GIFFORD PLAYERS IN "HUSBAND HUNTERS" AT MAJESTIC

E. Gifford in changing his program Sunday offers the Gifford Players in "Husband Hunters" and brings to Springfield one of the most popular players ever to appear here, Mr. Lance Davis, in the featured role.

The management of the Majestic Theatre insists that they will go through with their present policy of presenting a Gifford show in conjunction with pictures at the low admission of fifteen cents at matinee and twenty-five cents at night on week days and twenty-five cents all day Sunday, saying the public by its extraordinary attendance at all shows to date have evidenced the desire to see this type of show as well as having proved the popularity of the admission price.

The picture program on the Sunday bill is "Only Yesterday" starring John Boles and Margaret Sullivan, a new screen star. "Only Yesterday" was produced by the makers of "Back Street" and their own claim for the picture is that it far surpasses "Back Street" in all respects.

"SITTING PRETTY" AT SENATE

Not an expose of Hollywood or New York's "Tin-Pan-Alley," but a music-sprinkled story of a couple of likeable mugs from Broadway who can write swell tunes, but who have a hard time proving it because of girl trouble.

That's the story substance of Paramount's "Sitting Pretty," Jack Oakie, Jack Haley, Ginger Rogers, Thelma Todd, Gregory Ratoff and Lew Cody, which opens Saturday at the Senate Theatre.

It was directed by Harry Joe Brown from an original story, suggested by Nina Wilcox Putnam. In addition to the above named players there are the Pickens Sisters and the Beverly Hill Billies, two popular radio acts.

The music, songs and the production numbers, backed by hundreds of Hollywood's beauties, were written by Mack Gordon and Harry Revel. These two boys are responsible for such hits as "Underneath a Harlem Moon," "An Orchid to You" and "A Boy and a Girl were Dancin'."

The two Jacks play the song writers; Thelma Todd is a vampy screen siren; Ginger Rogers is the simple country maiden, sweetheart of Oakie, and Gregory Ratoff is the excitable artist agent. Lew Cody plays a motion picture producer, and together with their songs and dances and comedy, the entire cast turns in a most entertaining picture.

NO MORE WOMEN FOR VICTOR McLAGLEN

Believe it or not (pardon us, Mr. Ripley), Victor McLaglen is through with women—on the screen. Captain Flagg, who has chased but never quite caught up with Dolores Del Rio, Lupe Valer, and dozens of other screen beauties, has changed his name to Captain Easter and has suffered a complete change of heart as well.

In "Laughing at Life," McLaglen's latest starring vehicle, which will be the feature attraction at the Strand Theatre Saturday, he is so occupied with his daring revolutionary activities that he has no time for women. In fact, when Conchita Montenegro, having failed to interest him by her more subtle wiles, literally throws herself at his feet, the Captain steps aside. And this is so, despite the fact that "Laughing at Life" has no Sergeant Quirt to complicate the Captain's affairs.

"Laughing at Life" is the story of a soldier of fortune, braving death from one end of the earth to the other for the love of adventure. Conchita Montenegro, William Boyd, Lois Wilson, Regis Toomey, Ruth Hall, Tully Marshall, Guin (Big Boy) Williams, and Ivan Lebedeff are among the well-known players in the supporting cast. The picture was produced by Mascot Pictures Corporation.

UNIQUE STAGE SHOW COMES TO ORPHEUM SUNDAY

Exploits of "Dr. Manchú," celebrated mad Asiatic scientist constitutes a dramatic highlight of "Shanghai Nights," Oriental stage spectacle, which opens a three day engagement on Sunday, February 11th at the Orpheum theatre in Springfield. In this dramatic episode, Dr. Manchú calls on the resources of his amazing laboratory to transform a white-front drab into a white goddess.

Viewed in total, "Shanghai Nights" is a spectacle in which the mystery and glamour of the Purple East are dramatized. Woven into the presentation on the stage are a group of "Sing-Song" girls; tricks of magic and illusion; an interpretation of "The Dance of Stolen Joy," once performed for the great Mandarins, and an exhibition by Asiatic "daggar-men," terrorists of the Orient.

Featured in "Shanghai Nights" is Long Tack Sam, millionaire master of the occult and the world's most travelled theatrical star. Long Tack Sam visited Springfield early last fall with just a small part of his act and scenery, but comes to the Orpheum Sunday with an entirely different stage show that is sure fire entertainment. Starting as a street juggler in his native Shantung more than 35 years ago, Long Tack Sam has acquired a vast fortune in appearances that embraced every continent and nation, excepting South Africa. With the millionaire showman are his daughters, Mi-Na and Nee-Sa, who besides being exotically beautiful, have inherited the talent and skill of their illustrious father. Into "Shanghai Nights" Long Tack Sam brings personal costumes, jewelry and equipment which is insured for $150,000, and which was acquired in every quarter of the globe.

"Shanghai Nights," carries a cast of fifty-nine artists, the majority of whom are Orientals, and was staged by Nicholas Boila. Along with this stage show the Orpheum brings Sunday an excellent screen drama titled "The Women in His Life" with Ben Lyon, Otto Kruger, Una Merkel, Isabel Jewel and Roscoe Karns.

RESEMBLE BARRYMORE? WILLIAM POOH-POOHS CHARGES OF CRITICS

Warren William, appearing Sunday in the First National production, "Bedside," at the Tivoli Theatre, has an interesting observation on the accuracy of critics who have called attention to the fact that he looks like John Barrymore.

In his early days in pictures, the chorus of the critical gentlemen was to the effect that he had got work in the movies because of the resemblance.

To their credit, however, most of them have since acknowledged William's right to the name of a good actor—for he has appeared in a remarkable variety of difficult parts, and has done honor to them all.

But what gets Warren is that they should accuse him of looking like Barrymore at all. He doesn't, he contends, and will lay down photographs any time to prove it. Side by side with John Barrymore, he doesn't resemble the youngest Barrymore in the slightest.

What the critics see, of course, is a family resemblance, for Warren, while he doesn't look at all like John Barrymore, does resemble John Drew, Barrymore's uncle, remarkably. Hence the chorus of accusation.

With William in "Bedside," which was written by Manuel Seff and Harvey Thew, and directed by Robert Florey, are Jean Muir, Allen Jenkins, Kathryn Sergava, Henry O'Neill, David Landau and Donald Meek.

A second feature, "Olson's Big Moment" with El Brendel is on the same bill.

She—"Oh, good! You've asked father."
He—"No, dear, I've just been in a motor smash."

KAY FRANCIS HEADS TALENTED ALL STAR CAST IN "MANDALAY"

"Mandalay," the First National picture which comes to the Lincoln theatre on Sunday is enacted by an unusually large and talented cast with four players in the stellar roles.

Kay Francis, recently seen in "The House on 56th Street," "I Loved a Woman" and "Mary Stevens, M. D.," heads the featured players while Lyle Talbot plays opposite Miss Francis as the man in whom she finally finds romance. He will be remembered for such pictures as "College Coach," and "Havana Widows," as well as having played with Miss Francis in "Mary Stevens, M. D."

Ricardo Cortes and Warner Oland are the two other principals, both in the roles of villains. Cortes, as well as Talbot, has appeared with Miss Francis before, having had the villain role in "The House on 56th Street." He also appeared recently in "The Big Shakedown," "Big Executive," and "The Torch Singer."

Warner Oland's most recent pictures include "As Husbands Go," "The Death Watch" and "Charlie Chan's Greatest Case." In the supporting cast will be found such talented players as Ruth Donnelly, Reginald Owen, Hobart Cavanaugh, David Torrent, Rafaela Ottiano, Halliwell Hobbes, Etienne Girardot, Lucien Littlefield, Bodil Roaring, Herman Bing, Harry C. Bradley, James B. Leon, Shirley Temple, Lillian Harmer and Torben Meyer.

The picture is a tale of romance and thrilling adventure set in the colorful back ground of Burma, and concerns a beautiful Russian exile who is sold into virtual slavery to a night club resort keeper by the man she loves. Her flight and pursuit forms an exciting portion of the drama that is filled with thrills.

Michael Curtis directed the picture from the screen play by Austin Parker and Charles Kenyon, based on the story by Paul Hervey Fox.

LINCOLN PICTURE, MESERVE No. 5

Compiled by HAZARD WELLS FAY, Custodian Lincoln's Tomb

It is pretty well established that Meserve No. 5 was made in Urbana, Illinois, between April 22 and April 26, 1858. It is recorded in Paul M. Angle's book of dates that Lincoln was there at that time. It is positively known that he went from Urbana to Danville, attending court a few days, going from there to Beardstown, arriving there, according to Angle, on the evening of May 6, 1858. He defended Armstrong and sat for his picture at the Myers Studio, both on May 7. This is Meserve No. 7 and shows Lincoln in a white suit and as he went into the Urbana studio thus attired it is documentary evidence that the Alexander picture was made at Urbana between April 22 and April 26, 1858. Yet if numbers counted there are seven of the authorities quoted here giving the date as 1857, yet they give no documentary proof.

No. 6—From a photograph of the ambrotype made by Alschuler, a photographer of Urbana, Illinois, in the fall of 1857. Miss Ida M. Tarbell, in her "Early Life of Lincoln," states that Mr. Lincoln's coat, in which he was photographed. The ambrotype is owned by Mr. C. F. Gunther of Chicago. "The photograph is in the collection of Mr. Truman H. Bartlett of Boston. A print was copyrighted by William H. Somers in 1895. Meserve, page 45.

Sam Alschuler in the fall of 1857, at Urbana, made an ambrotype of Mr. Lincoln in the borrowed coat, borrowed from the photographer.—Whitney "On Circuit," (1892), page 50.

Artist's Son Says 1858

On the week of the 100th anniversary of Lincoln's birth I made an exhibit of 6,000 Lincoln pictures, letters and documents at Lincoln Center, Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones Church, Chicago. One of the most interested callers was Leon S. Alschuler. I showed him the picture made by his father and sent to me by W. H. Somers. He said the date should be 1858 instead of 1857.

He gave me his card: Leon S. Alschuler, Attorney and Counsellor, Chicago. On the back of which he wrote, son of Samuel Alschuler, who made the picture of Lincoln with the borrowed coat, dated Feb. 12, 1909.

Ida M. Tarbell in McClure's Magazine prints Meserve No. 5 with the following statement:

Lincoln in 1857. After a photograph owned by H. C. Whitney. In the fall of 1857, Mr. Lincoln was in Urbana, Illinois, and went into the photograph gallery of a Mr. Alschuler to have an ambrotype made. He wore a linen coat. The artist suggested that a black coat would give a better result, and suggested that Mr. Lincoln put on his (the photographer's). This he did. Mr. Lincoln sat again for Mr. Alschuler in November, 1850, in Chicago, at the request of Mr. H. C. Whitney, who furnished the above information. Page 493.

W. H. Somers sent me a copy of Meserve No. 5, and below the photograph is the following:
"Photograph from an ambrotype taken at Urbana in the fall of 1857."

Mr. H. W. Fay, Custodian Lincoln Monument.

Dear Mr. Fay: Judge Alschuler told me that you would like to have a photograph of my father, Samuel Alschuler, the photographer who took the picture of Abraham Lincoln which is among your records.

I am therefore sending you his photograph by same mail.

Very sincerely yours,
A. S. ALSCHULER.

Was Present
Urbana, Ill., May 11, 1895.
H. W. Fay, Esqr.

My Dear Sir: I have your letter concerning the Lincoln-Alschuler portrait. Mr. Somers is in error as to the date of the sitting, and he ought to know it, for I told him the last time I saw him of his error in putting the date 1857 on the picture. He was not present at the time of the sitting and depends only upon his recollections of what was told him of the event. Mr. Lincoln only came to our town in 1857 at the sessions of the court, which were in May and October during the years 1857 and 1858. The October term would run well on to the last of the month, when it was cold and overcoats were necessary. At the visit at which this sitting was had Mr. Lincoln came from home with only a linen duster, as he said in my hearing at the time of the sitting. It is not likely that he would have left his home in October for a tour of the courts with only his duster for protection. Besides I know I am correct in my recollection of the event. The morning we met in Alschuler's room, I remember as a warm summer morning. As I remember Mr. L. was about to leave the town. This would corroborate my recollections of the condition of the weather as the term would run well into the warm weather. There seems to be no record of the day the term of court adjourned at that time. Mr. Somers has no personal knowledge of the event, and said to me in conversation the last time I saw him, that he might be mistaken.

Yours,
J. O. CUNNINGHAM.

Clinton Clay Tilton Helps.

Referring to Meserve No. 5, Clint Clay Tilton in a letter addressed to H. W. Fay, Jan. 20, 1934, says:

Your statement regarding the light suit worn by Lincoln at Beardstown is correct if we are to believe the signed statement of Judge J. C. Cunningham of Urbana, which I have pasted on the back of the Alschuler picture, taken at Urbana in 1858. Lincoln came direct from that town to Danville, and then went to Beardstown. Judge Cunningham says: This photograph is a picture of Mr. Lincoln made in May, 1858, by Samuel Alschuler, a travelling artist, temporarily doing business there. I was in his room when Mr. Lincoln came in, at the invitation of the artist. He was dressed in a long linen duster, or brown linen coat. The artist told him that he could not make a good picture in that dress, and asked that he put on a darker coat. Mr. L. said he brought no other from his home. The artist suggested that he put on his coat, which he did. The artist was a man with arms and legs much shorter than Mr. Lincoln's, while his body, in size was as large as that of Mr. L. Consequently when he dressed the arms of Mr. L. protruded from the coat's sleeves a quarter of a yard, and gave him an exceedingly grotesque appearance. At this Lincoln was overcome with laughter and it was with much effort that he could control his features suitably for the sitting as will be seen from the pose of his line, which, in this picture, differs from all others.

J. O. CUNNINGHAM.

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 1, 1908.

April, 1858.

Dr. Louis A. Warren in Lincoln Lore, No. 245, December 18, 1933, lists Meserve No. 5 as follows:

Made at Urbana, Ill., April, 1858, by Samuel C. Alschuler, photographer. It is Oldroyd No. 8 and not reproduced in Miller.

Lincoln Writes to Cunningham.

Ottawa, Aug. 22, 1858.

J. O. Cunningham, Esq.

My dear sir: Yours of the 18th, signed as Secretary of the Republican Club, is received. In the matter of making speeches, I am good [deal] pressed by invitations from almost all quarters, and while I hope to be at Urbana some time during the canvass, I can not yet say when—can you not see me at Monticello, on the 6th of Sept.?

Douglas and I for the first time this canvass crossed swords here yesterday. The fire flew some, and I am glad to know I am yet alive. There was a vast concourse of people—more than could get near enough to hear.

Yours as ever,

A. LINCOLN.

It will be interesting to note that J. O. Cunningham kept up his interest in Lincoln to the end and in his will bequeathed $10,000 to be used in making a statue of the Emancipator for Urbana. Lorado Taft was given the commission to model the same and a four foot miniature graces the corridor of the new Lincoln tomb.

Dr. Cigrand Says 1857.

Another picture of Lincoln which is unique in that he is wearing a borrowed coat relates to his visit at Urbana, Ill., in 1857. He stepped into the gallery of Mr. Alschuler, who made a so-called ambrotype. Mr. Lincoln was wearing the famous linen duster and the artist observed its unique fit, told Lincoln that the color of the coat would detract from the appearance of the portrait, and suggested that Lincoln wear Mr. Alschuler's coat which pleased Lincoln, and was an improved fit. I am indebted to the H. C. Whitney family for this information, H. C. Whitney being the possessor of the photograph.—Dr. B. J. Cigrand, historian, in Aurora-Bacon-News, May 6, 1923.

On May 8, 1910, J. O. Cunningham sent me the following account of Meserve No. 5:

During the spring term of our circuit court, 1858, and but a few weeks before Lincoln entered with Douglas upon their celebrated debates, I was one morning in the rooms of an artist in Urbana whose business was to make pictures known as ambrotypes, before the science of photography had become in general use in our place. Soon, I walked Mr. Lincoln, with the remark to Alschuler, the artist, that he had been informed that he, Aschuler, wished him to sit for a portrait. Aschuler said that he had sent such a message to Mr. Lincoln, glancing at his subject, who was attired in a long linen duster, but that he could not take the picture in that coat, and asked if he had not a dark coat in which he could sit. Mr. Lincoln said he had not; that this was the only coat he had brought with him from his home. Aschuler said he could wear his coat, and gave it to Mr. Lincoln, who pulled off his long duster and put on the artist's coat. Aschuler was a very short man in height, with short arms, but with a body nearly as large as the body of Mr. Lincoln. The arms of Lincoln extended through the sleeves of Aschuler's coat a quarter of a yard, making him appear quite ludicrous; at which he, Lincoln, laughed immoderately, and sat down for the picture to be taken, with great effort at looking sober enough for the occasion.

The Chicago Journal of Feb. 12, 1929, prints a copy of Meserve No. 5, with the following data:

The original of this photograph of Abraham Lincoln is owned by Oliver R. Barrett, a Chicago lawyer. . . . Lincoln was wearing a linen duster during his visit to Urbana. When he was asked to pose for the picture, according to Ida M. Tarbell, he took off the duster and put on the photographer's coat. The original picture is an ambrotype and was formerly owned by the Charles F. Gunther collection, from which Mr. Barrett purchased it. Photographer Aschuler was an uncle of United States Judge Samuel Aschuler. He was the father of Alfred S. Aschuler, a Chicago architect, who made the photographic copy from which The Journal's reproduction is made.

Urbana Date.

Paul M. Angle in his book of dates lists Lincoln at Urbana as follows:
1854—May 22, 23 and 24; Oct. 24.
1855—May 21, 22, 23 and 24; Oct. 22, 23, 24, 25 and 26.
1856—May 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23; June 17, 18, 19, 20 and 23; Oct. 20, 21 and 22; Sept. 17.
1857—Apr. 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21; Oct. 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 and 24.
1858—Apr. 12, Apr. 22, 23, 24, 25 and 26; Sept. 23 and 24.
1859—April 20; April 27 and 28; Oct. 18, 19 and 20; Oct. 25 and 26.

This evidence will be of great value to any collector of Lincoln pictures. If the reader will send his copy to some library or collector he or she will do a service to the cause.

ROAD REPORT

Issued by Springfield Auto Club
February 7, 1934

All roads are in excellent condition at the present time, inclusive of unsealed and oiled dirt roads.

The subway on Route No. 108 between Carlinville and US-66 is completed and the road opened to traffic, the fill at this place having been graveled. The other fill at the Illinois Central R. R. will be shaled in the near future, but at the present time it is in good condition.

Kirkville, Mo., is 200 miles via the paved route which is US-36 to Macon, Mo., and thence on US-67 to Kirkville. A shorter route is via Quincy and Elina, Mo., but there is much gravel road via this route, but it is usually in good condition.

Peoria, Ill., is 73.3 miles from Springfield via either route. However, most people prefer the new route via US-66 to Lincoln and thence on No. 121 to Peoria. The old route is via Ill-24. Both routes are paved.

Chicago, Ill., is 195 miles via US-68 and the route is all paved.

The bridge across Indian Creek on Route No. 100 between Bluffs and Beardstown is completed but the fills on the approaches to this bridge are in poor condition unless frozen and traffic over

Dear Judge -

If you got any regards for your self or your family you better go easy and not convict them Minneapolis boys that handled that money from Mose Barnett and Bates. We will take good care of you and your family if them boys dont get free. And we are going to take good care of Sheeney Wolke for the squawking he done, dont worry about that he is going to get the 1 way ride pretty soon so he will never blab again any more.

Your turn is next if you dont turn them boys loose we will turn on the heat for you and your hell dumb family and we dont mean maybe. If you dont want a machine gun pitcher tattoo on your hide just remember our warning and let them boys loose in a hurry because we aint going to wait long to do our stuff judge.

Senneyer the Minneapolis police chief can tell you them boys is all right and just gamblers and bootleggers that is good friends of his and wouldnt mess up in any kidnaper job while they is good easy money around here without going out of town and taking chances on the big house.

Now remember we mean killing if you dont leave them go because enough of us is out to raise plenty hell if you dont.

Crime Wave No Puzzle.

Please Read This.

Terrible French Duel.

Strike Gently, Please.

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(© 1934, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Those puzzled by our American crime wave, murderers and other criminals who enter prison only to be shortly released, the constant growth of crime, kidnaping and so on need be surprised no longer.

After reading the account of conditions in New York's prison "Welfare Island," they will realize that the question is not "Why cannot the United States cope with crime?" but "Why is not crime ten times worse than it is?"

These are the facts, established and related by the new Mayor La Guardia's new Commissioner MacCormick in charge (of new York prison).

Welfare Island, with 1,600 inmates, is located in the East River, and clearly visible, as the reporter tells you almost tearfully, "to New York's social registerites that live in Sutton place."

The details concerning this prison, run by criminals, are incredible. Some, regarding horrible depravity, are too dreadful to be mentioned.

A small group of convicts, well known in the world of crime, have managed prison affairs, giving orders to officials in charge. The warden, Joseph A. McCann, has been relieved of his duties, and his deputy, Daniel F. Sheehan, was put "under military arrest" in his quarters.

The head man in the prison's convict government is Joey Rao, well known racketeer, formerly "boss of the Harlem policy game racket." Under him, a convict "board of strategy" included Boston Maxxie, Eddie Cleary and Peter Kenny, well known gangsters.

The convict rulers of the prison lived in great comfort in agreeable quarters in the prison hospital, while in one corner of the workhouse, in a room into which light never penetrated, were found drug addicts herded together under conditions of incredible filth.

Joey Rao, chief of the convict board of strategy, was waited on by other convicts. His orders voted to wholesale bribery of public officials.

Such a picture as is presented in revelations of Welfare Island conditions has never before been dreamed of in any country calling itself half-civilized.

Nothing is told, for it is impossible to describe conditions in print, about the unspeakably vile conditions of depravity and degeneracy that accompanied this convict prison rule. Convict management was complete, sale of drugs and alcohol that included, according to Commissioner MacCormick, the operation of a fifty-gallon still within the prison itself.

Paris reports a genuine French duel between a member of the Chamber of Deputies, Andre Hease, and John Heineix, lawyer. One was insulted, which doesn't matter, by something the other said about the Stavisky scandal and the Bayonne pawnshop.

Four seconds, two doctors and the two principals presented an imposing spectacle as the desperate duelists faced each other, coats off in the cold dawn, about eighty feet apart. Each fired at the other twice, and then, presumably, embraced. Nobody was hurt, but "Honor" was restored to her throne. An American reporter said the four bullets were poked up, side by side, lying forty feet from each of the duelists, in accordance with arrangements. That sounds improbable, unless the desperate duelists were deceived by their benevolent seconds.

A strike of waiters, cooks, all employees of New York hotels and restaurants is suggested. Labor leaders that tell men to strike undoubtedly understand their business better than others. But, apart from special information, it would seem desirable to let prosperity take root a little while longer, if it will.

Strike enthusiasts may find themselves out of work suddenly without the help of a strike. The past four years have taught the country that it is easy enough for a man to be idle.

In Munich the public prosecutor, representing the German government, demands eight months in jail for three Catholic priests accused of "spreading atrocity stories about conditions in Germany."

Any government should have a better reply to such stories than "eight months in jail."

by sympathetic officials in charge of the prison. He handled the money. He had an electric icebox, well filled with all sorts of delicacies, in his quarters, and a private telephone near his bed was provided with earphones, that he might send out his orders to drug dealers, bootleggers and vile criminals while lying down resting.

Convict Cleary, one of the "strategy board," kept a vicious police dog chained to the foot of his bed, presumably to protect him from miserable frenzied creatures who bought drugs.

Commissioner McCormick, leading a squad of forty detectives, raiding this criminally managed prison exactly as he would have raided any other vile dive, was booted by the sixteen hundred prisoners, pieces of iron pipe and stones were thrown at his squad of detectives, convicts desiring to show the "new broom" of the La Guardia regime that they couldn't suppress convict management or interfere with profits from drug and whisky sales.

After Commissioner McCormick had finished his visit the convicts realized that prison rule by Messrs. Rao, Cleary, Mazza and Kenny, with attendant drug profits and exploitation of miserable addicts, would be interrupted for a while. The commissioner found in the prison "an unbelievable quantity of narcotics, hypodermic needles and weapons, including long-handled razors, meat cutters, iron bars, kitchen and table knives sharpened to a razor's edge, a surgeon's scalpel, many bludgeons and slingshots," and took drastic action.

Previously employed by the government in a federal prison, Commissioner McCormick put Welfare Island under martial law; every convict, including all the "board of strategy," was locked in his cell.

The warden was suspended, his assistant arrested.

This "American prison" story is told thus at length because it is important for as many Americans as possible to know just how their political system acts "to discourage crime."

Senator Copeland, the head of a Senate committee, planned to do something about crime, said the great difficulty is that so many criminals have deadly pistols. Col. Frank B. Shuttles asked how many criminals, in Senator Copeland's opinion, had pistols, and, told that Senator Copeland thought "about two million," replied: "If only two million have pistols, the other hundred and twenty-one million Americans ought to be able to take care of them."

They OUGHT, but they can't while their own officials sell out to criminals, their eminently respectable citizens set the example of law breaking and defiance of the Constitution, some minor judges publicly attend banquets given in their honor by well known gangsters and murderers, and part of the proceeds of the crime wave, running into billions a year, is de-

Russia-Japan Danger.

Twelve Billions? Not Much.

Stratosphere Meteors.

Kidnapers Learn.

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(© 1934, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE JAPANESE-RUSSIAN situation becomes more dangerous. A warning published in Moscow by the head of the Communist party says:

"We must be prepared for an attack by Japan at any moment."

Mr. Kaganovitch, the Communist head, adds: "If the Japanese generals dare to move against our frontiers, they will feel the power and might of our Red army. They must remember the Soviet Union is not Czarist Russia of 1904."

The Japanese, if war comes, will remember it very distinctly for many years after the war ends. Today's Russians, fighting for a country which they believe belongs to them, owning the land on which they work, instead of fighting as slaves for czars and grand dukes, will do some real fighting.

On Sunday, Moscow celebrated two anniversaries, closely connected. One, the tenth anniversary of the death of Lenin, the other the anniversary of "Bloody Sunday," when miserable, half-starved Russians crowding to the imperial palace to beg for bread were shot down.

Some that tearfully recall the brutal murder of the Czar and his family quite forget the unnecessary and cruel massacre of the half-starved beggars at the palace. The Russians did not forget.

Those that criticize the President's program in regard to spending of twelve thousand million dollars in 1934, providing employment and starting up industry, do not know all the interesting figures or they would not criticize the amount.

In 1933 American workers received in wages thirty-two thousand million dollars LESS than they received in 1929, when conditions were good. And those most severely affected are men working for low wages. The government proposes to spend only one-third of the drop in wages. The total national income dropped from eighty-one thousand millions in 1929 to forty-nine thousand millions in 1932.

Passage

Turn to Page 8, Column 1.

"A powerful group of western senators is determined to do something about silver." What will they do? What our money and metal situation seems to require is a comic artist. Our money is off the gold basis. Americans can't have any gold, and to make you feel better about it, gold will be worth twice what it used to be. What the govern-

Bates and Bailey, undergoing life imprisonment at Leavenworth for kidnapping, decided to leave the world by starving themselves. Their jailers said they must remain, and fed them food. Each convict had a gallon of milk forced into his stomach each day. It is regrettable that anybody should undergo discomfort, but the two men convicted of kidnapping may realize that victims, "snatched" by them, having their mouths and eyes closed with adhesive tape, hands and wrists bound with wire, also undergo periods of discomfort. Yesterday, the convicts gave up their strike.

of years. have been doing that for millions tons to the weight of the earth, and every year one hundred thousand airplanes, incidentally, meteors add a small one would destroy any ture of 3,000 degrees. meteors are raised to a temperature of 3,000 degrees. meteors are raised to a temperature of 3,000 degrees. meteors are raised to a temperature of 3,000 degrees.

According to Dr. Claude Fisher, curator of astronomy at the American Museum of Natural History, no fewer than four hundred million meteors are drawn by gravity into the earth's atmosphere every day. Some small, some big. The total number of meteors falling to the earth amounts to more than a hundred and forty-six thousand millions in a year.

Scientists planning balloon ascensions into the stratosphere to study cosmic rays, and the German building a plane to fly five hundred miles an hour through the stratosphere, this stratosphere air, will be interested in an article by Hans Christian Adamson, published in the "March of Events" section of Mr. Hearst's Sunday newspaper. Mr. Adamson warns travelers in the stratosphere that they may meet an uncomfortable number of meteors, not yet melted by contact with the thick lower atmosphere.

Charles M. Bowen and George W. Cox, two colored veterans of the war, members of the American Legion, have bought an endurance plane, to fly nonstop from New York to Paris in June. Their method of going from New York to Europe forms an interesting contrast to the way in which their ancestors came from Africa to the United States, in the hold of a slave ship.

ment took from you, if it took any, is worth nearly double now what it cost you.

Silver is plentiful, it is the national metal, and whereas there isn't enough gold, only about eleven billions altogether in a world that has three hundred billions of official debts, enough silver could be produced here and in Mexico to take care of all United States needs, especially if we treated silver as the country has been treating gold values.

But Uncle Sam's government doesn't want silver, and won't let you have gold. It wants you to have paper, and is planning now to print ten thousand million dollars worth of yellow bonds. The taxpayers will have to pay interest on that gigantic sum, four hundred million dollars a year at least, and thrown away unneeded. New currency printed and paid out with the government's name on it would be not only as good as but much better than interest-bearing bonds, the bonds meaning a tax load of hundreds of millions a year damage to the national credit.

CANTOR "BRES" HIS RADIO AUDIENCE

Eddie Cantor, star of "Whoopie," the Samuel Goldwyn-Florenz Ziegfeld musical riot which comes to the Tivoli theatre on Sunday has a theory that an actor can usually count on giving a better performance in front of the microphone for a talking picture than he can on the stage. "Whoopie" was his first full-length talking picture to test this theory.

"Haven't I an imagination?" he asks when reminded that there is no stimulation from an audience, such as an actor usually counts on. "Can't I just see the crowd before me? Can't I hear applause? And anybody who ever tried to be funny in front of an audience which has gone cold on you—and that happens to everybody—ought to know that the audience and the applause you can imagine for yourself is a lot more reliable than a theatre-full of people who may or may not be in the right mood. With my imagination I have the best kind of audience made to order for me just the way I like it."

"Besides," he goes on, "if an actor had to have an audience, he never would be effective at rehearsal. Rehearsals are a pretty dismal business sometimes, but lots of them are as good or better performances than anything the stage shows the customers."

He also points out that a picture studio is not the tomb-like place a broadcasting studio is. Almost any scene in a talking picture requires the presence of a large number of directors, technicians, property men and so forth who constitute an audience, and a responsive one too. They can't laugh or applaud audibly but their presence takes away the inhuman nature of talking into a piece of metal without any other company.

But making talking pictures is harder work than anything on the stage he says. He found a several months' vacation necessary after "Whoopie" was finished, whereas the routine of stage performing was something that could be taken in stride.

"NO VISITORS" FOR CLARA BOW

A big "No Visitors" sign was kept posted on the stage at Fox Movietone Studio where Clara Bow made "Hoopla" her latest starring production soon to be seen at the Fox-Lincoln Theatre.

It wasn't put there because Clara has become temperamental, nor because she hates crowds. The fact is that she isn't temperamental and does love people. It was because Clara simply can't do her stuff before an audience. It's a habit developed in the old days.

Clara wants privacy before the camera.

She likes the extras and the electricians, but doesn't want them peeking at her.

She likes her fellow performers but wants them to "scream" when they have finished a scene.

"I've always worked better when as nearly alone as possible," said Clara. "I can feel—and hate—prying eyes when I am working. I simply can't 'give' with a crowd looking on. Preston Foster, who plays the speller, is a grand person. Richard Cromwell, who plays my sweetheart, is a lamb and Minna Gombell is my pal. But I don't want them 'peeking' either."

"Why? I've always been that way. I hate an audience. Frank Lloyd, my director, tried to cure me. We had a crowd. But, darn it, I can't be cured."

"I stood there, with a crowd looking on, ready to do scene. I'd see a strange face, and go cold all over. We tried it for a whole day, and it was one of the most miserable days I ever put in."

"Maybe I'm funny that way, but I just can't help it, and so we have no more visitors."

"HOT CHOCOLATES" COLORED REVUE OPENS SUNDAY AT THE ORPHEUM, SPRINGFIELD

Connie's "Hot Chocolates of 1933" a fast stepping and uproariously funny revue which ran for an entire season on Broadway, comes to the Orpheum Theatre, Sunday. The extravaganza will remain until Tuesday.

Recommended to diversion seekers by Walter Winchell, famous columnist, as a "swelegant revue," "Hot Chocolates" boasts a stellar cast of Harlem entertainers seldom seen across the footlights in a single production. The large company includes among others, LeRoy Smith and his Orchestra, "Peg Leg" Bates, Baby Cox, Avis Andrews, Radcliff & Rogers, Lucky Seven Trio, the Gobs and the "Hot Chocolates" dancing ensemble. The two outstanding features of the revue are Connie's Sepia chorus of gorgeous dusky maidens and LeRoy Smith's Orchestra. Both chorus girls and band blend in a symphony of hot rhythms.

Along with the above big stage show, Richard Arlen, motion picture leading man, last seen in "Golden Harvest," will be featured in "Hell and High Water," a romantic drama of the San Diego waterfront. Judith Allen takes the leading feminine role and the other players are Charley Grapewin, Sir Guy Standing and Esther Muir. "Hell and High Water" was written by Max Miller, the author of "I Cover the Waterfront."

As a third feature, Russell Fielder, the smiling star of the console, will present a program at the organ.

Don't forget, "Hot Chocolates" on the stage, "Hell and High Water" on the screen and Russel Fielder at the organ. all at the Orpheum next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Regular stage show prices will prevail.

Wisdom is knowing what to do next.
Skill is knowing how to do it.
Virtue is doing.

ROAD REPORT

Issued by Springfield Auto Club
November 22, 1933

Dirt roads are in excellent condition and thus far we have had no snow or ice throughout this section of Illinois.

However, a light rain is falling at the present time, and if it continues for a while may cause the roads to become slippery.

The new-cut off including the gravel road from the new Lake bridge across to the old road on Route No. 126 is now being used. The gravel road is in fair condition, and continued traffic over this road will improve its condition. In its present state it is as good as the old brick pavement which this new cut-off eliminates.

We have had many inquiries regarding Route No. 100 between Beardstown and Meredosia road but this road cannot be used for through traffic because the bridge across Indian Creek is not completed. The pavement has been laid on either side of the bridge but no detour is available around the bridge construction.

On Route No. 104 between Meredosia and Mt. Sterling the pavement is completed and in use with the exception of a short stretch across the river from Meredosia and this is being graveled this week. The Wabash River bridge is used on this route with a 35c toll for one way and 60c round trip.

The contract for grading the uncompleted stretch on Route No. 100 between Milton and Pearl has been let. This is one of the heaviest grading contracts ever let by the state and will take some time to complete.

Route No. 108 from Carlinville to No. 120 is completed and should be open to traffic in a few days.

Route No. 110 is completed and open from No. 111 to Jerseyville.

Dearest, Darling Mother:

I arrived here last night about nine o'clock, did not get to bed until late, so I'm resting some to-day.

I am just fine, and every one seems nice
to me, so I'm sure,
that by doing my part,
I will be treated

square, and will regain my lost Confidence in the human race.

His publicity makes it hard, but you know, how square, and good I've always been with everyone, and I will continue so. I don't

I believe I can write very often Dear, far and wide, but I shall when ever I can. I do hope you will find friends there
who will appreciate your sweetness and goodness. You are the best woman on earth, and everyone
that has ever known
you. Know it. So don't worry now, about me, because I will make it just fine
I have great hopes of being with you later. I believe when officials

learn. we both are doing our best, and intend too always.
we will be shown
some consideration Take care, of your health above all things. you know.
you have been sick for almost two years now, and you must safeguard
your health, I want to hear from you
in July. you know.
I love you so much always and my main interest is in you. we want to be punished.

3208 Colerain⁴ are always. Jus Had want permit it. You are so innocent. I know, it can't be. Its 40
unjust. 37 people
only knew, our side
it would be different and they will some day I know.

They have a good physician here. and should I get ill. I'm sure I would get the best of care. so please don't worry about your girl
all of my love, and a big kiss, to the Darlingest mother in the world your

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. BAUGHMAN

Re: Disposal of Package in Bulky Evidence File.

b7c. There has been maintained in the Bulky Evidence Files for many years a box containing 24 .45 caliber Colt automatic pistol cartridges of Remington make and one fired Peters .45 caliber cartridge case and bullet in the George Kelly (Machine Gun Kelly; Charles F. Urschel - Victim Kidnapping) case. These specimens were forwarded to the Bureau as per the report of SA [REDACTED] at Birmingham, Alabama, October 6, 1933. Bureau File 7-115-722. It appears that at the time Kelly was apprehended in Memphis, Tennessee, in 1933 there was found in the room occupied by Kelly and his wife this box of unfired .45 caliber automatic pistol ammunition. The fired bullet and cartridge case were also reported to have been found in the Kelly's bedroom at the same time.

This material is of no value to the Laboratory and it would appear to have no exhibit value. It is requested that advice be obtained from the Investigative Division as to whether the further retention of this material is desired. Should its retention not be further desired the fired bullet and cartridge case will be destroyed and the broken box of ammunition will be used as test material in connection with current examinations. Ammunition of this type is no longer available and accordingly this will be decidedly useful as test ammunition.

Kidnaping

The Laboratory Bulky Evidence Files contain a box of 24 .45 caliber Colt automatic pistol cartridges and one fired Peters .45 caliber cartridge case and bullet. This evidence was found in the rooms occupied by subject Kelley and his wife when they were apprehended in Memphis, Tennessee, and were subsequently forwarded to the Bureau by the Birmingham office.

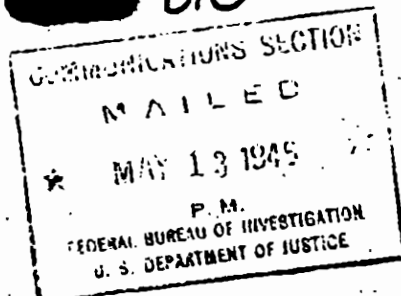

It is desired that you contact the appropriate United States Attorney to ascertain if he believes the further retention of this material necessary.

Should Kelley file any type of legal procedure it is to be noted that the Special Agents effecting his apprehension could testify as to what was found in the rooms occupied by the subjects in the event the actual specimens themselves are destroyed.

You should advise the Bureau as to the decision of the United States Attorney in this regard.

Reference is made to my memorandum of May 1, 1946 requesting authorization for the disposal of 24 .45 caliber Colt automatic pistol cartridges, one Peters cartridge case and one bullet. These specimens having been recovered in the house where George Kelly was apprehended.

By letter of August 9, 1946 the Oklahoma City Office advised that United States Attorney Charles E. Dierker had advised that this material might be disposed of in any way the Bureau desired. Accordingly the bullet and cartridge case are being permanently disposed of and the broken box of ammunition is being placed with test ammunition and will be used in connection with current examinations.
