dumped from the automobile in which kidnapers carried off Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, a year ago.

Bremer was released after payment of $200,000 ransom.

Just Escaped Florida Raid.

Arthur (Doc) Barker, his alleged partner, is under arrest. Barker's brother, Fred, and his mother, Kate, were slain in Florida and several Chicagoans have been indicted as accessories.

Both Karpis and Campbell are wanted for Midwestern killings, as well as lesser crimes.

Karpis, however, has proved extremely elusive. He had left the Florida hideaway where "Ma" and Fred Barker were slain only a few days before the federal agents descended on it. The Delaney woman was arrested as a burglar, jailbreaker. He was accused of slaying Sh. R. Kelly at West Plains, Mo., in December, 1931.

Police Director Otto P. Higgins. Kansas City names Karpis as one of five men responsible for the murder last Summer of John La. Democratic factional leader. Besides the old indictment in St. Paul, the Bremer case, Karpis is wanted for questioning about the slaying of A. W. Dunlap of St. Paul.

KARPIS TO FACE CHAIR

FOR BREMER KIDNAPING

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (AP).—The electric chair loomed today for Alvin Karpis, ace bad man, if the police who believe they have him pent in Atlantic City with a pal take him alive.

With the discovery Sunday night of the house in which Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker, was imprisoned a year ago until he bought his release for $200,000, the government's path was cleared for application of the Lindbergh law making a death sentence possible for kidnaping.

Karpis is wanted with Arthur (Doc) Barker, already in custody as the only surviving members of the gang which abducted Bremer.

Although he refused to confirm or deny it at St. Paul, Mr. Bremer was understood to have identified a rambling frame structure in suburban Bensenville as the place he was held prisoner.

PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Where Karpis Battled Police

The Atlantic City hotel in which Alvin Karpis, trapped by police, made a bold stand and shot his way out, with Harry Campbell, and leaving behind two women, one an expectant mother.
(AP WIREPHOTO)

1927

| | |
|--------------|-------|
| Mr. Tolson | |
| Mr. Clegg | |
| Mr. Baughman | |
| Chief Clerk | |
| Mr. Coffey | |
| Mr. Edwards | |
| Mr. Egan | |
| Mr. Harbo | |
| Mr. Keith | |
| Mr. Lester | EB |
| Mr. Quinn | |
| Mr. Schilder | |
| Mr. Tamm | |
| Mr. Tracy | |
| Miss Gandy | |

A Newspaper Article
from
The Buffalo Courier-Express
dated January 21, 1935
entitled
"KARPIS, GANG CHIEF, SHOOTS WAY OUT OF TRAP"

7-576-A

1927
F

KARPIS, GANG CHIEF, SHOOT

KARPIS ESCAPES

Continued from Page One

tonight that he did not believe possible that the two men had been able to get clear of the city. With Mayor Harry Bacharach taking personal charge of the police department, a thorough search was instituted tonight.

The word that the notorious Karpis—hunted as the master mind of the Edward Bremer kidnaping in St. Paul, Minn., last year—was in Atlantic City followed a telegraphic tip from Florida to be on the watch for a car bearing Florida license D5-306.

"Be careful," the informant said. "There are two bad men, heavily armed."

Detectives checked garages and found the car parked in the Coe garage at the foot of South Kentucky Avenue, close to the boardwalk.

They traced Karpis and Cam

KARPIS, SHOOTS WAY OUT OF TRAP

Where Gunmen Shot Way Out

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1 SHATTERS POLICE CORDON

Ace bad man and pal fight way out of Atlantic City hotel with machine guns

TWO WOMEN CAPTURED

One, described as Karpis' friend, expectant mother, is wounded by stray shot

By FRANK A. JAMIESON
Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 20
—The nation's latest ace of bad men, the 25-year-old Alvin Karpis, shot his way out of Atlantic City early today.

With him, triggering a machine gun, was another of the Middlewest's hunted criminals, Harry Campbell.

Expectant Mother Left

Behind them they left their women, one of them wounded and an expectant mother.

Trapped just before dawn in a hotel room to which they came only yesterday, the two desperadoes — wanted for crimes ranging from robbery to kidnaping and murder —

Trunk, Filled With Baby Clothes, In Gangsters' Room

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 20 (AP)
—When police searched the effects of Dolores Delaney, the "girl friend" of Alvin Karpis the Danmor Hotel, near Atlantic City Boardwalk, where Alvin Karpis (inset) and Harry Campbell, alleged surviving members of the Bremer kidnap gang were trapped yesterday. The gangsters, however shot their way out, leaving behind them Winona Burdette (inset) and Dolores Delaney, the latter an expectant mother.

Trunk, Filled With Baby Clothes, In Gangsters' Room

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 20 (AP).—When police searched the effects of Dolores Delaney, the "girl friend" of Alvin Karpis, the "public enemy No. 1" who shot his way out of a police trap today, they found a large trunk.

The trunk was filled with baby clothes—with everything needed for a newborn infant.

The young woman, who with Winona Burdette was arrested, is an expectant mother.

answered with roaring gunfire the police demand to surrender.

Fighting their way from their fourth floor quarters to an alley, blazing so close to policemen that one officer's cap was shot from his head, they stole an automobile and then, pursued by twenty policemen and with every traffic light in the city flashing on and off—a general police alarm — they drove toward Camden, distancing pursuit. There was a report tonight, unconfirmed, that Campbell—who was in his underwear when he was surprised by detectives—had been wounded.

Karpis' "girl friend," known both as Dolores Delaney and as Louise Graham, was slightly wounded in the leg. She is soon to bear a child, the police surgeon said. The other woman, arrested with the 21-year-old Delaney girl, is Winona Burdette, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell. She is 22.

Chase Through City Streets

A chase through the city's streets during which, on two occasions the fugitives drove their car down blind streets, wheeled about and shot their way anew through the pursuing police forces, added to the sensationalism of the escape.

Police Captain Sam Wheatley said

KARPIS ESCAPES

Continued on Page Two

KARPIS ESCAPES

Continued from Page One

tonight that he did not believe it possible that the two men had been able to get clear of the city. With Mayor Harry Bacharach taking personal charge of the police department, a thorough search was instituted tonight.

The word that the notorious Karpis—hunted as the master mind of the Edward Bremer kidnaping in St. Paul, Minn., last year—was in Atlantic City followed a telegraphed tip from Florida to be on the watch for a car bearing Florida license D5-306.

"Be careful," the information said. "There are two bad men, heavily armed."

Detectives checked garages and found the car parked in the Coast garage at the foot of South Kentucky Avenue, close to the boardwalk.

They traced Karpis and Campbell to the Danmor Hotel, close by.

They learned that the two men had arrived the day before and had taken a fourth floor room adjoining that occupied by the two women, who arrived a week ago Friday.

Gets Physician for Girl

Karpis had gone shortly after his arrival to the police surgeon, Dr. Carl Surran, and had made arrangements with him for the delivery of the baby the Delaney girl is expecting.

"We've got plenty of dough, and we want the best for the little girl," said "public enemy No. 1" with a record of terms in the penitentiaries of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Detectives, tracing the occupants of the stolen car with the Florida license, arrived at the hotel about 5 o'clock this morning. Two of them went to the fourth floor. The door of the room occupied by Karpis and Campbell was ajar.

One of the officers poked a pistol through the opening and cried out:

"Stick 'em up. We're officers."

The response was immediate.

Karpis shouted back:

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers! We're coming!"

Campbell was in his underwear, but Karpis was fully clothed. Campbell whirled, a pistol in his hand.

Karpis grabbed a machine gun, and the hotel echoed with gunfire.

Detectives Driven to Cover

The detectives, surprised, sought the protection of a bend of the corridor, firing all the time. As Karpis and Campbell came out the fire from the officers' pistols drove the desperadoes toward the back of the hall, night, that while in Miami they had talked with a man identified only as "Duke," and that "Duke" had directed them to the Atlantic City Hotel where they were found. He had given them a letter of recommendation, the girls said, to the proprietors of the place.

"Duke" was described as an employee at the "Little Club" of Miami and also of the Biscayne Race Track. A report that federal men had asked that "Duke" be questioned brought the statement from Miami's police tonight that they knew nothing of such a request.

The girls came to Atlantic City by train.

Mother Appeals to Him

Only two days ago, in Chicago, the mother of Karpis—an ex-felon with prison terms in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma penitentiaries behind him—appealed to her son, through the newspapers, to surrender.

She urged this course rather than death for him at the hands of the law's huntsmen.

Police back-trailed Karpis to Miami and thence to Chicago, from which latter city he fled when his designation as the new "public enemy No. 1" served notice on him that he was marked for the same relentless treatment as befell his predecessors, John Dillinger and George (Baby Face) Nelson.

In a broadcast to all New York City police radio cars, police headquarters of that city tonight ordered all officers to take "every precaution" if Karpis and Campbell were encountered.

Karpis and Campbell probably changed cars, the New York police were told, and may have separated. The fugitives were riding in a green coach with Jersey license plates when last seen.

Among crimes for which Karpis is held responsible or in which it is believed he participated are:

The kidnaping of Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker, January 17, 1934.

The murder of Sheriff C. R. Kelly at West Plains, Mo., in December, 1931, when the sheriff attempted to arrest Karpis and Fred Barker.

The murder last summer of John Lazia, Kansas City Democratic factional leader.

Numerous forays in Oklahoma, Missouri and Texas.

Wanted in Bremer Kidnaping

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 20 (AP)—Alvin Karpis, 25-year-old graduate of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma penitentiaries, burst into the infamous class of public enemies when he joined Arthur (Doc) Barker as partner in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker.

women arrested in Atlantic City as their gunmen companions, Campbell and Alvin Karpis, blazed a machine gun path to freedom.

"That Burdette woman came here from Casper, Wyo., with Campbell and Glenn Roy Wright in 1932 and we arrested her," Gardner said. He reported that the relative promised to locate Campbell and Wright in return for her release, but "double-crossed us" after she was freed.

Wright, robber and cracksmen, was arrested at Mannford, Okla., in March, 1934, and is serving a life sentence for robbery.

Campbell is wanted here for murder in the "ride" slaying of J. Earl Smith, Tulsa attorney, in August, 1932.

Say Kidnap House Located

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 20 (AP)—The Herald and Examiner tonight said that federal agents had located the house where Edward G. Bremer was held prisoner for 23 days during his $200,000 abduction. The paper said it was in suburban Bensenville, northwest of Chicago. The government has in custody the owner of the house, whose identity was not revealed, the paper said, and added that he was to be taken to St. Paul in an effort to identify Arthur (Doc) Barker, held there for the kidnaping.

Barker was captured here on January 8th the same night that an alleged confederate in the kidnaping, Russell Gibson, was shot to death by federal agents and another man and three women were apprehended.

IRS

Karpis grabbed a machine gun, and the hotel echoed with gunfire.

Detectives Driven to Cover

The detectives, surprised, sought the protection of a bend of the corridor, firing all the time. As Karpis and Campbell came out the fire from the officers' pistols drove the desperadoes toward the back of the hall, then down a rear stairway to an alley.

Waiting there were three officers and Karpis and Campbell raced for the garage where they had left their car, exchanging more than 200 shots with the police as they ran.

Their car had been taken over by police, but the gunmen piled into another and wheeled down the street.

Twice they circled the hotel, apparently seeking to rescue the women. Balked in this effort and with several cars of police pushing them hard, the men headed out of the neighborhood.

Twice their unfamiliarity with Atlantic City thoroughfares, many of which end in blind alleys at the boardwalk, appeared to have them cornered. Each time, however, they spun their car around and, with the underwear-clad Campbell standing up behind and pulling the trigger of the machine gun, shot their way free. They finally were lost to their pursuers.

Almost from the first moment of gunfire, however, the city's traffic lights had been switched to blink on and off red, which is the manner in which a general police alarm is given here. This spread a warning to the farthestmost sections of the city, leading the police to believe it would have been next to impossible for the men to have got out of town.

Believed Headed West

Chicago police expressed the belief that if Karpis got out of Atlantic City he would head west to a Chicago hideout.

"Shoot to kill" was the warning broadcast by Detective Chief John L. Sullivan of Chicago. "If identity is established shoot first and talk afterward."

The Delaney woman was taken to a hospital. She had been struck by a shot from Karpis' weapon, police said. The wound was superficial and she was later taken with the Burdette girl to Philadelphia, in custody of federal men.

Seven suitcases were found in the girls' room. One of the girls told police questioners that they had been in Florida recently, and that while there they had seen and talked with Fred and "Ma" Barker, who were killed as they resisted a federal agents' siege last week. Barker has been coupled by department of justice agents with Karpis as co-leader of the gang blamed for the Bremer kidnaping.

The girl told police, they said to-

Wanted in Bremer Kidnaping

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 20 (AP)—Alvin Karpis, 25-year-old graduate of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma penitentiaries, burst into the infamous class of public enemies when he joined Arthur (Doc) Barker as partner in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker.

A year ago January 17th Bremer was abducted.

Relentless government huntsmen have since rounded up Barker, awaiting grand jury action in St. Paul tomorrow; slain Fred and Kate (Ma) Barker in Florida, seized and indicted John J. (Boss) McLahlin and several other Chicagoans for alleged handling of the six-figure ransom.

But the slippery Karpis has always eluded traps.

Down in the Southwest he was known as burglar and thief and jail-breaker.

Last July, after the federal officers had announced Karpis' identification as one of Bremer's abductors, it was made known at Kansas City that he and Fred Barker were bandits of the old Kimesinman gang, notorious for raids in Oklahoma, Missouri and Texas.

Accused of Killing Sheriff

The pair of outlaws were accused of killing Sheriff C. R. Kelly at West Plains, Mo., in December, 1931, when he tried to arrest them.

Karpis was named by Police Director Otto P. Higgins of Kansas City as one of five men responsible for the murder of John Lazia, Democratic factional leader there last summer. Lazia, Higgins said, had ordered Karpis and Barker out of town when they approached him with an illegal proposition, and sometime later Lazia was assassinated with a machine gun traced to Minneapolis—operating headquarters, for a time, of the Karpis-Barker band.

With the seizure of "Doc" Barker here January 8th and the subsequent killing of Fred and "Ma" Barker at Oklawaha, Fla., it was hinted that "Doc" had been "talking" to the federal agents here in Chicago and that the trail of Karpis would be warming up. He is under indictment at St. Paul for the Bremer ransom plot. He was also wanted for questioning about the killing of A. W. Dunlap of West St. Paul.

Girl Arrested in Tulsa

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 20 (AP)—Winona Burdette, alias Mrs. Louise Campbell, was arrested once in Tulsa in 1932 but was released by officers upon the unkept promise of a relative to put Harry Campbell "on the spot" for them.

Lieut. Earl Gardner of the Tulsa detective department, recalled the incident today after he was informed the Burdette girl was one of two

1R57

Karpis, Bremer as Kidnapers, Slips Police Net Here

ATLANTIC CITY PRESS
1/21/35

(Continued from Page One)

Karpis answered immediately.
"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers."

Karpis Turns on Police

Campbell, garbed only in his underwear, waved a pistol in his hand. Karpis, fully clothed, grabbed a machinegun and started pumping lead.

Mulhern ducked from the doorway, as one of the machine gun bullets grazed the cheek of Witham.

The officers retreated down a bend in a corridor, returning the fire.

Machine gun blazing, Karpis and Campbell dashed out of the room, leaped down the stairs to the darkness of the third floor.

Somehow, the two bandits made their exit through the rear of the hotel. Police believe they jumped from a first or second story window.

The desperadoes ran out to Westminster avenue, cut through an alley to Kentucky, and ran across the street to where their car was quartered. But police had taken the machine from the establishment.

Escape In Brand Coupe

The bandits jumped into a coupe owned by Mrs. Harold Brand, and with Karpis lying on the running board and pumping shots from his machine gun, they drove out Kentucky avenue, through an alley to Mt. Vernon, and down towards Pacific. Twice, they circled the hotel, apparently seeking the two girls. Once, they were accosted by Patrolman James Campbell.

A fusillade of shots was their reply, one of the bullets knocking Campbell's cap from his head. Then, their car careened down to Pacific avenue, and with police in pursuit, they headed downtown. The officers lost sight of the machine at Florida and Pacific avenues.

One Of Girls Wounded

In the room across the hall from that occupied by the two bandits, detectives found Dolores Delaney, 22, Karpis' sweetheart, and 21-year-old Winona Burdette, of Tulsa, Okla., also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell. Karpis' girl friend was wounded in the leg by a shot fired from the bandit's own gun during the initial exchange with detectives.

An expectant mother, she was taken to the city hospital for treatment, and late yesterday afternoon she and the Burdette girl were whisked away to Philadelphia by Department of Justice men.

The bandits arrived in the resort on Friday, joining the girls who had come north from Florida by train and reaching here a week ago Friday.

Met Police Surgeon

With surprising bravado, Karpis had gone shortly after his arrival to the police surgeon, Dr. Carl Surran, and had made arrangements with him for the delivery of the baby the Delaney girl is expecting.

"We've got plenty of dough, and we want the best for the little girl," Karpis told the physician.

It was from the women that local police first learned the identity of the two bandits.

The word spread quickly; the license number of the stolen car, A-3037, was flashed over the teletype system; the Department of Justice was notified of the seizure of the bandit's own machine and of their escape.

Within a short time, a dozen Federal sleuths arrived in the resort to pick up the clues and take up the trail. Last night, a dozen or so more came into the city to join the hunt—a hunt that must end in another gun battle between authorities and the desperadoes.

Joined In Bremer Snatch

Karpis, 25-year-old graduate of the Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma penitentiaries, burst into the infamous class of public enemies when he joined Arthur "Doc" Barker as partner in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward Bremer, St. Paul, Minn., banker. That was a year ago almost to the day—Jan. 17.

Relentless Government huntsmen have since rounded up Barker—awaiting grand jury action in St. Paul today; slain Fred and Kate "Ma" Barker in Florida. But the slippery Karpis always eluded them, just as he eluded local police yesterday.

Campbell, who has not been linked to the Bremer case, is wanted in Tulsa, Okla., for murder in the "ride" slaying of J. Earl Smith, attorney, in 1932. Both have also been linked in numerous robberies and shootings from St. Paul to Florida.

The Burdette girl, arrested in Tulsa, was released by officers upon the unkept promise of a relative to put Campbell "on the spot" for them.

Mayor Bacharach and Director Cuthbert took charge of the police yesterday after being notified of the shooting. They ordered the entire city scoured in search for the machine stolen by the bandits in their flight—but at midnight no trace of it had been uncovered.

Last night, Director Cuthbert returned to city hall while Federal agents were questioning Harry Morley, who with Dan Young conducts the Dan-More Hotel, and Mrs. Morley. The agents refused to divulge the results of the questioning.

State police, joining the hunt, had every road in the State guarded all day yesterday and last night, while bridge and ferry police and tunnel police at New York were also on the lookout for the fleeing gunmen.

A large crowd thronged the battle scene last night despite the rain. The fourth floor of the Dan-More Hotel, and sections of the third floor, were riddled with bullets.

Store fronts and small hotels on Kentucky avenue also bore marks of the battle as shots from the guns of the fleeing mobsters and police revolvers racked the entire section.

Karpis, Bremer Kidnaper, Slips Police Net Here

Slips Police Net

Alvin Karpis

CUTHBERT BLAMES POOR INFORMATION FOR ESCAPE

Failure of local police to establish a coup by capturing America's Public Enemy No. 1, Alvin Karpis, and his companion, Harry Campbell, in the early morning gun battle yesterday, was blamed on the lack of proper information by Public Safety Director Cuthbert last night.

Cuthbert declared that had he been apprised of the character of the two men being sought in connection with the stolen machine, or their identity, he would have had the entire police department on the job.

"They could not have escaped such a trap as that," he said, "even with their machine guns."

Cuthbert verified reports that teletype filers did not divulge the identity of the two men.

At the same time, Cuthbert praised the members of the department who faced the machine gun fire of the country's worst criminals.

"They only had service revolvers," he said. "Machine guns are not part of our equipment."

Atlantic City Press
"Public Enemy No. 1," With Harry Campbell, Another Western Mob-
ster, Machine-Guns Way to Freedom in Hotel

STEAL BRAND AUTO, MAKE THEIR ESCAPE

Girl Companions, One Expectant Mother, Captured After Thugs Try to Rescue Them

America's "Public Enemy No. 1," 25-year-old Alvin Karpis, co-leader of the Bremer kidnaping gang, blazed a machine gun path to freedom here early yesterday.

With him, eluding a trap set by police in a small hotel on South Kentucky avenue, was another of the Middle West's hunted criminals, Harry Campbell.

Federal agents converged upon the resort last night to pick up the broken trail of the two desperadoes—wanted for crimes ranging from robbery to kidnap and murder.

The gangsters left behind their women, one wounded and an expectant mother; the other enjoying freedom only because a relative had gained her release from an Oklahoma prison on promise of putting Campbell "on the spot."

A chase through the city streets, in which 300 bullets were exchanged, wounding one detective and knocking the cap off a policeman's head, added to the sensationalism of the escape.

Late last night the belief was expressed in police circles here that the two gangsters were still hiding somewhere on Absecon Island. The belief was strengthened by the fact that hours had elapsed since the escape and police everywhere had no sight of the stolen car in which the escape was effected.

Federal agents, who took complete charge of the case last night, refused to make any comment. It was learned, however, that their forces had been augmented last night and that more than a score of them were on the job.

The alertness of a uniformed officer led to the discovery of the bandits.

Car Found in Garage

Shortly after 2 o'clock last night headquarters received a teletype message from Florida authorities to look for an automobile bearing a Florida license and to arrest the occupants. "The men are heavily armed," read the flier.

An hour later, Patrolman Elias Saab discovered the car parked in the Coast Garage, on Kentucky avenue, near the Boardwalk. For three hours, police and detectives sought the persons who had stored the car in the garage, finally learning they had registered at the Dan-More Hotel, on Kentucky avenue, and just across the street from the garage.

Detectives Witham, Mulhern and Brennan went to the hotel and questioned the night man. Karpis and Campbell had registered under the names of C. Carson and G. Cameron.

Mulhern and Witham went to the fourth floor room occupied by the pair. Directly opposite their door was the room in which the two girl companions were sleeping. It was nearly 6 o'clock. The door was ajar.

Poking his pistol through the opening, Mulhern shouted: "Stick 'em up!"

(Continued on Page Eleven)

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman...
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

ATLANTIC CITY PRESS
1/21/35

KARPIS' BULLET-RIDDLE

● DESPERADOES

● FLA
EVER

EDN

LET-RIDDLED CAR FOUND IN PA.

DESPERADOES

(Continued from Page One)

safety turned, the bandits dug at the doorway. The two de- halt the outlaws' ner in the hallway, rs were no match on. volley through the en's room to awak- said it was one of h struck his com- n dashed down m bing out a window, the outside guards seen dashing down garage. If the officers while umpbell, who found cated their car, ap- ner. Off drove the s firing until they Atlantic avenue. Witham discovered been gouged by the ore than 200 round ct. who flashed a quid they got word bridges before the get across. For that sure the men st ty.

On Job federal agents grub- ight clubs and hotels o raids on suspects and only vagrants. Campbell arrived from Saturday, police said owever, had come. Federal agents too dadelphia. brazenly retained the Carl Surran, a police ne maternity case. plenty of dough and est for the little girl, quoted him as saying, advanced to the first ne public enemy his torious criminals had to gun notches by the He was given the ly before his finger- ound on an oil ca the automobile rs carried off Edward Paul banker, a re s released after pa 100 ransom. c) Barker, his alle- nder arrest. Barker and his mother, Ed Florida, and ver- ave been indicted is and Campbell idwestern killing crimes.

death that slipped all around, but never felled the three detectives—Eddie Mulhern, Arch Witham and George Brennan—who sought to trap him, but were trapped themselves.

The marksman played his role, shot a key from a woman's hand without touching her fingers.

Policeman Jimmy Campbell topped off the drama by dropping his empty pistol and shouting to his machine gun duelist:

"Drop that gun and come out in the street and fight like a man."

A deadly "rat-a-tat-tat" was the answer to that challenge.

The answer was the same from the time the detectives entered the Dan-Mor hotel to surprise what they thought to be "an ordinary tough guy."

"It was like war. It was a mad house" one of them said afterward. "I don't see why someone isn't dead."

Raiders Encounter Bandit

When the raiders reached the fourth floor of the hotel, they saw a man walking down the hall in his underwear.

"Looking for someone?" he asked politely.

"Yes, who's the fellow in the room there?"

"Oh, he's a pal of mine," Walter Mulhern said. "I'll tell him you want him."

And Campbell—for it was he—went in the room, locked the door and snapped off the lights.

The hotel owner's wife, Mrs. William Morley, was summoned with a pass key. A bullet spat through the opening as the door swung back and the key in her hand flew in pieces.

Mulhern stuck his pistol through the doorway.

"Stick 'em up," he yelled. "We're officers."

"Stick 'em up yourself," came a voice inside. The door swung wide and a machine gun started to chatter.

The detectives, outlined clearly in the light, could see only the gun flashes in the darkened room. They squirmed for safety, but bullets hit the walls around them.

Down the hall and down stairs, again into the cover of darkness, backed the gangsters, always keeping a certain set of gunfire in view. On the stairs the trail was lit but only for a moment.

PLANT EVEN 11

service pistol bullets. For permit it.

"Drop that the street a Campbell yet

"Rat-a-tat" and the steady narrow street steady stream it rumbled out by hotel

Firing as sped in one twice double at the Board

In tortuous winds and tile, past the Hotel, the the turns clumsy "Be" trol was lo

Before the strict, Ka blaring a saw, and hood seen shot at h

"He's a said."

DESPERADOES

(Continued from Page One)

Shoot Way to Safety

Firing as he turned, the bandit sent a burst of slugs at the doorway as Mulhern ducked. The two detectives tried to halt the outlaws' flight from a corner in the hallway, but their revolvers were no match for Karpis' weapon.

Karpis fired a volley through the door of the women's room to awaken them. Police said it was one of those shots which struck his companion—and then dashed down a back stairway.

Apparently climbing out a window, they slipped past the outside guards, and next were seen dashing down the street to the garage.

Karpis stood off the officers while the half-clad Campbell, who found police had confiscated their car, appropriated another. Off drove the fugitives, Karpis firing until they disappeared into Atlantic avenue.

Detective Arch Witham discovered his cheek had been gouged by the only shot of more than 200 rounds which took effect.

The police, who flashed a quick alarm, believe they got word to guards at the bridges before the fugitives could get across. For that reason they felt sure the men still were in the city.

Federal Agents On Job

Twenty-five federal agents grubbed through night clubs and hotels. Police made two raids on suspected places, but found only vagrants.

Karpis and Campbell arrived from Florida only Saturday, police said. The women, however, had come by train Friday. Federal agents took the two to Philadelphia.

Karpis had brazenly retained the services of Dr. Carl Surran, a police surgeon, for the maternity case.

"We've got plenty of dough and we want the best for the little girl," the physician quoted him as saying.

Karpis was advanced to the first position on the public enemy list after more notorious criminals had been reduced to gun notches by the federal agents. He was given the ranking largely before his fingerprints were found on an oil can dumped from the automobile in which kidnapers carried off Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, a year ago.

Bremer was released after payment of $200,000 ransom.

Arthur (Doc) Barker, his alleged partner, is under arrest. Barker's brother, Fred, and his mother, Kate, were slain in Florida, and several Chicagoans have been indicted as accessories.

Both Karpis and Campbell are wanted for midwestern killings, as well as lesser crimes.

death that rapped all around. Mulhern yelled the three detectives—Middle Mulhern, Arch Witham and George Brennan—who sought to trap him, but were trapped themselves.

The marksman played his role, shot a key from a woman's hand without touching her fingers.

Policeman Jimmy Campbell topped off the drama by dropping his empty pistol and shouting to his machine gun duelist:

"Drop that gun and come out in the street and fight like a man."

A deadly "rat-a-tat-tat" was the answer to that challenge.

The answer was the same from the time the detectives entered the Dan-Mor hotel to surprise what they thought to be "an ordinary tough guy."

"It was like war. It was a mad-house" one of them said afterward. "I don't see why someone isn't dead."

Raiders Encounter Bandit

When the raiders reached the fourth floor of the hotel, they met a man walking down the hall in his underwear.

"Looking for someone?" he asked politely.

"Yes, who's the fellow in that room there?"

"Oh, he's a pal of mine. Wait a minute, and I'll tell him you want him."

And Campbell—for it was he—went in the room locked the door and snapped off the lights.

The hotel owner's wife, Mrs. William Morley, was summoned with a pass key. A bullet spat through the opening as the door swung back, and the key in her hand flew to pieces.

Mulhern stuck his pistol through the doorway.

"Stick 'em up," he yelled. "We're officers."

"Stick 'em up yourself," came a voice inside. The door swung wide, and a machine gun started to chatter.

The detectives, outlined clearly in the light, could see only the gun flashes in the darkened room. They hurried for safety, but bullets bit into the walls around them.

Down the hall and down the stairs, again into the cover of darkness, backed the gangsters, always keeping a curtain of gunfire between. On the stairs the trail ended, but only for a moment.

Chases Way To Safety

"Rat-a-tat-tat," "rat-a-tat-tat" came the deadly rattle. Karpis was sweeping the street with a leader, all so Campbell could steal a car from the garage that first led them to the trap.

Across the way, in a hotel entrance, Policeman Campbell

ATLANTIC CITY
EVENING UNION
1/21/35

vice patrol there were no more bullets. Police regulations don't permit it.

"Drop that gun and come out in the street and fight like a man," Campbell yelled.

"Rat-a-tat-tat" was the answer and the stolen car swung into a narrow street, spraying bullets in a steady stream behind it. Close after it rumbled the police patrol, called by hotel guests.

Firing as they went, the fugitives fled in one street and out another, twice doubling back from dead ends at the Boardwalk.

In tortuous "Snake Alley," which winds and bends like a curling reptile, past the rear of the Dan-Mor hotel, the smaller machine made its turns at higher speed than the clumsy "Black Maria," and the patrol was lost.

Before fleeing from the hotel district, Karpis amused himself by blazing away at every policeman he saw, and they dotted the neighborhood seeking a chance for a pot shot at him.

"He's worse than Dillinger," they said.

KARPIS' BUD

Expected Mother Dead
Harry Campbell, "complication" victim No. 1, was reported to have been seriously wounded in machine gun escape he and Karpis made from a police trap yesterday.

This, together with the nature of the attire of the two men when they shot their way out of the trap, gave federal agents and police two avenues to follow in their closely knit search.

Karpis was clad in trousers, slippers and an overcoat, while Campbell wore underwear, slippers and an overcoat when they fled.

Police today asked that a warning be broadcast to clothing store proprietors on the chase the two gangsters might attempt to buy new clothing.

Check on Physicians
Hospitals also were being watched and a Washington order was issued placing the offices of physicians known to treat gangsters under close check.

The presence of Karpis and Campbell in Atlantic City marked the first visit of any members of the Bremer kidnap gang into the northeast as far as federal operatives knew. Karpis is a co-leader of the gang.

Ramifications of the gang had been understood to extend from the Pacific coast into the middle west and portions of the south.

The police learned their identities from two women companions seized in the raid on a little hotel. The women were listed as Dolores Delaney, 21, and Winona Burdette.

(Continued on Last Page)

GANG CARAVAN

(Continued from Page One)

of the gang, both during the roundup and since the arrests.

Both entrances to the building housing the Department of Justice offices were strongly guarded and few persons were permitted to alight from elevators on the 14th floor where the offices are located. Those who did succeed in reaching the floor were seized by guards and brusquely escorted to a lower floor.

A large crowd, attracted by the activity around the building, stood on the sidewalk in the rain to watch the caravan get under way.

One by one, in the manner of their arrest, the prisoners were taken from the building, each to a different automobile in which guards were placed, and after all three were in the cars the caravan started for Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—The heavily guarded motor caravan bringing three members of the captured "Tri-state Gang" from New York City arrived in Philadelphia this afternoon.

also known as Alvin Karpis, was shot in the leg but not seriously wounded. The Delaney woman, treated at a hospital where she already had registered in anticipation of childbirth. A detective's check was gashed by a slug from the sub-machine gun.

Department of Justice agents, their roundup of the reputed Bremer bank complete except for Karpis, poured into town with sub-machine guns and tear gas bombs.

"Shoot first and talk afterward" was the advice from Chicago, where officials thought Karpis might seek a new hideaway.

"Shoot first and talk afterward" echoed police wireless and telephone-typewriter alarm systems throughout the east.

New York and Philadelphia police guarded bridges and ferries leading into those metropolises. State troopers patrolled the intervening highways.

An automobile speeding through Hammonton, on the main route to Philadelphia, gave rise to a report that the gangsters had switched from their gas green machine and were trying to reach the Quaker City.

Bandits Trapped in Hotel
The gun fight began with startling suddenness before dawn yesterday.

Atlantic City police had received request from Florida to be on the lookout for a stolen car, the occupants of which were known to have a shotgun and automatic pistol. Patrolman Elias Seab spied the machine in the Coast Garage on Kentucky Avenue near the Boardwalk.

The men who left it there were traced to the adjacent Dan-More Hotel, and a squad of detectives and police set out to arrest them.

Officers were stationed at front and rear entrances of the building, another stood in the lobby and two went to the fourth floor room where Karpis and Campbell were quartered. The women were asleep in an adjoining room.

Smashing in the door, Detective Dan Mulhern stepped into the opening with pistol in hand.

"Stick 'em up," he commanded.

"We're officers."

"Stick 'em up yourself, copper," retorted Karpis, who was partially dressed and holding the sub-machine gun.

Karpis Proves Elusive
Karpis, however, has proved extremely elusive. He had left the Florida hideaway where "Ma" and Fred Barker were slain only a few days before the federal agents descended on it. The Delaney woman told police they had become "buddies" at the hideout.

Karpis is said to be a graduate of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma penitentiaries. He knows the southwest as a hunter, shot and captured in 1934. He was released with a $50,000 bond.

He is said to be a graduate of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma penitentiaries. He knows the southwest as a hunter, shot and captured in 1934. He was released with a $50,000 bond.

Death Chast for Karpis
CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—The electric chair loomed today for Alvin Karpis, one of the nation's most notorious gangsters.

Police, who believe they have trapped him here in Atlantic City with a pal, called him alive.

With the discovery last night of the house in which Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was imprisoned a year ago until he bought his release for $200,000, the government's path was cleared for application of the Lindbergh law, making a death sentence possible for kidnaping.

Karpis is linked, with Arthur (Doc) Barker, already in custody, as the only surviving members of the gang which abducted Bremer.

Although he refused to confirm or deny it, St. Paul, Bremer was understood to have identified a rambling frame structure in suburban Bensenville as the place he was held prisoner. Inasmuch as the abduction took place in Minnesota, this reported proof of interstate transportation gives the government full use of the various features of the law.

Government agents were also close-lipped on the reported identification, but Chief of Police Herman L. Wagner, of Bensenville, was one of several sources who confirmed reports that Bremer, abducted in 1934 by a half dozen federal agents, viewed the house last Saturday.

Dark, well paper, a low-hanging light chain, a tracked ceiling, nail holes and the structure's location near a school and roundhouse led to the identification. Bremer recalled hearing the voices of children and the puffing and whistling of trains while held captive.

A grand jury had been called today to hear new charges against Barker, held on an indictment charging conspiracy to kidnap, but with the new development it was expected that the prosecution would seek to proceed under the Lindbergh law.

Barker, the captured here Jan. 6, the night of confederate, Russell Gibson, was shot and killed in a federal raid on an apartment.

Shortly after Barker's arrest, government agents grabbed his mother, Kate Barker, and his brother, Fred, at their Florida hideout and they were taken to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—The electric chair loomed today for Alvin Karpis, one of the nation's most notorious gangsters.

Police, who believe they have trapped him here in Atlantic City with a pal, called him alive.

With the discovery last night of the house in which Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was imprisoned a year ago until he bought his release for $200,000, the government's path was cleared for application of the Lindbergh law, making a death sentence possible for kidnaping.

Karpis is linked, with Arthur (Doc) Barker, already in custody, as the only surviving members of the gang which abducted Bremer.

Although he refused to confirm or deny it, St. Paul, Bremer was understood to have identified a rambling frame structure in suburban Bensenville as the place he was held prisoner. Inasmuch as the abduction took place in Minnesota, this reported proof of interstate transportation gives the government full use of the various features of the law.

Government agents were also close-lipped on the reported identification, but Chief of Police Herman L. Wagner, of Bensenville, was one of several sources who confirmed reports that Bremer, abducted in 1934 by a half dozen federal agents, viewed the house last Saturday.

Dark, well paper, a low-hanging light chain, a tracked ceiling, nail holes and the structure's location near a school and roundhouse led to the identification. Bremer recalled hearing the voices of children and the puffing and whistling of trains while held captive.

A grand jury had been called today to hear new charges against Barker, held on an indictment charging conspiracy to kidnap, but with the new development it was expected that the prosecution would seek to proceed under the Lindbergh law.

Barker, the captured here Jan. 6, the night of confederate, Russell Gibson, was shot and killed in a federal raid on an apartment.

Shortly after Barker's arrest, government agents grabbed his mother, Kate Barker, and his brother, Fred, at their Florida hideout and they were taken to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

ATLANTIC CITY EVENING UNION 1/21/35

FIND KARPIS' BULLET-TORN CAR IN PENNA.

Police Believe Desperadoes Hiding In Mountains After Escape Here

PICKS UP MACHINE NEAR QUAKERTOWN

Campbell Reported Wounded While Blazing Way Out of Shore Trap

WANTED AS KILLERS

Wanted—Alvin Karpis, 25: For the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, last January.

Accused with "Doc" Barker of killing Sheriff C. R. Kelly at West Plains, Mo., in 1931.

Accused of complicity in assassination of John Lada, Kansas City politician, last Summer.

Identified as one of band of outlaws once notorious in southwest and has prison records in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Wanted—Harry Campbell. Accused of murder in "ride" shooting of J. Earl Smith, Tulsa attorney, in 1932.

The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—The bullet-riddled sedan in which Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell fled from Atlantic City after a gun fight with police yesterday was found today on a farm lane in Richland township, in nearby Bucks county.

The spot where the car was found is two and a half miles south of Quakertown, which is 40 miles north of Philadelphia.

A detail of state police was rushed to the place after the car was found. Police believe the two desperadoes have taken refuge in that area, which is known as the Haystack mountain district, a wild and lonely area.

The car, police said, contained a number of machine gun shells. Karpis and Campbell used a machine gun in making their escape from Atlantic City.

The car was taken to Doylestown, county seat of Bucks county, by the state highway patrol.

Desperadoes' Getaway, Like Movie Detective-Thriller

Police Revolvers No Match for Karpis' and Campbell's Blazing Machine Guns

Bullets spattered on the walls of a narrow, dimly lit hotel hallway, gunfire flashed in the darkness of the hotel stairs and Alvin Karpis was free from one more police trap.

Outside, in a pouring rain, men waited with guns in their hands, trigger-fingers ready for their part in the battle that raged within.

Every exit was covered. Every door was watched. But Karpis was gone.

While two detectives blazed away from the landing, the "Number 1" of America's underworld walked into the thin air from the fourth floor of his hotel hideaway, Dunmore, on South Kentucky avenue—a stone's throw from the Boardwalk.

Not until his sub-machine gun barked again, from the Coast

Garage across the street, were the police sure what had happened.

How it happened is a puzzle yet.

How Karpis with a machine gun under his arm, and his crony, Harry Campbell, garbed in only a coat thrown over his underwear, could melt into darkness and rain is the mystery touch that was needed to complete the detective-thriller story of the gangster's getaway.

Makes Hotel Hall

The villain was there, taking the narrow hotel hall with a hail of

(Continued on Last Page)

TIP FAILED TO IDENTIFY PAIR

'Like Suicide,' Says Detective of Attempt to Get Gunmen

Detective Captain Yates said today that "those guys"—Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, who escaped in a gun battle yesterday—"would be in the morgue now" if Florida police had given Atlantic City authorities an adequate tip.

As it was, Yates asserted, "it was almost suicide."

The telegram mentioned no names, but said the driver of the stolen car was "reported to be dangerous," carried weapons and should be apprehended with "caution."

Giving a description which fits Karpis, it said the man was "wanted by Jacksonville (Fla.) police on a serious criminal charge and accompanied by a woman who will become a mother in a few days."

The detective captain said he thought it was "merely a case of a pregnant woman and an illegitimate operation."

The telegram was signed "Authority of Miami (Fla.) Police."

Warn Clothing Stores

Police today asked Radio Station WPG to broadcast a warning to operators of clothing stores to watch for Karpis and Campbell.

Authorities said Karpis was clad in trousers, slippers and an overcoat, while Campbell was dressed in underwear, slippers and an overcoat when they escaped, and probably would attempt to acquire transportation as they sought to escape.

GANG CARAVAN OFF FOR PHILA.

'Tri-State' Trio Heavily Guarded; Mais to Go Back to Virginia

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP).—Three members of the "Tri-State" Gang, captured here in a roundup last week, were started for Philadelphia today in a caravan guarded by machine guns and 30 federal agents and police.

The three were Martin Farrell, Edwin Gale and Marie McKeever.

Mais was not in the caravan, federal agents explaining that he would be turned over to authorities of Virginia, where he was under sentence of death when he shot his way out of jail there.

The three prisoners, handcuffed to guards, were escorted from the Department of Justice offices, in Lexington avenue, to three automobiles lined up at the curb. Each of them was placed in a separate automobile. Gale and the McKeever woman attempted to cover their faces as they were led across the sidewalk.

The procedure in starting the three prisoners to Philadelphia was carried out with the same dispatch that has characterized the handling

(Continued on Last Page)

- Mr. Nathan.....
- Mr. Tolson.....
- Mr. Clegg.....
- Mr. Baughman..
- Chief Clerk.....
- Mr. Coffey.....
- Mr. Edwards.....
- Mr. Egan.....
- Mr. Harbo.....
- Mr. Keith.....
- Mr. Lester.....
- Mr. Quinn.....
- Mr. Schilder.....
- Mr. Tamm.....
- Mr. Tracy.....

APR 11 1935
CITY EVENING UNION
1/21/35

1/21/35

Mr. Na
Mr. To
Mr. Cles
Mr. Baus
Chief D
Mr. Coffe
Mr. Edwa
Mr. Egan
Mr. Harb
Mr. Keith
Mr. Leste
Mr. Quinn
Mr. Schlic
Mr. Tamm
Mr. Tracy
Mr. Gano

Desperadoes' Getaway Like Movie Detective Thriller Police Revolvers No Match for Karpis' and Campbell's Blazing Machine Guns

Bullets spattered on the walls of a narrow, dimly lit hotel hallway, gunfire flashed in the darkness of the hotel stairs, and Alvin Karpis was free from one more police trap.

Outside, in a pouring rain, men waited with guns in their hands, trigger-fingers ready for their part in the battle that raged within. Every exit was covered. Every door was watched. But Karpis was gone. While two detectives blazed away from the landing, the "Number 1" of America's underworld walked into the thin air from the fourth floor of his hotel hideaway, Dunmore, on South Kentucky avenue—stone's throw from the Boardwalk. Not until his sub-machine gun barked again, from the Coast

Garage across the street, were the police sure what had happened. How it happened is a puzzle yet. How Karpis with a machine gun under his arm, and his crony, Harry Campbell, garbed in only a coat thrown over his underwear, could melt into darkness and rain is the mystery touch that was needed to complete the detective-thriller story of the gangster's getaway. Rakes Hotel Hall. The villain was there, taking the narrow hotel hall with a hail of

TIP FAILED TO IDENTIFY PAIR Like Suicide, Says Detective of Attempt to Get Gunmen

Detective Captain Yates said today that "those guys"—Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, who escaped in a gun battle yesterday—"would be in the morgue now" if Florida police had given Atlantic City authorities an adequate tip. As it was, Yates asserted, "it was almost suicide." The telegram mentioned no names, but said the driver of the stolen car was "reported to be dangerous," carried weapons and should be apprehended with "caution." Giving a description which fits Karpis, it said the man was "wanted by Jacksonville (Fla.) police on a serious criminal charge and accompanied by a woman who will become a mother in a few days." The detective captain said he thought it was "merely a case of a pregnant woman and an illegitimate operation." The telegram was signed "Authority of Miami (Fla.) Police."

Warn Clothing Stores. Police today asked Radio Station WPG to broadcast a warning to operators of clothing stores to watch for Karpis and Campbell. Authorities said Karpis was clad in trousers, slippers and an overcoat, while Campbell was dressed in underwear, slippers and an overcoat when they escaped, and probably would attempt to acquire more death that slipped all around, but never felled the three detectives—Eddie Mulhern, Arch Witham and George Brennan—who sought to trap him, but were trapped themselves. The marksmen played his role, shot a key from a woman's hand without touching her fingers. Policeman Jimmy Campbell topped off the drama by dropping his empty pistol and shouting to his machine gun duelist: "Drop that gun and come out in the street and fight like a man." A deadly "rat-a-tat-tat" was the answer to that challenge. The answer was the same from the time the detectives entered the Dan-Mor hotel to surprise what they thought to be "an ordinary tough guy." "It was like war. It was a mad-house" one of them said afterward. "I don't see why someone isn't dead."

DESPERADOES

(Continued from Page One)

Raiders Encounter Bandit. When the raiders reached the fourth floor of the hotel, they met a man walking down the hall in his underwear. "Looking for someone?" he asked politely. "Yes, who's the fellow in that room there?" "Oh, he's a pal of mine. Wait a minute, and I'll tell him you want him." And Campbell—far from being sent in the room looked the door and snapped off the lights.

Sam Morley, was summoned with a pass key. A bullet sped through the opening as the door swung back, and the key in her hand flew to the floor. Mulhern stuck his pistol through the doorway. "Stick 'em up," he yelled. "We're officers." "Stick 'em up yourself," came a holed inside. The door swung wide and a machine gun started to chatter. The detectives, outlined clearly in the light, could see only the gun flashes in the darkened room. They scurried for safety, but bullets hit into the walls around them. Down the hall and down the stairs, again into the cover of darkness, backed the gangsters, always keeping a curtain of gunfire between. On the stairs the trail ended, but only for a moment.

Blazes Way To Safety. "Rat-a-tat-tat," "rat-a-tat-tat" came the deadly rattle. Karpis was sweeping the street with a leaden hail so Campbell could steal a car from the garage that first led them into the trap. Across the way, in a hotel entrance, Policeman Campbell answered with the six shots in his service pistol. There were no more bullets. Police regulations don't permit it. "Drop that gun and come out in the street and fight like a man," Campbell yelled. "Rat-a-tat-tat" was the answer, and the stolen car swung into a narrow street, spraying bullets in a steady stream behind it. Close after it rumbled the police patrol, called out by hotel guests. Firing as they went, the fugitives sped in one street and out another, twice doubling back from dead ends at the Boardwalk. In tortuous "Snake Alley," which winds and bends like a curling reptile, past the rear of the Dan-Mor Hotel, the smaller machine made the turns at higher speed than the clumsy "Black Maria," and the patrol was lost. Before fleeing from the hotel district, Karpis amused himself by blazing away at every policeman he saw, and they dotted the neighborhood seeking a chance for a pot shot at him. "He's worse than Dillinger," they

| |
|-------------------|
| Mr. Nathan..... |
| Mr. Tolson..... |
| Mr. Clegg..... |
| Mr. Baughman.. |
| Chief Clerk..... |
| Mr. Coffey..... |
| Mr. Edwards..... |
| Mr. Egan..... |
| Mr. Harbo..... |
| Mr. Keith..... |
| Mr. Lester..... |
| Mr. Quinn..... |
| Mr. Schilder..... |
| Mr. Tamm..... |
| Mr. Tracy..... |
| Miss Gandy..... |

Handwritten initials and signatures are present over the routing slip, including a large 'E' and a signature that appears to be 'H. J. ...'.

DOYLESTOWN, PA.--STATE POLICE TODAY RECOVERED THE AUTOMOBILE
 IN WHICH ALVIN KARPIS AND HARRY CAMPBELL ESCAPED FROM ATLANTIC CITY
 1/21--R358P JS

7-576-A

Mr. C
Mr. Clegg...
Mr. Baughman...
Chief Clerk...
Mr. Coffey...
Mr. Edwards...
Mr. Egan...
Mr. Harbo...
Mr. Keith...
Mr. Lester AB
Mr. Quinn...
Mr. Schilder...
Mr. Tamm...
Mr. Tracy...
Miss Gandy...

RECEIVED

ADD KARPIS CAR, DOYLESTOWN

THE CAR WAS DISCOVERED ABANDONED IN A LANE ON THE FARM OF SAMUEL CALABRETTE IN RICHLAND TOWNSHIP TWO AND ONE HALF MILES SOUTHEAST OF QUAKERTOWN.

HIGHWAY PATROLMEN BROUGHT THE MACHINE TO DOYLESTOWN, IT WAS TURNED OVER TO STATE POLICE WHO SAID IT ANSWERED THE DESCRIPTION OF THE CAR IN WHICH KARPIS AND CAMPBELL HAD MADE THEIR WILD FLIGHT.

1/21--R408P JS

1R

7-576-A

Off a REPORTER'S CUFF by D.A. WEAVER

"When the federal agents broke into the house, they found Fred Barker and his mother, Mrs. Kate Barker, dead on the floor. A machinegun was in "Ma" Barker's hands . . ."

—News Dispatch.

MAMMY

Ah! I still see her there,
With her silver-streaked hair,
And tenderness lighting her eyes like the sun!
Her features so fair!
As she rocks in her chair—
My sweet, darling mother, with her old gatling gun!
And I see her dear smile
As she turns for a while
To hear my small footsteps pat-patting in play.
Ah! Her tender old hands,
As, softly, she stands
And starts her big Tommy rat-tatting away!
She's the best pal I had (Since the feds shot old dad)
And her memory always will be too divine!
May the Lord ever bless her
And angels caress her—
That dear old machinegunning mammy of mine!

7-576 A

Kansas City Journal Post

January 21, 1935

KARPIS AND PAL ARE SOUGHT IN SCORE OF CITIES

Women Companions Held After Desperadoes Shoot Way to Freedom.

By United Press.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 21.—Department of justice agents Monday pressed police of a score of cities into a search for Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, last surviving members of the notorious Karpis-Barker gang, that extended along the Atlantic seaboard from Washington to Boston.

Karpis and Campbell are wanted for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul.

Local police in towns along the coast and as far west as Chicago were instructed to shoot to kill if they encountered Karpis, now public enemy No. 1 because federal agents have killed or captured smarter and more desperate gangsters. He proved his right to the succession Sunday when he and Campbell machine-gunned their way through a police trap in a hotel and escaped in a stolen motor car.

Although more than 200 shots were exchanged, the only one injured was Dolores Delaney, one of two women the gunmen left behind. Miss Delaney will give birth to a baby this week. She is said to be Karpis' sweetheart.

Federal agents believe they fled either south to Washington and Baltimore, west to Chicago, or north to New York and Boston. Highways in New Jersey, New York, Maryland and Pennsylvania were guarded closely.

Miss Delaney and her companion, Winona Burdette, 21, were taken to Philadelphia where Monday they were undergoing severe questioning by federal agents. They admitted their companions' identity, but otherwise disclosed little. Miss Delaney, suffering a leg wound, was treated at a local hospital. Because of the chance that Karpis and Campbell might attempt a rescue, thinking the women still there, twenty police guarded the hospital all night.

Kansas City Star

January 22, 1935.

KARPIS IS IN MICHIGAN

CAR TAKEN FROM PHYSICIAN IS FOUND NEAR MONROE.

Police Are Confident the Abduction Was Perpetrated by Gunmen Who Shot Way Out of
Atlantic City.

(By the Associated Press.)

DETROIT, Jan. 22.—State police revealed this morning that the motor car Alvin Karpis and his companion, Harry Campbell, took from an Allentown, Pa., physician yesterday had been found abandoned near Monroe, Mich.

The car apparently had been headed toward Detroit when its occupants left it and the search for Karpis and Campbell, last members at large of the notorious Karpis-Barker gang, accused of the Bremer kidnaping and other crimes, was concentrated here and in the territory between here and Monroe.

The car was taken from Dr. Horace Hunsicker after two men who, police are confident, were Karpis and Campbell, abducted him near Quakertown, Pa., and forced him to drive them into Ohio. Dr. Hunsicker was tied and left behind near Wadsworth, O., last night while the fugitives drove on.

Sheriff Joseph Bairley said the car apparently had been abandoned about an hour before it was found by Deputy Sheriff Albert Voss, one of the officers who patrolled Monroe County highway throughout the night in the belief that Karpis might be driving in that area.

Sheriff Bairley said the machine appeared to have been driven hard and that the fenders, underneath, were so encrusted with ice and slush that the wheels barely had clearance. In the car were physician's instruments and several boxes of pills, the sheriff said. There were no firearms.

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman..
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

7-576-A

7

| | |
|--------------|-------|
| Mr. Nathan | |
| Mr. Tolson | |
| Mr. Clegg | |
| Mr. Baughman | |
| Chief Clerk | |
| Mr. Coffey | |
| Mr. Edwards | |
| Mr. Egan | |
| Mr. Harbo | |
| Mr. Keith | |
| Mr. Lester | |
| Mr. Quinn | |
| Mr. Schilder | |
| Mr. Tamm | |
| Mr. Tracy | |
| Miss Gandy | |

U. S. HOLDS NEW BREMER THUG

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (I.N.S.). One man was known to be in the custody of Department of Justice agents here today following the identification of a rambling old frame house in the town of Bensenville, by Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker, as the place where he was held prisoner for three weeks while his kidnapers negotiated for $200,000 ransom.

The man held is said to be Harold Allerton, a former speak-easy operator, who rented the four-room flat in the rear of the building where Bremer was held prisoner.

Although Federal agents refused to corroborate identification of the house by Bremer, W. R. Cord, a barber, who moved into the "Bremer" flat several months ago, identified Bremer as the distinguished appearing man, who, accompanied by a squad of agents, made a minute inspection of the apartment Saturday. Mr. Cord said:

"I knew him from his pictures, though he was never called Bremer in my presence."

It was reported Elmer Farmer, a Bensenville gambler, was also being held in connection with the kidnaping.

Arthur "Doc" Barker and Alvin "Bo" Karpis, who shot his way out of a police trap in Atlantic City yesterday, have been indicted for the kidnaping. Barker is in custody in St. Paul.

WASH TIMES

7-576-R

JAN 21 1934

43

TWO OUTLAWS BATTLE WAY OUT OF TRAP

Six States Guard Highways
After Pair Escape Police of Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 21 (I.N.S.)—Southern New Jersey resembled an armed camp today as State and local police joined Federal operatives in a search for Alvin Karpis, regarded as Public Enemy No. 1, and his companion, Harry Campbell.

In a wild chase punctuated by revolver and sub-machine gun fire, the hunted gangsters escaped from a hotel here yesterday. Their two women companions, Dolores Delaney, 22, Karpis' alleged sweetheart, and Winna Burdette, 21, were captured, but authorities will not disclose where they are held. Miss Delaney was wounded in the leg during the exchange of shots.

Flee in Stolen Car

Karpis, under indictment for three murders and wanted for the ransom kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, and Campbell dashed from the hotel and fled in a stolen automobile. Trapped twice, they shot their way through a gauntlet of police cars and disappeared.

The Atlantic City affray, which momentarily revealed the whereabouts of Karpis after Federal agents had hunted him all the way up from Florida, started with the Atlantic City police unprepared to cope with the machine gunners.

A routine teletype item had instructed police to be on the lookout for an automobile with a certain Florida license plate. A patrolman came upon the automobile in front of a little four-story hotel off the boardwalk.

Hotel Riddled

Detectives Arch Witham and Edward Muhler went to the hotel and burst into a room on the fourth floor. They were confronted by two men pointing machine guns at them. The detectives backed out cautiously and then the shooting started.

The hotel was riddled with bullets after the affray which was ended in by six police waiting outside and no one could understand why no deaths had resulted.

Winona Burdett, sweetheart of Karpis, and Dolores Delaney, Campbell's girl, were in the next room. When both were arrested it was found that a bullet had fractured the Delaney woman's leg. She is to have a child in the next 10 days.

Highways Guarded

Karpis and Campbell got out of a rear door where only one detective was stationed. They went to a garage and while one held off the police with his machine gun, the other stole an automobile and both escaped.

Police of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia were ordered to watch all highways for a green Pontiac sedan, bearing Karpis and Campbell, which sped south toward Longport after the outlaws, firing machine guns, fought off the pursuing squads and got away by means of an apparently well-planned escape route.

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

WASH. TIMES

JAN 21 1935

7-576-A

AB

Karpis and Company Believed Seen in Detroit

DETROIT, Jan. 21 (I.N.S.). Search for Alvin Karpis and his companion, Harry Campbell, was concentrated in Detroit, after three men, one wounded, riding in a bullet-scarred sedan were reported seen at a garage here today.

The trio drove into the garage, operated by Alfred Wagner, to have a tire changed. Wagner told police he saw a wounded man in the back seat, noticed bullet holes in the car, became frightened and refused to fix the tire. The men drove away.

The man in the rear seat of the Ford V-8 sedan, which bore Michigan license plates, was wounded in the right arm and side, Wagner told police.

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

WASH. TIMES

JAN 21 1935

7-576-A

CR

1927

| |
|-------------------|
| Mr. Nathan..... |
| Mr. Tolson..... |
| Mr. Clegg..... |
| Mr. Baughman..... |
| Chief Clerk..... |
| Mr. Coffey..... |
| Mr. Edwards..... |
| Mr. Egan..... |
| Mr. Harbo..... |
| Mr. Keith..... |
| Mr. Lester..... |
| Mr. Quinn..... |
| Mr. Schilder..... |
| Mr. Tamm..... |
| Mr. Tracy..... |
| Miss Gandy..... |

ALVIN KARPIS And HARRY CAMPBELL
THE LINDBERGH CASE.

WASH. STAR JAN 21 1935

7-576-A

1-18-35

W

t.)
older late re, lowest day; low-

12, 13

ass matter ton, D. C.

The Evening Star

WITH SUNDAY MORNING EDITION

WASHINGTON, D. C., MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1935—TWENTY-EIGHT PA

ITS KILL TWO IN HO mann's Job Linked With Ran

Boettigers Meet Press But Interview Ends in Draw

Copyright, A. P. Wirephotos.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BOETTIGER.

Associated Press.
NEW YORK, January 21.—President Roosevelt's new son-in-law, John Boettiger, and his wife, the former Mrs. Roosevelt Dall, returned today to a week-end honeymoon trip. The amount of questioning would indicate the locale of their trip, he said, the statement that they had friends in the country. The couple had their first meeting with the press since their marriage in the Roosevelt home, 49 East 57th street. The interview was marked by a strong disinclination on the part of the couple to discuss personal details of the courtship and wedding, no less than by the good humor with which they bore up under a bombardment of questions.
Reporters Fill Room.
The front room of the Roosevelt home was filled when the Boettigers emerged from the street. "We want to say this," began the groom, a former Chicago Tribune reporter. "We hope that (he looked at his watch) by 11:45 we will be left alone and forgotten so that we can live like any other Americans."

"Why 11:45?" asked a woman reporter.
"You're awfully big-headed," interjected the bride.
"Well," said her husband, "that gives them just 35 minutes. After that we want to be forgotten."
Reminded that they were expected to tell "when you decided to marry, where you went and all that," Boettiger and his bride laughed.
"That strikes me as a personal matter," he said.
"Oh," was the response, "you've asked a lot more personal questions than that in your day."
This brought senior reporters, but there was no answer to the question. However, it was finally learned that the decision to marry last Friday was reached a week ago yesterday upon Boettiger's return from Hollywood.
"Look here," one girl said, "sawing
(Continued on Page 4, Column 8.)

Gold Ruling Put Off Until February 4th
Court Recesses

HIGH COURT DENIES MOONEY REVIEW

DEMOCRAT REVOLT DELAYS HOUSE ON RELIEF BILL VOTE

Rules Committee Majority Unable to Agree on Measure Procedure

DISPUTANTS STILL SPLIT AFTER SECRET ARLEY

Republicans to Caucus Tonight on Attitude to Be Taken on Program.

A revolt in the Democratic majority of the House Rules Committee today resulted in the delaying of leaders' plans to rush the $4,880,000 relief bill through to House passage tomorrow.

Unable to get an agreement on the procedure, the committee recessed at the call of Chairman O'Connor, Democrat, of New York, who said he would reconvene the group tomorrow. That will mean House action can not be taken until Wednesday.

Speaker Byrnes went into the secret conference of the Democratic members of the committee in an effort to placate the revolting group but was unsuccessful.

Republicans Meet Tonight.
The Republicans of the House will caucus tonight on the bill. If possible they will decide on what attitude they shall take when the bill comes before the House for consideration.

Some of the Republicans are exercised over the broad authority which the bill seems to give the President. The suggestion is made that it might even empower him to continue the N. R. A. in existence and all operations, even if Congress should fail to reauthorize it.

The bill had been introduced in the House earlier by Representative Buchanan, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Approval came after short hearings at which Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell and Rear Admiral Christian J. Peoples, chief of the Treasury's Procurement Division, testified. The session was short.

The Democratic leaders of the House had planned to bring the bill up tomorrow under a "gag" rule until the committee revolt blocked their

KARPIS GANG AIDE REPORTED SHOT AS PAIR FLEES TRAP

New "Public Enemy No. 1" Blazes Path to Freedom
With Machine Gun.

U. S. AGENTS' SECRECY BLAMED FOR ESCAPE

Bremer Kidnap Suspect Is Believed to Be Bottled Up in Atlantic City.

BULLETIN.

PHILADELPHIA, January 21 (AP).—The bullet-riddled sedan in which Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell fled from Atlantic City after a gun fight with police yesterday was found today on a farm lane in Richland Township, in nearby Bucks County.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., January 21.—Harry Campbell, companion of Alvin Karpis, the Nation's "public enemy No. 1," was reported today to have been seriously wounded in the machine-gun escape he and Karpis made from a police trap yesterday.

Hospitals were being watched and a Washington order was issued placing the offices of physicians known to treat gangsters under close check.

Karpis is a co-leader of the gang which kidnaped Edward G. Bremer.

Authorities said they are certain the two men are bottled up in Atlantic City, since highway bridges connecting the resort island with the mainland are under heavy guard.

Karpis was clad in trousers, slippers and an overcoat. Police said Karpis and Campbell probably would attempt to acquire more clothing to divert suspicion, and asked that a warning be broadcast to clothing store operators to be on the lookout for the men.

Women Caught.

The police learned their identities from two women companions seized in the raid on a little hotel. The women were listed as Dolores Delaney, 21, and

JAMI

PAY R GETS

Spokesm ernmen
at S

A strong remaining

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BOETTIGER.

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, January 21.—President Roosevelt's new son-in-law, John Boettiger, and his wife, the former Anna Roosevelt Dall, returned today from a week-end honeymoon trip.
No amount of questioning would clarify the locale of their trip, beyond the statement that they had visited friends in the country.
The couple had their first meeting with the press since their marriage Friday in the Roosevelt home, 49 East Sixty-fourth street. The interview was marked by a strong disinclination on the part of the couple to discuss personal details of the courtship and wedding, no less than by the good nature with which they bore up under a bombardment of questions.
Reporters fill room.
Front room of the Boettigers' home was filled with reporters who were waiting for the couple to appear.
"I want to say this," began the bridegroom, a former Chicago Tribune reporter. "We hope that (he looked at his watch) by 11:45 we will be left alone and forgotten so that we can live like any other Americans."

"Why 11:45?" asked a woman reporter.
"You're awfully big-hearted," interjected the bride.
"Well," said Mr. husband, "that gives them just 35 minutes. After that we want to be forgotten."
Reminded that they were expected to tell "when you decided to marry, where you went and all that," Boettiger and his bride laughed.
"That strikes me as a personal matter," he said.
"Oh," was the response, "you've asked a lot more personal questions than I have in your day."
This brother-sister exchange was interrupted by a question.
However, it was finally learned that the decision to marry last Friday was reached a week ago yesterday upon Boettiger's return from Hollywood.
"Look here," one girl said, "sewing
(Continued on Page 4, Column 5.)

Gold Ruling Put Off Until February 4th As Court Recesses

By Associated Press.
The Supreme Court recessed today until February 4 without ruling on the constitutionality of gold payment suspension legislation.
A decision on that date was generally expected.
The question is whether the Government acted with constitutional authority when, in going

HIGH COURT DENIES MOONEY REVIEW

Rules That Prisoner Has Not Exhausted Rights in State Courts.

Rules Committee Majority Unable to Agree on Measure Procedure

DISPUTANTS STILL SPLIT AFTER SECRETARY

Republicans to Caucus Tonight on Attitude to Be Taken on Program.

A revolt in the Democratic majority of the House Rules Committee today resulted in the delaying of leaders' plans to rush the $4,880,000 relief bill through to House passage tomorrow.

Unable to get an agreement on the procedure, the committee recessed at the call of Chairman O'Connor, Democrat, of New York, who said he would reconvene the group tomorrow. That will mean House action can not be taken until Wednesday.

Speaker Byrnes went into the secret conference of the Democratic members of the committee in an effort to placate the revolting group, but was unsuccessful.

Republicans Meet Tonight

The Republicans of the House will caucus tonight on the bill. If possible they will decide on what attitude they shall take when the bill comes before the House for consideration. Some of the Republicans are exercised over the broad authority which the bill seems to give the President. The suggestion is made that it might even empower him to commute the N. R. A. in existence and all operations, even if Congress should fail to act.
The bill had been introduced in the House earlier by Representative Buchanan, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.
Approval came after short hearings at which Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell and Rear Admiral Christian J. Peoples, chief of the Treasury's Procurement Division, testified. The session was secret.

The Democratic leaders of the House had planned to bring the bill up tomorrow under a "gag" rule until the committee revolt blocked their program.
$880,000 Asked at Once.
In addition to the $4,000,000 lump sum requested by the President, the bill provides for the transfer of $880,000 from previous appropriations for relief to become immediately available for relief work until the program is put into operation.
The administration's bill gives the President wide powers in the handling Blazes Path to Freedom With Machine Gun.

U. S. AGENTS' SECRECY BLAMED FOR ESCAPE

Bremen Kidnap Suspect Is Believed to Be Bottled Up in Atlantic City.

BULLETIN.

PHILADELPHIA, January 21 (AP).—The bullet-riddled sedan in which Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell fled from Atlantic City after a gun fight with police yesterday was found today on a farm lane in Richland Township, in nearby Bucks County.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., January 21.—Harry Campbell, companion of Alvin Karpis, the Nation's "public enemy No. 1," was reported today to have been seriously wounded in the machine-gun escape he and Karpis made from a police trap yesterday.

Hospitals were being watched and a Washington order was issued placing the offices of physicians known to treat gangsters under close check.

Karpis is a co-leader of the gang which kidnaped Edward G. Bremer.

Authorities said they are certain the two men are bottled up in Atlantic City, since highway bridges connecting the resort island with the mainland are under close guard.

Karpis was clad in trousers, slippers and an overcoat. Police said Karpis and Campbell probably would attempt to acquire more clothing to divert suspicion, and asked that a warning be broadcast to clothing store operators to be on the lookout for the men.

Women Caught.

The police learned their identities from two women companions seized in the raid on a little hotel. The women were listed as Dolores Delaney, 21, and Winona Burdette, 22, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell.

Shot in the leg the Delaney woman was treated at a hospital where she already had registered in anticipation of childbirth. A detective's cheek was gashed by a submachine gun slug.

Department of Justice agents poured into Atlantic City with sub-machine guns and tear gas bombs.

JAMES MITCHELL.

EMORY SMITH.

PAY RESTORATION GETS STRONG PLEA

Spokesmen for Various Government Workers' Groups at Senate Hearing.

A strong plea for restoration of the remaining 50 per cent of the Government pay cut as of January 1, was made before a Senate appropriations subcommittee today by spokesmen for the various groups of Government employees.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Adams, Democrat, of Colorado, may meet again this afternoon or tomorrow to decide whether it will include Senator McCarran's pay restoration amendment in a deficiency

MAN F

Blood T

Ren

Two C
this morn car barn
District lin
The de
James deposit cle
Emory
watchman
While sound ask street from Gregory, I
From inside job car barn
Smith "h

MOTI

T

Judge
den

Citing Attorney
ing filed vacate court erick
Penn.
urday
Boys of the each
A
to in app for with C
the
L

NEW YORK, January 1.—President Roosevelt's new son-in-law, John Boettiger, and his wife, the former Anna Roosevelt Dall, returned today from a week-end honeymoon trip.

No amount of questioning would clarify the locale of their trip, beyond the statement that they had visited friends in the country.

The couple had their first meeting with the press since their marriage Friday in the Roosevelt home, 49 East Sixty-ninth street. The interview was marked by a strong disinclination on the part of the couple to discuss personal details of the courtship and marriage, as well as by the good-natured but persistent bombardment of questions.

Reporters Filled Room.

Boettiger and his wife, who were escorted from the street, entered the room.

"I want to say this," began the bridegroom, a former Chicago Tribune reporter: "We hope that (he looked at live like any other Americans."

"Why 11:45?" asked a woman reporter.

"You're awfully big-hearted," interjected the bride.

"Well," said her husband, "that gives them just 35 minutes. After that we want to be forgotten."

Reminded that they were expected to tell "when you decided to marry, where you went and all that," Boettiger and his bride laughed.

"That strikes me as a personal matter," he said.

"Oh," was the response, "you've asked a lot more personal questions than I have in four days."

This bridegroom, however, was not to be trifled with. He was finally learned that the decision to marry last Friday was reached a week ago yesterday upon Boettiger's return from Hollywood.

"Look here," one girl said, "sawing

(Continued on Page 4, Column 5.)

Gold Ruling Put Off Until February 4th As Court Recedes

By the Associated Press.

The Supreme Court recessed today until February 4 without ruling on the constitutionality of gold payment-suspension legislation.

A decision on that date was generally expected.

The question is whether the Government, acted with constitutional authority when, in going off the gold standard, it wiped out the clause calling for the payment of about $100,000,000 of obligations in gold or its equivalent.

Whether the court will split up along the familiar "liberal-conservative" lines is a subject of much speculation. While no one except the justices themselves can know how the decision will go, that cases led some observers to believe that Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo might be more apt to uphold abrogation of the clause than Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland and Butler.

COMMUNICATIONS ACT CHANGES SUGGESTED

Legislation's Proposal Would Merge of Concerns Transmitted "Written" Messages.

HIGH COURT DENIES MOONEY REVIEW

Rules That Prisoner Has Not Exhausted Rights in State Courts.

By the Associated Press.

Holding that Thomas J. Mooney had not exhausted his rights in California courts, the Supreme Court refused today to review his contention that he should be released from San Quentin Penitentiary, where he is serving a life sentence for complicity in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness day parade bombings.

This was the second time the high court had declined to pass on the merits of the controversy.

In an opinion read by Chief Justice Hughes, the court gave its reasons for refusing to interfere. Ordinarily, applications for review are passed on without explanation.

Had Sought Writ.

The 51-year-old convict had applied for a writ of habeas corpus to bring his case before the high court for a decision on whether California was acting within her rights in keeping him in prison.

"Reasoning from the premise that the petitioner has failed to show a conference of the Democratic members of the committee in an effort to placate the revolting group but was unsuccessful.

Republicans Meet Tonight.

The Republicans of the House will caucus tonight on the bill. If possible they will decide on what attitude they shall take when the bill comes before the House for consideration. Some of the Republicans are exercised over the broad authority which the bill seems to give the President. The suggestion is made that it might even empower him to confiscate the N. R. A. in existence and in operation, even if Congress should fail to pass a national recovery act, which is due to expire next June.

The bill had been introduced in the House earlier by Representative Buchanan, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Approval came after short hearings at which Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell and Rear Admiral Christian J. Peoples, chief of the Treasury's Procurement Division, testified. The session was adjourned.

The Democratic leaders of the House had planned to bring the bill up tomorrow under a "gag" rule until the committee revolt blocked their program.

$880,000 Asked at Once.

In addition to the $4,000,000,000 lump sum requested by the President, the bill provides for the transfer of $880,000 from previous appropriations for relief to become immediately available for relief work until the program is put into operation.

The administration's bill gives the President wide powers in the handling of the $4,000,000,000. It provides that this sum shall become available immediately and remain available until June 30, 1937. It sets forth that the money shall be "used in the discretion, and under the direction of the President, in such manner and for such purposes as shall be necessary to bring about relief and employment."

The bill carries a list of projects for which the money may be used, but specifically states that it shall not be limited to them.

Included in the list of purposes for which the money may be expended are slum clearance, rural housing, rural electrification, reforestation, soil erosion, blighted area and submarginal land reclamation, improvement of road systems and construction of national highways, grade crossing elimination, Civilian Conservation Corps works, "and other useful Federal or non-Federal work."

The objectives of the bill are declared to be relief from hardships attributed to unemployment, relief from economic maladjustment, the alleviation of distress and the improvement of living and working conditions.

enemy No. 1," was reported today to have been seriously wounded in the machine-gun escape he and Karpis made from a police trap yesterday.

Hospitals were being watched and a Washington order was issued placing the offices of physicians known to treat gangsters under close check.

Karpis is a co-leader of the gang which kidnaped Edward G. Bremer. Authorities said they are certain the two men are bottled up in Atlantic City, since highway bridges connecting the resort island with the mainland are under heavy guard.

Karpis was clad in trousers, slippers and an overcoat. Police said Karpis and Campbell probably would attempt to acquire more clothing to divert suspicion, and asked that a warning be broadcast to clothing store operators to be on the lookout for the men.

Women Caught.

The police learned their identities from two women companions seized in the raid on a little hotel. The women were listed as Dolores Delaney, 21, and Winona Burdette, 22, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell.

Shot in the leg the Delaney woman was treated at a hospital where she already had registered in anticipation of childbirth. A detective's cheek was gashed by a submachine gun slug.

Department of Justice agents poured into Atlantic City with submachine guns and tear gas bombs.

"Shoot first and talk afterward" was the advice from Chicago, where officials thought Karpis might seek a new hideaway.

"Shoot first and talk afterward" echoed police wireless and telephone-typewriter alarm systems throughout the East.

New York and Philadelphia police guarded bridges and ferries leading into those cities. State troopers patrolled the intervening highways.

Karpis committed a tactical error when he came to Atlantic City—he picked as a hideaway the resort with the fewest exits of any important city in the State.

Atlantic City is on an island and only three highway bridges connect it with the mainland. The alarm for the fugitives was out before they could have reached any of the bridges yesterday.

Four Highways Out.

If Karpis and Campbell did get across a bridge, only four highways offered the Midwest gunmen well-marked trails to other possible refuges. Two swing west to Philadelphia, one to New York and the other

EMILY SMITH.

PAY RESTORATION GETS STRONG PLEA

Spokesmen for Various Government Workers' Groups at Senate Hearing.

A strong plea for restoration of the remaining 5 per cent of the Government pay scale as of January 1, was made before a Senate appropriations subcommittee today by spokesmen for the various groups of Government employees.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Adams, Democrat, of Colorado, may meet again this afternoon or tomorrow to decide whether it will include Senator McCarran's pay restoration amendment in a deficiency measure now pending. An early decision is looked for, because the subcommittee has before it a joint resolution carrying funds, which must be passed on by Congress immediately to provide for operating expenses of several Government commissions for the next five months.

Among Those Present.

Among those who appeared before the subcommittee to urge pay restoration action were Luther C. Steward, National Federation of Federal Employees; William C. Hushing, American Federation of Labor; E. Claude Babcock, American Federation of Government Employees; M. T. Pinnar, National Association of Letter Carriers; N. P. Allfas, Postal Trade Department of Organized Labor. A score of others were present representing other organizations, including Frank Coleman of the Central Labor Union and a representative of the National Customs Service Association.

Other Participants.

In addition, Senator Adams, who took part in the hearing and asked questions, were Senators Gladstone of Virginia, Hiram of Arizona, Byrd of West Virginia and Hale of Maine.

No. 1 Outlaw Escapes in Gun Battle

Copyright, A. P. Wirephotos.

h friendly and hostile, to be put to a later this week. Kelly asserted that attempts have been made to intimidate at least two prospective witnesses for the defense. Within the last 24 hours one important male witness for the defense, whose name was mentioned the other day, has received phone calls and messages threatening harm to his wife and children if he dares to testify, said.

This man was first called to my attention by another man who was have been a witness and who also told to keep away from Fleming.

Whether the men will appear, Kelly not say.

The defense also has subpoenaed a man witness, it became known, to her own solution of the crime—a action that would absolve Hauptmann and incriminate his dead friend, for Fisch.

Mr. Bertha Hoff, a New York housewife, said she would name Fisch several others whose activities led to believe they kidnaped and killed baby and collected the ransom. said she knew Fisch and the other acts for several years.

Never Knew Hauptmann.

I never knew Hauptmann or heard of him until his arrest, and I can't how he could have been in it," said.

he suspects, in addition to Fisch, declared, had been known to her.

COURT ASSIGNMENTS

DISTRICT SUPREME COURT.

Motions Court—Justice Adkins.

Assignment for tomorrow:

1—Mandre, Inc. vs. Vallandingham; attorneys, Doyle, Thoe, Malloy—Newmyer.

2—Goodwin vs. Woodward; attorneys, Taggart—North, Gertman.

3—Paulding vs. Paulding; rule.

4—Aukard vs. Aukard; attorneys, Parker—Wiegand.

5—Estate of Lulu N. Record; rule.

6—Munroe vs. Meyer; attorneys, Fraser—Bradley.

7—Gormley vs. Gormley; rule.

8—Lyders vs. Moran; attorneys, Springston—Cox.

9—Hernog vs. Krosman; attorneys, Ehrenberg—Friedman.

No. 1—The Dan-Mor Hotel, near the Boardwalk in Atlantic City, where an alleged member of the Bremer kidnaping gang was trapped, but escaped yesterday.

No. 2—Alvin Karpis, rated as public enemy No. 1, who escaped from the trap with Harry Campbell (No. 4).

No. 3—Winona Burdette, radio singer and one of the two women taken by officers. She is supposed to be the wife of Campbell. The other woman, Dolores Delaney, was known as Karpis' companion.

Goldenberg; attorneys, O'Shea, Burnett & Goldstein—Simon, Koenigsberg—Hirschman.

775—Bodmer vs. Ingalls; attorneys, A. L. Newmyer—H. I. Quinn.

782—Bosgardner vs. Capital Co.; attorneys, H. A. Schweinhart—Wilton Straubinger.

881½—Turner vs. Turner; attorneys, Simon—Hirschman—James—Scherer.

888—Karpis vs. O'Donnell; attorneys, W. J. & O'Connell—L.

KARPIS GANG AIDE IS REPORTED SHOT

New "Public Enemy No. 1" Blazes Path to Freedom With Machine Gun.

(Continued From First Page.)

south to Cape May and the broad expanse of Delaware Bay. State troopers were sent to patrol all of them.

William S. Cuthbert, city director of public safety, blamed the escape on lack of proper warning as to Karpis' identity.

"If we had been told or had sufficient indication that this was America's public enemy No. 1, and that he was as tough as he turned out to be, I would have sent the entire police force down there," he said.

Guns Blaze in Hotel.

Bullets splattered on the walls of a narrow, dimly-lit hotel hallway, gunfire flashed in the darkness of the hotel stairs and Karpis was free from one more police trap.

Outside, in a pouring rain, men waited with guns ready. Every exit was covered. Every door was watched. But Karpis was gone.

While two detectives blazed away from the landing, the "No. 1" enemy walked from the fourth floor of his hotel hideaway—a stone's throw from the Boardwalk, vacation haunt of thousands.

Not until his submachine gun barked again, from a garage across the street, were the police sure what had happened.

How it happened is a puzzle yet.

How Karpis, with a machine gun under his arm, and Campbell, with a coat thrown over his underwear, could melt into the darkness and rain is the mystery touch that was needed to complete the detective-thriller story of the gangster's getaway.

Three detectives—Eddie Mulhern, Arch Witham and George Brennan—who sought to trap him, but were trapped themselves.

The marksman played his role, shot a key from a woman's hand without touching her fingers.

Challenged to Fist Duel.

Policeman Jimmy Campbell topped off the drama by dropping his empty pistol and shouting to his machine gun duelist:

"Drop that gun and come out in the street and fight like a man." A deadly "rat-a-tat-tat" was the answer to that challenge.

The detectives had entered the Dan-Mor Hotel to surprise what they thought to be "an ordinary tough guy."

When the raiders reached the fourth floor of the hotel they met a man walking down the hall in his underwear.

"Looking for some one," he asked politely.

"Yes, who's the fellow in that room there?"

"Oh, he's a pal of mine. Wait a minute and I'll tell him you want him."

And Campbell—for it was he—went in the room, locked the door and snapped off the lights.

Key Shot Away.

The hotel owner's wife, Morley, was summoned to the key. A bullet split the key as the door swung open.

What
News
Local

Out-of Dea

WASH. D. C.

President his soon. The new up to New Again he position by which cannot at least a nine he will lose will Congress will a month enabling it rest of the plan no essential ending suspecting Mr.

again to be problem was to the embryo trillion dollars

the last some months going to drop program had, the taken of them some-

It will not they treble
no one is except more than

of them to matter how the plan nationally sound.

passed in the will not be debate. It because any-ed unpopular ar the radical e coming dis-

will not hear ings are not anced. The nt insurance pay envelope depending acted. Well very sure of acted favor-et that it is a rich will not tively for 5

such a level of 20 years. It ent unemployed
ed will pay his newarm."

every one is is no one is the supersed it. Some

MISTRIAL PLE DENIED RLY

Defense Chief Charge-bergh Name Improv
Brought Before Ju

(Continued From First Page)

$256,442.15 in stocks during 1934, an initial start of $10,000. The government came back immediately on redirect examination, however, and produced testimony from Frank the effect that Hauptmann's losses during the period from April 2, 1934, until his arrest on September 1, 1934, exceeded his profits by $5,728.

The State, which accuses Hauptmann of kidnaping and murdering the Lindbergh baby, also brought a driveway near the court, ready to the jury if the court permits an automobile in which Hauptmann is alleged to have been seen near Lindbergh home on the day the kidnaping, March 1, 1932. O'neal has testified he saw a man in the automobile.

To Refute Fisch Link

The State also announced it ready to refute any further attack on the part of the defense to implicate the dead German furrier, Isador Fisch, in the kidnaping and murder or extortion of the ransom. A New York attorney, Albert D. Kurtz, the prosecutor said, has a diary showing he and Fisch were together the day of the kidnaping.

Hauptmann claimed on his arrest that $14,600 ransom money found in his garage had been given to him by Fisch for safekeeping.

A defense announcement on the same point was to the effect it had information Fisch used the name, "John" when he went back to Germany to die of tuberculosis. A woman giving this information, Mrs. C. Schwarz, a Bronx housewife, has promised to testify, however.

Mrs. Schwarz was quoted by a defense investigator as saying Fisch wrote she and her husband, signing his name as "John."

The man to whom the ransom money was turned over in St. Raymond's Cemetery, the Bronx, by Dr. John J. (Jafie) Condon called himself "John." Dr. Condon has sworn this was Hauptmann.

A puzzling development of the day was a report to police by a youth named Robert Grant, 18, at Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., that he had been kidnaped by two men who threatened to hold him as a hostage to prevent testimony for the defense by a man named Manly. Grant told the police he had furnished Manly's name to the defense.

The figure on Hauptmann assets given to the jury by the Government accountant included the $14,600 found in his garage and $120 in gold coins found in his home in the Bronx.

Justice Trenchard surprised the attorneys by ordering the court reporter to repeat the amount of the assets, $44,486, noting it, and remarking: "This may be of great importance to me."

Frank's testimony that three brokerage accounts of the Hauptmanns jumped to stock purchases of $256,442.15 in 1933 caused the defense to bring out on cross-examination a lesson in margin dealings.

Frank testified Hauptmann began to deal on margin in 1934, and the defense elicited from him acknowledgment that the books of a stock margin account would not show the

No. 1 Outlaw Escapes in Gun Battle

Copyright, A. P. Wirephotos.

No. 1—The Dan-Mor Hotel, the Boardwalk in Atlantic City, where an alleged member of Bremer kidnaping gang was held, but escaped yesterday.

No. 2—Alvin Karpis, public enemy, No. 1, who from the trap with Harry Campbell (No. 4).

No. 3—Winona Burdette, singer and one of the two taken by officers. She is to be the wife of Campbell, other woman, Dolores, was known as Karpis' com-

Goldenberg, attorneys, O'Shannon & Goldstein, Simon, 715—Bodmer vs. Ingalls; A. L. Nemayev—H. I. Quinz 722—Burgardner vs. Co; attorneys, H. A. Schweinfel ton Strasburger.

681½—Twower vs. Tom; attorneys, Shcher, 639—Karpis vs. O'Don; attorneys, W. & O'Con-

COURT ASSIGNMENTS

DISTRICT SUPREME COURT.

Motions Court—Justice Adkins.

Assignment for tomorrow:

1—Mandre, Inc. vs. Vallandingham; attorneys, Doyle, Thoe, Malloy—Newmyer.

2—Goodwin vs. O'Connell.

3—Ridgway vs. Woodward; attorneys, Taggart—Norman Gertman.

4—Paulding vs. Paulding; rule.

5—Aukard vs. Aukard; attorneys, Parker—Wiegeling.

6—Estate of Lulu F. Record; rule.

7—Munroe vs. Meyer; attorneys, Fraser—Bradley.

8—Gormley vs. Gormley; rule.

9—Lyders vs. Lyders; attorneys, Springston—Cox.

10—Hernox vs. Kromman; attorneys, Rosenbergs—Friedman.

both friendly and hostile, to be put to him later this week.

Reilly asserted that attempts have been made to intimidate at least two prospective witnesses for the defense.

Within the last 24 hours one important male witness for the defense, whose name was mentioned the other day, has received phone calls and messages threatening harm to his wife and children if he dares to testify, he said.

This man was first called to my attention by another man who was to have been a witness and who also was told to keep away from Fleming-ton.

Whether the men will appear, Reilly did not say.

The defense also has subpoenaed a woman witness, it became known, to offer her own solution of the crime—a solution that would absolve Hauptmann and incriminate his dead friend, Isador Fisch.

Mrs. Bertha Hoff, a New York housewife, said she would name Fisch and several others whose activities led her to believe they kidnaped and killed the baby and collected the ransom. She said she knew Fisch and the other suspects for several years.

Never Knew Hauptmann.

"I never knew Hauptmann or heard about him until his arrest, and I can't see how he could have been in it," she said.

The suspects, in addition to Fisch, she declared, had been known to her

several years.
Mrs. Hoff, mother of two boys and a girl, said she gave her story to M. Fawcett, former attorney Hauptmann, and it was investigated by Henry Kress, who has served in the army, and also Hauptmann's presiding counsel, Edward J. Reilly, investigator.

was subpoenaed by Mr. Reilly to appear in Flemington on January 1. He told me it was too early for me over. He said I should wait until they were ready for me," said Hoff.

Fawcett told me that the hearing did not require my presence because it was only to bring Hauptmann to New Jersey.

Hoff said that after the kidnapping, but all we heard from it was that the Department of Justice wanted an investigation into new of the case. That was about the time after the kidnapping.

ertain Fisch Was Involved.
I am certain that Isador Fisch was involved and equally certain that these people were as well. I saw Fisch several times later, when he wanted to see me at my home.

hat time I had come to know some of these people that I refused anything to do with them.

with Mrs. Hauptmann, under the name of Hauptmann, went to the Bronx to fight extradition to New Jersey.

little revolver produced at the time one that was found in the home, was similar to one I had in mind. I am certain it was the one, but it did not prove, because the circumstances which carried its number were destroyed.

circumstantial case against the man he said she would name in being near Hopewell just before the crime, possession of ladders and other factors in the case.

ch Known as "John."
Mr. Schwartz, another Bronx resident, said today Isador Fisch was "John" during a trans-acting after the Lindbergh kidnapping.

was the name taken by the man who collected the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom—a part imputed to Hauptmann's defense.

was a most peculiar character, Schwartz said in an interview. He and I sailed with the steamship Washington west back to his home in Leipzig.

he gave us his name as the ship; and later, when I wrote two letters and two postal cards to Leipzig, he signed that name.

not think to look up his name on the passenger list until he was voyaging. Then we found out.

warz said that she had lived in Germany to find correspondence with the sign-man.

to not expect to go to court to testify," she said. "I have much work to do around the house."

was also examined by her lawyer, but her husband refused to testify in the defense.

isch Acted Funny.
Fisch said Fisch's name and recorded during the voyage and his address book, were found in the address book of Hauptmann unwittingly stored part of the ransom money for Fisch.

11—Moran vs. District of Columbia; attorneys, Clifford—Pettymann, West, Gary.
12—Poe vs. Poe; attorneys, Dobbins—Wilson.

13—Brams vs. District of Columbia; attorneys, Halpern—Pettymann, Gray.
14—Estate of Eva B. Bloodsaw; attorneys, Gray, Dodson, Gaskins—Wellford.

15—York Corrugating Co. vs. Willcox; attorney, Coe.

Criminal Division 1—Justice Lehman.

Trials:
United States vs. Tom La Rose.
United States vs. John Callahan.
United States vs. Herbert I. Burke.

United States vs. William Young.
United States vs. William Camarda and Thomas Camarda.
United States vs. George McK. Davis.

United States vs. John Gross.
United States vs. Walter Fowler.
United States vs. John Chambers.
United States vs. William Glenn.

Criminal Division 2—Justice Proctor.

Trials:
United States vs. James I. Haley.
Melvin Crutcher.
United States vs. Lawrence W. Parran.

United States vs. Erastus Jarmon.
Steven R. Gates, Charles E. Young.
United States vs. Sam Kushner, Morris Greenfield.

Law Cases.

844—Manoughly vs. Deep; attorneys, P. J. Sedwick—Welch, Daily & Welch.

845—Pietz vs. Bateman, exr.; attorneys, P. J. Sedwick—Welch, Daily & Welch.

832—Jorgele vs. Willmott; attorneys, C. A. Thompson, D. Edw. Clarke—H. I. Quinn.

835—Klots vs. Prescott-White Corp.; attorneys, Kellie & Nicolaides—Levi David, H. J. Packer.

882—Schultz vs. ...; attorneys, A. L. Newmyer—H. I. Quinn.

821—Selzer vs. Ottenstein; attorneys, John Paul Jones—Simon, Koenigsberger & Young.

756, 757, 758, 759—Schlicht et al. vs. ...

nervous when he disembarked at Hamburg, December 15, 1933.

"He acted terribly funny," she said. "When the customs inspectors came on board, Fisch turned out pale and shaking."

"He looked as though he were almost about to collapse, and his nervousness seemed to make the inspector suspicious."

"They gave our luggage just the usual examination, but they looked through Fisch's baggage very carefully."

"As I remember, he had only a suitcase and a handbag, but he trembled so much that he could scarcely get them open."

"He had two boxes of chocolate. The inspectors were so suspicious that they tore the corners off the tops of the boxes to see if he had anything sealed in them."

"Fisch had talked with us a good deal on the trip, and we noticed that on the day prior to our landing he seemed to be in good spirits and health."

"But he could scarcely get down the gangplank, he sort of wobbled down it and had to be helped."

"During the ride from the pier, he continued to be sick and nervous."

Mrs. Schwartz said that throughout the trip Fisch gave every evidence of suffering from tuberculosis.

Fisch went to Germany with Henry Uhlig of New York, who is prepared to testify for Hauptmann. Uhlig has said several circumstances surrounding the mysterious Fisch indicate Hauptmann unwittingly stored part of the ransom money for Fisch.

472—Fabiato vs. Mount Savings Bank; attorneys, Whelan & O'Connell—Vincent Sheehy, Sothoron.

121—Patterson vs. Slomp; attorneys, George Edelin—Fralley, H. S. Ward.

Hamilton vs. Odutt; attorneys, W. McLean—C. V. Imlay.

135—Schaefer vs. Thomas; attorneys, E. H. Jackson, Levi David—L. H. Vandoren.

790—Montuori vs. Zegaw; attorneys, R. A. Cusick—Welch & Welch.

795—Allmetal Weatherstrip Co. vs. Union Weatherstrip Co.; attorneys, E. Steinem—J. N. Halper.

799—Donovan vs. Penner; attorneys, E. O. Dutton—Wetford, Marshall & Hart.

802—Price & Co. vs. Harte, receiver; attorneys, Foster—Huston Thompson, H. S. Ward.

Eure vs. Borden; attorney, Sanders—C. E. Morganston.

Adm.—In re estate of Eleanor B. Biggs; attorneys, W. G. Gardner, J. M. Earnest—Pelle, Leah & L. Newmyer.

73—Burrows vs. United States of America; attorneys, James Conlon—United States attorney.

270—Disney vs. District of Columbia; attorneys, A. D. Bahr—H. I. Quinn—E. H. Seal.

512—Wilcox vs. Lamb; attorneys, H. P. Cochran—Welch, Daily & Welch.

737—Thomas vs. Postal Telegraph & Cable Co.; attorneys, M. L. Keogh—E. L. Jones.

861—Robb vs. Mullen; attorneys, J. C. Wilkes—C. H. Doherty.

849—Levenson et al. vs. Hardman Corp.; attorneys, W. R. Lippman—M. F. Schwartz—Wright & Smith.

854—Newman vs. Shoemaker; attorney Harry Friedman.

855, 856—Goldenberg et al. vs. Ball Cab Co.; attorneys, O'Boe, Burnett & O'Boe—M. P. Friedlander.

851—Gordon vs. Jacobson; attorneys, A. M. Schwartz—M. A. Ostrow—A. W. Jacobson.

866—Reaves vs. District of Columbia; attorneys, McNeill & McNeill—corporation counsel.

867—Fritz et al. vs. Friedman; attorneys, J. J. Hayden—A. M. Schwartz.

874—Holmes vs. Page; attorneys, A. J. Billand, B. H. Conner—Elwood Seal, D. C. Eberley, J. B. Eron.

875—Trev Motor Co. vs. Home Indemnity Co.; attorneys, W. B. Guy, F. E. Warder, L. H. Mann—King & Nordlinger.

Equity Cases.

393—Robery vs. Robery; attorneys, D. Edward Clarke—O'Shea, Burnett & Goldstein.

392—Brown vs. Brown; attorneys, Ray Neudecker—Hawen & Havell.

Harde, receiver, vs. Buckley et al.; attorneys, Huston Thompson, H. S. Ward—W. G. Gardner, Warren Craven.

320—National Woodworking vs. Wardman et al.; attorneys, Louis Ottenberg, Kelly & Nicolaides—E. H. Seal, J. D. Sullivan, Douglas, O'bear, Morgan & Campbell; G. R. Linkins, W. F. Cumberland, A. E. Beck.

Stye vs. Gatti; attorneys, Daniel Partridge, 3d—P. J. Nicolaides.

395—Trotter vs. Trotter; attorneys, Wilbert McInerney, J. J. Waters—T. J. Ahearn, M. Colbert.

397—Snyder vs. Cafritz Co.; attorneys, Albert Lyman—Milton Strasburger.

402—Thompson vs. Thompson; attorneys, V. O. Hill—H. P. Long, W. Wendell.

403—Carson vs. Carson; attorneys, H. A. and C. P. Grant, George Hagg—G. E. McNeill, E. Lodge.

406—Patterson vs. Patterson, Jr.; attorneys, D. J. Groff—W. T. Madden.

83—Findley vs. Noakes et al.; attorneys, G. C. McLeish—Simon Fishman.

376—Contella vs. Contella; attorney...

voice inside. The door swung wide, and a machine gun started to chatter. The detectives, outlined clearly in the light, could see only the gun flashes in the darkened room. They hurried for safety as bullets hit into walls around them.

Down the hall and down the stairs, again into the cover of darkness, backed the gangster, always keeping a curtain of gunfire between.

"Rat-a-tat-tat," "rat-a-tat-tat." Karpis was sweeping the street with a leaden hail so Campbell could steal a car from the garage.

Firing as they went, the fugitives sped in one street and out another, twice doubling back from dead ends at the Boardwalk.

In "Snake alley," which winds and bends like a curling reptile, past the rear of the Dan-Mor Hotel, the smaller machine made the turns at higher speed than the clumsy "black maria," and the patrol was lost.

Before fleeing from the hotel district, Karpis amused himself by blowing away at every policeman he saw, and they dotted the neighborhood seeking a chance for a pot shot at him.

"He's worse than Dillinger," they said.

neys, J. C. Turco, D. G. Gallotta—Ray Neudecker.

Horton vs. Horton; attorneys, M. P. Friedlander—J. J. Carmody.

Mullen vs. R. F. C.; attorneys, E. ...

214—Corning Glass Works vs. Coe; attorneys, A. F. Garner—Hostetler.

305—Barghausen vs. Barghausen; attorneys, J. M. Boardman—H. H. Wilson.

352—Zink vs. Briddell Co.; attorneys, R. A. Harman—P. J. J. Nicolaides.

377—Jacoby vs. Jacoby; attorneys, T. A. Doyle, J. J. O'Brien—Welch, Daily & Welch.

18—Turner vs. Turner; attorneys, Morris Abrams—F. A. Hampton, C. A. Sheldor.

206—Dameron vs. Dameron; attorneys, G. C. McLeish—G. E. McNeill, T. Lodge.

252—Fisher vs. Rauscher's, et al.; attorneys, W. ...

273—Mingo vs. Mingo; attorneys, A. F. Canfield—H. M. Goldstein.

299—In re Downes, trustee; attorneys, S. M. Boyd, G. A. Cassidy, Jr.—Fred Stohlman.

312—Beachum vs. Beachum; attorneys, Simon Hirshman—G. S. P. ...

365—Kent vs. Livingstone; attorneys, Douglas, O'bear, Morgan & Campbell—E. C. Kris, Marsh & Tobriner.

400—Meyers Men's Shop vs. Wash. Haberdashery; attorneys, A. L. Newmyer, J. A. Kaufmann—Simon Koenigsberger & Young; S. G. Lichterberg.

149—Hastings vs. Hastings; attorneys, J. C. Wilkes, J. E. Artis—S. Lichtenberg.

14—Robinson vs. Robinson; attorneys, M. J. Lane—P. W. Austin.

366—Cros vs. Coe; attorneys, M. Kitchin—T. A. Hostetler.

385—Franklin vs. Franklin; attorneys, J. J. Carmody—S. D. Williams.

394—D. C. vs. B. & O. R. R.; attorneys, E. H. Seal—Hamilton & Hamilton.

382—Getty vs. Turgeon; attorneys, N. J. Jewett—E. F. Wanderoth, Hostetler.

Carry, Exr., et al. vs. Coe; attorneys, W. T. Estabrook—Hostetler.

321—Herfurth, Jr., Inc. vs. O'Brien; attorneys, E. Degras—Albert Lyman.

displayed with it. They out loud, but to, a bigger first the British plan.
mostly college workers mean little to experts on the Harvard, Princesylvania, An-campuses. Their and their work spots by Mr. tee, which they ory staff.

are against it be-vast new system ally store up $15-000,000,000 in the government. This from labor's pur-
The Government
inflationary ways.
constant temptation lost the allowances here is the constitute the Government States into the situation would that, economically,

again chosen the ver, he offers what price for defeat of 1.

pointments.
the following trio
nts to the board
ter the new social Epstein, wizard systems; Barbara niversity of Cali-now, Jewish fra-

not going to drafting laws
res to pass for y are merely executives and work out the peculiar local

the only two than the to not have urance.

Jobless in-28 States super-brain cial insurere by the solve the they were Woods, who subgram, but et. They for East-son sys-

inter-then he England while he her re-State
indust.

ferred at and Miss died that extend month.

legal ac-

actually put in—that is, that it would not show the amount of the pur-chaser's equity in the account.
Attorney General Wilentz brought out from Frank testimony that the $44,486 was exclusive of any cash loans made by Hauptmann.

Hauptmann said after his arrest that he had loaned the dead Isador Fisch $7,500. He also said that Fisch had given him the ransom money for safe keeping and that, because of the unpaid loan, he had begun to spend it without knowing what it was.
It was Hauptmann's expenditure of a ten-dollar gold note, a ransom bill in the Bronx, and to his subsequent indictment as the kidnaper and mur-derer of the Lindbergh baby.

Frank gave this account of Haupt-mann's stock purchases from 1929 to 1934, with 1930 omitted, and three separate accounts (Hauptmann, Mrs.
Hauptmann, Mrs. Hauptmann, Mrs. maiden name) being considered after 1932:

1929—$1,196.
1931—$2,836.
1932—$4,905.25.
1933—(three accounts), $356,442.15.
1934—$10,982.55.
Frank said there was also one small commodity account in 1933 for which he had no figures.

Relly brought out in cross-examination that Hauptmann and his wife deposited a total of $12,830.28 in a joint account from 1928 until 1933.
Hauptmann appeared to be the most alert listener in the court room as Frank gave his testimony. He kept a financial statement in his lap and scrutinized it as he followed each question and answer.

The defense attorney fairly thundered when he asked Frank if one of Hauptmann's bank accounts, opened three months after the kidnaping in Mount Vernon, N. Y., had not started with "the large sum of $52.50?"
"With the sum of $52.50, yes," the Government man said.

Had Money Before Kidnaping.
Relly traced over the bank accounts, and finishing this, he asked:
"So that Anna and Richard both had money before the kidnaping, did they not?"
"Yes, sir."

"And they were both doing a banking business?"
"Yes, sir."

"They were depositors in banks?"
"Their deposits ran $1,800, $2,100, as high as maybe $2,800 a year?"
"Yes, sir."

"Both before and after the kidnaping?"
"After the kidnaping they were higher than that."

"How much higher?"
"1933, the total deposits in the bank accounts were $5,607.50."
"What were the withdrawals?"
"$1,022.03."

"And what was the withdrawal the next year?"
"1934, $319.30."

"And what was the balance when it was closed?"
"$2,500 and some odd."

"Within $50 of what it was when it was opened?"
"Yes, sir."

The defense chief also got Frank to say that Hauptmann began buying stocks on margin in 1930.
"Then he didn't need so much money?" Relly suggested.
"No, sir," Frank agreed.

Defense Drills Brums.
With only three days remaining before it starts to present its own case, the defense drilled Hauptmann for the star role he must play in the attempt to save himself from the electric chair.
His chief counsel gave Hauptmann copies of his own accounts to study and coached him about the questions,

several years.
Mrs. Hoff, mother of two boys and a girl, said she gave her story to James M. Pawcett, former attorney for Hauptmann, and it was investigated by Henry Kress, who has served Pawcett, and also Hauptmann's present chief of counsel, Edward J. Relly, as investigator.

"I was subpoenaed by Mr. Relly to appear in Flemington on January 8, but he told me it was too early to come over. He said I should wait until they were ready for me," said Mrs. Hoff.

"Mr. Pawcett told me that the Bronx hearing did not require my story, because it was only to bring Hauptmann to New Jersey."

Mrs. Hoff said that after the kidnaping "I gave the police the information I had, but all we heard from it was that the Department of Justice had opened an investigation into new angles of the case. That was about eight days after the kidnaping."

Certain Fisch Was Involved.
"I am certain that Isador Fisch was involved and equally certain that these other people were as well. I saw Fisch sometime later, when he wanted to leave two suit cases and two small packages at my home."

"By that time I had come to know so much of these people that I refused to have anything to do with them."

"I was with Mrs. Hauptmann, under subpoena, when Hauptmann went to court in the Bronx to fight extradition to New Jersey."

"The little revolver produced at the trial, the one that was found in the Hauptmann home, was similar to one that had been stolen from my home by the family I had in mind. I am almost certain it was the one, but it will be hard to prove, because the customs records which carried its number have been destroyed."

Her circumstantial case against the persons she said she would name involved their being near Hopewell just before the crime, possession of ladders and other major factors in the case.

Fisch Known as "John."
Mrs. Curt Schwartz, another Bronx housewife, said today Isador Fisch was known as "John" during a trans-Atlantic crossing after the Lindbergh kidnaping.

"John" was the name taken by the man who collected the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom—a part imputed to Fisch by Hauptmann's defense.

"Fisch was a most peculiar character," Mrs. Schwartz said in an interview. "My husband and I sailed with him on the steamship Washington Leipzig to die."

"He always gave us his name as
'John' on the ship; and later, when he wrote us two letters and two postal cards from Leipzig, he signed that name to them."

"We did not think to look up his real name on the passenger list until long after the voyage. Then we found it was Isador."

Mrs. Schwartz said that she had asked relatives in Germany to find Fisch's correspondence with the signature, "John."

"But I do not expect to go to Flemington to testify," she said. "I have too much work to do around home."

Mrs. Schwartz was also examined by Kress. Neither she nor her husband has consented to testify in the defendant's behalf.

Says Fisch Aged Funny.
Mrs. Schwartz said Fisch's name and address, as recorded during the voyage in her husband's address book, were "John Fisch, Johannisstrasse 45, Leipzig."
She said Fisch was extremely 11—Moran vs. District of Columbia; attorneys, Clifford—Bettymann, West, Gary.

12—Wee vs. Poe; attorneys, Dobbins
—Wilson.
13—Brams vs. District of Columbia; attorneys, Halpern—Bettymann, Gray.
14—State of Eva—Bloodsaw; attorneys, Gray, Dodson, Gaskins—Wellford.
15—York Corrugating Co. vs. Wilcox; attorney, Coe.

Criminal Division 1—Justice Lehning.
Trials:
United States vs. Tom La Rose.
United States vs. John Callahan.
United States vs. Herbert I. Burke.
United States vs. William Young.
United States vs. William Camarda and Thomas Camarda.
United States vs. George McK. Davis.
United States vs. John Gross.
United States vs. Walter Fowler.
United States vs. Sina Chambers.
United States vs. William Glenn.

Criminal Division 2—Justice Procter.
Trials:
United States vs. James I. Haley.
Melvin Crutcher.
United States
Parran.
United States vs. Erastus Jarmon.
Steven R. Gates, Charles E. Young.
United States vs. Sam Kushner, Morris Greenfield.

Law Cases.
844—Manoughly vs. Deep; attorneys, P. J. Sedwick—Welch, Daily
& Welch.
845—Pietz vs. Bateman, exr.; attorneys, Pif. Inc. P.—A. G. Lambert, G. L. Hart, Jr.
832—Jorgele vs. Wilcott; attorneys, C. A. Thompson, D. Edw. Clarke
—H. I. Quinn.
835—Klots vs. Prescott-White Corp.; attorneys, Kelly & Nicolaides—Levi
David, H. J. Pacht.
832—Schultz, et al. vs. et al.; attorneys, A. L. Newmyer—H. I. Quinn.
821—Selzer vs. Ottenstein; attorneys, John Paul Jones—Simon, Koenigsberger & Young.
756, 757, 758, 759—Schlicht et al. vs.

nervous when he disembarked at Hamburg, December 15, 1933.
"He acted terribly funny," she said.
"When the customs inspectors came on board, Fisch turned out pale and shaking."

"He looked as though he were almost about to collapse, and his spectator suspicious."

"They gave our luggage just the usual examination, but they looked through Fisch's baggage very carefully."

"As I remember, he had only a suitcase and a handbag, but he trembled so much that he could scarcely get them open."

"He had two boxes of chocolate.
The inspectors were so suspicious that they tore the corners off the tops of the boxes to see if he had anything sealed in them."

"Fisch had talked with us a good deal on the trip, and we noticed that on the day prior to our landing he seemed to be in good spirits and health."

"But he could scarcely get down the gangplank, he sort of wobbled down it and had to be helped."

"During the ride from the pier, he continued to be sick and nervous."

Mrs. Schwartz said that throughout the trip Fisch gave every evidence of suffering from tuberculosis.

Fisch went to Germany with Henry Uhlig of New York, who is prepared to testify for Hauptmann. Uhlig has said several circumstances surrounding the mysterious Fisch indicate Hauptmann unwittingly stored part of the ransom money for Fisch.

472—Habib vs. et al.; attorneys, Savings Bank, O'Connell—Vigani & Sotheron.
121—Patterson vs. S
attorneys, George Pringle, H. Ward,
Hamilton & Offutt;
W. McLean—V. Dula;
125—Schaefer vs. T.
torneys, E. & Jackson, I.
L. H. Vandem.
790—Moncrie vs. Le-torneys, R. C. Owick—V.
& Welch.
795—Allman Weather-
Union Weatherstrip Co.; a.
E. Steinem—J. N. Halpern.
799—Douvan
attorneys, E. C. Dutton-Marshall & Hart.
902—Fris & Co. vs. H.
ceiver; attorneys, Foster:
Huston Thompson, H. S. W.
Eure vs. Borden; attor-
Sandars—C. E. Morganston to quash writ.)
Adm.—Re estate of E.
Biggs; attorneys, W. O. G.
M. Earnest—Paele, Lash &
L. Newmyer.

73—Burgess vs. United America; attorneys, James
United States attorney.
270—Diney vs. District
his; attorneys, A. D. E.
Quinn—E. H. Seal.
512—Wilcox vs. Lamb;
H. P. Cochran—Welch, Daily
& Cable Co.; attorneys, M.
—E. L. Jones.
861—Robb vs. Mullen; attor-
C. Wilks—C. H. Doherty.
848—Levenson et al. vs.
Corp.; attorneys, W. R. L.
M. F. Schwartz—Wright & 854—Newman vs. Shoemaker; torney Harry Friedman.
855, 856—Goldenberg et al. v.
Cab Co.; attorneys, O'Rea, B.
Schlicht—M. P. Friedlander.
858—Gibson vs. Jacobson;
neys A. M. Schwartz, M. A. Ost-
A. W. Jacobson.

866—Reaves vs. District of Co-his; attorneys, McNeill & McN corporation counsel.
867—Fris et al. vs. Friedman;
neys, J. J. Hayden—A. M. Sch-
874—Holmes vs. Pate; attor-
J. Billand, B. H. Comer—Elwood
D. C. Eberley, J. B. Leroy.
878—Trew Motor Co. vs. Home
demnity Co.; attorneys, W. B.
F. B. Warder, L. H. Mann—Kil-Nordlinger.

Equity Cases.
393—Robby vs. Robby; attorneys:
Edward Clarke—O'Shea, Burnett, Goldstein.
392—Brown vs. Brown; attor-
Ray Neudecker—Hawken & Hav-Harde, receiver, vs. Buckley et al.
attorneys, Huston Thompson.
S. Ward—W. G. Gardiner, War-Craven.

320—National Woodworking Wardman et al.; attorneys, Louis C. tenberg, Kelly & Nicolaides—E.
Seal, J. D. Sullivan, Douglas, Obe-Morgan & Campbell; G. R. Link.
W. F. Cumberland, A. E. Beck.
Stye vs. Gatti; attorneys, Dan.
Partridge, 3d—P. J. Nicolaides.
396—Trotter vs. Trotter; attorney
Wilbert McInerney, J. J. Waters—
J. Ahearn, M. Colbert.

397—Snyder vs. Cafritz Co.; attorneys, Albert Lyman—Milton Straburger.
402—Thompson vs. Thompson; a-torneys, V. O. Hill—H. P. Long, W.
Wendell.
403—Carson vs. Carson; attorney:
H. A. and C. P. Grant, George Hap-
G. E. McNeil, E. Lodge.

406—Patterson vs. Patterson, Jr. attorneys, D. J. Groff—W. T. Madden.
83—Pindley vs. Noakes et al.; attorneys, G. C. McLeish—Simon Fleishman.
378—Contella vs. Contella; attor-

QUIT 2 DAYS AFTER $50,000 PAYMENT IN BRONX CEMETERY, TIMEKEEPER SAYS

Disclosure Follows Court's Refusal of Reilly's Mistrial Plea—Judge Takes Notes on Bruno's Assets.

"THIS MAY BE OF GREAT IMPORTANCE," HE SAYS

Defense Reveals Two Bronx
Housewives Have Evidence Linking Isador Fisch With Kidnaping and Murder of Baby.

Reilly's Question to Woman Creates Hiss in Courtroom

By the Associated Press
(Copyright, 1935.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., January 21.—Bruno Hauptmann's chief attorney, Edward J. Reilly, was hissed for a question put to a woman witness at the trial here today.

The witness was Mrs. Cecelia
Barr, cashier of the Sheridan Theater in New York, who testified Hauptmann bought a ticket on November 26, 1933, and tendered a $5 note, identified as a ransom bill, in payment.

The hiss, from some spectator, followed Reilly's suggestion that Mrs. Barr might have expected a Hollywood contract for her part in the murder trial.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)
FLEMINGTON, N. J., January 21.—

Testimony that Bruno Richard Hauptmann quit his employment two days after the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom was paid, and that his and his wife's assets swelled $44,486 after the ransom payment, was given to his murder jury
today.

Edward P. Morton, a construction timekeeper at the Majestic Apartments in New York, testifying in Hauptmann's trial for the kidnaping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., said Hauptmann began his employment as a carpenter there on March 21, 1932, 21 days after the kidnaping; that he did not work April 2, the day of the ransom payment, and that he quit without notice after completing his work on April 4, 1932.

The Lindbergh ransom was paid on April 2, 1932.

Testimony of a Treasury accountant, William E. Frank, who reported a detailed audit of Hauptmann's banking and stock dealings before and after the ransom payment, showing the swollen assets after the payment, led to an unsuccessful defense motion for a mistrial.

Telephone Official Testifies.

Another witness, Bernard L. Pink of the New York Telephone Co., testified on a change in telephone number for Dr. John F. (Jesse) Condon, ransom intermediary, establishing that Dr. Condon's number before the change was Sedgwick 3-7154. This

Reilly's Question to Woman Creates Hiss in Courtroom

By the Associated Press.
(Copyright, 1935.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., January 21.—Bruno Hauptmann's chief attorney, Edward J. Reilly, was hissed for a question put to a woman witness at the trial here today.

The witness was Mrs. Cecelia Barr, cashier of the Sheridan Theater in New York, who testified Hauptmann bought a ticket on November 26, 1933, and tendered a $5 note, identified as a ransom bill, in payment.

The hiss, from some spectator, followed Reilly's suggestion that Mrs. Barr might have expected a Hollywood contract for her part in the murder trial.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., January 21.—Testimony that Bruno Richard Hauptmann quit his employment two days after the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom was paid, and that his and his wife's assets swelled $44,486 after the ransom payment, was given to his murder jury today.

Edward F. Morton, a construction timekeeper at the Majestic Apartments in New York, testifying in Hauptmann's trial for the kidnaping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., said Hauptmann began his employment as a carpenter there on March 21, 1932, 21 days after the kidnaping; that he did not work April 2, the day of the ransom payment, and that he quit without notice after completing his work on April 4, 1932.

The Lindbergh ransom was paid on April 2, 1932.

Testimony of a Treasury accountant, William E. Frank, who reported a detailed audit of Hauptmann's banking and stock dealings before and after the ransom payment, showing the swollen assets after the payment, led to an unsuccessful defense motion for a mistrial.

Telephone Official Testifies.

Another witness, Bernard L. Fink of the New York Telephone Co., testified on a change in telephone number for Dr. Joan P. (Jasie) Condon, ransom intermediary, establishing that Dr. Condon's number before the change was Sedgewick 3-7154. This number, it has been testified, was found penciled on a board in a closet of Hauptmann's home.

Miss Cecelia Barr, cashier of the Sheridan Theater in New York City, identified Bruno Hauptmann as the man who gave her a Lindbergh ransom note on November 26, 1933.

Miss Barr, under questioning by Attorney General Wilentz, showed how the five dollar bill was folded when Hauptmann tossed it into her ticket cage that night.

Mistrial Plea Denied.

A short time before Hauptmann's defense made its second unsuccessful move for a mistrial.

Justice Trenchard promptly denied the mistrial motion, which was entered on the ground that Attorney General Wilentz had improperly brought in the name of Col. Lindbergh, in connection with a question on the purchase of aviation stock by Hauptmann.

"It was merely an attempt to get this famous man's name before the jury," Defense Chief Edward J. Reilly declared.

Expert Explains Transactions.

Frank gave a detailed accounting of Hauptmann's and Mrs. Hauptmann's banking and stock trading activities before and after the payment of the Lindbergh ransom on April 2, 1932, and testified that their assets increased $44,486 after the payment. This, he said, included the $14,600 ransom money found in Hauptmann's garage, and excluded any cash loans made by Hauptmann.

The agent testified also that the stock purchases of the Hauptmanns jumped from $2,836 in 1931 to $4,905.25 in 1932 and to $254,442.15 in 1933, the year after the ransom payment.

The defense sought to show that the increased stock transactions came through margin dealings, and that it would have been impossible for Hauptmann to have purchased the

EXPERT DISCLOSES HAUPTMANN DEALS

Justice Trenchard Takes Down Figures for Personal Notes.

By the Associated Press.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., January 21.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's prosecution today opened a final drive of testimony and evidence to complete its murder case against the man accused of kidnapping and murdering Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Sensing that the closing days of the State's case would be replete with rapid-fire developments, spectators turned out early and packed the court room well before convening time.

Hauptmann was later than usual in arriving in court. He looked well rested from the week end recess, but his pale face was as expressionless as ever.

Associate Defense Counsel Egbert Rosecrans, who was waiting at the defense table, immediately engaged the prisoner, reading to him from a lengthy letter. Hauptmann followed the document with great interest.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard meanwhile arrived and the sisters were cleared for the incoming jurors.

Col. Lindbergh Arrives
Looking Tired and Worn.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived in court a moment before the trial began, following his business adviser, Col. Henry Breckinridge. He still wore the gray suit, without vest, that he has worn since the trial began. His blond hair was slightly mussed across his forehead, as though he had been driving a car, hatless, in the wind.

Justice Trenchard took the bench at 10:05 and court got under way with the polling of the jury.

Col. Lindbergh took his accustomed seat behind the prosecution table. He looked tired and worn from the days of daily court appearances.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz called William E. Frank, an agent of the United States Treasury Department's intelligence unit.

A general attitude of cheerfulness prevailed at the defense table. Hauptmann and his wife, laughing and smiling, talked of their child Manfred. Edward J. Reilly and his associate counsel were smiling and talking together.

Wilentz directed the stocky witness' attention to the finances of Mr. and Mrs. Hauptmann.

Q. How much moneys were there to his credit, her credit, or both on April 2, 1932?

A. In the Central Savings Bank there was $203.90.

Wilentz asked if the Hauptmanns had stock market holdings at that time.

"Yes."

Pope Objects

To Line of Testimony.

Frederick A. Pope arose, objecting to the line of Frank's testimony as irrelevant and immaterial to the case.

He spoke specifically of Wilentz's question on the assets of Hauptmann and his wife on April 2, 1932, the day of the ransom payment.

Frank said that the market holdings of Hauptmann on April 2, 1932,

Defense Aide

MRS. BERTHA HOFF,

German-American housewife, who is ready to name persons other than Bruno Hauptmann as the Lindbergh baby kidnaper-killer, according to Hauptmann's lawyers. One of those she will accuse will be the late Isidor Fisch, with whom she was acquainted, the attorneys said.

He requested the court stenographer to read the answer back to him. A pause ensued while he made a note of the tabulations, saying "this may be of great importance to me."

"That is exclusive of any cash loan, made by the defendant?" inquired the attorney general.

"Yes."

The State was apparently laying the groundwork for testimony on the $7,500 loan the Bronx alien said he made to the late Isidor Fisch, his business partner, and who he said left the ransom money in his care.

Frank said the total of Hauptmann's stock purchases in 1929 was $1,186; 1930 omitted; 1931, $2,836; 1932, $4,905.25.

In 1933 separate accounts were maintained, Frank added. In the Anna Schoeffel (Mrs. Hauptmann's maiden name) account that year, he asserted the total purchases were $256,442.15.

This account, in Hauptmann's wife's name, was carried, he said, with Steiner-Rouse & Co.

Three accounts were carried, the witness added, one by Hauptmann, one in his wife's maiden name and one in her married name.

Q. Was there any other account that year?

A. There was a small commodity account. I haven't any figures for the total purchases in that.

Q. How about stock accounts in 1934?

A. There was one account with $7,905, and another smaller one with $3,077.55, the purchase value of stocks sold.

Treasury Expert Tells of Mrs. Hauptmann's Accounts.

Wilentz then turned Frank over to Reilly for cross-examination.

Reilly brought out from Frank that the defendant's wife had opened a bank account on October 27, 1924, in the Central Savings Bank in New York.

How much did she deposit?

A. $200.

ance of $328 was repaid by check to Hauptmann, who deposited it in the Central Savings Bank.

First Wall Street
Profit of $3.60 Brings Laugh.

Reilly slowly went from entry to entry on the Hauptmann Carleton & Mott stock statement.

There were numerous smiles when it came out that the Bronx alien's first market transaction in the black Wall Street days of '29 netted him a profit of $3.60.

The profit came on the sale of a block of Ford Motor Co. of Canada.

After the sale of Hauptmann's Ford stock, the testimony continued, he bought 50 shares of Fox Film "A" with the cash available in his account and a cash deposit of $76.

On December 30, 1929, he owned, in addition, 100 shares of Club Aluminum and 40 shares of American Super Power.

In February, 1930, Reilly brought out, Hauptmann began dealing in margin.

Q. Then he didn't need so much money?

A. No, sir.

Reilly, holding photostatic copies of Hauptmann's account sheets, showed through the witness, that the defendant owed his broker $1,537.81 on his margin trading in March, 1930.

"On June 30, 1930, almost two years before the kidnaping," Reilly asked, "Hauptmann owned 255 shares of stock?"

Frank affirmed.

The testimony droned on. Each time a stock was bought or sold, each time cash was put in the account or taken out, each time a balance was taken on the statement, Reilly had the witness explain fully Hauptmann's Wall Street operations. It was a tedious business.

A five-minute recess was called at 11:34 a.m.

Court resumed at 11:45 to hear further details of Hauptmann's career as a Wall Street operator.

Frank took up his recital at July, 1930.

Expert Expected
To Be on Stand All Day.

There were indications that the little, full-faced expert might occupy the witness stand chair for most of the day.

Special Assistant Attorney General George K. Large said the prosecution had "only started" with the witness. As soon as Reilly finishes his cross-examination of the State, he said, would bring out more market transactions on redirect.

The stock in Hauptmann's account at the end of January, 1931, Frank added, was sold out, leaving him a credit of $913.17.

Reilly turned to transactions with Pierce & Co.

Frank recounted similar market operations with that brokerage firm.

Reilly asked that it be clearly indicated on the records of the Steiner-Rouse account that it began in August, 1932.

On August 8, 1932, Hauptmann delivered into his account at Steiner-Rouse 100 shares of Warner Bros. pictures and 500 Curtiss-Wright, Frank said.

Frank said Hauptmann bought the Curtiss-Wright stock April 29, 1932.

At the end of August, 1932, the witness added, Hauptmann had a balance of $500, after a withdrawal by check of $746.60.

Hauptmann's trading continued throughout September, October, November and December, 1932, the quiet little financial expert recounted. Reilly led him on into the transactions of 1933. In January sales totaled $2,380 and purchases approximately $2,100.

Deficit Was $1,165
at End of February, 1933.

Bruno Hauptmann He Can "Exp"

Paces Cell Rehearsal Tell on Stand in Damning Evidence

BY ANNE GORDON SUYDAM.

FLEMINGTON, January 21.—For many days, as damning evidence piled up against him until it has become a cumulative deluge of accusation, Bruno Richard Hauptmann has promised his wife, Anna, that when his time comes he will take the stand and vindicate himself in the eyes of the world.

Bruno, in the brief moments of privacy allowed him by the clanking guards, who anticipate his unanticipated move, has told his wife that he can "explain everything."

Within the next few hours the Bronx carpenter will have the opportunity of making good his boast.

His adoring wife, who, as the typical German mate, enjoys only such fragments of confidence as her husband chooses to toss her, awaits that dramatic moment when Chief of Defense Counsel Reilly calls her husband to the stand.

Testimony Means Much.

It means far more to her than it does to the greedy public which will pack the court room. She has taken the stand, flinging her defy and her confidence forth, that her "Richard" will give the lie to the long parade of witnesses who have passed through the ancient court room here to pass him as the most despicable infanticide since the sin of Herod.

Bruno Richard Hauptmann spent Sunday talking to the unsparing walls of his cell—pacing, pacing—rehearsing over and over the story he will tell the jury one day this week in desperate effort to save himself from the electric chair where the State of New Jersey is determined to put him for the murder of the Lindbergh baby. Hauptmann has been at work on his testimony for several days, under the direction of Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel. Through Reilly he said yesterday:

"The real story has not been told. Only a pack of lies, lies, lies. I will tell the truth . . . and I will be believed. I can explain everything that has been said against me, and the jury will know I am telling the truth. I can hardly wait. It is torture to sit there day after day and hear them tell such lies. My time will come, when I will prove all of them have made up stories."

Looks Forward to Taking Stand.

Hauptmann is looking forward eagerly to taking the stand in his own behalf. Indications were today that his chance will come either late tomorrow or Wednesday. On one of those days Attorney General David T. Wilentz is expected to announce to the court:

"If the court please, the State rests."

Then will come one of the most dramatic moments of this trial. Reilly will turn to his client and his words will electrify the court room which now promises to be loaded beyond capacity by the worst crush of human bodies it ever has known. He will say:

"Bruno Richard Hauptmann, take the stand."

It will be the moment for which the world has been waiting. Col. Reilly has been waiting. Col. Reilly has been waiting.

Confident in Everything

ing Story He Will Effort to Break ence of State.

Condon caught in the meshes of this amazing mystery were the featured players. . . but now comes the headliner, Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

He stands in the wings, going over his lines. That damning ladder, those ransom notes, the identification by the Jehu, Perrone; the stacks of the world's hottest money in his garage, the accusation in the bony finger of old Amandus Hockmuth, who said he saw the Bronx carpenter near the Lindbergh estate the day of the crime. . . All of these things Hauptmann has promised to explain in such a manner that the jury is expected to believe him the victim of a more amazing chain of circumstances than any fiction writer ever dared put into a story plot.

Expected to Blame Fisch.

It is reported that Hauptmann will stick to the story implied all along by his defense—viz, that Isadore Fisch, dead and buried these many months, committed the crime and then tried to throw the blame on his friend by imitating his handwriting in the ransom notes and leaving him in unwitting custody of the hot money.

The defense is said to have three witnesses in hiding who will come forward this week and swear that Fisch asked them to take charge of the shoe box full of money, the same shoe box which Hauptmann says he eventually agreed to take charge of and hide in a broom closet in his home.

This is the shoe box which Hauptmann says became soaked with water and fell apart, revealing the ransom bills, which he subsequently secreted in his garage in an attempt to keep faith with his friend, who had gone to Germany in search of health. And Bruno in possession of wealth. So what, and incidentally, so why?

In addition, the defense promises to produce witnesses to prove that Fisch conducted a crooked fur business and that he operated in Hopewell, near the Lindbergh home, and even in this town, where Hauptmann now is on trial. Reilly indicates he can prove by these witnesses that Fisch was often in the vicinity of the Lindbergh home and knew the ground thoroughly. And Hauptmann, he says, never was in this part of Jersey in his life.

While the State is near the end of its deadly recital, it has not yet told all it has to tell. The chisel found with the ladder on the ground under the nursery window is a most important link, if reports from the prosecution's camp can be believed. Wilentz, it is rumored, is prepared to show that Hauptmann possessed such a chisel, graduated from a fine tool up to a broad-bladed one. There was one missing from the set found in his garage.

The chisel found on the Lindbergh estate fills that gap in the set.

The State also has Millard Whited, a lumberjack neighbor of the Lindberghs, who will swear he saw Hauptmann prowling in the vicinity of the colonel's home a few days after the kidnaping. It also has other witnesses, including Ben Lupica, a Princeton student, and Frank Rossiter, a theatrical booking agent, who will $15,000 worth of stock and sold approximately $4,000 worth on June 8. He found it necessary to deposit $3,228 to protect his margin the next day.

Q. It was not unusual for a man to go into Wall Street and deal in blocks of 10, 15 or 100 shares?

A. No, sir. These were in 100 lots. The public dealt, at the time, in odd-lot shares (less than 100).

In two days in June, Frank pointed out, Hauptmann's operations brought him $1,000 profit.

There was a debit of $7,973.72 in the account, Frank estimated, at the end of June, in contrast to a balance of approximately $3,800 at the beginning.

During the month, he said, Hauptmann dealt in stocks valued at $50,531.

Approximately $8,000

Left for Further Operations.

Hauptmann reduced his stock holdings approximately $6,000 near the end of June, the witness continued, but, at Reilly's often-repeated question, agreed that the cash resulting remained in the account for further operations.

Reilly, oblivious to the boredom of his audience and the jury, plunged ahead into the maze of Hauptmann's accounts for July, 1933. He brought out the carpenter's operations during the month included the purchase of more than $16,000 worth of stock.

The July operations, however, required additional cash totaling $4,500, Frank pointed out. The early dealings in August, 1933, brought only small profits, not greater than $200, Reilly drew from the witness.

Reilly sought to elicit testimony that at the start of August Hauptmann started to unload the stock holdings he had accumulated. The Government expert, however, quickly corrected him and said that, on the contrary, Hauptmann added to his string of stocks during the month rather than decreasing it.

Hauptmann's Stock Holdings Increased Monthly.

"At the end of August he had a debit balance of $11,791.30," the witness read from the statement.

Hauptmann's debits were growing as each month progressed and his holdings of stocks became more lengthy.

In a summary of the dealings in the latter part of August through 1934, Reilly said Hauptmann, using margin accounts, held $50,000 to $60,000 worth of stocks each month.

Frank agreed.

Q. Nothing unusual for a man to go into Wall Street with $10,000 and deal on margin?

A. No, sir.

"I think that's all," said Reilly, and Wilentz reclaimed the witness for redirect.

Wilentz, taking up the redirect questioning, said: "The trading is not unusual, but where he got the $10,000 is the important part, isn't it?"

"Yes, sir," said Frank.

The witness said losses occurred in Hauptmann's dealing "subsequent to the period Mr. Reilly asked about."

Q. In what amount did the losses exceed the profits from April 2, 1932, and the date of Hauptmann's arrest in September, 1934?

A. $5,728.63.

Q. But what was the Hauptmann bank balance on April 2, 1932?

A. $203.90.

Q. In 1933 stock operations were much less than prior to the crash?

A. Yes.

Dealings Heavier After Ransom Was Paid.

Wilentz, suddenly very alert, began to drive home by testimony that Hauptmann, in 1933, was trading in bigger blocks of stock than he did in 1929.

Q. He bought a great many more shares after the ransom was paid?

ton & Mott, were calling for $74 to balance his account.

Q. I notice these were 100's of shares of aviation stocks?

A. Yes, sir.

Account Inactive Prior to the Kidnaping.

The Steiner-Rouse account, Wilentz brought out was an active account in 1932 and 1933, but the Carleton & Mott account prior to the kidnaping was relatively inactive.

Hauptmann had bought 800 shares of Curtiss-Wright stocks and Wilentz asked: "Do you know Col. Lindbergh was interested in aviation?"

Reilly objected as "merely an attempt to get this famous man's name before the jury."

He "respectfully" asked for a mistrial.

Reilly said Wilentz had admitted before the jury that the intention of the question relating to Col. Lindbergh was to let them know that the famous figure was interested in aviation.

Justice Trenchard denied the motion and instructed the jury to disregard the question bringing up Lindbergh's connection with aviation.

$4,500 Deposited in Brokerage Account.

Wilentz, swinging suddenly to a new tack, inquired how much money was passed into the brokerage account in July, 1933.

A. From July 24, 1933, there was deposited in the brokerage account $4,500.

Q. Did that money come out of the Hauptmann bank accounts?

A. No, no money came out of the Hauptmann bank accounts at that time.

The attorney general then demanded if, on the contrary, money had actually been deposited in the bank accounts during that same July period. The witness said there had been deposits during that period.

Wilentz, in recapitulation, of the entire period since the ransom payment, brought out that deposits continued in both the bank and brokerage account and no withdrawals were made from the latter.

The bank deposits, Frank said, totaled $9,073.25 and deposits for stock dealing $16,942.75.

Reilly took over the witness for recross. He had the expert State that the $5,000 loss Hauptmann was computed for the entire period from April 2, 1932, the ransom day, and September 19, 1934, the day of Hauptmann's arrest.

Q. Did you ever hear of any cash in the Steiner-Rouse account ever coming back as Lindbergh ransom money?

A. No, sir.

Q. Or any of the other accounts?

A. No, sir.

Wilentz resumed questioning Frank.

Q. Between October, 1924, and April, 1932, how much silver was deposited by the Hauptmanns.

A. $147.

Q. How much silver was deposited from April 2, 1932, the day the ransom was paid, until the date of Hauptmann's arrest?

A. The figure is $453.25.

Frank was excused.

Court recessed for five minutes at 3:06.

Bernard L. Fink, New York telephone company executive, was called next by Wilentz to tell of the changing of the phone number of Dr. John F. Condon, ransom intermediary.

Fink is manager of the division office of the company in the Bronx through which the change was ordered.

Q. On April 2, 1932, was Dr. Condon's telephone number changed?

A. It was.

Q. After that, did he have a listed telephone number or a private telephone number?

A. A private number.

Wilentz then brought out that between the day of the kidnaping, March 1, 1932, and April 12, 1932, 10 days after the ransom payment, Condon's number was Sedgwick 3-7154.

This was the same number found penciled in Hauptmann's handwriting in a closet in Hauptmann's Bronx home.

Reilly took the witness for a brief cross-examination.

A new telephone directory without Dr. Condon's number listed was distributed in May, 1932, he said, and was excused.

Timekeeper Tells of Bruno's Employment.

Edward F. Morton, construction timekeeper at the Majestic Apartments in New York, was called next to tell of the period of employment there of Hauptmann.

He identified Hauptmann as having been one of the employees in the early part of 1932.

The time book of the construction job and Hauptmann's employment card were produced, and the card was accepted in evidence over defense objection.

A few minutes later the time book, kept in the witness' handwriting, was then offered and accepted, again over defense protests.

Frederick A. Pope, objecting to the admission, said there was no "issue" in the case involving employment of the defendant.

Wilentz showed the witness the time book and asked if Hauptmann had worked April 1, 1932.

"He did."

Q. Did he work on April 2, the day of the ransom payment?

A. Bruno Richard Hauptmann did not work on April 2, 1932.

Reilly objected to Wilentz's "constant references to ransom payments and aviation." Wilentz rephrased his question.

Morton went on to tell that Haupt-

(Continued on Fourth Page.)

LAWYERS' BRIEFS
RUSH PRINTING
BYRON S. ADAMS
"I Never Disappoint"

"See and See Better"

It takes time and care to make a thorough examination of the eyes—but we do it that way and we find it's best. Best because it insures satisfactory vision to you. That's the service you want and that's the service you will get if you do your work.

ETZ

Optometrists

1217 G St. N.W.

day was $100.
"It was selling for $2 a share on that day," Frank added.
Q. So that on April 2 the total cash and stock assets of the Hauptmanns was $203.90 in a bank and $100 in stocks?

A. Yes.
Q. Will you tell us how much cash was put into the brokerage accounts by the Hauptmanns from April 2, 1932, to September 19, 1934, the day of Hauptmann's arrest?

A. From April 2, 1932, to September 19, 1934, the total deposits in all the brokerage accounts of the defendant and his wife was $16,942.75.

"The total amount of cash deposits in the bank accounts," Frank continued, "was $9,073.25."

Q. There were some withdrawals from those brokerage and bank accounts?

Unable to Trace Some Cash Withdrawals.

A. There were other deposits, but they were transfers and I have eliminated those. There were some cash withdrawals and I was unable to trace the disposition of them.

Q. Have you inspected the brokerage accounts of the defendant and his wife?

A. I have.

Q. Can you tell us whether there was a profit or loss in all the brokerage accounts up until April 2, 1932?

A. There was a profit in that account. It was with Cash & Co. Frank said it amounted to $3,463.60.

Q. Give us the profit or loss in the Hauptmann account between April 2, 1932, and September 19, 1934.

A. There was a profit of $5,728.63. The total of these losses was $9,192.23.

Wilents then requested the Treasury expert to total all the assets which came into the Hauptmanns' possession after April 2, 1932, the ransom pay-off day.

The attorney general told the witness to include in the total the $14,600 ransom money found in the garage, the $120 in gold coins found in the Hauptmann house, and a $3,750 mortgage the Hauptmanns had prior to the kidnaping.

Pope objected to the question as "hypothetical." If the question was confined to figures already in evidence Pope said, he would remove his objection.

Wilents said it was confined to "just that."

Frank said the total was $44,486.

Justice Trenchard Takes Notes on Figures.

Justice Trenchard showed great interest in the figures produced and re-

SPECIAL NOTICES.

ON TUES. JAN. 29. AT 1 P.M. THERE will be sold at public auction, at Sworzn's Auction Rooms, 931 H st. n.w., unclaimed baggage and personal effects by order of American Express Co.

JOHN C. HELD, 6205 33rd st. n.w. 22

I WILL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE FOR ANY debts made by any other than myself.

O. E. SAMUELS, 218 Second st. s.w. 21

LONG DISTANCE MOVING.

Special return load rates from Orlando, Fla. and way points. Washington and New York after January 21. Birmingham, Ala. and returning points. New York City and New England points weekly. Large, padded vans. Full insurance coverage. Ace Vanportation Corp., 613 Woodward Bldg., 15th and H n.w. Phone National 3311. Nights and Sundays. Cite and 5646.

DAILY TRIPS MOVING GOODS AND part loads to and from Balto., Phila. and New York. Frequent trips to other Eastern cities. Dependable Service Since 1899. THE DAVIDSON TRUCK & STORAGE CO., Decatur 2500.

WEEKLY TRIPS TO AND FROM BALTI- more; also trips within 24 hours notice to any point in United States. SMITH'S TRANSFER & STORAGE CO., Wash 3343.

ELECTRICAL REPAIRS AND Shop on Wheels, Inc., have shown all over town to serve you. See your Telephone Directory for branch nearest you or call Wisconsin 4821. No job too small or large.

CHAMBERS is one of the largest undertakers in the world. Complete funerals as low as $75 up. Six chapels, twelve parlors, fifteen cars, hearses and ambulances, twenty-five undertakers and assistants.

posits in the next five years varied between $1,000 and $2,000.

The account closed in 1928, Frank said.

Reilly asked the Treasury expert to total the bank deposits Mrs. Hauptmann made in the five years before the account was changed from her maiden name, Anna Schoeffel, to a joint account with her husband in January, 1928.

"$5,377.97," the witness replied.
Q. Was $3,750 drawn out in October, 1927?

A. Yes.

When the account closed in January, 1928, there was slightly more than $100 in it, the investigator said. A joint account was opened in 1929, with a deposit that year of $1,539.35; in 1930, $1,447.50; 1931, $619.25, and 1932, $3,146.52.

Q. And in 1933—up until the account closed in March?

A. $2,710.

Reilly directed Frank's attention to withdrawals from the joint accounts which ranged from $837 to amounts less than $100.

An $800 deposit shortly after the $837 withdrawal, Frank said, was not the return of that money, but of funds taken from Hauptmann's brokerage accounts.

Hauptmann Follows Testimony Given by Expert.

Hauptmann, with a financial statement sheet in his lap, followed Reilly's involved questions with alert attention. The spectators, however, were frankly bored.

Q. How much was deposited in the joint account in all the years from 1928 down until it was closed in 1933?

A. The total deposits were $12,830.28, in that joint account.

A separate account was opened in the wife's maiden name about the time of the kidnaping in the Central Savings Bank, the witness said, responding to a question from Reilly. Reilly elicited testimony that in 1933, when the Hauptmann joint bank account was transferred back to Mrs. Hauptmann's maiden name, the deposits totaled $2,512.

He then pointed out to the witness that in the pre-kidnap years the Hauptmann deposits were only about $700 below this figure.

"That is correct," the agent agreed. Reilly swung his attention to Hauptmann's bank account in Mount Vernon, N. Y., which was opened three months after the kidnaping.

The big defense chief raised his voice when he asked if the account had not been opened "with the large sum of $52.50."

"With the sum of $52.50, yes."

The witness then said Hauptmann's total deposits at the Mount Vernon institution were $1,837.75.

Did Banking Business Before Kidnaping.

In August, 1934, Frank went on, Hauptmann opened a savings account which ran through September, with total deposits of $260.

In the Bronx Borough Bank, he added, Hauptmann carried a savings account begun in 1926 and closed with $782 in it in 1932.

Q. So, then, Anna and Richard were doing a banking business before and after the kidnaping?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And their deposits ran $1,800, $2,100, $2,800 a year, both before and after the kidnaping?

A. After the kidnaping the deposits were higher.

"Let's go to Wall Street," the chief defense counsel said, turning his queries to the stock ventures.

Frank recited that the defendant first opened an account with Carleton Mott & Co. on November 1, 1929.

Hauptmann deposited $3,000—$200 cash and a check for $2,800—in opening his first account, the expert testified.

The German alien's first purchase totaled $2,782, he continued. The bal-

Hauptmann's deficit with Steiner-Rouse, Frank recounted, was $1,165.93 at the end of February, 1933. No purchases were made in this account in March, but cash deposits created a balance of $1,673.90.

On March 31, 1933, the expert said, the brokerage account was transferred from Hauptmann's name to that of his wife's maiden name.

Q. As far as you know it was Bruno that was operating it?

A. The account shows a power of attorney giving the defendant permission to operate it.

Frank said $1,500 cash was put into the Schoeffel account, taken from transactions in Hauptmann's own account with Steiner-Rouse.

Immediately after the account was transferred to Mrs. Hauptmann's name, the Hauptmann stock operations assumed large proportions.

Frank recited the blocks of stock that were bought and sold rapidly throughout April, 1933.

Q. What was his balance, credit or debit at the end of April, 1933?

Delivered $2,500 Cash To Account During April.

A. He had a credit balance of $382.21 and they were holding $6,927 worth of stock. He had delivered $2,500 cash to the account during the month.

The trading was likewise active in May, 1933, the witness recited off a long list of 100-share purchases, which cost Hauptmann from $500 to more than $4,000 each.

As the questioning, couched in strange financial terms, went on the rustling in the disinterested crowd increased. The glances of jurors wandered about the room. Mrs. Verna Snyder showed interest in the defendant, who sat motionless, expressionless, and in the movement among the crowd.

Reilly sought to bring from the witness that Hauptmann's trading in May, 1933, was largely with his holdings with Steiner-Rouse without additions of new cash.

"On May 3 he delivered into the account $2,575 in cash," Frank said.

Just before the recess Reilly turned to a line of questions designed to bring out that Hauptmann began to make profits in his Steiner-Rouse account, which he left there for further transactions.

Justice Trenchard interrupted him to call the noon recess.

Court recessed for lunch at 12:32 p.m., with Frank still under cross-examination.

Say Defense Omitted Number of Transactions.

The State said redirect examination of Frank would clarify some of the testimony adduced by Reilly.

The defense attorney, they said, was omitting a number of the trans-courageous, hopeful and now disillusioned, but through sheer gallantry still adaptable to the hideous circumstances of this international hippodrome; the fantastic "John" Jakaactions, causing some confusion in Frank's recital.

Court resumed for the afternoon session at 1:45.

Hauptmann, who seemed to enjoy his testimony role of a Wall Street plunger and a man of finance, smiled confidently as he chatted with his attorneys before court convened. Mrs. Hauptmann, who sat nearby, likewise seemed pleased.

Frank was back in the witness chair as Reilly, a sheaf of brokerage statements in his hands, stalked slowly over to resume his cross-examination. Mrs. Elsie Whateley, Lindbergh housekeeper, returned to the courtroom, preparatory to resuming the witness stand to attempt to refute a defense implication that lights in the Bourland Mountain home were flashed the night of the crime as a signal to the kidnaper.

Reilly brought out the suggestion in cross-examination of Nursemaid Betty Gow.

Engaged in Stock Deals Almost Daily in May.

The saga of Hauptmann, the Wall street operator, was taken up again with the Bronx carpenter's trading transactions of mid-May, 1933.

In the latter part of May, 1933, Frank testified Hauptmann engaged in almost daily speculation, making profits varying from $73 to $550 in day's transactions.

It was a different picture of Hauptmann that this financial testimony was painting. He was no longer the prosaic carpenter that the first evidence in the case made him. He was now an alert individual, who had entree to a well-known Wall Street house and who could trade in blocks of 100 and 500 shares of stocks an-

Turn your old trinkets, jewelry and watches into MONEY at A. Kahn Inc.
Arthur J. Sundlun, Pres
42 YEARS at 935 F STREET

It Is Not What You Pay

But what you get for what you pay, that's the story. Marlow's Famous Reading Anthracite is always priced as low as is consistent with its high quality and the superb service that goes with it. Try a load and see what real heating efficiency is like. Just Phone NA. 0311.

77 Years of Good Coal Service

Marlow Coal Co.

811 E St. N.W.

NAtional 0311

... home around March 1,
... the date of the crime.
And yet Hauptmann is almost cheerful as he prepares his answer to all the deadly evidence.

... a profit in the worst stock market in history.

Q. What was the condition of his accounts at the end of May, 1933?

A. At the end of May, 1933, he had a credit balance of $3,841.79 and at the beginning $281.33. He put in $2,500.

Q. So he made a $1,000 profit at the end of the month?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And he dealt in $31,350 worth of stock?

A. Yes sir.

Deposited $3,225

To Protect His Margin.

Reilly turned to June, 1933, a month which Hauptman started with a credit balance of $3,841.79 in his stock trading account.

The witness started off with his recital of Hauptmann's purchases and sales of securities during the month.

Hauptmann, the expert added, bought than in 1929?

A. He did.

Q. Did he ever have a thousand shares in his account before April 2, 1932, the day the ransom was paid?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he ever have 2,000 shares in his account before the ransom was paid?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he ever buy $50,000 worth of stocks in one month prior to the ransome payment?

A. No.

Q. Did he buy $50,000 worth of the stocks month after month, after the ransom payment?

A. Yes, he did.

Wilents brought out that on May 21, 1931, Hauptmann's brokers, Carle-

WHERE TO DINE.

LOOKING FOR

171 CAFETERIA

724 1/2 St. N.W., Bet. H & Pa. Ave.
Breakfast 25c. Luncheon 35c. Dinner 50c.
25c. 35c. 50c. 65c. 65c.
ALSO A LA CARTE

Only a few pink, fluffy ashes are left when you burn Colonial Anthracite... no waste, no dirt, it's all fuel.

Look up "Colonial Coal" in Yellow Pages of Your Phone Book

A CENTURY OF SERVICE TO WASHINGTONIANS

HISTORY REPEATS . . .

Year after year our customers come back to us for our good, clean, long-burning hard coal, prepared by the most modern methods and rich in heat. Now's the time for YOU to get acquainted with our better fuel and our better fuel service.

Just Phone Us—
District 8223

WILLIAM KING & SON
COAL MERCHANTS
ESTABLISHED 1888

1151 16th STREET

2901 K STREET

No Need for You to Become

BALD

.. See Thomas

When you were a child you had a good head of hair, didn't you? In fact your hair continued to grow normally until one more of the 14 common local hair disorders attacked you.

EXPERT DISCLOSES HAUPTMANN DEALS

Justice Trenchard - Takes Down Figures for Personal Notes.

(Continued From Third Page.)

mann did not work after April 2, 1932, gave no notice that he was quitting and only came back once, to get his pay.

Q. In the period of March 1 to 31, 1932, what time did Hauptmann work?

A. Richard Hauptmann started work March 21, 1932.

Q. He did not work March 1, 1932?

A. He did not.

Reilly took the witness for cross-examination.

He inquired when the witness first saw Hauptmann at the Majestic Apartments. Morton said it was on March 21, 1932, when Hauptmann was at work "on the job."

Reilly then demanded whether the witness had discussed his testimony with the attorney general or his aides. The timekeeper readily admitted he had discussed it last night at Trenton.

Reilly took Morton's time book and examined the dates. He asked Morton, with paper and pen, to write "March 21, 1932," print "Richard Hauptmann," print "James Davis."

Q. Was Davis employed before Hauptmann?

A. Yes.

Q. How many were hired March 21, 1932?

A. One, Richard Hauptmann, as far as I know. I didn't hire him.

Morton told Reilly "open shop" carpenters were employed and worked Saturdays at the time. Later, he said, a five-day week was instituted.

Drew Line Through Name of Hauptmann.

Morton told Reilly he drew a line through Hauptmann's name after he quit. Hauptmann did return to work on Monday, April 4, 1932, but not thereafter.

Reilly finished his cross-examination and Wilentz brought out that all employees were checked present on Saturdays and that a "naught" signified absence. The time book showed a "naught" for Hauptmann for April 2, 1932.

The witness was dismissed.

Wilentz turned next to the appearance of ransom money in circulation, calling Mrs. Cecilia Barr, cashier of the Sheridan Theater, New York City.

Q. Do you know the defendant Hauptmann?

A. Yes, I have seen him before. He purchased a ticket the night of November 26, 1933.

Wilentz had the witness demonstrate with a bill how the folded $5 certificate was tossed into her ticket cage.

Q. Are you positive as to the man who gave you the bill?

A. Yes, sir.

Reilly came over to the witness and started cross-questioning her.

Q. I suppose you remember everybody who bought a ticket in 1932.

A. No.

Q. Or in 1933?

A. No, sir.

Q. In the last three weeks have you seen me at your ticket window?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember me having a conversation with you at your window within the last three weeks?

A. No, sir.

Mrs. Barr recited that the man came to the window wearing a slouch hat with the brim snapped down and a sack suit. Wore no overcoat, despite a cold night, she said.

Q. Now, did you ever tell any one you could not remember the man, but thought it was a good ad for Loew's Sheridan Square?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Reilly then demanded if she had not expected a Hollywood contract because of her part in the Lindbergh case. The witness laughed into her hand as she answered "No." She was obviously not the "Hollywood type."

Some one hissed at Reilly's questions.

Wilentz took the witness and brought out that she had turned the bill over to the police and had told her story the next day.

Justice Trenchard, nettled by the laughter the witness attracted, again lectured the court on the proper decorum, and charged the deputy sheriffs to take more active steps in keeping the proper order. He directed the deputies to single out to him the persons causing any further disturbance "and I will deal with them."

William M. Cody, young clerk at the Corn Exchange Bank, New York, told of discovering the $5 "red seal" ransom certificate among receipts deposited from the Sheridan Theater.

Cody said he put the bill aside after determining its number was included on the Lindbergh ransom bill list.

He said he turned the bill over to his bank manager and contacted the police.

Reilly began the cross-examination.

bringing out the Bronx home of Hauptmann was "about 15 miles from the theater."

The bank clerk explained to Reilly that his attention had been drawn to the bill by the "red seal," the initial serial letter "B" and the fact that the number came within the ransom series.

He said he knew nothing about fingerprints and could not tell whether any appeared on the bill.

Wilentz took the witness for a brief redirect examination and then excused him. Court adjourned at 4:33 p.m.

CLERGY PRAISES BROWN

A resolution praising the work of Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, and favoring an increase in the police force of 1934, was received by the police chief from the Methodist Protestant Ministers' Association of Washington.

The resolution asked that Congress not only provide the funds for the extra policemen, but that it also pass laws to promote more efficient police work.

There's real news! NEW BONE CONDUCTION

Radioear has just released its new—more powerful—more convenient—less conspicuous—BONE CONDUCTION hearing aid. For the FIRST TIME an efficient BONE CONDUCTION hearing aid is easy to wear. Now, wear it over the Radioear in "THE MOST EFFECTIVE HEARING AID, USING BOTH AIR AND BONE CONDUCTION, THAT ACUSTIC RESEARCH HAS PRODUCED."

ETZ-1217 G

PRISONER HELD SUICIDE

Ray Palmer Killed Self by Hanging in Jail, Coroner Rules.

A coroner's jury today returned verdict of suicide in the case of Ray Palmer, 44, of the 200 block of Second street southeast, who hanged himself in his cell at the third precinct Saturday afternoon.

Palmer had been booked on a charge of intoxication and was found dead suspended from a bar of his cell, his shirt, by Lieut. Arthur C. Be. Police said an inspection of the cell had been made a short time before. Policeman I. M. Ralford and the Palmer was asleep at the time.

We
the

A Speci and Over a Total

New Jersey's Back Door.

Cornered in a fourth-floor bed room of an Atlantic City hotel yesterday, with their identity established, Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell "shot it out" with the police, came down stairs and drove off in a car stolen from the garage to which the same police had previously traced the car in which the criminals drove North.

One notes with relief that "the police were then warned to watch for the fugitives and to be extremely cautious because of the desperate character of the men."

Mr. Nathan
Mr. Tolson ✓
Mr. Clegg
Mr. Baughman
Chief Clerk
Mr. Coffey
Mr. Egan
Mr. Harbo
Mr. Keith
Mr. Lester
Mr. Quinn
Mr. Schilder
Mr. Tracy
Miss Gandy

WASH. STAR

7-576-A

JAN 21 1935

43

'That Boy's Day Will Come,' Says Karpis' Janitor Father

'They'll Get Him Some Day; He Never Did Pay No
Attention to Us,' Mumbles Parent, Dirty
From Hard Work..

Chicago, Jan. 20 (U.P.).—John Karpavicz, father of public enemy, No. 1, stoked coal tonight in the basement of the apartment house where he is janitor, and mumbled things about his son.

His son is Alvin Karpis, wanted for kidnaping and murder. John Karpavicz just heard how his son blasted his way out of an Atlantic City police trap.

"That boy's day will come soon," he said, grunting under the weight of a shovel loaded with coal. "He gets away with it today, but some day he won't."

John Karpavicz is a little man and bears strong facial resemblance to his son. His brown hair is streaked with gray. He wears a battered, soiled brow hat and a patched sweater. His trousers are threadbare. His watery blue eyes have difficulty finding things in the gloomy cellar. There are circles under his eyes and he looks tired.

"It don't look like he cares about his life any more," he said. "It don't look like he cares about anything. He would pay no attention to us. He never did."

John Karpavicz says he doesn't think he wants any more to do with his son. He doesn't think he could help him and doesn't feel that he should.

"Look at my hands," he said, holding out a pair that were black with coal dust. "They are dirty from hard work. There are other hands that are dirty too, but not from hard work."

He returned to considering the probable end of his son.

"These police that chase gangsters like Dillinger," he said. "They shoot quick. They have come to talk with me sometimes, but I don't know anything about that boy now. They will get him some day."

"Maybe he could save his life by giving himself up. But he would save it, maybe, just for the electric chair."

Karpis' Valleys Blast N. J. Trap; Bullet Fells Girl

Escapes in Gun Fight

ALVIN KARPIS.

Machine Gun of Public
Enemy No. 1 Scatters
Hotel Cordon.

Harry Campbell
Also Flees in Car

Florida Tip Results in Futile Bluecoat Raid
at Atlantic City.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)
Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 20.—The
Nation's latest ace of bad men, the 35-year-old Alvin Karpis, shot his way out of Atlantic City early
today.

With him, triggering a machine gun, was another of the Middle-west's hunted criminals, Harry Campbell.

Behind them they left their women, one of them wounded and an expectant mother.

Trapped just before dawn in a hotel room to which they came only yesterday, the two desperadoes—wanted for crimes ranging from robbery to kidnaping and murder—answered with gunfire the police demand to surrender.

Head Their Auto South.

Fighting their way from their fourth floor quarters to an alley, blazing so close to policemen that one officer's cap was shot from his head, they stole an automobile and then, pursued by 20 policemen and with every traffic light in the city
flashing on and off—a general police alarm—they drove toward Camden, distancing pursuit.

There was a report, unconfirmed,
that Campbell—who was in his underwear when he was surprised by detectives—had been wounded.

Karpis' "girl friend," known both
as Dolores Delaney and as Louise Graham, was slightly wounded in the leg. She is soon to bear a child,
the police surgeon said.

The other woman, arrested with the 21-year-old Delaney girl, is Winona Burdette, also known as
Mrs. Louise Campbell. She is 32.

Twice Shot to Freedom.

A chase through the city's streets during which, on two occasions, the fugitives drove their car down blind streets, scattered about and shot their way out of the city, ending police pursuit.

Police Capt. Sam Wheatley said
he did not believe it possible the two men had been able to get clear of the city. With Mayor Harry Bacharach taking personal charge
of the police department, a thorough search was instituted.

The word that the notorious Karpis—hunted as the master mind of the Edward Bremer kidnaping in
St. Paul, Minn., last year—was in Atlantic City followed a telegraphed tip from Florida to be on the watch
for a car bearing Florida license
D5-306.

"Be careful," the information said.
"These are two bad men, heavily armed."

Car Found in Garage.

Detectives checked garages and found the car parked in the Coast
garage at the foot of South Kentucky avenue, close to the boardwalk.

They traced Karpis and Campbell
to the Dan-Mor Hotel, close by.

They learned that the two men
had arrived the day before and had taken a fourth-floor room adjoining that occupied by the two women,
who arrived a week ago Friday.

With surprising bravado, Karpis had gone shortly after his arrival to the police surgeon, Dr. Carl Surran, and had made arrangements with him for the delivery of the baby the Delaney girl is expecting.

"We've got plenty of dough, and we want the best for the little girl," said "Public Enemy No. 1,"
with a record of terms in the penitentiaries of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Detectives, tracing the occupants
of the stolen car with the Florida license, arrived at the hotel about 5 a. m. today. Two of them went to the fourth floor. The door of the room occupied by Karpis and
Campbell was ajar.

One of the officers poked a pistol
through the opening and cried out:
"Stick 'em up. We're officers."

The response was immediate.
Karpis shouted back:

"Stick 'em up yourself, copper! We're coming!"

Campbell was in his underwear,
but Karpis was fully clothed.
Campbell whirled, a pistol in his hand. He was either carrying it at the time or snatched it up quickly at the approach of the officers.

Karpis grabbed a machine gun,
and the hotel echoed with gunfire.

The detectives sought the protection of a turn of the corridor.
Bring all the time. As Karpis and Campbell came out, the fire from the officers' pistols drove the desperadoes toward the back of the hall, then down a rear stairway to an alley.

Waiting there were three officers, and Karpis and Campbell raced for the garage where they had left their car, exchanging more than 200 shots with the police as they ran.

Balked in Girls' Rescue.

Their car had been taken over by police, but the gunmen piled into another and wheeled down the street.

Twice they circled the hotel, sh-

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman..
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

WHD2

7-576-A

Parents seeking to "blame" the women. In this effort, and with several of police pushing them hard, the men headed out of the neighborhood.

Twice their unfamiliarity with Atlantic City thoroughfares—many of which end in blind alleys at the board walk—appeared to have them cornered. Each time, however, they spun their car around and, with the underwear-clad Campbell standing up behind and pulling the trigger of the machine gun, shot their way free. They finally were lost to their pursuers.

Almost from the first moment of gunfire, however, the city's traffic lights had been switched to blink on and off red, which is the manner in which a general police alarm is given here. This spread a warning to the farthestmost sections of the city, leading the police to believe it would have been next to impossible for the men to have got out of town.

The Delaney woman was taken to a hospital. She had been struck by a shot from Karpis' weapon, police said. The wound was superficial, and she was later taken with the Burdette girl to Philadelphia, in custody of Federal men.

Seven suitcases were found in the girls' room. One of the girls told police questioners that they had been in Florida recently, and that while there they had seen and talked with Fred and "Ma" Barker, who were killed as they resisted a Federal agents' siege last week. Barker has been coupled by Department of Justice agents with Karpis as co-leader of the gang blamed for the Bremer kidnaping.

Only two days ago, in Chicago, the mother of Karpis appealed to her son, through the newspapers, to surrender.

As quickly as possible, the State's elaborate, anti-criminal machinery was thrown into gear.

Troopers throughout the State, and police in the cities, were ordered to watch for the fugitives and to be extremely cautious because of the desperate character of the men.

Warned that the fleeing desperadoes, Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, were headed South in a green sedan, Washington police last night were on the alert should they attempt to enter the city. A lookout flashed by radio on orders from Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, detective chief, read:

"Look out for and cause the arrest of Alvin Karpis, white, 25, 5 feet 9 inches tall, slender build, brown hair, blue eyes, fair complexion, and Harry Campbell, white, 30, 5 feet 8 inches tall, medium build, brown hair, blue eyes, ruddy complexion."

"These men are driving a Pontiac sedan, pea green color, New York license No. A 3075. They are wanted for larceny of the above automobile, murder and kidnaping. They left Atlantic City about 7 a. m., supposedly headed South. Both men are heavily armed and are very dangerous."

Hospitals and physicians were also asked to be on the lookout. It was believed that one of the men was wounded and might apply for medical aid.

Shortly before dark the gunmen's car was reported seen near Connecticut avenue and Q street northwest. Police, responding to an alarm, reported the call was apparently false.

Chicago, Jan. 30 (AP).—The Herald and Examiner tonight said that Federal agents had located the house where Edward G. Bremer was held prisoner for 23 days during his $200,000 abduction. The paper said it was in suburban Bensenville, northwest of Chicago.

Washington Post
1-21-35

Karpis' Volleys Blast N. J. Trap; Bullet Fells Girl

Escapes in Gun Fight

ALVIN KARPIS.

Machine Gun of Public
Enemy No. 1 Scatters
Hotel Cordon.

Harry Campbell
Also Flees in Car

Florida Tip Results in Futile Bluecoat Raid
at Atlantic City.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)
Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 20.—The
Nation's latest ace of bad men, the 25-year-old Alvin Karpis, shot his way out of Atlantic City early
today.

With him, triggering a machine
gun, was another of the Middle-west's hunted criminals, Harry Campbell.

Behind them they left their women, one of them wounded and an expectant mother.

Trapped just before dawn in a hotel room to which they came only yesterday, the two desperados—wanted for crimes ranging from robbery to kidnaping and murder—answered with gunfire the
police demand to surrender.

Head Their Auto South.

Fighting their way from their
fourth floor quarters to an alley,
blazing so close to policemen that
one officer's cap was shot from his head, they stole an automobile and
then, pursued by 20 policemen and
with every traffic light in the city
flashing on and off—a general police alarm—they drove toward Camden, distancing pursuit.

There was a report, unconfirmed,
that Campbell—who was in his underwear when he was surprised by detectives—had been wounded.

Karpis' "girl friend," known both
as Dolores Delaney and as Louise Graham, was slightly wounded in the leg. She is soon to bear a child,
the police surgeon said.

The other woman, arrested with the 21-year-old Delaney, was Winona Burdette, also known as
Mrs. Louise Campbell. She is 22.

Twice Shot to Freedom.

A chase through the city streets
during which, on two occasions, the fugitives drove their car down streets, wheeled about and changed their way anew through the pursuing police forces, added to the sensationalism of the escape.

Police Capt. Sam Wheatley said
he did not believe it possible the two men had been able to escape
of the city. With Mayor Harry Bacharach taking personal charge
of the police department, a thorough
search was instituted.

The word that the notorious Karpis—hunted as the master mind of
the Edward Bremer kidnaping in
St. Paul, Minn., last year—was in Atlantic City followed a telegraphed
tip from Florida to be on the watch
for a car bearing Florida license
D5-308.

"Be careful," the information said.
"These are two bad men, heavily armed."

Car Found in Garage.

Detectives checked garages and found the car parked in the Coast
garage at the foot of South Kentucky avenue, close to the boardwalk.

They traced Karpis and Campbell
to the Dan-Mor Hotel, close by.

They learned that the two men
had arrived the day before and had taken a fourth-floor room adjoining
that occupied by the two women,
who arrived a week ago Friday.

With surprising bravado, Karpis
had gone shortly after his arrival to
the police surgeon, Dr. Carl Surran,
and had made arrangements with
him for the delivery of the baby—the Delaney girl is expecting.

"We've got plenty of dough, and
we want the best for the little girl," said "Public Enemy No. 1,"
with a record of terms in the penitentiaries of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Detectives, tracing the occupants
of the stolen car with the Florida
license, arrived at the hotel about 5 a. m. today. Two of them went to the fourth floor. The door of the room occupied by Karpis and
Campbell was ajar.

One of the officers poked a pistol
through the opening and cried out:

"Stick 'em up. We're officers."

The response was immediate.

Karpis shouted back:

Continued on Page 4, Column 2.

| | |
|--------------|-------|
| Mr. Nathan | |
| Mr. Tolson | |
| Mr. Clegg | |
| Mr. Baughman | |
| Chief Clerk | |
| Mr. Egan | |
| Mr. Gurnea | |
| Mr. Harbo | |
| Mr. Hendon | |
| Mr. Jones | |
| Mr. Lester | |
| Mr. Quinn | |
| Mr. Nease | |
| Mr. Tamm | |
| Mr. Tracy | |
| Mr. Carson | |
| Mr. Coffey | |
| Mr. Glavin | |
| Mr. Ladd | |
| Mr. Nichols | |
| Mr. Rosen | |
| Mr. Carson | |
| Mr. Egan | |
| Mr. Gurnea | |
| Mr. Harbo | |
| Mr. Hendon | |
| Mr. Jones | |
| Mr. Lester | |
| Mr. Quinn | |
| Mr. Nease | |
| Mr. Tamm | |
| Mr. Tracy | |

WASH. POST

7-576 JAN 21 1935

4B

"Stick 'em up yourself, copper! We're coming!"

Campbell was in his underwear, but Karpis was fully clothed. Campbell whirled, a pistol in his hand. He was either carrying it at the time or snatched it up quickly at the approach of the officers.

Karpis grabbed a machine gun, and the hotel echoed with gunfire.

The detectives sought the protection of a turn of the corridor, firing all the time. As Karpis and Campbell came out, the fire from the officers' pistols drove the desperadoes toward the back of the hall, then down a rear stairway to an alley.

Waiting there were three officers, and Karpis and Campbell raced for the garage where they had left their car, exchanging more than 200 shots with the police as they ran.

Balked in Girls' Rescue.

Their car had been taken over by police, but the gunmen piled into another and wheeled down the street.

Twice they circled the hotel, apparently seeking to rescue the women. Balked in this effort, and with several cars of police pushing them hard, the men headed out of the neighborhood.

Twice their unfamiliarity with Atlantic City thoroughfares—many of which end in blind alleys at the board walk—appeared to have them cornered. Each time, however, they spun their car around and, with the underwear-clad Campbell standing up behind and pulling the trigger of the machine gun, shot their way free. They finally were lost to their pursuers.

Almost from the first moment of gunfire, however, the city's traffic lights had been switched to blink on and off red, which is the manner in which a general police alarm is given here. This spread a warning to the farthestmost sections of the city, leading the police to believe it would have been next to impossible for the men to have got out of town.

The Delaney woman was taken to a hospital. She had been struck by a shot from Karpis' weapon, police said. The wound was superficial, and she was later taken with the Burdette girl to Philadelphia, in custody of Federal men.

Seven suitcases were found in the girls' room. One of the girls told police questioners that they had been in Florida recently, and that while there they had seen and talked with Fred and "Ma" Barker, who were killed as they resisted a Federal agents' siege last week. Barker has been coupled by Department of Justice agents with Karpis as co-leader of the gang blamed for the Bremer kidnaping.

Only two days ago, in Chicago, the mother of Karpis appealed to her son, through the newspapers, to surrender.

As quickly as possible, the State's elaborate, anti-criminal machinery was thrown into gear.

Troopers throughout the State, and police in the cities, were ordered to watch for the fugitives and to be extremely cautious because of the desperate character of the men.

Warned that the fleeing desperadoes, Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, were headed South in a green sedan, Washington police last night were on the alert should they attempt to enter the city. A lookout, flashed by radio on orders from

Inspector Frank S. Burke, detective chief, read:

"Look out for and cause the arrest of Alvin Karpis, white, 25, 5 feet 9 inches tall, slender build, brown hair, blue eyes, fair complexion, and Harry Campbell, white, 30, 5 feet 5 inches tall, medium build, brown hair, blue eyes, ruddy complexion."

"These men are driving a Pontiac sedan, pea green color, New York license No. A 3075. They are wanted for larceny of the above automobile, murder and kidnaping. They left Atlantic City about 7 a. m., supposedly headed South. Both men are heavily armed and are very dangerous."

Hospitals and physicians were also asked to be on the lookout. It was believed that one of the men was wounded and might apply for medical aid.

Shortly before dark the gunmen's car was reported seen near Connecticut avenue and Q street northwest. Police, responding to an alarm, reported the call was apparently false.

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP).—The Herald and Examiner tonight said that Federal agents had located the house where Edward G. Bremer was held prisoner for 23 days during his $200,000 abduction. The paper said it was in suburban Bensenville, northwest of Chicago.

MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1935

'That Boy's Day Will Come,' Says Karpis' Janitor Father

'They'll Get Him Some Day; He Never Did Pay No
Attention to Us,' Mumbles Parent, Dirty
From Hard Work.

Chicago, Jan. 20 U.P.—John Karpavicz, father of public enemy, No. 1, stoked coal tonight in the basement of the apartment house where he is janitor, and mumbled things about his son.

His son is Alvin Karpis, wanted for kidnaping and murder. John Karpavicz just heard how his son blasted his way out of an Atlantic City police trap.

"That boy's day will come soon," he said, grunting under the weight of a shovel loaded with coal. "He gets away with it today, but some day he won't."

John Karpavicz is a little man and bears strong facial resemblance to his son. His brown hair is streaked with gray. He wears a battered, soiled brown hat and a patched sweater. His trousers are threadbare. His watery blue eyes have difficulty finding things in the gloomy cellar. There are circles under his eyes and he looks tired.

"It don't look like he cares about his life any more," he said. "It don't look like he cares about anything. He would pay no attention to us. He never did."

John Karpavicz says he doesn't think he wants any more to do with his son. He doesn't think he could help him and doesn't feel that he should.

"Look at my hands," he said, holding out a pair that were black with coal dust. "They are dirty from hard work. There are other hands that are dirty too, but not from hard work."

He returned to considering the probable end of his son.

"These police that chase gangsters like Dillinger," he said. "They shoot quick. They have come to talk with me sometimes, but I don't know anything about that boy now. They will get him some day."

"Maybe he could save his life by giving himself up. But he could save it, maybe, just for the electric chair."

Mr. Nathan
Mr. Tolson
Mr. Clegg
Mr. Baughman
234-3235

JAN 21 1935

7-576-A

JAN 21 1935

WASH. POST

ER

D. C. Police Watch for Escaped Bandits

District police were warned last night to be on the lookout for Alvin Karpis, 25, and Harry Campbell, 30, who escaped from Atlantic City where a gun battle took place Saturday night.

Inspector Frank S. W. Burke in broadcasting the lookout, said the men are heavily armed and are both very dangerous. They are riding in a green-colored Pontiac coach bearing New York license plates No. A-3075.

Karpis is 5 feet 9½ inches tall, weighs 130 pounds, is of slender build, has brown hair and blue eyes. He also has a cut on his left hand.

Campbell is 5 feet 5, weighs 105, is of medium build, brown hair and blue eyes.

When the men left Atlantic City they were reported to be heading south. The lookout was broadcast at the request of the Department of Justice.

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

WASH. NEWS

JAN 21 1935

7-576-F

CB

Traitor to Kin

Facing trial for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer and accused of betraying his own mother and brother to death with clemency, Arthur "Doc" Barker, southwest outlaw, is shown here in St. Paul jail. The gang leader was held prisoner in Chicago for 10 days before Federal agents revealed his capture.

Mr. Nathan
Mr. Tolson
Mr. Clegg
Mr. Baughman
Chief Clerk
Mr. Coffey
Mr. Edwards
Mr. Egan
Mr. Harbo
Mr. Keith
Mr. Lester
Mr. Quinn
Mr. Schilder
Mr. Tamm
Mr. Tracy
Miss Gandy

WASH. NEWS

7-576-A

JAN 21 1935

1A27
30

Suspects in Bremer Kidnaping Escape From Trap at Hotel

Two Women Abandoned by Gangsters Admit Identity of Escorts Under Questioning

By United Press
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Justice Department agents today pressed police of a score of cities into a search for Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, last surviving members of the notorious Karpis-Barker gang. Karpis and Campbell are wanted for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul.

200 SHOTS EXCHANGED

Local police in towns along the coast and as far west as Chicago were instructed to shoot to kill if they encountered Karpis, now public enemy No. 1 because Federal agents have killed or captured smarter and more desperate gangsters. He proved his right to the succession yesterday when he and Campbell machine-gunned their way thru a police trap in a hotel and escaped in a stolen motor car.

Altho more than 200 shots were exchanged, the only one injured was Dolores Delaney, 22, one of two women the gunmen left behind. Miss Delaney will give birth to a baby this week. She was said to be Karpis' sweetheart.

HIGHWAYS GUARDED

Federal agents believed they had fled Atlantic City and the vicinity, heading either south to Washington and Baltimore, west to Chicago, or north to New York and Boston. Highways in New Jersey, New York, Maryland and Pennsylvania were closely guarded.

Miss Delaney and her companion, Winona Burdette, 21, were taken to Philadelphia where they were undergoing severe questioning by Federal agents. They admitted their companions' identity, but otherwise disclosed little. Miss Delaney, suffering a leg wound, was treated at a local hospital. Because of the chance that Karpis and Campbell might attempt a rescue, thinking the women still there, 20 police guarded the hospital all night.

Left Behind

—Acme Photo
Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, last of the Bremer kidnap gang, shot their way out of a police trap in an Atlantic City hotel yesterday and fled in a stolen automobile. In an adjoining room police seized their alleged sweethearts, identified as Dolores Delaney and Winona Burdette (above), a radio singer of Ponca City, Okla.

STOLEN CAR SPOTTED

Karpis and Campbell were in the Oklawaha, Fla., hideout of the gang three days before raiding Federal agents surrounded it and killed Fred Barker and Barker's 55-year-old mother in the ensuing gun fight. Karpis and Campbell were driving north in a stolen car. They arrived at 1 a. m. yesterday. Their women, who had traveled by train, arrived two days before.

They left their car in a garage where it was spotted as stolen by Police Officer Elias Scaab. The two women were traced to a hotel. A police circular had warned that the men were dangerous but did not say how dangerous. Scaab went to police headquarters and led six men to the Danmore Hotel, near the boardwalk. They were armed only with pistols. Detectives Edward Mulhe and Arch Witham broke into a fourth-floor room, expecting to find sleeping men. Instead they found Karpis seated in a rocker, fully dressed, a sub-machine gun in his lap. Campbell sat on the bed, dressed, and holding a second machine gun. They opened fire as the detectives stepped back.

Once in the corridor, apparently thinking to arouse the women in an adjoining room, Karpis fired a burst thru the door. One bullet hit Miss Delaney. The detectives were firing with pistols from the end of the corridor and the two gangsters couldn't wait any longer.

Driving the detectives down the stairs with steady streams of bullets, Karpis and Campbell descended three flights to the lobby and ran out a rear door, still firing. Karpis stole a car out of a garage while Campbell held back police with more bullets, and in that car they escaped.

Fourteen windows along the boardwalk and six windows in the hotel were broken by bullets.

Federal agents rushed here from Philadelphia and directed the pursuit. Six agents, armed with machine guns and rifles, still waited at Atlantic City headquarters early today, but they believed there was little likelihood of Barker or Campbell being anywhere near.

Bremer Identifies House Used in Kidnaping

CHICAGO—Federal agents, backed by apparently authentic information of hideouts of the almost extinct Barker-Karpis gang, waited in force today for an attempt of Alvin Karpis, sole major member of the gang still at large, to seek sanctuary in Illinois. Simultaneously the Chicago agents revealed discovery of the house where Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was held prisoner a year ago while his kidnapers bargained for and collected $200,000 ransom.

The prison house is in Bensenville, 18 miles from Chicago. Bremer identified a small, two-room apartment in the building Saturday as the place of his incarceration, according to Chief of Police Herman L. Wagner of Bensenville.

WASH. NEWS

JAN 21 1935

7-576-R

43

Owner of Bremer Hideout Seized to Confront Karpis

CHICAGO, Jan. 20 (U.S.)—The house where for 23 days a year ago Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker and brewer, was imprisoned until he bought his release with $200,000 ransom from Alvin Karpis and Arthur Barker was located by Department of Justice agents today in suburban Bensenville, northwest of Chicago.

It was learned that the Government had arrested the owner of the house, who rented it to the Karpis-Barker gang and that he will be taken to St. Paul in an effort to identify Barker, who is in custody there, before the grand jury acts today or tomorrow.

By establishing the location of the hideout as in Illinois, authorities now will be able to indict Barker and Karpis, his sole surviving confederate, under the Lindbergh law, which makes a death sentence possible.

Karpis, after his escape with Harry Campbell at Atlantic City today was expected to head for a Chicago hideout, and the Department of Justice, warning Chicago police to be on the lookout, had three hideouts in the city and two outside under surveillance, as well as the homes of Karpis' mother and two sisters here.

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Miss Gandy.....

7-576-A

WASH. HERALD

JAN 21 1935

CC

2 Women Companions Caught as Bandit, Aide Escape

GIRL, COP INJURED

Machine Gun Outlaw Found in Hotel in Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 20 (U.P.).—Two women arrested after Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell shot their way out of a police trap today were taken to Philadelphia tonight by Department of Justice agents.

(Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 20.—Alvin "Bo" Karpis, public enemy number one, and Harry Campbell, last members of the Bremer kidnaping gang, shot it out with detectives here today and escaped in a stolen car, leaving their sweethearts behind. Federal agents and police of six States took up the pursuit.

After a running gun battle with police and detectives down three flights of hotel stairs, in a street and alley near the famed Boardwalk, the two outlaws fled first in a green Pontiac sedan, later switching to a stolen Ford V-8. A detective and one of the "gun-molls" were wounded in the flight, and it was also believed Karpis and Campbell were wounded.

In the Pontiac, police found a loaded sawed-off shotgun and a loaded revolver.

TRAILED FROM FLORIDA

Karpis and Campbell, definitely identified by Department of Justice operatives, were located at the Hotel Denmore after being trailed north from Oklawaha, Fla., where Federal guns last week wiped out Kate "Ma" Barker, brains of the Bremer snatch, and her son, Fred Barker.

Belief was advanced that the gangsters, who a year ago collected $200,000 ransom for the return of kidnaped Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul brewer, planned to spend several days under cover in Atlantic City, later attempting a daring visit to the Hauptmann trial, across the State at Flemington.

U. S. DIRECTS HUNT

Local police alone were credited with smoking out the two gangsters, while searching for a car stolen from Florida. Federal agents from Philadelphia arrived too late to take part in the gun battle but remained here tonight directing the pursuit.

With Karpis and Campbell in their hotel hideout were two girls. One of them wounded in the leg during the fight, said she was Louisa Graham, alias Dolores Delaney, 22. Police said she is Karpis' sweetheart, and that she is an expectant mother. She was taken to a hospital for treatment.

The other girl, Winona Burdett, 21, alleged sweetheart of Campbell, was held in the city jail. She said she once was a radio singer in Florida. Police are holding both on open charges, and a guard has been placed over the Graham girl in the hospital.

POLICE ON WATCH

Police of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland

(Continued on Page 5, Col. 6)

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Miss Gandy.....

WASH. HERALD

7-57687

JAN 21 1935

48

and Virginia were ordered to watch all highways for the Ford sedan, bearing Karpis and Campbell, which sped south toward Longport after the outlaws, firing machine guns, fought off the pursuing squadrons and got away by means of an apparently well-planned escape route.

Police had been put on the trail of Karpis and Campbell when a teletype alarm was received from Florida about a stolen car. The car was found at a local garage last night by local police. A garage attendant, taken to headquarters, disclosed the occupants of the car were at the Hotel Denmore.

Leaving one detective at the entrance of the hotel, two others sought out Karpis' rooms on the fourth floor. They crashed through the door, service revolvers out, crying:

"Stick 'em up!"

They were greeted by the same cry from Karpis, sitting on the bed facing them, armed with a submachine gun, and Campbell, sitting in a rocking chair, also pointing a machine gun at the officers.

DETECTIVES DUCK

The detectives, in the face of superior armament, ducked and ran from the room into the corridor, escaping a deadly blast of bullets from both machine guns. Slugs dug holes in the walls of the room and the opposite corridor wall at chest height.

The death-bearing but poorly aimed fire of the outlaws followed the detectives down three flights of steps, as the detectives returned fire in their flight through the corridors and down the hotel staircases. One bullet wounded Karpis' sweetheart. The running battle aroused all the hotel guests, but they kept in their rooms until the firing in the corridors ceased.

Hearing the firing, the detective in the lobby had called headquarters. He was reinforced by police at the front and rear entrances of the hotel. Detective Arch Witham, one of those who broke into Karpis' room, was grazed on the cheek by a bullet as he reached the main floor.

FLEE TO REAR

While the principal body of police concentrated at the front door, the outlaws ran for the rear, where they encountered only a few police. Karpis and Campbell opened fire again with their submachine guns, while the police responded with revolvers.

The running fight was resumed as Karpis and Campbell ran down Kentucky Avenue, near the boardwalk, and stopped at a garage. One stood behind a door, exchanging shots with police, while the other started the green sedan, belonging to a woman. Then the guard jumped into the automobile, which roared out of the garage and headed for Longport. They outdistanced police cars within two blocks.

ALVIN KARPIS

Police revealed that last night Karpis called a doctor to attend Miss Graham, believing she was about to bear her child. She was taken to a hospital, but returned to the hotel later in the night. Upon reaching the hospital today, Dr. Carl Surran, police surgeon disclosed he was the doctor consulted by the girl last night, but that he had not known Karpis or the girl's identity. He said Karpis offered him a fee of $250 to attend the girl.

WINDOWS SHATTERED

Dozens of windows in the hotel, nearby houses and in the garage were broken by flying bullets in the stairway-to-street battle. Police said it was one of the submachine gun bullets that wounded the gangster's girl companion, who fell and broke her leg.

New Jersey State police, in a teletype alarm sent out this afternoon, were ordered to keep a lookout for Karpis and Campbell, who switched from the green Pontiac to a Ford V-8 with white wheels. Bridges and tunnels were manned by heavily armed State troopers.

Federal agents in Philadelphia and New York consulted by telephone on plans to continue the pursuit. Four Department of Justice agents, rushed from Philadelphia with a supply of machine guns, sawed-off shotguns and tear gas bombs, were here ready to go to any spot which reports that Karpis and Campbell were located.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (U.P.). New York police tonight posted heavy guard over all entrances to the city from New Jersey.

Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, Midwest gangsters who shot their way out of an Atlantic City hotel, were reported headed North.

2 Women Companions Caught as Bandit, Aide Escape

GIRL, COP INJURED

Machine Gun Outlaw Found in Hotel in Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 20 (U.P.).—Two women arrested after Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell shot their way out of a police trap today were taken to Philadelphia tonight by Department of Justice agents.

(Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 20.—Alvin "Bo" Karpis, public enemy number one, and Harry Campbell, last members of the Bremer kidnaping gang, shot it out with detectives here today and escaped in a stolen car, leaving their sweethearts behind. Federal agents and police of six States took up the pursuit.

After a running gun battle with police and detectives down three flights of hotel stairs, in a street and alley near the famed Boardwalk, the two outlaws fled first in a green Pontiac sedan, later switching to a stolen Ford V-8. A detective and one of the "gun molls" were wounded in the flight, and it was also believed Karpis and Campbell were wounded.

In the Pontiac, police found a loaded sawed-off shotgun and a loaded revolver.

TRAILED FROM FLORIDA

Karpis and Campbell, definitely identified by Department of Justice operatives, were located at the Hotel Denmore after being trailed north from Oklawaha, Fla., where Federal guns last week wiped out Kate "Ma" Barker, brains of the Bremer snatch, and her son, Fred Barker.

Belief was advanced that the gangsters, who a year ago collected $200,000 ransom for the return of kidnaped Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul brewer, planned to spend several days under cover in Atlantic City, later attempting a daring visit to the Hauptmann trial across the State at Flemington.

U. S. DIRECTS HUNT

Local police alone were credited with smoking out the two gangsters, while searching for a car stolen from Florida. Federal agents from Philadelphia arrived too late to take part in the gun battle but remained here tonight directing the pursuit.

With Karpis and Campbell in their hotel hideout were two girls. One of them wounded in the leg during the fight, said she was Louisa Graham, alias Dolores Delaney, 22. Police said she is Karpis' sweetheart, and that she is an expectant mother. She was taken to a hospital for treatment.

The other girl, Winona Burdett, 21, alleged sweetheart of Campbell, was held in the city jail. She said she once was a radio singer in Florida. Police are holding both on open charges, and a guard has been placed over the Graham girl in the hospital.

POLICE ON WATCH

Police of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia were ordered to watch all highways for the Ford sedan, bearing Karpis and Campbell, which sped south toward Longport after the outlaws, firing machine guns, fought off the pursuing squadrons and got away by means of an apparently well-planned escape route.

Police had been put on the trail of Karpis and Campbell when a teletype alarm was received from Florida about a stolen car. The car was found at a local garage last night by local police. A garage attendant, taken to headquarters, disclosed the occupants of the car were at the Hotel Denmore.

Leaving one detective at the entrance of the hotel, two others sought out Karpis' rooms on the fourth floor. They crashed through the door, service revolvers out, crying:

"Stick 'em up!"

They were greeted by the same cry from Karpis, sitting on the bed facing them, armed with a submachine gun, and Campbell, sitting in a rocking chair, also pointing a machine gun at the officers.

DETECTIVES DUCK

The detectives, in the face of superior armament, ducked and ran from the room into the corridor, escaping a deadly blast of bullets from both machine guns. Slugs dug holes in the walls of the room and the opposite corridor wall at chest height.

The death-bearing but poorly aimed fire of the outlaws followed the detectives down three flights of steps, as the detectives returned fire in their flight through the corridors and down the hotel stairs. One bullet wounded Karpis' sweetheart. The running battle aroused all the hotel guests, but they kept in their rooms until the firing in the corridors ceased.

Hearing the firing, the detective in the lobby had called headquarters. He was reinforced by police at the front and rear entrances of the hotel. Detective Arch Witham, one of those who broke into Karpis' room, was grazed on the cheek by a bullet as he reached the main floor.

FLY TO REAR

While the principal body of police concentrated at the front door, the outlaws ran for the rear, where they encountered only a few police. Karpis and Campbell opened fire again with their submachine guns, while the police responded with revolvers.

The running fight was resumed as Karpis and Campbell ran down Kentucky Avenue, near the boardwalk, and stopped at a garage. One stood behind a door, exchanging shots with police, while the other started the green sedan, belonging to a woman. Then the guard jumped into the automobile, which roared out of the garage and headed for Longport. They outdistanced police cars within two blocks.

Police revealed that last night Karpis called a doctor to attend Miss Graham, believing she was about to bear her child. She was taken to a hospital, but returned to the hotel later in the night. Upon reaching the hospital today, Dr. Carl Surran, police surgeon disclosed he was the doctor consulted by the girl last night, but that he had not known Karpis or the girl's identity. He said Karpis offered him a fee of $250 to attend the girl.

WINDOWS SHATTERED

Dozens of windows in the hotel, nearby houses and in the garage were broken by flying bullets in the stairway-to-street battle. Police said it was one of the submachine gun bullets that wounded the gangster's girl companion, who fell and broke her leg.

New Jersey State police, in a teletype alarm sent out this afternoon, were ordered to keep a lookout for Karpis and Campbell, who switched from the green Pontiac to a Ford V-8 with white wheels. Bridges and tunnels were manned by heavily armed State troopers.

Federal agents in Philadelphia and New York consulted by telephone on plans to continue the pursuit. Four Department of Justice agents, rushed from Philadelphia with a supply of machine guns, sawed-off shotguns and tear gas bombs, were here ready to go to any spot which reports that Karpis and Campbell were located.

- Mr. Nathan.....
- Mr. Tolson.....
- Mr. Clegg.....
- Mr. Baughman..
- Chief Clerk.....
- Mr. Coffey.....
- Mr. Edwards.....
- Mr. Egan.....
- Mr. Harbo.....
- Mr. Keith.....
- Mr. Lester.....
- Mr. Quinn.....
- Mr. Schilder.....
- Mr. Tamm.....
- Mr. Tracy.....
- Miss Gandy.....

Karpis and Aide Flee in Hotel Battle; Gang Girl and Detective Wounded

ALVIN KARPIS
Machine Gunner and Aide Also Believed Wounded In Atlantic City

file law

WASH HERALD 1-21-35

7-576-A

11

Says Karpis' Father

'It Don't Look Like He Cares About Anything,' Mumbles Parent of New Public Enemy No. 1 as He Shovels Coal

By United Press

CHICAGO—John Karpavicz, father of Public Enemy No. 1, stoked coal last night in the basement of the apartment house where he is janitor, and mumbled things about his son.

His son is Alvin Karpis, wanted for kidnaping and murder. John Karpavicz just heard how his son blasted his way out of an Atlantic City police trap.

'WON'T GET AWAY WITH IT'

"That boy's day will come soon," he said, grunting under the weight of a shovel loaded with soft coal. "He gets away with it today but some day he won't."

John Karpavicz is a little man and bears strong facial resemblance to his son. His brown hair is streaked with gray. He wears a battered, soiled brown hat and a patched sweater. His trousers are threadbare. His watery blue eyes have difficulty finding things in the gloomy cellar. There are circles under his eyes and he looks tired.

He denied that his plump, white-haired wife, a sad-faced woman, had pleaded thru the newspapers for Alvin to give himself up before Justice Department men shoot him down.

"What good would that do?" he asked. "It don't look like he cares about his life any more. It don't look like he cares about anything. He would pay no attention to us. He never did. A message like that and he would laugh."

POLICE SHOOT QUICK

"Look what he did today. He could give himself up then but he didn't."

He returned to considering the probable end of his son.

"These police that chase gangsters like Dillinger," he said. "They shoot quick. They have come to talk with me sometimes but I don't know anything about that boy now. They will get him some day."

"Maybe he could save his life by giving himself up. But he would save it, maybe, just for the electric chair."

Mr. Baughn
Chief Clerk
Mr. Clegg
Mr. Coffey
Mr. Edwards
Mr. Egan
Mr. Harbo
Mr. Keith
Mr. Lester
Mr. Quinn
Mr. Schilder
Mr. Smith
Mr. Tamm
Mr. Tracy
Miss Gandy

Washington

Daily

MAILED 11 AM

35

7-576-A

EB

hunt Karpis and Pal After Battle With Police

jects in Bremer
naping Escape
n Trap at Hotel

Women Abandoned by ngsters Admit Identity of rts Under Questioning

By United Press
NTIC CITY, N. J. — Justice ent agents today pressed poscore of cities into a search n Karpis and Harry Camp-surviving members of the Karpis-Barker gang. and Campbell are wanted
kidnaping of Edward G.
of St. Paul.

SHOTS EXCHANGED
police in towns along the d as far west as Chicago ructed to shoot to kill if they ed Karpis, now public en-1 because Federal agents

Left Behind

—Acme Photo
Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, last of the Bremer kidnap gang, shot their way out of a police trap in an Atlantic City hotel yesterday and fled in a stolen

Chief Clerk
Mr. Clegg
Mr. Coffey
Mr. Edwards
Mr. Egan
Mr. Harbo
Mr. Keith
Mr. Lester
Mr. Quinn
Mr. Schilder
Mr. Smith
Mr. Tamm
Mr. Tracy
Miss Gandy

Washington

Hunt Karpis and Pal After

Suspects in Bremer Kidnaping Escape From Trap at Hotel

Two Women Abandoned by Gangsters Admit Identity of Escorts Under Questioning

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Justice Department agents today pressed police of a score of cities into a search for Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, last surviving members of the notorious Karpis-Barker gang. Karpis and Campbell are wanted for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul.

200 SHOTS EXCHANGED

Local police in towns along the coast and as far west as Chicago were instructed to shoot to kill if they encountered Karpis, now public enemy No. 1, because Federal agents have killed or captured smarter and more desperate gangsters. He proved his right to the succession yesterday when he and Campbell machine-gunned their way thru a police trap in a hotel and escaped in a stolen motor car.

Altho more than 200 shots were exchanged, the only one injured was Dolores Delaney, 22, one of two women the gunmen left behind. Miss Delaney will give birth to a baby this week. She was said to be Karpis' sweetheart.

HIGHWAYS GUARDED

Federal agents believed they had fled Atlantic City and the vicinity, heading either south to Washington and Baltimore, west to Chicago, or north to New York and Boston. Highways in New Jersey, New York, Maryland and Pennsylvania were closely guarded.

Miss Delaney and her companion, Winona Burdette, 21, were taken to Philadelphia where they were undergoing severe questioning by Federal agents. They admitted their companions' identity, but otherwise disclosed little. Miss Delaney, suffering a leg wound, was treated at a local hospital. Because of the chance that Karpis and Campbell might attempt a rescue, thinking the women still there, 20 police guarded the hospital all night.

STOLEN CAR SPOTTED

Karpis and Campbell were in the Oklawaha, Fla., hideout of the gang three days before raiding Federal agents surrounded it and killed Fred Barker and Barker's 55-year-old mother in the ensuing gun fight. Karpis and Campbell were driving north in a stolen car. They arrived at 1 a. m. yesterday. Their women, who had traveled by train, arrived two days before.

They left their car in a garage where it was spotted as stolen by Policeman Elias Scaab. The two then were traced to a hotel. A police circular had warned that the men were dangerous but did not say how dangerous. Scaab went to police headquarters and led six men to the Danmore Hotel, near the boardwalk. They were armed only with pistols.

BANDITS OPEN FIRE

Detectives Edward Mulher and Arch Witham broke into a fourth-floor room, expecting to find two sleeping men. Instead they found Karpis seated in a rocker, fully dressed, a sub-machine gun in his lap. Campbell sat on the bed, also dressed, and holding a second machine gun. They opened fire as the detectives stepped back.

Left Behind

Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, last of the Bremer kidnap gang, shot their way out of a police trap in an Atlantic City hotel yesterday and fled in a stolen automobile. In an adjoining room police seized their alleged sweetheart, identified as Dolores Delaney and Winona Burdette (above), a radio singer of Ponca City, Fla.

Once in the corridor, apparently thinking to arouse the women in an adjoining room, Karpis fired a burst thru the door. One bullet hit Miss Delaney. The detectives were firing with pistols from the end of the corridor and the two gangsters couldn't wait any longer.

Driving the detectives down the stairs with steady streams of bullets, Karpis and Campbell descended three flights to the lobby and ran out a rear door, still firing. Karpis stole a car out of a garage while Campbell held back police with more bullets, and in that car they escaped.

Fourteen windows along the boardwalk and six windows in the hotel were broken by bullets.

Federal agents rushed here from Philadelphia and directed the pursuit. Six agents, armed with machine guns and rifles, still waited at Atlantic City headquarters early today, but they believed there was little likelihood of Barker or Campbell being anywhere near.

Washington
Daily News
1/21/35

EB

7-576-A

KARPIS AND PAL BLAST WAY OUT OF TRAP

St. Paul Pioneer-
Press 1-21-35

BREMER KIDNAP PRISON FOUND NEAR CHICAGO

He Identifies Wallpaper, Seen When Blindfold Was Removed at Meals.

COUNTED STEPS IN ROOMS

Agents' First Tip Reported Obtained With Arrest of
"Doc" Barker.

The house where Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was held prisoner for 23 days during his $200,000 abduction was reported Sunday night to have been found by Federal agents in suburban Bensenville, northwest of Chicago. Two new arrests also were said to have been made.

Bremer, it was understood, accompanied Federal agents to Bensenville recently and there pointed out a frame building, two stories high on one side and one story in the rear, as the place he was kept while members of the Karpis-Barker gang negotiated for the ransom.

The building, according to the Associated Press, is near a school and two churches. Bremer, kept in the rear and ground floor apartment, had told Federal agents that part of the time during his captivity he could hear children playing. That was one clue that led to the hideaway. Church bells also assisted in locating the place.

But it was the wall paper that was reported to have given Bremer positive identification of the house. found after Federal agents assertedly elicited information from the captured Arthur (Doc) Barker, co-leader of the kidnap gang who was arrested in Chicago January 8 and now is in Ramsey county jail here.

Mr. Bremer was "not at home" newspaper men Sunday night or comment on his reported visit to the house. Likewise, Department of Justice agents declined comment. The discovery of the hideout may speed the government's case against Barker. It was pointed out at Barker and others held in connection with the abduction could be prosecuted under the Lindbergh law which makes a death sentence possible for kidnapers who take their victims across state lines.

George F. Sullivan, United States attorney here, is expected to present new evidence to a Federal grand jury today for indictment of Barker. A dozen witnesses, including Mr. Bremer himself, are expected to appear under subpoena. Indictment will be sought for actual kidnaping and also for conspiracy to kidnap. Witnesses include Mr. Bremer are expected to include Walter Magee, St. Paul con-
se Turn to Page 2, Col. 5.)

Escape in Battle, Then Return in Attempt to Free Two Girl Friends

Escape Trap

ALVIN KARPIS.

HARRY CAMPBELL.

WITNESSES RECEIVED

Bremer Suspect and Harry Campbell Fire When Ordered to Surrender in Atlantic City Hotel; Steal Auto; Race Through Street Pursued by 20 Policemen as Traffic Lights Flash Alarm.

GUNMEN TWICE DRIVE DOWN BLIND ROAD, TURN, SHOOT PATH ANEW TO FREEDOM

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 20.—The nation's latest ace of bad men, the 25-year-old Alvin Karpis, shot his way out of an Atlantic City police trap early today.

With him, triggering a machine gun, was another of the Middle West's hunted criminals, Harry Campbell.

Behind them they left their women, one of them wounded and an expectant mother.

Trapped just before dawn in a hotel room to which they came only Saturday, the two desperadoes—wanted for crimes ranging from robbery to kidnap and murder—answered with gunfire the police demand to surrender.

Fighting their way from their fourth-floor quarters to an alley blazing so close to policemen that one officer's cap was shot from his head, they stole an automobile and then, pursued by twenty policemen and with every traffic light in the city flashing on and off—a general police alarm—they drove toward Camden, distancing pursuit.

The chase through the city's streets during which, on two occasions, the fugitives drove their car down blind streets, wheeled about and shot their way anew through the pursuing police forces, added to the sensationalism of the escape.

CAMPBELL REPORTED WOUNDED.

There was a report tonight, unconfirmed, that Campbell—who was in his underwear when he was surprised by detectives—had been wounded.

Karpis' "girl friend", known both as Dolores Delaney and as Louise Graham, was slightly wounded in the leg. She is soon to bear a child, the police surgeon said.

The other woman, arrested with the 31-year-old Delaney girl, Winona Burdette, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell, she is 25 years old.

Police Captain Sam Wheatley said tonight that he did not believe it possible that the two men had been able to get clear of the city. With Mayor Harry Bacharach taking personal charge of the police department, a thorough search was instituted.

The word that the notorious Karpis—hunted as the master mind of the Edward Bremer kidnaping in St. Paul last year—was in Atlantic City followed a telegraphed tip from Florida to be on the watch for a car bearing Florida license D5-306.

"Be careful," the information said. "These are two bad men, heavily armed."

Detectives checked garages and found the car parked in a garage at the foot of South Kentucky avenue, close to the Boardwalk. They traced Karpis and Campbell to the Dan-Mor hotel, close by.

They learned that the two men had arrived the day before and had taken a fourth-floor room adjoining that occupied by the two women, who arrived a week ago Friday.

KARPIS TALKS TO POLICE SURGEON.

With surprising bravado, Karpis had some words to say to the police surgeon.

high on one side and one story in the rear, as the place he was kept while members of the Karpis-Barker gang negotiated for the ransom. The building, according to the Associated Press, is near a school and two churches. Bremer, kept in the rear and ground floor apartment, had told Federal agents that part of the time during his captivity he could hear children playing. That was one clue that led to the hideaway. Church bells also assisted in locating the place.

But it was the wall paper that was reported to have given Bremer positive identification of the house, as found after Federal agents assertedly elicited information from the captured Arthur (Doc) Barker, co-leader of the kidnap gang who was arrested in Chicago January 8 and now is in Ramsey county jail here.

Mr. Bremer was "not at home" to newspaper men Sunday night for comment on his reported visit to the house. Likewise, Department of Justice agents declined comment.

The discovery of the hideout may change the government's case against Barker. It was pointed out that Barker and others held in connection with the abduction could be prosecuted under the Lindbergh law which makes a death sentence possible for kidnapers who take their victims across state lines.

George F. Sullivan, United States attorney here, is expected to present new evidence to a Federal grand jury today for indictment of Barker. A dozen witnesses, including Mr. Bremer himself, are expected to appear under subpoena.

Indictment will be sought for the actual kidnaping and also for conspiracy to kidnap. Witnesses besides Mr. Bremer are expected to include Walter Magee, St. Paul con-

(Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 5.)

HARRY CAMPBELL

WITNESSES RECEIVED

Trapped just before dawn in a hotel room to which they only Saturday, the two desperadoes—wanted for crimes ranging from robbery to rap and murder—answered with gunfire the police demand to surrender.

Fighting their way from their fourth-floor quarters to an alley blazing so close to policemen that one officer's cap was shot from his head, they stole an automobile and then, pursued by twenty policemen and with every traffic light in the city flashing on and off—a general police alarm—they drove toward Camden, distancing pursuit.

The chase through the city's streets during which, on two occasions, the fugitives drove their car down blind streets, wheeled about and shot their way anew through the pursuing police forces, added to the sensationalism of the escape.

CAMPBELL REPORTED WOUNDED.

There was a report tonight, unconfirmed, that Campbell—who was in his underwear when he was surprised by detectives—had been wounded.

Karpis' "girl friend", known both as Dolores Delaney and as Bonnie Graham, was slightly wounded in the leg. She is soon to bear a child, the police surgeon said.

The other woman, arrested with the 31-year-old Delaney girl, Winona Burdette, also known as Mrs. Bonnie Campbell, the 25-year-old.

Police Captain Sam Wheatley said tonight that he did not believe it possible that the two men had been able to get clear of the city. With Mayor Harry Hacharach taking personal charge of the police department, a thorough search was instituted.

The word that the notorious Karpis—hunted as the master mind of the Edward Bremer kidnaping in St. Paul last year—was in Atlantic City followed a telegraphed tip from Florida to be on the watch for a car bearing Florida license D8-306.

"Be careful," the information said. "These are two bad men, heavily armed."

Detectives checked garages and found the car parked in a garage at the foot of South Kentucky avenue, close to the Boardwalk. They traced Karpis and Campbell to the Dan-Mor hotel, close by.

They learned that the two men had arrived the day before and had taken a fourth-floor room adjoining that occupied by the two women, who arrived a week ago Friday.

KARPIS TALKS TO POLICE SURGEON.

With surprising bravado, Karpis had gone shortly after his arrival to the police surgeon, Dr. Carl Surran, and had made arrangements with him for the delivery of the baby the Delaney girl is expecting.

"We've got plenty of dough, and we want the best for the little girl," said "Public Enemy No. 1" with a record of terms in the penitentiaries of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Detectives, tracing the occupants of the stolen car with the Florida license, arrived at the hotel about 5 A. M. Two of them went to the fourth floor. The door of the room occupied by Karpis and Campbell was ajar.

One of the officers poked a pistol through the opening and cried out:

"Stick 'em up. We're officers."

The response was immediate. Karpis shouted back:

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers! We're coming!"

Campbell was in his underwear but Karpis was fully clothed. Campbell whirled, a pistol in his hand. He was either carrying it at the time or snatched it up quickly at the approach of the officers.

Karpis grabbed a machine gun, and the hotel, so silent before, echoed with gunfire.

The detectives, surprised, sought the protection of a bend of the corridor, firing all the time. As Karpis and Campbell came out, the fire from the officers' pistols drove the desperadoes toward the back of the hall, then down a rear stairway to an alley.

Waiting there were three officers. Karpis and Campbell raced for the garage where they had left their car, exchanging more than 200 shots with the police as they ran. Their car had been taken over by police but the gunmen piled into another and wheeled down the street.

GUNMEN CIRCLE HOTEL TWICE.

Twice they circled the hotel, apparently seeking to rescue the women. Balked in this effort, and with several cars of police pushing them hard, the men headed out of the neighborhood.

Twice their unfamiliarity with Atlantic City thoroughfares—many of which end in blind alleys at the Boardwalk—appeared to have them cornered. Each time, however, they spun their car around and, with the underwear-clad Campbell standing up behind and pulling the trigger of the machine gun, shot their way free. They finally were lost to their pursuers.

Almost from the first moment of gunfire, however, the city's traffic lights had been switched to blink on and off red, which is the manner in which a general police alarm is given here. This spread a warning to the farthestmost sections of the city, leading the police to believe it would have been next to impossible for the men to leave town.

Chicago police expressed the belief that if Karpis got out of Atlantic City he would head west to a Chicago hideout.

"Shoot to kill" was the warning broadcast by Detective Chief John L. Sullivan of Chicago. "If identity is established, shoot first and talk afterward."

The Delaney woman was taken to a hospital. She had been struck by a shot from Karpis' weapon, police said. The wound was superficial, and she was later taken with the Burdette girl to Philadelphia, in custody of Federal men.

Seven suitcases were found in the girls' room. One of the PUBLIC ENEMIES --- CAUGHT AND FREE

At the top above is Alvin Karpis, new Public Enemy No. 1, who shot it out in Atlantic City yesterday and escaped. He is linked to the Bremer kidnapping and the Barker gang. Directly above is Arthur "Doc" Barker, whose mother and brother were shot to death by U. S. agents, being taken into jail at St. Paul by Jailer William Gates. In the inset below is Edward Bremer, the kidnap victim of last year.

2 Kidnap-bandits Fight Shore Police

Continued From First Page

wielded the sub-machine guns.

More than 200 shots were fired during the heat of the fight, one policeman had his cap shot off his head, one of the arrested girls was wounded in the leg by Karpis, and one city block of Atlantic City was reduced to a state of terror.

Arrived From Florida

The girls are Dolores Delaney, 22, girl friend of Karpis, who last Thursday on her arrival by train from Florida registered at the Atlantic City Hospital as Louise Graham, and Winona Burdett, 21, a singer who once-upon-a-time entertained through Radio Station WBBZ, Ponca City, Iowa.

The Delaney girl, soon to become a mother, was accidentally shot in the leg.

The battle at the hotel came only a week after the Oklawaha, Fla., epic in which "Ma" Barker and her son, Fred, both members of the gang that collected $200,000 ransom for the return of Bremer, were shot dead by Federal men in a six-hour gun fight.

"Flier" Sent Out

Immediately following that incident Fred's brother, Arthur "Doc" Barker, was arrested in St. Paul and is now awaiting Grand Jury action.

Yesterday's battle had its beginnings in a police "flier" from Florida received in Atlantic City last Sunday. The "flier" merely described a stolen automobile with Florida license tags.

About 1:30 A. M. yesterday the car was placed in the Coast Garage, in S. Kentucky ave. near the Boardwalk and was discovered there shortly afterward by Patrolman Elias Saab. Questioning of a garage attendant established that the two men who had parked the car were living at the Dan-Mor Hotel, also in S. Kentucky ave., a place operated by Dan Young and William Morley.

Faced by Guns

It was about 6:30 A. M. when Detectives Edward Mulhern, Arch Witham and George Brennan, all unaware of the extreme danger of their mission, arrived at the hotel, located the men in room No. 22, and walked in on them.

In some unexplained manner Karpis and Campbell had been warned of their imminent arrest, for when Mulhern and Witham stepped into the room, armed only with revolvers, they found the two seated on the edge of the bed with sub-machine guns in their hands.

"Stick 'em up," growled one of the detectives.

"Stick 'em up yourselves, coppers," Karpis announced softly.

Fusillade of Lead

The two detectives dodged out the door, firing as they stepped

KARPIS JOINED GANG IN BREMER 'SNATCH'

Ex-convict Linked to Kansas City Politician's Murder

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (A. P.).—Alvin Karpis, 25-year-old graduate of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma penitentiaries, burst into the infamous class of public enemies when he joined Arthur "Doc" Barker as partner in the $200,000 kidnapping of Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker.

A year ago January 17 Bremer was abducted.

Relentless Government-huntsmen have since rounded up Barker—awaiting Grand Jury action in St. Paul tomorrow; slain Fred and Kate "Ma" Barker in Florida; seized and indicted John J. "Boss" McLaughlin and several other Chicagoans for alleged handling of the six-figure ransom.

But the slippery Karpis has always eluded traps.

Down in the Southwest he was known as burglar and thief and jail-breaker.

Last July, after the Federal officers had announced Karpis' identification as one of Bremer's abductors, it was made known at Kansas City that he and Fred Barker were bandits of the old Kimes-Inman gang, notorious for raids in Oklahoma, Missouri and Texas.

The pair of outlaws were accused of killing Sheriff C. R. Kelly at West Plains, Mo., in December, 1931, when he tried to arrest them.

Wanted in Kansas City

Karpis was named by Police Director Otto P. Higgins, of Kansas City, as one of five men responsible for the murder of John Laxia, Democratic factional leader there last summer. Laxia, Higgins said, had ordered Karpis and Barker out of town when they approached him with an illegal proposition, and sometime later Laxia was assassinated with a machine gun traced to Minneapolis—operating headquarters, for a time, of the Karpis-Barker band.

With the seizure of "Doc" Barker here January 8 and the subsequent killing of Fred and "Ma" Barker at Oklahoma, Fla., it was hinted that "Doc" had been "talking" to the Federal agents here in Chicago and that the trail of Karpis would be warming up. He is under indictment at St. Paul for the Bremer ransom plot. He was also wanted for questioning about the killing of A. W. Dunlap, of West St. Paul.

back. Karpis and Campbell pursued them, rained machine-gun bullets to clear the hotel hallway, and sent a volley through the door of an adjoining room, occupied by the two girls. It was one of these bullets which struck Karpis' sweetheart in the leg.

Police Surgeon Carl Surran, summoned later to attend her wound, recognized her as the girl who visited the hospital in anticipation of the arrival of a baby, and who had offered him a fee of $250 for services.

Fight Surges to Street

From that point on the battle became hot. Down a flight of hotel stairs the gunmen leaped, firing in the direction of Detective Brennan who awaited on the first floor.

In a moment they were outside the hotel, the detectives ineffectually firing pistol bullets after them. The pursuit led out of the back door of the hotel and into Mt. Vernon ave. It was there that a machine gun bullet clipped Patrolman Saab's cap from his head.

Karpis and Campbell sped to the nearby garage, hoping to find their stolen Florida car. It was unavailable for them; the police had seen to that. Menacing attendants with their weapons they selected another.

Try to Save Girl

It was the car of Mrs. Harold Brand, wife of a Boardwalk auctioneer. Outside in the machine, peppering the sidewalks with bullets, they drove twice around the block, twice past the hotel. Police regarded this gesture as a hopeful move to pick up the two girls, who the gunmen believed they had awakened with the volley of bullets through their door.

After the second trip, however, the two apparently realized the hopelessness of rescuing the girls, and sped away.

Police said last night that they believed it virtually impossible for them to make exit from New Jersey. At the hotel, it was said, that the two had registered as C. Carson and G. Cameron.

Philadelphia Inquirer

PUBLIC  LEDGER

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY MORNING, JANUARY 21, 1935

P-BANDITS FIGHT SHORE POLICE

AIDE TRAP; TAKEN

Service Revolvers raged; 200 Shots
rized by Battle;

lphia Fix Identity

Girl's Captured

With story-book bravado, Karpis and his companion defied police, who thought they were mere automobile thieves, made an unsuccessful effort to rescue two girl companions from the hands of the law, and finally sped away in the direction of Longport.

As a result every road out of the State of New Jersey was guarded by State Police last night, and the hunt for the fleeing mobsmen was carried to this city.

Delaware River Bridge and the Camden ferries literally

The Philadelphia Inquirer

PUBLIC LEDGER

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY MORNING, JANUARY 21, 1935 The Philad

KIDNAP-BANDITS FIGHT

KARPIS, AIDE ESCAPE TRAP; 2 GIRLS TAKEN

*Unsuspecting Bluecoats With Service Revolvers Face Machine Gun Barrage; 200 Shots Fired; Atlantic City Terrorized by Battle;
One Woman Hit in Leg*

U. S. Agents From Philadelphia Fix Identity of Pair, Sought in Bremer Kidnapping and as Barker Pals; "Flier" for Stolen Car Leads to Hotel Hideout

Rattling sub-machine gun yesterday punctuated the latest chapter in the life of Alvin Karpis, America's current Public Enemy No. 1—his escape from a police trap at a small hotel in Atlantic City.

The 25-year-old Western desperado, fleeing from a hideout in Florida, battled inadequately-armed police to a draw, and with a companion, Harry Campbell, escaped in a stolen automobile.

Police of the seashore resort fought their battle with ordinary service revolvers and without knowledge, at the moment, that they were exchanging bullets with the gangster described as the most desperate at liberty today in America—a man who had fled from

Girl's Captured

With story-book bravado, Karpis and his companion defied police, who thought they were mere automobile thieves, made an unsuccessful effort to rescue two girl companions from the hands of the law, and finally sped away in the direction of Longport.

As a result every road out of the State of New Jersey was guarded by State Police last night, and the hunt for the fleeing mobsmen was carried to this city.

Delaware River Bridge and the Camden ferries literally bristled with police guns as stern-faced men awaited a reported attempt of the two to escape through this city.

U. S. Agents on Job

The two girls Karpis and Campbell were forced to abandon to the police were identified by U. S. Division of Investigation agents from this city, who also revealed to the Atlantic City police—after the battle was over—the identities of the men who had

Continued on Page 5, Column 1

7-576-A

MONDAY MORNING, JANUARY 21, 1935

SCENE OF GUNFIGHT AND PRINCIPALS

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

At the upper left is the Danmore Hotel, in Atlantic City, where yesterday Alvin Karpis, America's latest "number one enemy," and Harry Campbell, staged a machine gun battle with police and escaped. Karpis is pictured at the lower right, and Campbell at the lower left.

7-576-A

KARPIS, PAL ARE TRAILED TO BUCKS CO.

Killers' Auto Found in Desolate Area Near Quakertown

BULLET HOLES IN CAR
INDICATE BOTH HURT

Karpis-Police Battle Seen by Morgenthau

Special to the Evening Ledger
Atlantic City, Jan. 21.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau was reported to have witnessed the pitched battle in which Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, Mid-Western gunmen, shot their way out of a police trap here yesterday.

Mr. Morgenthau was a weekend guest at a Boardwalk hotel, only half a block from the Danmor Hotel, where the gangsters were surprised by Atlantic City police. Only a vacant lot separates the two hotels, and the Secretary, awakened by the shots, was said to have watched the battle from his room. He had returned to Washington today and could not be reached for a statement.

The trail of Alvin Karpis, Nation's "Public Enemy No. 1," led today to the desolate Haycock Mountain region of Bucks County, where it is believed he may be hiding with his first lieutenant, Henry Campbell, who is thought to be badly wounded.

This became known with the discovery, a short distance from Quakertown, of the automobile in which the two men were hiding. It was killed by bullets who with Karpis, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Killed in New Britain Mission

3 SEIZED AS AIDES OF KARPIS IN WEST

Innkeeper and Man Who Passed Kidnap Ransom
Held With Pal

St. Paul, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Two Bensenville, (Ill.) men, allegedly linked with the kidnapping of Edward G. Bremer, were arrested in Chicago two weeks ago at about the same time Russell Gibson, Karpis-Barker gangster, was slain and Arthur (Doc) Barker was arrested, it was learned here today.

Alvin Karpis, who escaped police in Atlantic City yesterday, is accused of having participated in the kidnapping.

The two are Elmer Farmer, innkeeper, and Harold Ellerton, both living near Bensenville, where the Bremer hideout was located. Byron Bolton, alleged to have "peddled" the Bremer money, also was jailed at that time.

It was learned from a reliable source that George F. Sullivan, United States District Attorney, will seek indictments against Farmer and Ellerton for harboring members of the Bremer kidnap gang.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The electric chair loomed today for Alvin Karpis, ace bad man, if the police who almost caught him in Atlantic City with a companion take him alive.

With the discovery last night of the house in which Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was imprisoned a year ago until he bought his release for $200,000, the Government's path was cleared for application of the Lindbergh law, making a death sentence possible for kidnapping.

Karpis and Arthur (Doc) Barker, already in custody, are the only surviving members of the gang which abducted Bremer.

Although he refused to confirm or deny it at St. Paul, Bremer was understood to have identified a rambling frame structure in suburban Bensenville as the place where he was held prisoner. Inasmuch as the abduction took place in Minnesota, this reported proof of interstate transportation gives the Government full use of the law.

Karpis, Pal Trailed To Bucks County

Continued from Page One
east of Quakertown. The discovery sent posers of State troopers, deputy sheriffs and constables on a manhunt through the isolated hilly region.

State Patrol Notified
Calabrette found the machine early this morning. He said it must have been left there some time between midnight and 7 A. M. He reported his discovery to Constable Frank Moll, of Richmond Township, who communicated with the State highway patrol and State police.

Finding of the car shattered an earlier theory that the two gangsters were trapped in Atlantic City and were hiding in some underworld den of the shore resort.

Meanwhile, two girls captured in the gunmen's rooms were being held. Federal agents refused to divulge where they were.

This, together with the nature of the attire of the two men when they shot their way out of the trap, gave Federal agents and police two avenues to follow in their closely knit search.

Karpis was clad in trousers, slippers and an overcoat, while Campbell wore underwear, slippers and an overcoat, when they fled.

Clothing Stores Warned
Police today asked that a warning be broadcast to clothing store proprietors on the chance the two gangsters might attempt to buy new clothing.

Hospitals also were being watched and a Washington order was issued placing the offices of physicians known to treat gangsters under close check.

IN SHORE GUN BATTLE

Ledger Photo
WINONA BURDETTE
Girl companion of Harry Campbell, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell, who was arrested in Atlantic City after escape of Karpis and Campbell

ALVIN KARPIS
Sought by police along Atlantic City beach after shooting his way out of trap in Atlantic City hotel

HARRY CAMPBELL
One-time member of the Barker-Karpis gang, who with Alvin Karpis "machine-gunned" his way to escape at Atlantic City brought to this city last night by Federal agents and placed under guard in a hospital, but police officials denied the girls were here.

Karpis and Campbell were trapped accidentally. Last Sunday police of this vicinity received a teletype message from Oklawaha asking them to be on the lookout for a stolen automobile bearing Florida license. The alarm advised all authorities to be cautious, as the men were armed and desperate. The message failed to identify the two occupants of the machine.

Florida Car Is Cited

At 8:30 A. M. yesterday Patrolman Elias Saab, detailed to watch garages for stolen automobiles, saw the Florida car in a garage a short distance from the Danmor Hotel. The attendant at the garage refused to tell about the owners of the machine until taken to police headquarters.

Detectives Edward Mulhern, Arch Witham, George Brennan, James Campbell and Saab went to the hotel, which is operated by Daniel Young and William Morley. They learned that the two men they were seeking were in Room 23.

Mulhern and Witham went upstairs. Brennan remained in the lobby, while Patrolman Saab and Sergeant Joseph Fiorentino waited on the street.

Defy Police With Guns

Smashing the door, Mulhern stood in the doorway and declared, "Stick 'em up. We're officers."

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers, we're coming out," retorted Karpis, holding a submachine gun. Campbell also was armed.

When Karpis and Campbell opened fire, Mulhern and Witham dodged behind a bend in the corridor and returned the fire.

The outlaws stepped from their room, their guns spitting a steady stream of lead in the direction of the police. Apparently in an attempt to arouse the two women, Karpis turned his gun directly at the door of their room, splintering it with bullets.

Sweeping the hallway with bullets, the two fugitives forced the policemen to retrace their footsteps down the stairway to the ground floor. There Mulhern and Witham were re-enforced by the other policemen.

Massed in a body at the front door of the hotel, the police poured slugs at the criminals. When they reached the foot of the stairway, the two thugs ran through the lobby to the rear entrance of the hotel, which opens into Mount Vernon Avenue and which was guarded by Detective James Campbell.

Bullet Knocks Off Hat

They turned the guns on Detective Campbell, one bullet knocking his hat from his head, then cut through an alley leading into South Kentucky Avenue and raced toward the garage where their car was parked.

With one automobile the chase was almost hopeless. However, two of the policemen jumped into their car and pursued the green machine until it outdistanced them on Atlantic Avenue.

When the chase was abandoned, Witham discovered that one of the bullets fired by the gangster grazed his cheek.

The corridors of the hotel virtually all of the windows in the lobby on the first floor were shattered as were those in the hotel across the street and adjoining hotel.

Police found the two women in the hotel and arrested them. Delaney girl, who insisted her name was Louise Graham, was taken to the Atlantic City Hospital. Burdette girl was taken to headquarters but both were moved later presumably to Philadelphia.

Seven suitcases of clothing found in the women's room. Delaney girl had several suitcases.

Wirephoto

WINONA BURDETTE
Larger Photo
Girl companion of Harry Campbell, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell, who was arrested in Atlantic City after escape of Karpis and Campbell

ALVIN KARPIS
Sought by police along Atlantic Seaboard after shooting his way out of trap in Atlantic City hotel

HARRY CAMPBELL
One-time member of the DH-linger gang, who with Alvin Karpis "machine-gunned" his way to escape at Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, JAN. 21.—(AP WIREPHOTO)—Winona Burdette, former radio singer, as she was being taken from police headquarters here last night by a Department of Justice agent after her arrest with Dolores Delaney in a hotel where the two girls had been staying with Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, members of the gang that kidnapped Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker. Campbell and Karpis escaped in a machine-gun battle with police brought to this city last night by Federal agents and placed under guard in a hospital, but police officials denied the girls were here.

Karpis and Campbell were trapped accidentally. Last Sunday police of this vicinity received a teletype message from Oklawaha asking them to be on the lookout for a stolen automobile bearing Florida licenses. The alarm advised all authorities to be cautious, as the men were armed and desperate. The message failed to identify the two occupants of the machine.

Florida Car Is Clue

At 6:30 A. M. yesterday Patrolman Elias Saab, detailed to watch garages for stolen automobiles, saw the Florida car in a garage a short distance from the Danmor Hotel. The attendant at the garage refused to tell about the owners of the machine until taken to police headquarters.

Detectives Edward Mulhern, Arch Witham, George Brennan, James Campbell and Saab went to the hotel, which is operated by Daniel Young and William Morley. They learned that the two men they were seeking were in Room 23.

Mulhern and Witham went upstairs. Brennan remained in the lobby, while Patrolman Saab and Sergeant Joseph Fiorentino waited on the street.

Defy Police With Guns

Smashing the door, Mulhern stood in the doorway and declared, "Stick 'em up. We're officers."

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers, we're coming out," retorted Karpis, holding a submachine gun. Campbell also was armed.

When Karpis and Campbell opened fire, Mulhern and Witham dodged behind a bend in the corridor and returned the fire.

The outlaws stepped from their room, their guns spitting a steady stream of lead in the direction of the police. Apparently in an attempt to arouse the two women, Karpis turned his gun directly at the door of their room, splintering it with bullets.

Sweeping the hallway with bullets, the two fugitives forced the policemen to retrace their footsteps down the stairway to the ground floor. There Mulhern and Witham were re-enforced by the other policemen.

Massed in a body at the front door of the hotel, the police poured slugs at the criminals. When they reached the foot of the stairway, the two thugs ran through the lobby to the rear entrance of the hotel, which opens into Mount Vernon Avenue and which was guarded by Detective James Campbell.

Bullet Knocks Off Hat

They turned the guns on Detective Campbell, one bullet knocking his hat from his head, then cut through an alley leading into South Kentucky Avenue and raced toward the garage where their car was parked.

With one automobile the police chased was almost hopeless. However, two of the policemen jumped into their car and pursued the green machine until it outdistanced them on Atlantic Avenue.

When the chase was abandoned, Witham discovered that one of the bullets fired by the gangsters had grazed his chest.

The corridors of the hotel and virtually all of the windows in the lobby on the first floor were shattered as were those in buildings across the street and adjoining the hotel.

Police found the two women still in the hotel and arrested them. The Delaney girl, who insisted her name was Louise Graham, was taken to the Atlantic City Hospital. The Burdette girl was taken to police headquarters but both were removed later presumably to Philadelphia.

Seven suitcases of clothing were found in the women's room. The Delaney girl had several suitcases filled with infant's wear. Two bags were found in the room vacated by Karpis and Campbell.

Find Shotgun in Car

Police seized the Florida automobile in which they say they found a loaded saw-off shotgun and a loaded .45 caliber revolver. The shotgun was hidden beneath the rear seat and the revolver was in a dashboard compartment.

Obviously disappointed at missing Karpis, now called Public Enemy No. 1 on the Justice Department's fast-fading list of hunted criminals, the agents questioned the two women, who are said to have talked freely of their relations with Karpis and Campbell.

It was learned that the two women admitted having been in Florida recently with the men. They left there last Sunday, police say, and came to Atlantic City by train. The men, they said, traveled in the stolen automobile.

Police also revealed that the Delaney woman had a conference with Police Surgeon Carl Surran concerning the arrangement for delivery of the baby which she expects soon. She promised him a $250 fee.

This was revealed yesterday when

Dr. Surran saw the Delaney woman in the Atlantic City Hospital and identified her.

Dr. Surran said he had been called to the Danmor Hotel and saw the woman. He said a man present at the time said, "Treat the little mother right. We'll take good care of you."

The alarm described the car in which the two escaped as a 1934 model Pontiac, with New Jersey license number A-3073. A later report, the reason for which was not divulged, was that the men may appear in a Ford car with white wheels, bearing Tennessee, Florida or Illinois license plates.

Philadelphia (Pa.) Evening Bulletin
(January 21, 1935)

| |
|--------------------|
| Mr. Nathan |
| Mr. Tolson |
| Mr. Clegg |
| Mr. Baughman .. |
| Chief Clerk |
| Mr. Coffey |
| Mr. Edwards |
| Mr. Egan |
| Mr. Harbo |
| Mr. Keith |
| Mr. Lester |
| Mr. Quinn |
| Mr. Schilder |
| Mr. Tamm |
| Mr. Tracy |
| Miss Gandy |

WHERE GUNMEN FOUGHT POLICE

The Danmor Hotel, Kentucky av. near the Boardwalk, Atlantic City, which was the scene of the gun battle yesterday between police and Alvin Karpis, now "Public Enemy No. 1," and Harry Campbell, a gunman pal.

7-576-A

POLICE WATCH CITY GATES FOR KARPIS AND PAL

One of Pair Who Shot Way Out of Atlantic City Trap Believed Wounded.

WOMEN ARE IN PHILADELPHIA

Bremer Gangsters Fled With Little Clothing in Car Stolen From Garage.

Police throughout this territory were keeping sharp watch today for Alvin Karpis, current Public Enemy No. 1, and Harry Campbell, who shot their way out of a police trap in Atlantic City yesterday. It was believed, though not known for a certainty, that the two were bottled up on the island on which the resort city stands, but as there was a possibility that they had got further away, peace officers all over the region were on the alert.

Among the places being watched were clothing stores and physicians' offices. Campbell is believed to have been wounded when he and Karpis, the latter firing some 200 shots from a submachine gun, went past a group of policemen who had only revolvers, not having known how desperate the men were.

Also, neither of the two was properly clad for flight. Campbell flung an overcoat over his underwear and Karpis was only a pair of trousers better off.

The authorities from Maryland to Massachusetts were ready to show what they can do with Middle Western hoodlums like Karpis, who wanted as coleader of the gang which kidnaped Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul bank official, a year ago.

Entrances Guarded

This is the first time on record that any of the Dillinger-Nelson-Floyd type have come into the Northeast. Local officers held a bit on their mettle; it was a great deal harder than innocent looking folk realized to get into New York city from the South today, for there were guards at all entrances.

The center of activity, however, was in Atlantic City, for it was there that the two escaped. A car was stolen from the garage of the hotel where they were staying, and the pair fled out of the city, and as they approached the description of Karpis and

ESCAPES POLICE TRAP

Alvin Karpis.

KARPIS AND PAL ARE SOUGHT HERE

Continued from Page 1.

reservation, for treatment of the wound. The women admitted the identities of their companions.

Police Spot Car.

When they went into the hotel, the Atlantic City police didn't know who was inside. They were acting on a request from Florida to look for a stolen car, the occupants of which were armed. A patrolman spotted the car, and police came in some force, but not as great as they might have.

Detective Dan Mulhern opened the door of the room which a clerk had pointed out as that of the operators of the car, and entered, saying: "Stick 'em up! We're officers!"

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers!" replied Karpis, setting off the machinegun. Mulhern ducked back. Karpis sent another volley through the door of the women's room, adjoining, apparently intending to awaken them thus, but succeeding also in wounding the Delaney woman. Then he and Campbell went down a back stairway and out through a window.

They ran to the garage which patrons of the hotel use, looked in vain for their car, then took another. Karpis kept the police at

COMPANION OF GUNMEN

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

7-576-1

...was seen to leave.
Behind them as they fled the gangsters left two women, who they were Dolores Delaney, 27 old, and Winona Burdette, 24 old. Delaney is about to have a child.
one of the more than 200 bullets fired in the Hotel Danmor, where the four were staying, struck her in the leg, so she went to the same hospital where she had made a

Continued on Page 19.

Associated Press Photo.
Winona Burdette.

bay with his rapid-fire weapon
while Campbell started the automobile, and they drove off down the street.

Police Were Lucky.

Though the police didn't have a machine gun, they took as many revolver shots as possible at the pair, and Campbell was believed to have been badly hurt. The forces of the law thus got off much better, for in spite of all the firing Karpis did, only one policeman was hurt, Detective Arch Witham, and his only wound was a grazed cheek.

The two men arrived in Atlantic City on Saturday, the women having preceded them by one day, coming by rail, whereas Karpis and Campbell drove.

Apparently they had intended to lie low while the baby was born;
it was, incidentally, a police surgeon whom Karpis had engaged for the delivery, Dr. Carl Surran, to whom he said, "We've got plenty of dough; we want the little girl to have the best."

Karpis became Public Enemy No.
1 only recently. His immediate predecessors have died rapidly, moving him up a notch each time. He might have gone their way, not only yesterday but last week, had he not just ended a visit to Fred and Ma Barker, members of the Bremer kidnaping gang, in Florida just before Federal agents paid a call and filled them and their home full of machine gun bullets. Campbell isn't quite so distinguished as his companion, but has a few murders and man lesser crimes to his discredit.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 21 (A. P.).—Two Bensenville (Ill.) men allegedly linked with the Edward G. Bremer kidnaping, were arrested in Chicago two weeks ago at about the same time Russell Gibson, Karpis-Barker gangster was slain and Arthur (Doc) Barker, was arrested, it was learned here today.

The two are Elmer Farmer, innkeeper, and Harold Ellerton, both residing in the Bensenville vicinity, where the Bremer hide-out was located. Byron Bolton, alleged to have "peddled" the Bremer money,
also was jailed at that time.

KARPIS SHOOTS HIS WAY TO FREEDOM—(Wirephoto).

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Candy.....

The hotel in Atlantic City where a police trap failed to halt the quick-shooting Alvin Karpis and his companion, Harry Campbell, yesterday. The two gunmen, protected by machine gun fire, escaped to a motor car and last night had succeeded in eluding officers. Their two women companions, staying at the same hotel, were captured. Karpis is shown at the upper right. Winona Burdette (lower right) is one of the women left behind by the gunmen. She also is known as Mrs. Louise Campbell. Dolores Delaney, friend of Karpis, was arrested with her.

7-576-A

7

JANUARY 21, 1935.

KARPIS NET FAILS

A Police Trap Fails to Hold the Young Gunman and Companion in Atlantic City.

BULLETS CLEAR THEIR PATH

Police Order to Surrender in Their Hotel Room Brings Answer From Machine Gun.

Two Women Left Behind by the Bandit and Harry Campbell Are Captured.

WILD CHASE IN STREETS

Driving Into Blind Alleys, the Gangsters Shoot Way Through Pursuing Officers.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

Atlantic City, Jan. 20.—One of the nation's most notorious bad men, the 25-year-old Alvin Karpis, shot his way out of Atlantic City early today.

With him, triggering a machine gun, was another of the middle West's hunted criminals, Harry Campbell.

Behind them they left their women, one of them wounded and an expectant mother.

Trapped just before dawn in a hotel room to which they came only yesterday, the two desperadoes—wanted for crimes ranging from robbery to kidnap and murder—answered with bullets the police demand to surrender.

Flee Through an Alley.

Fighting their way from their

Bremer Kidnaping House Is Reported Found.

(By the Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—The Herald and Examiner tonight said federal agents had found the house where Edward G. Bremer was held prisoner for twenty-three days in his $200,000 abduction. The paper said it was in suburban Bensenville, northwest of Chicago.

The government for a time had in custody the owner of the house, whose identity was not revealed, but later released him.

Arthur (Doc) Barker is held in St. Paul for the kidnaping. He was captured here January 8, the same night that an alleged accomplice in the kidnaping, Russell Gibson, was shot to death by federal agents and an other man and three women were apprehended.

If the place where Bremer was held prisoner is in Illinois, authorities pointed out, the abductors could be prosecuted under the Lindbergh law which makes a death sentence possible.

It was understood two other men also were apprehended, one of them taken in Indiana, and were still in custody.

What They Say

(By the Associated Press.)

New York, Jan. 20.—E. J. Connelley, who commanded a squad of federal agents in the battle with the Barkers in Florida:

"I'm just the man who goes up and knocks on the door to tell them the department of justice is there."

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman.....
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Mr. Gandy.....

A Police Trap Fails to Hold the Young Gunman and Companion in Atlantic City.

BULLETS CLEAR THEIR PATH

Police Order to Surrender in Their Hotel Room Brings Answer From Machine Gun.

Two Women Left Behind by the Bandit and Harry Campbell Are Captured.

WILD CHASE IN STREETS

Driving Into Blind Alleys, the Gangsters Shoot Way Through Pursuing Officers.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

Atlantic City, Jan. 20.—One of the nation's most notorious bad men, the 25-year-old Alvin Karpis, shot his way out of Atlantic City early today.

With him, triggering a machine gun, was another of the middle West's hunted criminals, Harry Campbell.

Behind them they left their women, one of them wounded and an expectant mother.

Trapped just before dawn in a hotel room to which they came only yesterday, the two desperadoes—wanted for crimes ranging from robbery to kidnap and murder—answered with bullets the police demand to surrender.

Flee Through an Alley.

Fighting their way from their fourth floor quarters to an alley, blazing so close to policemen that one officer's cap was shot from his head, they stole a motor car and then, pursued by twenty policemen and with every traffic light in the city flashing on and off—a general police alarm—they drove toward Camden, distancing pursuit.

There was a report tonight, unconfirmed, that Campbell—who wore only underwear when he was surprised by detectives—had been wounded.

Karpis's girl friend, known as Dolores Delaney and as Louise Graham, was slightly wounded in the leg. She is soon to bear a child, the police surgeon said.

One Known as Mrs. Campbell.

The other woman, arrested with the 21-year-old Dolores Delaney, is Winona Burdette, also known as Mrs.

Bremer Kidnaping House Is Reported Found.

(By the Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—The Herald and Examiner tonight said federal agents had found the house where Edward G. Bremer was held prisoner for twenty-three days in his $200,000 abduction. The paper said it was in suburban Bensenville, northwest of Chicago.

The government for a time had in custody the owner of the house, whose identity was not revealed, but later released him.

Arthur (Doc) Barker is held in St. Paul for the kidnaping. He was captured here January 8, the same night that an alleged accomplice in the kidnaping, Russell Gibson, was shot to death by federal agents and an other man and three women were apprehended.

If the place where Bremer was held prisoner is in Illinois, authorities pointed out, the abductors could be prosecuted under the Lindbergh law which makes a death sentence possible.

It was understood two other men also were apprehended, one of them taken in Indiana, and were still in custody.

What They Say

(By the Associated Press.)

New York, Jan. 20.—E. J. Connelley, who commanded a squad of federal agents in the battle with the Barkers in Florida:

"I'm just the man who goes up and knocks on the door to tell them the department of justice is there."

Mr. Nathan.....
Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman..
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

7-576-A

7

The other woman, arrested with the 21-year-old Dolores Delaney, Winona Burdette, also known as Louise Campbell. She is 22.

A chase through the city's streets, during which on two occasions the fugitives drove their car down blind streets, wheeled about and shot their way anew through the pursuing police forces, added to the sensationalism of the escape.

Sam Wheatley, police captain, said tonight that he did not believe it possible that the two men had been able to get clear of the city.

With Mayor Harry Bacharach taking personal charge of the police department, a thorough search was instituted tonight.

The word that the notorious Karpis—Hunted as the master mind of the Edward Bremer kidnaping in St. Paul last year—was in Atlantic City followed a telegraphed tip from Florida to be on the watch for a car bearing Florida license D5-306.

"Be careful," the information said. "These are two bad men, heavily armed."

Their Car Is Found.

Detectives checked garages and found the car parked in a garage at the foot of South Kentucky avenue, close to the boardwalk.

They traced Karpis and Campbell to the Dan-Mor hotel, close by.

They learned the men had arrived the day before and had taken a fourth floor room adjoining that occupied by the two women, who arrived a week ago Friday.

With surprising bravado, Karpis had gone shortly after his arrival to the police surgeon, Dr. Carl Surran, and had made arrangements with him for the delivery of the baby Dolores Delaney is expecting.

"We've got plenty of dough, and we want the best for the little girl," said "Public Enemy No. 1" with a record of terms in the penitentiaries of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

To Hotel at Early Hour.

Detectives, tracing the occupants of the stolen car with the Florida license, arrived at the hotel about 5 o'clock this morning. Two of them went to the fourth floor. The door of the room occupied by Karpis and Campbell was ajar.

One of the officers poked a pistol

(Continued on Second Page.)

estate.

KARPIS NET FAILS

(Continued from First Page.)

through the opening and cried out:

"Stick 'em up. We're officers."

The response was immediate. Karpis shouted back:

"Stick 'em up yourself, coppers! We're coming!"

Campbell was in his underwear, but Karpis was fully clothed. Campbell whirled, a pistol in his hand. He was either carrying it at the time or seized it quickly at the approach of the officers.

The Firing Starts.

Karpis seized a machine gun, and the hotel, so silent before, echoed with gunfire.

The detectives, surprised, sought the protection of a bend of the corridor, firing all the time.

As Karpis and Campbell came out, the fire from the officers' pistols drove the desperadoes toward the back of the hall, then down a rear stairway to an alley.

Waiting there were three officers, and Karpis and Campbell raced for the garage where they had left their car, exchanging more than 200 shots with the police as they ran.

Their car had been taken over by police, but the gunmen piled into another and wheeled down the street.

Twice they circled the hotel, apparently seeking to rescue the women. Bailed in this effort, and with several cars of police pushing them hard, the men headed out of the neighborhood.

Down Two Blind Streets.

Twice their unfamiliarity with Atlantic City thoroughfares—many of which end in blind alleys at the Board Walk—appeared to have them cornered. Each time, however, they spun their car around and, with the underwear-clad Campbell standing up behind and pulling the trigger of the machine gun, shot their way free. They finally were lost to their pursuers.

Almost from the first moment of gunfire, however, the city's traffic lights had been switched to blink on and off red, which is the manner in which a general police alarm is given farthermost sections of the city, leading the police to believe it would have been next to impossible for the men to have got out of town.

Chicago police expressed the belief that if Karpis got out of Atlantic City he would head west to a Chicago hideout.

A "Shoot to Kill" Order.

"Shoot to kill," was the warning broadcast by John L. Sullivan, detective chief, of Chicago. "If identity is established, shoot first and talk afterward."

The appearance of a light in a house unoccupied for two years sent police and federal agents on a false trail in their hunt for Karpis.

The officers surrounded the house, broke in, and found five vagrants.

A search of hotels, night clubs and city resorts was started by a squad of twenty-five federal agents.

Dolores Delaney was taken to a hospital. She had been struck by a shot from Karpis's weapon, police said. The wound was superficial, and she was later taken with Winona Burdette to Philadelphia, in custody of federal men.

When police searched the effects of Dolores Delaney they found a large trunk filled with baby clothes—with everything needed for a new-born infant.

Seven suitcases were found in the women's room. One of the women told the police they had been in Florida recently, and that while there they had seen and talked with Fred and "Ma" Barker, who were killed as they resisted a federal agents' siege last week.

Barker has been coupled by department of justice agents with Karpis as coleader of the gang blamed for the Bremer kidnaping.

Aided by a Floridian.

The woman told police, they said tonight, that while in Miami they had talked with a man identified only as "Duke," and that "Duke" had directed them to the Atlantic City hotel, where they were found. He had given them a letter of recommendation, the girls said, to the proprietors of the place.

"Duke" was described as an employee at the "Little Club" of Miami and also of the Biscayne race track. A report said federal men had asked that "Duke" be questioned, but a statement from Miami's police tonight said they knew nothing of such a request.

The girls came to Atlantic City by train.

Only two days ago, in Chicago, the mother of Karpis—an ex-convict with prison terms in Missouri, Kansas and gunfire, however, the city's traffic lights had been switched to blink on and off red, which is the manner in which a general police alarm is given here. This spread a warning to the

The girls came to Atlantic City by train.

Only two days ago, in Chicago, the mother of Karpis—an ex-convict with prison terms in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma penitentiaries behind him —appealed to her son, through the newspapers, to surrender.

Feared for His Safety.

She urged this course rather than death for him at the hands of the law's huntsmen.

But Karpis showed no notion of acquiescing to his mother's plea as he fingered his machine gun today.

Like his comrade in crime, Barker, he was ready to go down shooting, rather than face arrest and possibly execution for one of the crimes charged against him.

As quickly as possible, the state's elaborate anti-criminal machinery was thrown into gear.

Troopers throughout the state, and police in the cities, were ordered to watch for the fugitives and to be extremely cautious because of the desperate character of the men.

Philadelphia and New York police swung into the hunt, and crack men of the government's criminal hunting force were dispatched here.

Marked for Dillinger's Fate.

Police back-trailed Karpis to Miami and thence to Chicago, from which latter city he fled when his designation as the new "Public Enemy No. 1" served notice on him that he was marked for the same relentless treatment as befell his predecessors, John Dillinger and George (Baby Face) Nelson.

In a broadcast to all New York City police radio cars, police headquarters of that city tonight ordered all officers to take "every precaution" if Karpis and Campbell were encountered.

Karpis and Campbell have probably changed cars, the New York police were told, and may have separated. The fugitives were riding in a green coach with Jersey license plates when last seen.

Among crimes for which Karpis is held responsible or in which it is believed he participated are:

The kidnaping of Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker, January 17, 1934.

The murder of Sheriff C. R. Kelly at West Plains, Mo., in December, 1931, when the sheriff attempted to arrest Karpis and Fred Barker.

Numerous forays in Oklahoma, Missouri and Texas.

Campbell is wanted in Tulsa for the 21, 1935.

Will Finds Two Texans Who Know Their Business

New York, Jan. 20.—To The Star: Left Washington this afternoon. There are two Texans down there who have certainly made good. One is Jack Garner, who is vice-president, and don't care whether you know it or not. After over thirty years of sound, common sense, he knows more about the running of this government than any man outside of President Roosevelt. Ask any old-time congressman or senator what they think of Garner.

And this fellow Jesse Jones, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. I like to hear the big bankers cuss him, for he can lend more money and collect more of it back than they can. You don't leave all your assets behind when you go to Jones, you leave all your assets with Jones. Outside the income tax (brother, they are efficient), the RFC is the most business-like run thing in Washington.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

murder of J. Earl Smith, Tulsa lawyer, in August, 1932.

ONCE SOUGHT IN LAZIA CASE.

Murder Later Was Traced to Another Gang, However.

Police here sought Alvin Karpis and Fred Barker in connection with the assassination of John Lazia, North Side Democratic leader, who was reported to have ordered Karpis and Barker to leave Kansas City when they approached him with plans for operating here. However, the police later traced the murder of Lazia to a gang led by Jack Gregory. Three members of the gang, including Gregory, have been killed by underworld friends of Lazia, according to reports.

Matchless
Rothschild's

COATS originally

$49

COATS Originally to $
COATS Originally to $

We doubt if you've ever seen value event. Here's luxury than you'd ever expect...
money in an unprecedented

Fashion Salon

Roths

On Main

JANUARY 21, 1935

KARPIS IN HOUDINI ACT

ESCAPE OF THE OUTLAW LEAVES
THE POLICE PUZZLED.

With Every Entrance Guarded, the Machine-Gunner and Companion Blast Way to Freedom
With Spectacular Daring.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 21.—

Strengthening the net they were confident they had cast about Alvin Karpis, public enemy No. 1, police today asked that a warning be broadcast to clothing store operators to be on the lookout for men seeking to purchase apparel.

Karpis, wanted as a co-leader of the Bremer kidnap gang, and a companion, Harry Campbell, shot their way out of a police trap yesterday.
Authorities were certain they were bottled up in Atlantic City because the resort, situated on an island, is connected with the mainland only by three highway bridges which were under heavy guard.

CAMPBELL AWAY IN UNDERWEAR.

Karpis was clad in trousers, slippers and an overcoat and Campbell in underwear, slippers and an overcoat when they made their escape when police sought to arrest Karpis for motor car theft. Campbell stole another car and drove away as Karpis fired at the officers with a machine gun from the tonneau.

Police said Karpis and Campbell probably would attempt to acquire more clothing to divert suspicion.

Police learned their identities from two women companions seized in the raid on their hotel. They were listed as Dolores Delaney, 21, and Winona Burdette, 22, also known as Mrs.
Louise Campbell. The two men were taken to Philadelphia today by federal agents for further questioning.

GIRL IS EXPECTANT MOTHER.

Shot in the leg, but not seriously wounded, Dolores was treated at a hospital where she already had registered in anticipation of childbirth. A detective's cheek was gashed by a slug from the submachine gun.

Bullets splattered on the walls of a narrow, dimly lit hotel hallway, gunfire flashed in the darkness of the hotel stairs, and Karpis was free from one more police trap.

Outside, in a pouring rain, men waited, trigger fingers ready for their part in the battle that raged within.

Every exit was covered. Every door was watched. But Karpis was gone.

ESCAPE IS A MIRACLE.

Mr. Tolson.....
Mr. Clegg.....
Mr. Baughman..
Chief Clerk.....
Mr. Coffey.....
Mr. Edwards.....
Mr. Egan.....
Mr. Harbo.....
Mr. Keith.....
Mr. Lester.....
Mr. Quinn.....
Mr. Schilder.....
Mr. Tamm.....
Mr. Tracy.....
Miss Gandy.....

...spattered on the walls of a narrow, dimly lit hotel hallway, gunfire flashed in the darkness of hotel stairs, and Karpis was free one more police trap.

Outside, in a pouring rain, men waited, trigger fingers ready for their part in the battle that raged within.

Every exit was covered. Every door was watched. But Karpis was gone.

ESCAPE IS A MIRACLE.

How Karpis with a submachine gun under his arm, and his crony, Campbell, could melt into the darkness and rain is the mystery touch that was needed to complete the detective-thriller story of the gangster's getaway.

The villain was there, raking the narrow hotel hall with a hail of death that zipped all around, but never touched the three detectives—Eddie Mulhern, Arch Witham and George Brennan—who sought to trap him, but were trapped themselves.

Policeman Jimmy Campbell topped off the drama by dropping his empty pistol and shouting to his machine gun duelist:

"Drop that gun and come out in the street and fight like a man."

A deadly "rat-a-tat-tat" was the answer to that challenge.

The answer was the same from the time the detectives entered the Dan-Mor hotel to surprise what they thought to be "an ordinary tough guy."

"It was like war. It was a mad-house," one of them said afterward. "I don't see why someone isn't dead."

Met Campbell in the Hall.

When the ratters reached the fourth floor of the hotel, they met a man walking down the hall in his underwear.

"Looking for someone," he asked politely.

"Yes, who's the fellow in that room there?"

"Oh, he's a pal of mine. Wait a minute, and I'll tell him you want him."

And Campbell—for it was he—went in the room, locked the door and snapped off the lights.

The hotel owner's wife, Mrs. William Morley, was summoned with a pass key. A bullet spat through the opening as the door swung back, and the key in her hand flew to pieces.

Mulhern stuck his pistol through the doorway.

"Stick 'em up," he yelled. "We're officers."

"Stick 'em upp yourself," came a voice inside. The door swung wide, and a machine gun started to chatter. The detectives, outlined clearly in the light, could see only the gun flashes in the darkened room. They scurried for safety, but bullets bit into the walls around them.

PATH TO FREEDOM BLAZED.

Down the hall and down the stairs, again into the cover of darkness, backed the gangster, always keeping a curtain of gunfire between on the stairs the trail ended, but only for a moment.

"Rat-a-tat-tat." "rat-a-tat-tat" came the deadly rattle. Karpis was sweeping the street with a leaden hail

(Continued on Second Page.)

JANUARY 21, 1935

KARPIS AND PAL— ARE SOUGHT IN SCORE OF CITIES

Women Companions Held After Desperadoes Shoot Way to Freedom.

By United Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 21.—Department of justice agents Monday pressed police of a score of cities into a search for Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, last surviving members of the notorious Karpis-Barker gang, that extended along the Atlantic seaboard from Washington to Boston.

Karpis and Campbell are wanted for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul.

Local police in towns along the coast and as far west as Chicago were instructed to shoot to kill if they encountered Karpis, now public enemy No. 1 because federal agents have killed or captured smarter and more desperate gangsters. He proved his right to the succession Sunday when he and Campbell machine-gunned their way through a police trap in a hotel and escaped in a stolen motor car.

Many Shots Exchanged.

Although more than 200 shots were exchanged, the only one injured was Dolores Delaney, one of two women the gunmen left behind. Miss Delaney will give birth to a baby this week. She is said to be Karpis' sweetheart.

Federal agents believe they fled either south to Washington and Baltimore, west to Chicago, or north to New York and Boston. Highways in New Jersey, New York, Maryland and Pennsylvania were guarded closely.

To Question Women.

Miss Delaney and her companion, Winona Burdette, 21, were taken to Philadelphia where Monday they were undergoing severe questioning by federal agents. They admitted their companions' identity, but otherwise disclosed little. Miss Delaney, suffering a leg wound, was treated at a local hospital. Because of the chance that Karpis and Campbell might attempt a rescue, thinking the women still there, twenty police guarded the hospital all night.

Karpis and Campbell were in the Oklawaha, Fla., hideout of the gang three days before raiding federal agents surrounded it and killed

| |
|-------------------|
| Mr. Nathan..... |
| Mr. Tolson..... |
| Mr. Clegg..... |
| Mr. Baughman.. |
| Chief Clerk..... |
| Mr. Coffey..... |
| Mr. Edwards..... |
| Mr. Egan..... |
| Mr. Harbo..... |
| Mr. Keith..... |
| Mr. Lester..... |
| Mr. Quinn..... |
| Mr. Schilder..... |
| Mr. Tamm..... |
| Mr. Tracy..... |
| Miss Gandy..... |

eled by train, arrived two days before.

They left their car in a garage where it was spotted as stolen by policeman Elias Scaab. The two men were traced to a hotel. A police circular had warned that the men were dangerous, but did not say how dangerous. Scaab went to police headquarters and led six men to the Danmore hotel, near the Boardwalk. They were armed only with pistols.

Detectives Edward Mulher and Arch Witham broke into a fourth floor room, expecting to find two sleeping men. Instead they found Karpis seated in a rocker, fully dressed, a sub-machine gun in his lap. Campbell sat on the bed, also dressed, and holding a second machine gun. They opened fire as the detectives stepped back.

Once in the corridor, apparently thinking to arouse the women in an adjoining room, Karpis fired a burst through the door. One bullet hit Miss Delaney. The detectives were firing with pistols from the end of the corridor and the two gangsters couldn't wait any longer.

Driving the detectives down the stairs with steady streams of bullets, Karpis and Campbell descended three flights to the lobby and ran out a rear door, still firing. Karpis stole a car out of a garage while Campbell held back police with more bullets, and in that car they escaped.

Fourteen windows along the board walk and six windows in the hotel were broken by bullets.

Federal Agents Await

Appearance of Karpis

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(UP)—Federal agents, backed by apparently authentic information of hideouts of the almost extinct Barker-Karpis gang, waited in force Monday for an attempt of Alvin Karpis, sole major member of the gang still at large, to seek sanctuary in Illinois.

Word that Karpis had shot his way out of Atlantic City police trap Sunday, came as federal agents questioned three women captured when Arthur (Doc) Barker was seized and Russell Gibson, another of the gang's members, killed, two weeks ago in Chicago.

Simultaneously the Chicago agents revealed discovery of the house where Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was held prisoner a year ago while his kidnapers bargained for and collected $200,000 ransom. Members of the Barker-Karpis gang had been sought since the kidnaping as its perpetrators.

The prison house is in Bensenville, eighteen miles from Chicago. Bremer identified a small 2-room apartment in the building Saturday as the place of his incarceration, according to Chief of Police Herman L. Wagner of Bensenville.

Wagner said the agents are holding two men in connection with Bremer's imprisonment. One he identified as Harold Allerton, former Bensenville resident, and Elmer Farmer, 40 years old, a tavern owner.

The building Bremer identified is across a street from the Bensenville school. At the time the banker was released he told authorities he could hear children playing in numbers near his prison.

MONDAY - JANUARY 21, 1935

WILL A. CALPPELL - Editor

Mr. Quinn.....
 Mr. Schneider.....
 Mr. Tamm.....
 Mr. Tracy.....
 Miss Candy.....

"MA" BARKER

"Ma" Barker died with a machine gun in her hands. That's very modern. It's the first instance of the kind. Bonnie Parker was something of the same sort, smoked big cigars, carried a gun, but did not pass away in a role quite so dramatic and spectacular.

And Ma Barker and her son were killed together, while battling officers of the law in a barricaded house. They were kidnaping suspects, and the federals got them.

The woman was 55 and her son 32. She is pictured in the news as the "brains" of a kidnaping gang. But it is not necessary to believe that. It probably is merely a gallant gesture toward the sex. The notable feature of the case is that a woman, a mother, should be found in a criminal posture of a character so desperate, and so associated with her son.

When they are killed, nearly all the kidnapers, gangsters, gunmen, bank robbers and the like prove to have mothers. And, of course, the very great majority of these women are law-abiding, respectable, home-staying bodies—though some of them perhaps are resentful toward society and the law, sympathetic with their offspring, and sure the latter never got a fair show.

So it comes as a surprise that is accompanied by shock to find a mother standing shoulder to shoulder with her son in criminal enterprise, and at the desperate last going down under a shower of bullets, gripping a machine gun.

In the past decade or so, in the large cities of the country, criminal evolution has produced some hardy and desperate lawbreakers, effectively organized and equipped with the latest arms, cars and other modern inventions calculated in the highest degree to make crime as successful as possible, remembering that it is a pursuit against which are turned the hands of all lawabiding people.

HELENA INDEPENDENT, MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1935

But a new twist in the evolution of social evil becomes apparent when mothers of criminals join them as shock troops on the firing line and die with them, fighting with modern firearms the officers of the law.

For sinking the Canadian schooner "I'm Alone" the United States must pay the families of the men $25,000. It was worth it to the prohibitionists of those days, but tax dollars have to foot the bill.

John Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, is one public official who has not written a book—but what a story he could write.

GIVE THEM BOTH T

perhaps are resentful-to-law, sympathetic with re the latter never got a prise that is accompanied another standing shoulder son in criminal enterprise, last going down under a pping a machine gun. or so, in the large cities nal evolution has produced perate lawbreakers, effec- equipped with the latest modern inventions calcu- degree to make crime as

ILY INDEPENDENT, MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1935

embering that it is a turned the hands of olution of social evil others of criminals on the firing line and ith modern firearms schooner "I'm Alone" he families of the men the prohibitionists of e to foot the bill.

f the Bureau of Investi- is one public official but what a story he

GIVE THEM BOTH THE SAME MEDICINE!

The net paid circulation for December exceeded
Daily --- 1,600,000
Sunday - 2,450,000

Copyright 1935 by News Syndicate Co., Inc. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

DAILY

NEWS

★★★★
FINAL

NEW YORK'S

PICTURE NEWSPAPER

Entered as 2nd class matter.
Post Office, New York, N. Y.

Vol. 16. No. 179 44 Pages

New York, Monday, January 21, 1935*

2 Cents IN CITY LIMITS 3 CENTS Elsewhere

ENEMY #1 BLASTS COPS IN HOTEL TRAP

Story on Page 2

(By Acme)
Alvin Karpis, the nation's latest Public Enemy No. 1 who blasted his way out of Atlantic City hotel trap yesterday.

(By Acme)
Alvin Karpis, the nation's latest Public Enemy No. 1 who blasted his way out of Atlantic City hotel trap yesterday.

(NEWS photo)

Winona Burdette, sweetheart of Karpis' pal, is guarded by a U. S. agent carrying machine gun.

TRAPPED in an Atlantic City hotel by police, Alvin Karpis, desperado, and a companion, machine-gunned their way to freedom. —Story, p. 2.

(NEWS photo)

(Associated Press Wirephoto)
DELAWARE'S ANTIDOTE FOR CRIME.—As a crime wave rears its head in the East, Warden Elmer J. Leach, hands out a Wilmington, Del., brand of punishment for outlaws. Swinging a cat-o'-ninetails in this Wirephoto, he gives ten lashes to Walter Bedwell, 20, convicted of a $35 robbery. In addition, Bedwell received a 10-year jail sentence. Two other youths were similarly punished.

WOULD-BE KILLER AND VICTIM WHO LIVED.—Mrs. Russell Hey, 32, of Bogota, N. J., confessed yesterday she plotted to have her husband pitched from the Palisades to death. Edward Price (left) did the shoving. But Hey (right) lived when he fell on ledge 45 feet below. Mrs. Hey admitted she conspired with Charles Mucci, 26, a bus driver, who in turn hired Price to push Hey off the cliff for $25. —Story, p. 2.

(Inert)

NO. 1 OUTLAW BLASTS POLICE IN HOTEL TRAP

By JOHN MARTIN.
(Staff Correspondent of The News)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 20.—Surprised in a love tryst by a squad of Atlantic City police, Alvin Karpis, the nation's newly crowned Public Enemy No. 1, and Harry

7-576-A Winona Burdette, sweetheart of Karpis'
companion, was seized by
Atlantic City
police. She is twenty-one years old and told police that she was a radio singer, working at Station WBBL
in Florida.

(By Assoc)

Campbell, his last surviving associate in the $200,000 Bremer kidnaping, machine-gunned their way out of a Boardwalk hotel today and escaped in a stolen car.

Tonight, with State police guarding every highway out of the city and squads of Department of Justice agents speeding here from all large Eastern cities, authorities

Wife Admits

JAPS MOBILIZING FOR ANOTHER BIG BITE FROM CHINA

(By Associated Press)

KALGAN, Chahar Province, China, Jan. 20.—A spokesman for the Chahar Government said today that 4,000 Japanese and Manchukuoan troops were concentrated on the western Jehol border ready to invade this territory.

The spokesman accused the Japanese army of unwarrantedly "invading" Chahar by their recent penetration of the Changliang District, near the border.

"It is regrettable," he said, "that the Japanese should invade this province on the flimsy excuse that the area belongs to Jehol."

"All Chinese and foreign maps showed the area concerned comprises the district of Kuyuan, in eastern Chahar."

It was stated the forces gathered on the border consisted of 3,000 Manchukuoan troops and 1,000 Japanese.

Japanese Disavow Hostile Intent of Troops.

Peiping, China, Jan. 21 (AP).—Japanese military authorities said today the Jehol-Chahar border dispute had been settled and that boundary questions were being left to diplomatic negotiations.

Japanese spokesmen in Shanghai said the force was placed on the border because Chinese had entered Jehol.

Japan Aiming to End U. S.-British Influence.

Tokyo, Jan. 21 (Monday), (AP).—What the Japanese call "closer Sino-Japanese co-operation" in Asia, crowding out American and British influence, was being freely predicted today as a forthcoming development in the annual session of the Imperial Diet, which resumes business tomorrow after the long New Year holiday.

The public was expecting important announcements of policy in the speech of Foreign Minister Drive of Japanese and Manchukuoan troops is indicated by arrows.

DAILY ALMANAC.

MONDAY, JAN. 21, 1935.
(Eastern Standard Time.)

Rain.

Tomorrow rain. Much colder in afternoon and night.

Sunrise, 7:16 A. M.; sunset, 4:59 P. M. Moon rises, 7:09 P. M.; sets, 8:13 A. M. Morning star, Jupiter; evening star, Venus. Last quarter, 27th.

TEMPERATURES IN NEW YORK.

MAXIMUM, 5 P. M. 45
MINIMUM, 5 A. M. 37
5 a. m. ... 37 | 2 p. m. ... 42 | Unofficial
5 a. m. ... 34 | 2 p. m. ... 41 | 11 p. m. ... 35

The NEWS in TABLOID

AND INDEX

NEW YORK AND VICINITY

Fire sweeps tanker in mid Atlantic; pleas ask quick rescue.—Page 2.

Wife admits plot with sweetheart to kill husband.—Page 2.

Enterprises of late Isidor Fisch seen as big gun of Hauptmann defense.—Page 4.

Girl strikers heckle Mayor LaGuardia at Waldorf-Astoria dinner.—Page 10.

Minister charges police graft in $1,000,000-a-day policy racket.—Page 10.

Stillborn babe brought life by doctor.—Page 10.

Tearful Elsa Sittell, who spent ten days in Nazi cell returns.—Page 10.

Police seize 166 in week-end raids to halt crime wave.—Page 11.

Wife jails basketball star and team losses.—Page 28.

Park Association praises Commissioner Moses but urges non-partisan board to stop politics.—Page 30.

Heiress to $500,000 born after dad's death.—Page 34.

Delay in cut in rate laid to gas directors.—Page 37.

UNITED STATES

Atlantic City.—Alvin Karpis, Public Enemy No. 1, and gunman pal shoot way out of hotel police trap.—Page 2.

Trenton.—Hauptmann left his job the day the ransom was paid.—Page 3.

Flemington, N. J.—Prosec-

NO. 1 OUTLAW BLASTS IN HOTEL

(Continued from Page 2)

rial witnesses, arriving, after having been seen by Mayor Harry S. Cuthbert, were agents to further grilling.

Although Department agents have been for more than a week they were not of the country's last week it remtown patrolman a up the country's While he was early this morning, Saab spied a ca-license in the Coatsucky Ave. and His list showed ported stolen in before. The colored refused to answer after a two-hour

Campbell, his last surviving associate in the $200,000 Bremer kidnaping, machine-gunned their way out of a Boardwalk hotel today and escaped in a stolen car.

Tonight, with State police guarding every highway out of the city and squads of Department of Justice agents speeding here from all large Eastern cities, authorities were convinced the last of the nation's kingpin gunmen were at bay some place in Atlantic City and might be trapped before dawn. Campbell was thought to be wounded.

Twenty-five Federal agents, each carrying a machine gun and a thousand rounds of ammunition, are combing the city, ready to battle the harried triggermen with their own favorite weapons as soon as they are cornered.

The spectacular gunfight, during which police, armed only with revolvers, exchanged more than 300 shots with the machine-gunners, ripped the silence along the Boardwalk at 6:30 A. M. Dozens of windows were shattered by bullets.

Abandoned in the desperate foray were two gunmoll cuties with whom the long-hunted kidnapers had left the gang's hide-out at Oklawaha, Fla., last Sunday, only three days before Ma Barker and her son, Fred, were trailed there by Government agents and slain after a six-hour gun battle.

Karpis himself unintentionally wounded one of these two forgotten women. A bullet from his sputtering machine gun pierced a wall and scraped the leg of his sweetheart, Dolores Delaney, 22, an expectant mother, who was in bed in an adjoining room.

Hunted for Year.

The other, Winona Burdette, 21, who said she was a radio singer employed by Station WBBL in Florida, was in the room with the two men when police broke in.

Both girls were seized as mate-

(Continued on page 6, col. 1)

Wife Admits Plot to Slay Her Husband

By JULIUS MAHLER.

THE BUNGLED PLOT of a lovelorn suburban wife and her bus-driver sweetheart to murder an unwanted husband

Mrs. Russell Hey
Her plot failed.

by pitching him off the Palisades—a task sweetened by the prospect of a $50,000 insurance bonus—was revealed yesterday by the police of Alpine, Bogota and Teaneck, N. J.

When Russell A. Hey, 44, a refrigerator salesman living at 142

(Continued on page 14)

Tokyo, Jan. 21 (Monday), (AP).—What the Japanese call "closer Sino-Japanese co-operation" in Asia, crowding out American and British influence, was being freely predicted today as a forthcoming development in the annual session of the Imperial Diet, which resumes business tomorrow after the long New Year holiday.

The public was expecting important announcements of policy in the speech of Foreign Minister Koki Hirota in opening the Diet.

VESSELS RACE TO TANKER IN GRIP OF FIRE

(By United Press)

DISASTER overtook the British tanker Valverde in mid-Atlantic early this morning when her heavy cargo of oil took fire. Radio messages reached the Mackay station here. Three ships raced to the scene but they were so far away that it was believed impossible for them to arrive in time to save the thirty-five men aboard.

"We can't hold out much longer," the radio operator of the Valverde tapped out. A few hours later he reported flames had eaten through the decks from the engine room and were spreading toward great storage tanks loaded with crude oil.

Boats 300 Miles Away.

The Dutch freighter Costa Rica, the German freighter Saarlander, and the Norwegian freighter Solsten, turned about and under full steam raced toward the Valverde's position, placed at 1,250 nautical miles due east of the Bahamas. All were about 300 miles away at 6:00 A. M. and all are slow. They were the only vessels, so far as was known, within 500 miles.

Coolly Taps Signals.

The radio operator of the Valverde coolly tapped out his signals. "Flames on deck," he reported. "Keeping into wind to keep fire from cargo. Burning fast. Urgently need assistance."

The operator reported that the two life boats astern had been destroyed.

Sunrise, 7:16 A. M.; sunset, 4:59 P. M. Moon rises, 7:39 P. M.; sets, 3:13 A. M. Morning star, Jupiter; evening star, Venus. Last quarter, 27th.

TEMPERATURES IN NEW YORK.
MAXIMUM, 5 P. M. 45
MINIMUM, 5 A. M. 37

5 a. m. 37 2 p. m. 43 Unofficial
6 a. m. 39 3 p. m. 43 11 p. m. 39
7 a. m. 31 4 p. m. 44 Midnight 45
8 a. m. 34 5 p. m. 45 1 a. m. 45
9 a. m. 36 6 p. m. 43 2 a. m. 45
10 a. m. 38 7 p. m. 41 3 a. m. 44
11 a. m. 39 8 p. m. 42 4 a. m. 44
Noon 40 9 p. m. 41 5 a. m. 44
1 p. m. 41 10 p. m. 39 6 a. m. 44

For twenty-four hours ended at 5 P. M., Jan. 20:

Mean temperature, 36; normal, 36;

excess since Jan. 1, 71 degrees.

Precipitation, 4 inch; deficiency since Jan. 1, 17 inch.

S. A. M. S. P. M.
Barometer 30.44 30.15
Humidity 89 89
Wind-direction SE N
Wind-velocity 15 2

TIME OF TIDES.

Ready Reck. High Water. Low Water. A. M. P. M. A. M. P. M. A. M. P. M.
High water 8:40 9:07 8:14 9:30 11:30 11:20
Low water 3:23 3:57 3:13 3:46 5:40 5:40
For high water: Jamaica Bay, add 15 minutes to Government Island; Williams Point, add 2 hours to Government Island; Fannie Bay, add 4 hours to Government Island.
(Information furnished by United States Coast and Geodetic Survey; Eastern Standard Time.)

RECORDS IN AMERICAN CITIES.
Observations at United States Weather Bureau stations taken at 8 P. M. (Eastern Standard Time) yesterday.

| Cities | Temp. | Wind | Bar. | Rel. Hum. | Clouds |
|-------------------|---------|-------|------|-----------|--------|
| Boston | 32 18 | 30.30 | 32 | Rain | |
| Chicago | 40 38 | 29.98 | 01 | Cloudy | |
| Dallas | 64 56 | 30.04 | 46 | Cloudy | |
| Denver | -10 -10 | 30.00 | 03 | Cloudy | |
| Kansas City | 48 38 | 30.34 | 03 | Cloudy | |
| Los Angeles | 58 40 | 30.30 | — | Clear | |
| Miami | 76 72 | 30.18 | — | Clear | |
| Minneapolis | -5 -14 | 30.34 | — | Clear | |
| New Orleans | 80 68 | 29.92 | — | Cloudy | |
| Seattle | 34 14 | 30.14 | 04 | Snow | |
| St. Louis | 48 38 | 30.00 | 06 | Snow | |
| Washington, D. C. | 34 26 | 30.18 | 33 | Rain | |

1935 JANUARY 1935

| SUNDAY | MONDAY | TUESDAY | WEDNESDAY | THURSDAY | FRIDAY | SATURDAY |
|--------|--------|---------|-----------|----------|--------|----------|
| 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 | 26 |
| 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | | |

1935 FEBRUARY 1935

| SUNDAY | MONDAY | TUESDAY | WEDNESDAY | THURSDAY | FRIDAY | SATURDAY |
|--------|--------|---------|-----------|----------|--------|----------|
| | | | | | 1 | 2 |
| 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 |
| 10 | 11 | 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 |

gas directors.—Page 37.

UNITED STATES

Atlantic City.—Alvin Karpis, Public Enemy No. 1, gunman pal shoot way out of hotel police trap.—Page 2.

Trenton.—Hauptmann his job the day the ransom was paid.—Page 3.

Flemington, N. J.—Prosecutor Hauck says Bruno seventy-six lies will trap him.—Page 3.

Washington, D. C.—State Department notes reveal S. balked trial of ex-Kaiser for war guilt.—Page 9.

Detroit.—Coughlin calling joining World Court diplomatic deceit.—Page 36.

Washington, D. C.—House members plan "spanking" for Ickes.—Page 37.

Detroit.—Ford aid sees capitalism's grip on industry broken.—Page 37.

FOREIGN

Kalgan, China.—Chahar Government charges Japanese are massing to invade province.—Page 2.

Colon, Panama.—Red Johnson alibi woman gives aid to Hauptmann.—Page 3.

Vienna.—Prince von Starhemberg announces Heimwehr will put Archduke Otto on throne.—Page 8.

Rome.—Deaf-mute son of ex-king Alfonso to be married March 4.—Page 10.

SPORTS

Rangers overwhelm Canadiens, 7 to 1.—Page 38.

Crescents blank Baltimore Orioles, 1-0, in Garden.—Page 38.

Return N. Y. U. Manhattan basketball game sought for Garden.—Page 39.

National League plans salary cuts.—Page 40.

up to 10x15 with new paper!

7.95

REPAIRED

an unusual assortment of every decorative every room in your 9c

PAPERS

TESTED

Shattered By Bandit Guns

(NEWS photo)
ective examines window in beauty shop, broken by slugs fired by Karpis and pal.

and ran through the hotel to the front lobby. They were at the doorway by Patrolman Campbell, who shouted to to surrender.

ore the officer could raise his a volley from the machine tore away a section of the frame and blinded him with ers.

two fugitives raced back to r exit and ran down a short to the Coast Garage. While a stood at the entrance with achine gun, warding off pur- Campbell backed out a pea Pontiac sedan belonging to Harold A. Brand, wife of a is Boardwalk auctioneer.

Escape'—Around Block.

car roared up Kentucky with Karpis leaning through dow and firing brief warning from the machine gun. sly unfamiliar with the city, eing desperadoes swung into street, made two righthand and a minute later found elves back in front of the e, with the Boardwalk block- air way. ere they go," a watcher d as the driver swept the ound. Police, who had col- quickly at the garage, ed into the street. Patrol- ampbell, who had braved one e gun blast, leaped onto the g board, only to be knocked another volley that riddled p but again failed to scathe police gave chase in com- ered cars, but lost the Pon- a downtown thoroughfare urred toward Longport. re the fleeing car could reversed the six miles neces- reach any main highway, a e alarm had been broadcast ate police were watching the three roads that provided from the city. as not until police questioned Campbell's curvaceous brun- nette sweetheart that they learned the identities of the men they were seeking.

Karpis and Campbell, the pert prisoner revealed, apparently had a hunch that the Government was closing in on them in Florida. Leaving Oklahoma with their molls, they went to Miami, where they put the girls on a train for Atlantic City and arranged to join them "as soon as we can pick up a car."

So brazen were the two gang- sters that when they arrived in At- lantic City yesterday in the stolen car, they immediately made arrangements with Dr. Cary Surran, who was a Police Department sur- geon, to deliver the Delaney girl's baby.

This is the license plate—listed for stolen car—that led police to Karpis.

"We don't want anything but the best," they were quoted as saying. "We've got plenty of dough."

After they had agreed to pay $250 for the doctor's services, the expectant mother was taken to At- lantic City Hospital. She left later in the evening, when an examina- tion showed the birth was not im- minent.

Although the teletype alarm warned all police to watch for the green Pontiac with New Jersey license A-5973J, it added that the fugitives were believed to have switched to a Ford V-8 with white wheels.

It also asked police to watch hospitals and doctors' offices, in the theory that either Karpis or Campbell might have been wounded, although their agility in escaping made this appear un- likely.

In searching the Florida car, which the gunmen abandoned in the garage when they fled in the Pontiac, police found a loaded re- volver and sawed-off shotgun. In addition to being well supplied with arms, the foppish thugs also brought with them nine bags of clothing.

Miami police were asked to de- tain a man identified as "Duke," an employee of the Little Club in Miami and also of the Biscayne race track, from whom the two girls said they got the address of the Danmor Hotel.

Karpis, who climbed to the top of the public enemy list when Baby Face Nelson was blasted out by Department of Justice guns, was only a small time hoodlum until Edward G. Bremer, wealthy bank- er, was kidnaped at St. Paul, Minn., last January.

Wins His Rating.

Among the fingerprints found on a gasoline can tossed from the kid- nappers' automobile were those of Karpis.

He started his career in Kan., where he was in the Hutchinson 1929 for second Less than a month started a 10-year and was at liberty.

In 1930 he was safe blowing and st- mobile. His five-to- lasted less than a 1931 he was arrested burglary.

The slim, unprepos- ter was lost in the underworld until the gave him a nationwide and made him a hunte

With Arthur (Doc) Karpis, the other of Ma's trigge- sons, he was indicted as in the Bremer kidnaping.

(Other pictures on page Ex-No. 1 Died Shooting, Along With Ma Barker.

Fred Barker, whose removal by the gun route automatically ad- vanced Alvin Karpis to No. 1 on the Public Enemy list, was shot to death with his machine-gunning mother, Kate (Ma) Barker, after a six-hour battle with Federal agents last Tuesday in their hide- out at Oklawaha, Fla.

The quick-triggered beldame and her son were trapped when another son, Arthur (Doc) Barker, turned squealer in Chicago. Seized as a member of the Bremmer kidnap gang, Doc soon furnished the in- formation that sent fifteen Federal police to the Florida coast lair of the 55-year-old woman and Fred.

Bremer Locates

Kidnap Prison.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 20 (U.P.).—The house where Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was held prisoner while his kidnapers bargained for $200,000 ransom has been found in Bensenville, 18 miles west of Chicago, and identified by Bremer.

Herman L. Wagner, Bensenville police chief, said Bremer was in Bensenville yesterday to cooperate with Department of Justice agents.

The building, a rambling frame structure, is across the street from the Bensenville school.

The Government now can charge Arthur (Doc) Barker and Alvin Karpis, the reputed kidnapers, under the Lindbergh Law which makes a death sentence possible where a victim is transported across State lines.

AND INDEX
 NEW YORK AND VICINITY are sweeps tanker in ntic; pleas ask ie.—Page 2.
 life admits plot
 heart to kill husband 2. terprises of late Ist seen as big gun
 tmann defense.—Page
 l strikers heckle May ardia at Waldorf-Astor
 r.—Page 10.
 ister charges poli
 t in $1,000,000-a-da
 racket.—Page 10.
 born babe brought doctor.—Page 10.
 ful Elsa Sittell, wh
 ten days in Nazi cel
 s.—Page 10.
 e seize 166 in week-en
 o halt crime wave.—
 1.
 jails basketball sta
 m loses.—Page 28.
 Association praises
 sioner Moses but on-partisan board to itics.—Page 30.
 is to $500,000 born
 d's death.—Page 34.
 in cut in rate laid to tors.—Page 37.
 ITED STATES
 c City.—Alvin Karp Enemy No. 1, and al shoot way out of ce trap.—Page 2.
 1.—Hauptmann left he day the ransom
 —Page 3.
 ton, N. J.—Prose-uck says Bruno's
 x lies will trap him.
 ton, D. C.—State
 it notes reveal U.
 trial of ex-Kaiser
 it.—Page 9.
 —Coughlin calls
 orld Court diplo-t.—Page 36.
 ton, D. C.—House an "spanking" for e 37.

BLASTS POLICE IN HOTEL TRAP

(Continued from page 2)

rial witnesses, and late this evening, after having been questioned by Mayor Harry Bachrach, Chief of Police James McManen and Director of Public Safety William S. Cuthbert, were taken by Federal agents to Philadelphia for further grilling.

Although Department of Justice agents have been seeking Karpis for more than a year and believed they were hot on his trail when they raided the Barker hideaway last week, it remained for a small town patrolman on his beat to in-up the country's ace gangster.

While he was making his rounds early this morning Patrolman Elias Saab spied a car with a Florida license in the Coast Garage at Kentucky Ave. and the Boardwalk.
 His list showed it had been reported stolen in Florida a few days before.

The colored garage attendant refused to answer questions, but after a two-hour grilling at Police

The Hotel Danmor in Atlantic City, scene of Karpis' escape.

Headquarters he admitted the car had been left by two men who went to the Hotel Danmor, half a block away on Kentucky Ave.

Detectives Edward Mulhern, George Brennan and Arch Witham were sent to the hotel to arrest the pair, who were believed to be only a couple of small-time car thieves.

Karpis and his companion had signed at the hotel at 1:30 A. M. as C. Carson and G. Cameron.

Learning that the two men had registered in a room on the fourth floor, the three officers clumped up the stairs and halted outside the door, which was ajar.

"Throw 'em up!" shouted Brennan, thrusting his pistol through the two-inch aperture.

"Throw 'em up yourself!" a voice called from inside the room. A second later a stream of machine-gun bullets splintered through the panels.

Bullets Go Wild.

Brennan and Mulhern threw themselves against the wall and Witham leaped back to the head of the stairs. Karpis, wearing only an undershirt and a pair of trousers, burst through the door with the machine gun in his hands. Behind him came Campbell, firing a heavy automatic.

Bullets ripped through walls and windows as police and gunmen exchanged volleys in the hallway. A bullet from the machine gun scored Detective Witham's cheek, but all other shots were wild.

Karpis and Campbell retreated down a rear stairway to the ground

Detective examines window in beauty shop, broken by slugs fired by Karpis and pal.

floor and ran through the hotel toward the front lobby. They were met at the doorway by Patrolman James Campbell, who shouted to them to surrender.

Before the officer could raise his pistol a volley from the machine gun tore away a section of the door frame and blinded him with splinters.

The two fugitives raced back to a rear exit and ran down a short alley to the Coast Garage. While Karpis stood at the entrance with his machine gun, warding off pursuers, Campbell backed out a pea green Pontiac sedan belonging to Mrs. Harold A. Brand, wife of a famous Boardwalk auctioneer.

'Escape'—Around Block.

The car roared up Kentucky Ave. with Karpis leaning through a window and firing brief warning bursts from the machine gun.
 Obviously unfamiliar with the city, the fleeing desperadoes swung into a side street, made two righthand turns and a minute later found themselves back in front of the garage, with the Boardwalk blocking their way.

"There they go," a watcher shouted as the driver swept the car around. Police, who had collected quickly at the garage, swarmed into the street. Patrolman Campbell, who had braved one machine gun blast, leaped onto the running board, only to be knocked off by another volley that riddled his cap but again failed to scathe him.

The police gave chase in commandeered cars, but lost the Pontiac in a downtown thoroughfare as it turned toward Longport.

Before the fleeing car could have traversed the six miles necessary to reach any main highway, a teletype alarm had been broadcast and State police were watching the only three roads that provided escape from the city.

It was not until police questioned Campbell's curvaceous brunette sweetheart that they learned the identities of the men they were seeking.

Karpis and Campbell, the pert prisoner revealed, apparently had a hunch that the Government was closing in on them in Florida.
 Leaving Oklahoma with their molls, they went to Miami, where they put the girls on a train for Atlantic City and arranged to join them "as soon as we can pick up a car."

So brazen were the two gangsters that when they arrived in Atlantic City yesterday in the stolen car, they immediately made ar-

This is the license plate—listed for stolen car—that led police to Karpis.

rangements with Dr. Cary Surran, who was a Police Department surgeon, to deliver the Delaney girl's baby.

"We don't want anything but the best," they were quoted as saying.
 "We've got plenty of dough."

After they had agreed to pay $250 for the doctor's services, the expectant mother was taken to Atlantic City Hospital. She left later in the evening, when an examination showed the birth was not imminent.

Although the teletype alarm warned all police to watch for the green Pontiac with New Jersey license A-3073J, it added that the fugitives were believed to have switched to a Ford V-8 with white wheels.

It also asked police to watch

likely.
 In see which th
 the gara
 Pontiac, volver a addition with arm brought clothing.
 Miami
 tain a s an empl Miami a race tra girls an
 the Dan Karpis
 of the p
 Face Ne
 Departm
 only a Edward er, was Minn., is

Among a gasoline
 napers' .
 Karpis.

He sta
 Kan, wi
 the Mar
 1929 for Less th started ,
 and was

In 19
 safe blo mobilia lusted i 1931 he burglary

The s ster w underw gave hi and ma

With other o sons, he
 in the B

(Of Ex-No.

Along

Fred
 the gur vanced
 the Pub Cuth
 mother.