New York, New York

October 23, 1987

May 19th Communist Organization;
Domestic Security/Terrorism Investigation
Authorized June 25, 1982, extended to November 1987

Characterization/Background

The May 19th Communist Organization in New York City continues to be headquartered at 326 Livingston Street, Brooklyn, New York, telephone number (718) 522-7294, utilizing Post Office Box 3111, Cadman Plaza Station, Brooklyn, New York 11202. Groups associated with the May 19th Communist Organization are the John Brown Anti-Klan Committee (JBAKC), 41 Union Square, New York, New York, telephone number (212) 989-8898, and the New Movement in Solidarity with Puerto Rican Independence and Socialism (New Movement). The JBAKC'S national leader is [redacted] address [redacted] San Francisco, California, telephone number [redacted] and the national leader for the New Movement is [redacted] New York, New York, telephone number [redacted] b6 b7C

The May 19th Communist Organization is a Marxist-Leninist group that advocates the overthrow of the United States Government through armed struggle/revolution. Members of the May 19th Communist Organization are linked through evidence to known terrorist organizations such as the New Afrikan Freedom Fighters (NAFF), a clandestine organization comprised primarily of black revolutionaries engaged in terrorist activities, and the Fuerzas Armadas De Liberacion Nacional (FALN), an armed clandestine Puerto Rican terrorist group dedicated to ending the U.S. control of Puerto Rico. The May 19th Communist Organization evolved directly from the Weatherman Underground Organization (WUO) and the Prairie Fire Organizing Committee (PFOC).

For the purpose of background, in 1976 there emerged for the first time a group of individuals who had joined together for the purpose of committing, and who did commit, a series of armed robberies and attempted armed robberies, called "expropriation," and other terrorist acts. This group, known as "The Family" or "The Collective", was supported in these armed robberies and other terrorist acts by members of the May 19th Communist Organization.

According to [redacted] a former member of "The Family", "The Family" consisted of former members of the Black Liberation Army and others. [redacted] stated "The Family" engaged in a series of armed robberies known as "expropriation" for the purpose of financing the activities of the Republic of New Afrika (RNA) which seeks the separation of the States of Albama, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina and Louisiana from the United States. b6 b7C

On October 20, 1981, members of "The Family" robbed an armored truck in Nanuet, New York. In this robbery, known as the Brinks Robbery, they were armed with an M-16 automatic rifle, nine (.9) millimeter automatic pistols, and shotgun. The robbery was successful, although two police officers and one security guard were murdered during its commission and ensuring escape. Several individuals were arrested at the scene and other locations which ultimately led to to an indictment and trial in the Southern District of New York (SDNY). This indictment charged that this group of individuals committed a series of robberies and attempted robberies and also assisted in the escape in [redacted] also known as (aka) [redacted] of the BLA, who was serving a life sentence for the murder of a New Jersey State Police Officer. [redacted] is still a fugitive and, according to [redacted] was assisted in her escape by [redacted] an admitted member of the May 19th Communist Organization. [redacted] was subsequently convicted relative to her part in the [redacted] escape and the attempted robbery of an armored truck in Danbury, Connecticut.

Approximately four months after the Brinks Robbery, on October 20, 1981, the FALN planted four bombs in New York City's Wall Street area. Between the hours of 11:25 PM and 11:45 P.M, on February 28, 1982, four bombs exploded outside the offices of Merrill Lynch, the Chase Manhattan Bank, the New York Stock Exchange, and the American Stock Exchange.

At approximately 12:17 A.M., about one-half hour after the last bomb detonated, an FALN communique was recovered from a telephone booth located on Riversdie Drive and 91st Street in Manhattan. Police were led to the telephone booth by an anonymous call to Associated Press, New York City. The caller stated that he represented the FALN.

This communique made clear with the following words that the bombings of the FALN were made in support of the incarcerated Brinks defendants:

> "To the Black Freedom Fighters who are presently receiving the full weight of the Yankee repressive machinery and who are being killed and tortured by these agents of death, your strength, courage and will to fight has inspired us. We support your fight against the colonial enslavement of your people and for New Afrika and we are as certain of the inevitability of your victory as we are of ours.
> "We also wish to express our solidarity with the three North Americans captured in the Brinks expropriation. By linking up with your black comrades and making their struggle your own you have put into practice the Leninist principles which states that the duty of the working class and its advanced sectors in the imperialist countries is to actively assist and fight for the liberation of the colonies. Companeros, we salute you for your example, unselfishness and total commitment to national liberation and international working class revolution".

The three North American revolutionaries referred to in this communique were none other than [redacted] for the May 19th Communist Organization, and [redacted] and [redacted] Weather Underground fugitives. All three were captured attempting to flee from police on October 20, 1981.

At the time of these bombings, [redacted] and [redacted] both of whom are leaders of the May 19th Communist Organization, lived together in an apartment at [redacted] in Manhattan, six blocks from the telephone booth where the communique was recovered.

On November 9, 1982, a search warrant stemming from the Brinks case was executed on [redacted] apartment, and recovered was an exact carbon copy of the communique which was found in the telephone booth on the night of the bombings. Examination by the FBI Latent Fingerprint Section revealed that the fingerprints of May 19th Communist Organization member [redacted] were found on the exact carbon copy of the FALN communique. The fingerprints of [redacted] were found on a draft of the FALN communique bearing handwritten corrections. All of these corrections were incorporated in the final draft recovered at the telephone booth.

[redacted] and [redacted] were subpoenaed to testify before a grand jury in the Eastern District of New York (EDNY) which was investigating the criminal activities of the FALN.

On February 2, 1983, both [redacted] and [redacted] refused to obey a court order to testify before the grand jury.

[redacted] and [redacted] were subsequently convicted of criminal contempt of the Grand Jury in United States District Court, EDNY, on January 20, 1984. [redacted] was released from prison on January 30, 1987. [redacted] was convicted in September 1983 on two counts of Racketeering dealing with her part in the [redacted] escape and an attempted robbery in Danbury, Connecticut, for which she was sentenced to forty years.

On September 26, 1981, a demonstration was held at John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York for the purpose of protesting the arrival of a South African rugby team. During the demonstration, May 19th Communist Organization members [redacted] and [redacted] were arrested, along with others, for [redacted] New York/New Jersey. According to Assistant District Attorney [redacted] of Queens County, New York, [redacted] pleaded guilty to a charge of riot in the second degree on June 14, 1982, as a result of this incident. [redacted] is a fugitive.

Following the October 20, 1981, Brinks Armored Car Robbery, the participants in the robbery returned to the safehouse located at 590 East Third Street, Mount Vernon, New York. This safehouse was rented by Marilyn Jean Buck, utilizing false identity. It was at this safehouse that May 19th Communist Organization member Dr. Alan Berkman treated Marilyn Buck for a gunshot wound.

Subsequent interiews were conducted of the [redacted] positively identified a photograph, from a photo spread, of [redacted] as having been in the building in the spring of 1981, prior to the Brinks Armored Car Robbery. He also identified a photograph of May 19th Communist Organization member [redacted] an attorney who works closely with [redacted] as having been in the safehouse building.

On January 31, 1983, agents and detectives of the New York Joint Terrorist Task Force searched an apartment located at 210 Taafe Place, Brooklyn, New York, known as the Madame Binh Printing Collective, pursuant to a search warrant. This apartment contained printing and photographic equipment, including a negative plate from which posters were reproduced.

One poster bore the picture of [redacted] and the words "Traitor", "Wanted Dead or Alive". [redacted] was a cooperating government witness in the Brinks Armored Car Robbery trial in the SDNY. The Latent Fingerprint Section of the FBI determined that the negative plate bore the fingerprints of May 19th Communist Organization member [redacted] Also found in the apartment were countersurveillance photographs of members of the New York Joint Terrorist Task Force consisting of FBI agents and New York City Police Department detectives. b6 b7C

On January 28, 1983, a bombing attack took place at the FBI office, Staten Island, New York. Ths attack was claimed by a group calling itself the Revolutionary Fighting Group in a telephone call to United Press International (UPI) after the explosion. The recipient of the call stated the call was a tape recorded message.

On April 26, 1983, a bombing occurred at the National War College, Fort McNair, Washington, D.C. The bombing was claimed by a group calling itself the Armed Resistance Unit (ARU) in telephone credit calls and communique.

On August 18, 1983, a bomb exploded at the Navy Computer Center, United States Navy Yard, Washington, D.C. This bombing was claimed by the ARU.

On November 7, 1983, a bombing occurred in the United States Capitol Building, Washington, D.C. An unidentified caller to the "Washington Post" claimed credit on behalf of the ARU.

The explosive device components recovered following the ARU claimed bombings of the National War College, Washington, D.C., April 26, 1983, and the Navy Yard, Washington, D.C., August 18, 1983, are similar. Both devices employed a dual firing system utilizing two Westclox pocket watches, two Dupont instantaneous blasting caps, Radio Shack pin-socket connectors and two nine-volt batteries. Both devices employed high explosives as the main charge.

The explosive device components recovered following the Revolutionary Fighting Group claimed bombing of the FBI office, Staten Island, New York, January 28, 1983, also indicate a dual firing system. This device employed two Westclox pocket watches, two nine-volt batteries and a high explosive main charge.

The Explosives Unit has advised that in the cases described above where the back portion of the pocket watch was recovered, there existed a scratch mark above the timing regulator. This indicates that the bomb maker disassembled the back of the watch to prepare it as a time delay switch. The scratch mark was placed above the timing regulator to insure that the watch would be reassembled in the same position as it was originally in.

On November 29, 1984, May 19th Communist Organization members [redacted] and [redacted] were arrested in [redacted] New Jersey, as they were unloading explosives and firearms from a vehicle and U-Haul trailer into a public storage facility. Subsequent search of vehicle, trailer and storage facility revealed 640(+) pounds of explosives, weapons, ammunition, false identification (including federal and local law enforcement business cards/stationery, blank identification and numerous documents/papers). At time of arrest, [redacted] and [redacted] were wearing wigs and produced false identification.

In September 1984, two white males posing as Drug Enforcement Administration Agents with identification produced a search warrant to the manager of a Stop and Shop grocery store in Cromwell, Connecticut, and once inside, robbed this store of approximately $20,000 - $30,000.

In their haste to get away, the robbers left the search warrant behind. An examination of this search warrant identified a latent print of Alan Berkman (member of May 19th Communist Organization and founder of JBAKC).

Additional investigation revealed that [redacted] was the second male involved in this robbery. As stated above, [redacted] is a known member of the May 19th Communist Organization.

On May 5, 1985, Baltimore initiated a surveillance of then fugitive Marilyn Buck and [redacted] as they drove from Baltimore to New York City, stopping at an apartment in the Bronx, New York. After leaving the apartment, Buck and [redacted] drove to Ardsdale, New York, where they rented a motel. On the morning of May 11, 1985, they were arrested in Dobbs Ferry, New York. At time of arrest, [redacted] was carrying a 9mm. Browning pistol, and Buck was carrying a S & W .38 revolver. Both were using false identification and were wearing wigs when arrested. b6 b7C

On the same date, as Buck and [redacted] were arrested, Baltimore entered the apartment where Buck and [redacted] were staying in order to locate fugitive Berkman. Berkman was not in the apartment, however, it was occupied by [redacted] (May 19th Communist Organization member/associate), who at the time was destroying evidence. [redacted] was arrested and the apartment was searched. Search revealed weapons/ammunition, documents, false identification and bomb paraphernalia. (FBI Identification/Latent Fingerprint Section has since identified latent prints of [redacted], Buck, [redacted] Berkman, [redacted] (May 19th Communist Organization/JBAKC member/associate in Austin, Texas) and [redacted] May 19th Communist Organization member/associate and FBI fugitive).)

From this search, evidence led New Haven to the location of a garage in Cheshire, Connecticut, wherein a 1984 Ford LTD bearing a New York license was located. This garage was rented by Buck. Also located was a second garage in West Haven, Connecticut, wherein a 1983 Ford Fairmont bearing a New York license was located. This garage was also rented by Buck.

The above cars were determined, thorugh New York investigation, to have been stolen from a car rental agency in Queens, New York, [redacted]

Also found in the Baltimore search were documents indicating the occupants were identical to groups known as the Revolutionary Fighting Group, Red Guerilla Resistance and Armed Resistance Unit. As stated earlier, these groups are responsible for bombings in New York City and Washington, D.C.

On May 23, 1985, Berkman and [redacted] were arrested in Doylestown, Pennsylvania, while driving a vehicle. Both were armed with handguns. A search of the vehicle revealed additional weapons, totaling four, and also found were documents (including handwritten letters from Buck and [redacted] and false identification. Of importance are the letters from Buck and [redacted] believed to have been written on or about May 13, 1985, while they were incarcerated in the Metropolitan Correctional Center, New York. In these letters they describe in detail the circumstances under which they were arrested, including what was on their person and in the safehouses in New York City and Baltimore.

Philadelphia investigation also located a garage in the Doylestown, Pennsylvania, area utilized by [redacted] and Berkman. A search of the garage revealed 100 (+) pounds of dynamite and documents.

Baltimore investigation also revealed [redacted] and possibly Berkman, had an apartment in the vicinity of the apartment where [redacted] was arrested. This apartment had been abandoned by [redacted] just prior to her arrest with Berkman on May 23, 1985.

Through investigation and reliable source information, it has been determined that the May 19th Communist Organization's present objectives are to provide support for those members and associates incarcerated, and to recruit new members.

Litigation Within The Last Six Months

The following is a list of legal action taken against M19CO members:

[redacted] continues to be a federal fugitive for her violation of Title 18, United States Code (USC), Section 1073 (Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution) for her failure to appear for trial stemming from an incident at John F. Kennedy International Airport (JFKIA), where [redacted]

In August, 1987, [redacted] was interviewed regarding her whereabouts and even though he was less than cooperative with interviewing Special Agents, he did initiate that [redacted] may be living in a communist country. Given this, along with other information, it is believed that [redacted] is presently living in Nicaragua.

[redacted]

Following her arrest in [redacted] Pennsylvania, on May 23, 1985, [redacted] was charged with Title 18, USC, Section 371, Section 842 (h), Section 842 (j), and Section 1028 (a); Title 26, USC, Section 5861 (d); and Title 42, USC, Section 408 (g). All 15 of the above counts stem from Berkman's arrest is Doylestown, PA in May 1985.

On October 7, 1987, Berkman appeared before U.S. District Court Judge Charles Haight, SDNY, for sentencing as it relates to Bail Jumping (Bond Default), in the Nanuet, New York

Armored Car Robbery of October 20, 1981. At this appearance, Berkman was sentenced to two years imprisonment to run consecutive with the above mentioned Philadelphia sentence. Prior to sentencing, Berkman made a statement to the court indicating his political and revolutionary views have not changed and that once his time is served, he will continue to seek his revolutionary goals.

Berkman was Nolle Prosequi on the Accessory after the fact and conspiracy charges, stemming from the Nanuet, New York armored car robbery in 1981.

He was transported to Cromwell, Connecticut in October, 1987, to face State Charges for armed robbery of a Stop and Shop Supermarket.

Marilyn Jean Buck was charged in the SDNY with violation of Title 18, USC, Section 1961, Section 1962 (d) (c), Section 2113 (a) (2), Section 2113 (d) (2), and Section 2113 (e) (2). These charges stem from Buck's involvement in the October 20, 1981, Brinks Armored Car Robbery. Trial for these charges is tentatively scheduled for November 9, 1987.

Washington Field Office is presently preparing a Bombing Conspiracy case against Buck, Berkman, [redacted] and [redacted] (M19CO member presently serving two years for her plea in violation of Title 18, USC, Section 1542, and facing charges in Baltimore, Maryland for violation of Title 18, USC, Section 1028, 111 and 1114. These charges are related to her possession of weapons and false identification).

May 19th Communist Organization Activities within the Past Six Months

The members of the M19CO maintain contact with, and provide support for not only incarcerated members of this organization but also incarcerated members of the EPB-Macheteros (a Puerto Rican group who advocate the independence of Puerto Rico). Eighteen members were indicted for participation in the robbery of a Wells Fargo depot in September, 1983, in Hartford, Connecticut and are presently awaiting trial.

On January 30, 1987, [redacted] was released from federal prison after serving a two year term. She was one of ten activists who refused to testify before a Federal Grand Jury and was convicted of criminal contempt.

Since her release, [redacted] has resided with [redacted] and [redacted] at [redacted] New York, New York and has again become active in M19CO activities.

On August 25, 1987, a confidential source of the New York City Police Department (NYCPD) advised that on August 26, 1987, [redacted] and [redacted] planned to travel to the White Mountains of New Hampshire for a 10 day "working vacation" and that on August 28, 1987, both [redacted] and [redacted] planned to join them.

On August 28, 1987, [redacted] and [redacted] were surveilled from New York City to Littleton, New Hampshire where they stopped for a meal prior to continuing their journey. Once they left Littleton, however, they were lost by surveillance.

Investigation at the Littleton Diner, on August 29, 1987, produced a witness who after reviewing numerous photographs not only identified [redacted] and [redacted] as patrons at the Littleton Diner, on Friday, August 28, 1987, but tentatively identified [redacted] and [redacted] as patrons of that Diner on either Thursday, August 27, 1987, or Wednesday, August 26, 1987.

On August 30, 1987, a second witness was interviewed and shown numerous photographs which included federal fugitives [redacted] and [redacted] and after a thorough review, she stated that she believed that [redacted] had eaten at the Littleton Diner on Thursday, August 27, 1987. She said that [redacted] was with an unidentified white female but was unable to identify this white female from pictures of M19CO provided.

For the purpose of background, [redacted] and [redacted] are members of the "Sequel Six" fugitives, identified by the Chicago undercover operation "Sequel" which resulted in the sale of phony explosives to [redacted] on May 4, 1985. [redacted] currently a "Top Ten" fugitive and a former Weather Underground and PFOC organizer in the San Francico area, was attempting to aide the escape of incarcerated FALN member [redacted] is [redacted] and a member of the Los Angeles and San Francisco PFOC. [redacted] is a former SDS and Weather Underground member active during 1960-70's. [redacted] and [redacted] resided clandestinely with the remaining three "Sequel Six" at 6633 Hayvenhurst Avenue, Van Nuys, California until they vanished on June 7, 1985.

Federal material witness warrants were issued for [redacted] and [redacted] by the Northern District of Illinois at the time [redacted] and fellow Top-Ten fugitive [redacted], plus five others, were indicted on federal conspiracy, escape, explosives and weapons charges.

In September, 1987, a confidential source of the NYCPD advised that [redacted] (member of the M19CO and an Attorney with the resistance Law Firm) had just returned to the United States after a trip to Cuba. Source could not provide details of this trip other than the fact that [redacted] was telling everyone that she met with FBI Fugitive [redacted] while there. b6 b7C

Conclusion

The M19CO has consistantly stated that the United States imperialism is a major issue to be attacked, and that armed struggle is the only way to achieve its goals. It has opposed U.S. involvement in Central America and supported Puerto Rican independence. It has used these issues as ideological underpinnings for a hard-core revolutionary movement dedicated to the overthrow of the U.S. Government. Past participation in criminal activities by some members indicates the groups willingness to use violence to achieve its goals.

The reorganization undertaken by this group after the arrests and convictions of some key leaders appears to continue and the threat of the M19CO to participate in terrorist activity either alone or in conjunction with other left wing groups continues to be present.

FORTHCOMING FUNCTIONS BEING SPONSORED BY THE NTCALWCU WERE DISCUSSED AT THIS NATIONAL MEETING. IT WAS DECIDED THAT THERE WOULD BE A NATIONAL PHONE-IN CAMPAIGN TO WARDEN QUINLAN, THE DIRECTOR OF THE BUREAU OF PRISONS LOCATED IN WASHINGTON, D.C. ON THE MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 22-24, BEFORE THANKSGIVING. THIS PHONE-IN CAMPAIGN WILL CONSIST OF A CONSTANT BARRAGE OF PHONE CALLS DIRECTED TO WARDEN QUINLAN FROM AROUND THE COUNTRY CONCERNING THE PRISON TREATMENT BEING AFFORDED TO INCARCERATED MOVEMENT PRISONERS. SOURCE LEARNED THAT [redacted] SUGGESTED THAT THERE BE A SIT-IN AT THE OFFICE OF WARDEN QUINLAN. IT WAS DECIDED TO DISCUSS THIS IDEA IN MORE DETAIL AT A LATER MEETING.

SOURCE LEARNED THAT THE CHICAGO CHAPTER OF THE NCTALWCU PUSHED STRONGLY FOR A COORDINATED NATIONAL ACTION CONSISTING OF SIT-INS AT LOCAL FBI OFFICES THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY. SOURCE LEARNED THAT CHICAGO M19CO MEMBER [redacted] WENT INTO GREAT DETAIL OVER THE SUCCESS THAT THE MOVEMENT HAD AT A SIT-IN DEMONSTRATION HELD IN THE CHICAGO OFFICE OF THE FBI DURING THE PAST YEAR. [redacted] WAS PUSHING FOR A COORDINATED SIT-IN TO BE HELD SIMULTANEOUSLY AT CHICAGO AND OFFICES OF THE FBI LOCATED IN SAN FRANCISCO, NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, TUSCON, ARIZONA AND CHICAGO. THESE OFFICES WERE CHOSEN BECAUSE THE NCTALWCU HAS CHAPTERS IN THESE CITIES. [redacted] MENTIONED THAT SHE PERSONALLY SUPPORTED THE IDEA OF SIT-INS BUT SHE PERSONALLY DID NOT WANT TO BE INVOLVED IN A SIT-IN IN THE SAN FRANCISCO OFFICE OF THE FBI.

THE GROUP SET MARCH 6, 1988 AS THE DATE FOR THIS YEAR'S INTERNATIONAL WOMAN'S DAY RALLY WHICH WILL AGAIN BE HELD AT THE LEXINGTON FEDERAL WOMAN'S PRISON. FINALLY, THE GROUP DISCUSSED WORKING ON A NATIONAL AD CAMPAIGN CONCERNING PRISON CONDITIONS. THIS NATIONAL AD CAMPAIGN IS BEING UNDERTAKEN PRIMARILY BY THE SAN FRANCISCO CHAPTER.

SOURCE LEARNED THAT THERE ARE AT LEAST FOUR GROUPS IN SAN FRANCISCO WHICH ARE CONCERNED OVER THE LEXINGTON PRISON CONTROL UNITS. THESE GROUPS INCLUDE THE NEW MOVEMENT, A GROUP OF TEN WOMEN WHICH [redacted] REPRESENTED, AND AT LEAST TWO HOMOSEXUAL GROUPS.

FOLLOWING THE NATIONAL MEETING OF THE NCTALWCU, THERE WAS A FUNCTION HELD IN CHICAGO CALLED THE PEOPLE'S TRIBUNAL TO EXPOSE THE CRIMES OF THE MARION AND LEXINGTON CONTROL UNITS. THIS TRIBUNAL WAS HELD AT A LOCAL CHURCH IN CHICAGO FROM TWELVE NOON UNTIL 10:00 P.M.

APPROXIMATELY 150 - 200 INDIVIDUALS PARTICIPATED IN THIS PEOPLE'S TRIBUNAL. OUT OF TOWN ATTENDEES INCLUDED THE ABOVE INDIVIDUALS AT THE NATIONAL MEETING OF THE NCTALWCU AND THE FOLLOWING INDIVIDUALS FROM OUTSIDE CHICAGO: b6 b7C

DISSEMINATION. CONTENTS OF THIS COMMUNICATION SHOULD NOT BE DISSEMINATED OUTSIDE THE BUREAU OR RECOGNIZED FBI TASK FORCES.

ON NOVEMBER 6, 1987, [redacted] ADVISED THAT CHICAGO M19CO MEMBER [redacted] OF CHICAGO M19CO LEADER, [redacted] BELIEVES THAT HER RESIDENTIAL TELEPHONE IS BEING TAPPED. [redacted] USED TO HAVE A DEVICE WHICH COULD DETERMINE IF HER PHONE WAS BEING TAPPED, HOWEVER, THIS DEVICE IS NOW BROKEN. [redacted] MAINTAINED THAT SHE HAD USED THIS DEVICE IN THE PAST WHICH INDICATED HER PHONE WAS BEING TAPPED.

SOURCE LEARNED THAT [redacted] RELATED THAT IF "WE" WERE GOING TO HAVE A MEETING WHERE WE WOULD SAY ANYTHING REALLY IMPORTANT WE WOULDN'T HAVE IT AT ANYBODY'S HOUSE, WE WOULD GO OUT. SOURCE LEARNED THAT [redacted] SPOKE VERY SOFTLY AND PANTOMIMED MUCH OF THIS CONVERSATION. WHEN ASKED IF "THEY" WOULD HAVE SUCH A MEETING AT A PUBLIC PLACE [redacted] NODDED IN THE AFFIRMATIVE.

SOURCE LEARNED THAT DURING THIS CONVERSATION, [redacted] POINTED TO A KNOB IN HER APARTMENT CEILING WHERE IT APPEARED A CHANDELIER ONCE HUNG. [redacted] ALSO POINTED TO THE APARTMENT UPSTAIRS. [redacted] RELATED THAT IT WAS REALLY POSSIBLE THAT HER APARTMENT WAS BEING BUGGED OR THAT SOMEBODY UPSTAIRS WAS LISTENING TO THEIR CONVERSATIONS.

SOURCE LEARNED THAT [redacted] RELATED THAT CHICAGO M19CO MEMBERS HAVE TO BE CAREFUL IN WHAT THEY SAY AND TO WHOM THEY ARE SPEAKING WITH, PARTICULARLY IN TERMS OF TALKING ABOUT "MOVEMENT" MEMBERS. [redacted] RELATED THAT "THEY", CLEARLY REFERRING TO THE FBI, DEVELOP PSYCHOLOGICAL PROFILES BASED UPON RECEIPT OF THIS INFORMATION. [redacted] RELATED THAT CHICAGO M19CO MEMBERS HAVE TO BE VERY CAREFUL ABOUT WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT PEOPLE. [redacted] RELATED THAT THESE PSYCHOLOGICAL PROFILES PROVIDE INFORMATION SUCH AS WHO WOULD BE MOST LIKELY TO DO WHAT AND WHO WOULDN'T BE LIKELY TO DO SOMETHING.

SOURCE LEANRED THAT [redacted] ENGAGED IN THE ABOVE CONVERSATION ON NOVEMBER 3, 1987. SOURCE LEARNED THAT THE INDIVIDUAL [redacted] WAS DISCUSSING THIS MATTER WITH WANTED TO CONTINUE THIS CONVERSATION, HOWEVER, [redacted] CLEARLY WANTED TO TERMINATE THIS CONVERSATION AT THIS POINT AFTER DIVULGING THE ABOVE.

CHICAGO HAS NO INFORMATION WHICH WOULD INDICATE THAT [redacted] IS PSYCHOLOGICALLY UNSTABLE. CHICAGO FEELS [redacted] PERCEPTIONS ARE VERY INTERESTING PARTICULARLY IN VIEW OF HER RELATIONSHIP WITH [redacted] CHICAGO FEELS [redacted] PERCEPTIONS MAY BE OF INVESTIGATIVE

DOMESTIC SECURITY/TERRORISM
OO:NEW YORK

The Domestic Terrorist Task Force is canvassing for a suitable asset/informant to infiltrate the May 19 Communist Organization (M19CO), a terrorist group headquartered in New York City. The M19CO is a leftist radical outgrowth of the Weather Underground, operating in solidarity with other domestic terrorist groups (FALN, Republic for New Afrika (RNA)) toward the overthrow of the U.S. Government.

Historically, members of the M19CO have demonstrated a fascination with international revolutionary activities. They have attended and received training through the Venceramos Brigades in Cuba and, more recently, in Nicaragua through the pro-Sandanista work brigades instituted to harvest coffee and construct housing. b6 b7C b7D b7E

JUST PRIOR TO AUGUST 21, 1987, THE NEW YORK DIVISION RECEIVED INFORMATION THAT MINOR SUBJECTS [redacted] AND [redacted] WOULD BE TRAVELING TO THE BOSTON DIVISION TERRITORY ON AUGUST 21, 1987, THROUGH SEPTEMBER 2, 1987. BOSTON AND NEW YORK ATTEMPTED SURVEILLANCES ON THESE INDIVIDUALS, BUT THEY WERE LOST ENROUTE TO AN UNKNOWN LOCATION PRESUMABLY IN NEW HAMPSHIRE. THEY WERE SUBSEQUENTLY RELOCATED IN THE WHITE MOUNTAIN, NEW HAMPSHIRE AREA AT A SECLUDED CABIN.

IN AUGUST 31, 1987, AGENTS FROM THE BOSTON DIVISION CONDUCTED A THREE DAY CANVASSING OF THE WHITE MOUNTAIN NATIONAL FOREST IN AN ATTEMPT TO LOCATE THESE SUBJECTS. AS A RESULT OF INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED IN THE AREA, ON AUGUST 30, 1987, AN EMPLOYEE OF A DINER IN LITTLETON, NEW HAMPSHIRE WAS SHOWN PHOTOGRAPHS WHICH INCLUDED THE SEQUEL SIX FUGITIVES. SUMMARY AIRTEL

Re Chicago airtels 5/15/87, 9/30/87 (previous summary aritels) and Chicago airtel, 7/4/86, which enclosed ten copies of glossy photographs of SEQUEL Six Fugitives requesting dissemination to all FBI Resident Agencies.

As recipients are aware, Chicago is attempting to locate six individuals who are fugitives in connection with the FALN-SEQUEL investigation. [redacted] aka, and [redacted] aka, are substantive fugitives charged in caption matter and Material Witness Warrants are presently outstanding for four other individuals identified as [redacted], and [redacted] (The latter four are hereafter referred to as the Material Witness Fugitives). As set forth in previous communications, if any of the Material Witness Fugitives are located, Chicago requests that they not be apprehended and that Chicago and FBIHQ SSA [redacted] be notified by most expeditious means so that coordinated fisur can be established in an attempt to locate [redacted] and [redacted] In conducting investigation with respect to the SEQUEL Six Fugitives, recipients should also be alert for and include in any interviews or photo displays information regarding FBI fugitives [redacted] IO [redacted] and [redacted] IO [redacted]

Information contained in this communication is a summary of investigation conducted Bureau wide since submission of the previous summary airtel, dated 9/30/87. Information contained herein is inclusive of all information received by Chicago as of January 22, 1988.

For information of those not in receipt of communications regarding trial in captioned matter, the trial of [redacted] and [redacted] began on October 19, 1987. Trial concluded on December 31, 1987, with all four individuals being convicted of Conspiracy and ITAR related travel and phone calls. [redacted] faces a maximum sentence of [redacted] years, and [redacted] Sentencing is to be held at the MCC Chicago, on February 26, 1988.

As set forth in referenced Chicago airtel, 9/30/87, Chicago intended to continue the thrust of investigation in Baltimore, Maryland, and San Francisco, California. The Baltimore investigation centers around [redacted] and [redacted] who are the parents of [redacted] Baltimore Division has maintained pen register coverage on the [redacted] residence from May, 1987 through the present. Of particular interest are the scarce contacts between the [redacted] and an individual identified as [redacted], who is the [redacted] resides in San Diego, California. Referenced Summary Airtel set forth information regarding those contacts up through September, 1987. These telephonic contacts included Christmas Day, 1986, February, 1987, followed by a call to Los Angeles Bureau of Vital Statistics on behalf of the [redacted] Next telephonic contact was from [redacted] to [redacted] residence in June, 1987. In July, 1987, the [redacted] went on a two week trip up into the New England area staying in Boston and Providence, Rhode Island areas. Shortly thereafter in August, 1987, New York and Boston coordinated fisurs of MAY 19TH COMMUNIST ORGANIZATION members [redacted] and [redacted] as they traveled up into the White Plains area of New Hampshire. The subjects were lost to surveillance and investigation conducted after the lost surveillance resulted in a tentative identification of [redacted] as being in the same restaurant visited by [redacted] ET AL. Investigation was conducted by Boston Division with negative results in locating any fugitives. Approximately 14 days after the [redacted] returned from their vacation they again placed a call to the residence of [redacted] There was no additional telephonic contact between the [redacted] and [redacted] until January 3, 1988, at which time the [redacted] contacted the [redacted] residence for approximately seven minutes. This contact was preceded on January 1, by calls to Miami, Florida (subscriber unknown) and a call to Tampa, Florida, 813/383-2434, which is subscribed to by the Silver Beach Resort Motel, 4131 Gulf of Mexico Driver, Long Boat Key, Florida.

On January 2, 1988, calls were placed to the [redacted] followed by a call to Washington National Airport. During the period January 4 through 9, the [redacted] called the residences of [redacted] BACH in Berkeley, California, [redacted] in New York, an unknown subscriber number in Phoenix, Arizona.

On January 17, 1988, it appears the [redacted] departed Silver Springs, Maryland, enroute to Florida. A check of the Silver Beach Resort Motel on Long Boat Key, Florida, by the Tampa Division, determined that that [redacted] made reservations for a party of two arriving at the motel on Monday, January 25, 1988, departing on January 27, 1988. Reservations were made on January 1, 1988.

On January 22, 1988, the New York Division advised it had received information that M19CO members [redacted] and [redacted] were departing New York at approximately 4:00 p.m., enroute to Fort Lauderdale, Florida, for "vacation." Source could not provide any additional information regarding travel itinerary except to state that [redacted] and [redacted] were going to visit the parents of [redacted] in Fort Lauderdale, prior to travelling down to the Florida Keys. Their trip thus overlapped by two days, the stays of [redacted] and [redacted] in the Miami area at an unknown location. It appears to be a very strange coincidence once again that the [redacted] traveled to the same general geographic region which was approximately two weeks subsequent to a telephone call from the [redacted] to [redacted] This is almost a repeat of the scenario when the [redacted] traveled to New England shortly after telephonic contact with [redacted] and the subsequent travel of [redacted] and [redacted] to the same area which resulted in a possible sighting of [redacted] In addition, Tampa Division has conducted investigation regarding [redacted] Florida, as a result of information received from the telephone toll records of [redacted] Tampa has advised that further investigation determined [redacted] to be [redacted] relationship to [redacted] unknown but possibly mother or aunt based upon age.

b7D

Based upon previous evaluation of the [redacted] telephone records, it appears that the trip to Long Boat Key, Florida, is an annual event.

[redacted]

A second area of investigation along a different level dealing with the "radical family" of the SEQUEL Six Fugitives has centered in San Francisco, California. This is as a result of very detailed information developed by SA [redacted] of the Los Angeles Division with respect to not only the SEQUEL Six Fugitives while living a clandestine existence but also their existence prior to going underground in 1983. Through tedious investigation of the checking account information of the SEQUEL Six both in a clandestine existence and in an above ground, true name existence, SA [redacted] identified four individuals who enjoyed a very close relationship with the SEQUEL Six Fugivites both pre and post clandestine. These individuals were identified as [redacted] and [redacted] Chicago issued subpoenas and forwarded same to San Francisco for the checking accounts of [redacted] and [redacted] a subpoena for the telephone toll records of [redacted] and for the credit card records of [redacted] surfaced in this investigation following investigation conducted in November, 1987, at the GRIFFINS FERN RIVER RESORT, 5250 Highway Nine, Felton, California. Previous investigation by the Los Angeles Division indicated that PFOC member [redacted] had written a check to this resort in April, 1984. Investigation conducted at GRIFFINS FERN RIVER RESORT resulted in a possible sighting of [redacted] in August, 1987, accompanied by [redacted]

b3
b6
b7C
b7D

Chicago has also subpoenaed, through San Francisco Division, [redacted]

[redacted]

It is felt by Chicago that the investigation being conducted relative to the [redacted] in the Baltimore Division and the associates of the SEQUEL Six in the San Francisco Division afford the best opportunity at this time to locate the SEQUEL Six Fugitives. There have been numerous leads set forth from Baltimore Division regarding subscribers to telephone numbers contacted by the [redacted] and each of these have been identified to some extent or another. In some occasions, the subscribers to the telephone numbers have been identified but Field Offices have reported that additional information such as driver's license and motor vehicle registration is negative and therefore no additional investigation is being conducted. Recipients should note that when covering leads, the SEQUEL Six are experts at false identification. While residing in the Los Angeles, California area they had a piece of identification for virtually everything they did in their normal lives. This included mail drop facilities which bear a street address as compared to a post office box number, which on the face would appear to be some sort of a residence. All of their mail drops were maintained under different identities, their vehicles registered under different names and driver's licenses under yet additional different names. Los Angeles Division reported that it appeared an index was kept of each name, when they used it, and indicated it should not be used again for another purpose. To merely identify a subscriber to a telephone number then not determine whether or not it is a address used for billing purposes or the fact that there is no driver's license or motor vehicle registered to that individual falls short of the goals in identifying a subscriber. Likewise, where the subscriber's determined to be a hotel or motel, discreet investigation should be conducted at each and every hotel or motel in an attempt to identify who may have stayed at the hotel or motel and what their relationship may have been to the person making the call.

As will be set forth below, Chicago anticipates the possibility of massive interviews being conducted with respect to subscribers to various telephone numbers. Some of these are anticipated to be routine fugitive type interviews, others will be based upon more detailed information and the purpose of the interview will be limited in scope during the initial interview with potential for follow-up interviews or additional more detailed investigation.

INVESTIGATION OVER THE NEXT 120 DAY PERIOD

As previously set forth, Baltimore and Chicago have conducted extensive background investigation into the activities of [redacted] and [redacted] who reside in [redacted] Maryland. Also targeted at least in the initial stages was [redacted] who also resides in the [redacted] Maryland area. Analysis of all available information including pen registers, mail covers, periodic surveillances, reverse trap traces, and analysis of checking accounts for the past five years has led to the suspicion that the [redacted] do in fact either obtain information relative to or have direct contact with [redacted] It has been determined that in February, 1988, [redacted] will be interviewed regarding any knowledge they possess about the SEQUEL Six Fugitives. It is believed that the interview will take one of three potential courses. They are:

1. [redacted] immediately confide in the FBI and give the exact whereabouts of [redacted]

2. [redacted] are evasive in answers and attempt to gain more information from the interviewing agents then they wish to provide.

3. [redacted] will refuse to be interviewed whatsoever.

By previous communication, Chicago Division has set forth leads to San Diego, San Francisco, and Baltimore. San Diego and San Francisco have been requested to obtain [redacted]

b3
b6
b7C

b3
b6

If [redacted] are totally uncooperative then leads will be set forth to interview all known contacts of the [redacted] as derived from pen register, mail cover, and checking account information.

If the interview results in scenario number two, wherein the [redacted] attempt to gain more information than they provide and appear to the interviewing agents to be less then candid, [redacted] with AUSAs to obtain Title III coverage of [redacted] phone. Chicago realizes that this would have to be coordinated during such a 30 day period wherein a call to [redacted] would be expected or an incoming call perhaps from [redacted] might be expected. The best time frame at this point seems to be that of May, during which there is Mother's Day, [redacted] birthday, and the birthday of [redacted] child [redacted]

With respect to the associates of the SEQUEL Six Fugitives residing in San Francisco, California [redacted] and [redacted] Chicago believes that this is the overall best approach to locate the SEQUEL Six Fugitives and identify other underground members of the PFOC. Chicago and Los Angeles have previously set forth leads based on firm documentation of an eight year relationship between at least four of the above mentioned individuals and the SEQUEL Six. Intelligence data collected from the abandoned safehouses, garbage cans, storage facilities, and other places indicates ties between those people and the SEQUEL Six both prior to their going underground and while living clandestinely in Los Angeles.

The identification of various hotels and motels throughout the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas wherein meetings occurred indicate that the current targets in San Francisco knew of the clandestine nature of the SEQUEL Six. [redacted] fingerprints were found on items abandoned by the SEQUEL Six in June, 1985.

The detailed information provided by SA [redacted] of the Los Angeles Division, coupled with the results of the investigation conducted with respect to SEQUEL, and detailed physical surveillance of those four individuals could lead to Title III applications in the San Francisco Division. Since submission of referenced Chicago Summary Airtel, dated 9/30/87, Chicago has received and complied with San Francisco's request for subpoenas in San Francisco teletypes, dated October 9, 1987, and November 25, 1987. Aside from those two communications the only other communication received by Chicago was San Francisco's airtel and LHM, dated 12/11/87, for submission to DOJ for continued investigation of PFOC. In part, the LHM indicates that investigation conducted over the past six months has brought the FBI closer to locating the SEQUEL Six. San Francisco points out that there seems to be a definite path that leads directly through the PFOC to locate the SEQUEL Six Fugitives. Chicago concurs with this finding and notes that as early as March, 1987 the Los Angeles Division identified the trail through which the SEQUEL Six slipped into clandestine existence. The common factors as set forth in Los Angeles airtels, dated March 20, 1987, May 7, 1987, July 6, 1987, July 24, 1987, August 6, 1987, August 11, 1987, August 13, 1987, August 26, 1987, October 26, 1987, October 27, 1987, November 6, 1987, November 13, 1987, and November 18, 1987, all lead to [redacted] and [redacted] who reside in the San Francisco area and are all well established known members of PFOC. San Francisco advised it had concentrated it's surveillance effort on [redacted] and [redacted] and provided results of one surveillance which occurred on November 27, 1987, wherein [redacted] and [redacted] were picked up by [redacted] and another unidentified female who drove circuitous routes across San Francisco, eventually ending up on a bluff overlooking the Pacific Ocean.

A third avenue of investigaton over the next 120 days centers around the activities of [redacted] of Top Ten Fugitive [redacted] was interviewed by the Los Angeles Division SA [redacted] following the disappearance of the SEQUEL Six. It was his opinion that [redacted] was less than candid during the interview. Around September 1, 1987, [redacted] moved from her apartment located at [redacted] Los Angeles, California, to [redacted] Albuquerque, New Mexico.

On October 22, 1987, Los Angeles Division located [redacted] Los Angeles, California, and determined that [redacted] (protect) is [redacted] who appeared to be quite candid with the interviewing agents, advised that [redacted] were very close and that she was certain they would remain close to this day, particularly if [redacted] was aware of [redacted] In addition, [redacted] provided the name and address of a [redacted] residing in [redacted] Arizona, who might be of assistance in providing additional information regarding the relationship between [redacted] and [redacted] Albuquerque Division previously advised that on at least one occasion an attempt was made to surveil [redacted] and it was noted that she drove in a method which did not appear to be rational for a person merely going to the Post Office in Albuquerque, New Mexico. In addition, it should be noted that on March 23, 1985, when the initial transaction for the purchase of explosives from the undercover agent in the SEQUEL investigation occurred, [redacted] the messenger for the FALN advised that they initially wanted the weapons transaction to take place in New Mexico.

Honorable [redacted]
United States Attorney

Attention: Chief Narcotics Assistant United States Attorney [redacted] b6 b7C

Dear Sir:

This is to confirm a conversation held on February 8, 1988, between Chief Narcotics Assistant United States Attorney (CNAUSA) [redacted] and members of the Domestic Terrorist Task Force (DTTF) of this office. The purpose of this meeting was to discuss the prosecutive status of the FBI investigation entitled "NYFAL; Major Case Number 44; Rico-Terrorism; OO:NY."

As your office is aware, this case pertains to the investigation by the DTTF into activities of the Fuerzas Armadas De Liberacion Nacional Puertorriquena (Armed Forces of Puerto Rican National Liberation) (FALN), an armed clandestine terrorist group that has been linked to 149 bombings/attempted bombings, 5 murders, approximately 100 injuries and over 3 million dollars in property damage. Due to the clandestine nature of the FALN, the identification of its members and penetration into its close knit cell structure has been extremely difficult despite intensive investigative efforts. However, in 1983, the NYFAL investigation was initiated in an effort to penetrate the FALN by locating an active "safehouse" and establishing real time intelligence through physical and electronic surveillance with the ultimate goals of prosecuting those responsible, locating fugitives and preventing criminal terrorist acts.

On June 28, 1983, one such safehouse was located at 615 Warburton Avenue, Apt. 6F, Yonkers, New York. The following individuals have been linked to the safehouse:

[redacted] Date of Birth
Date of Birth
Date of Birth
Date of Birth
Date of Birth
Date of Birth [redacted]

Unfortunately, the safehouse was abandoned shortly after it was discovered. Presently, the whereabouts of [redacted] are unknown; [redacted] remains a fugitive for his involvement in the New Year's Eve 1982 bombings in New York City; [redacted] is incarcerated for her prior terrorist activity; and the remaining three individuals are living in the New York metro area.

As CNAUSA [redacted] observed during the meeting, the statute of limitations expires in July, 1988, for prosecutive action against those individuals associated with the safehouse. Therefore, CNAUSA [redacted] authorized the presentation of facts before a Federal Grand Jury in March, 1988, for the purpose of obtaining indictments against the aforementioned individuals for various violations of federal law. b6 b7B

Your cooperation in this matter is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Previous investigation developed the following facts relating to the SEQUEL subjects:

took helicopter training lessons in San Carlos, California (San Francisco area) under the alias of from August, 1981 through 6/15/82. His whereabouts or activities remained unknown from 6/15/82 until August, 1983 at which time he reappeared in Long Beach, California using the alias of He then lived under false identity with b6 b7C using her true identity, lived with and at Los Angeles, California during at which time she closed her Los Angeles bank account. whereabouts or activities remained unknown from 8/25/82 until August, 1983 at which time she reappeared in Long Beach, California using the alias of She and then lived together in the Long Beach area.

using her true identity, lived at with and during 1982 up until 8/25/82 at which time she closed her Los Angeles bank account. whereabouts or activities remained unknown from 8/25/82 until February, 1984 at which time she reappeared in Van Nuys, California using the alias of She and then lived together in the [illegible] in Van Nuys during [illegible] through [illegible]

[redacted] using her true identity, lived at [redacted] along with [redacted] and [redacted] during 1982 up until 7/24/82. During July-August, 1982, [redacted] visited the New York City area and in September, 1982, she returned to reside at her [redacted] apartment. She used her true name identity all the while. In late 1984, [redacted] moved from the Los Angeles area and relocated in the San Francisco-Oakland area, where she remains to this date.

During 1982, both [redacted] and [redacted] whereabouts and activities remained unknown. They were most likely living clandestinely during the 1982 time frame.

August, 1982 appears to be a highly significant time in reference to the SEQUEL subjects activities:

[redacted] opened an account at the ACTION ANSWERING SERVICE in Redlands, California with a check from NMISWPR&MR on 8/14/82:

[redacted] was living clandestively. b6 b7C

[redacted] and [redacted] went "underground".

[redacted] visited New York City for approximately two months, she then returned to the Los Angeles area to live alone, without her previous roommates of [redacted] and [redacted]

[redacted] and [redacted] had been "underground" for nearly the past year.

The above information is set forth to reiterate the chronology of the whereabouts and activities of the SEQUEL subjects.

On 8/14/82, the NMISWPR&MR issued a check to the ACTION ANSWERING SERVICE in Redlands, California. Redlands is approximately 70 miles distant from metropolitan Los Angeles. Redlands is also in the same geographical area as the BLOOMINGTON MINI-STORAGE facility in Bloomington, California where [redacted] along with his companion [redacted] placed into storage the [redacted] pounds of inert C-[redacted] explosives during mid-[redacted].

At this time, it is unknown exactly for what purpose the ACTION ANSWERING SERVICE account in Redlands was established by the NMISWPR&MR. It is speculation on the part of Los Angeles but it seems highly probable that the clandestine subjects could have used this phone answering service as a common contact spot by all of the underground clandestine SEQUEL subjects (which totaled at least five individuals during August, 1982) to communicate with their above-ground PFOC support group which includes in part: [redacted] and others.

By personal check dated 12/25/82, [redacted] and [redacted] Cleveland, Ohio, issued a personal check to the New Movement in Solidarity with Puerto Rican and Mexican Revolutions, in the amount of $40 dollars. These persons are believed to be the parents of PROC member [redacted] date of birth [redacted] at Cleveland, Ohio.

LEADS:

Receiving offices are request to review the names mentioned herein, to determine if any of the mentioned individuals are living within their respective field divisions.

b6

Will remain alert to any information which may suggest that any of the known PFOC support individuals are maintaining a "mail drop" or account at a phone answering service in an out-of-the-way or distant location. These out-of-the-way "mail drops" or phone answering services may be being used as a contact point between the SEQUEL subjects and their PFOC support associates.

CLEVELAND DIVISION

AT CLEVELAND, OHIO: Will identify [redacted] and [redacted] Determine if they are the parents of [redacted] Based upon their financial support of the NMISWPR&MR in December, 1982, will consider the possibility that they may be PFOC support elements for the SEQUEL subjects. Note, investigation to date has unequivocally established the fact that the parents of [redacted] i.e. [redacted] have clandestinely intercommunicated with one another in support of the fugitive status of [redacted] and are in the same age group as the [redacted] parents and acting in the same capacity.

Origin and Spread of AIDS: Is the West Responsible?

By Robert Lederer*

Editors' Note: Because of space constraints, we are unable to publish the entire Part I of this article in this issue. The rest will appear with Part II in our next issue. Because the entire article was typeset as a unit, there will be some cross-references herein to sections or sidebars which do not appear. They will all be found in the next issue.

Did western institutions play a role in the origin and spread of AIDS? Increasingly, that question is being asked by people worldwide as the death toll mounts, particularly in Central Africa, Brazil, Haiti, and in the gay and Third World communities in western nations. In an era of supposed "medical miracles," it is appropriate and urgent to ask why such a deadly new disease has surfaced, and why it affects particular segments of populations.

The western medical establishment assures us repeatedly that AIDS is caused by a virus called HIV (Human Immunodeficiency Virus) which mutated naturally from a harmless monkey virus in Africa. They say that the worldwide spread of AIDS is due only to international sexual contacts, and that its infection pattern closely parallels existing disease patterns among the affected populations (as if that should be a comforting fact). They also suggest that hereditary factors may play a role. AIDS is incurable and invariably fatal, they insist.

But everywhere questions are arising whether this new syndrome, which apparently surfaced on an international scale in the late 1970s, was a natural development. Given the history of oppression of Third World and gay people, and the vicious western response to the current medical crisis, many people suspect AIDS is too convenient to be coincidental. With isolated exceptions, the western political and medical establishments have failed, or at best have been criminally slow, to institute urgently needed programs of AIDS treatment, research, and prevention education. Governments, research workers and drug companies have ignored and ridiculed inexpensive, holistic therapies showing promise for repairing damaged immune systems. Meanwhile, government officials and rightwing ideologues, with the help of a compliant media, have manipulated AIDS hysteria to stoke a racist and anti-gay political offensive. This has already led to repressive measures that may be used against broader segments of society. (See sidebar, "U.S. Response to AIDS: Malign Neglect and Social Repression.")

The West's handling of AIDS simply amplifies historic patterns. Gay men and lesbians have faced scorn, discrimination, and violent attacks for centuries—not only at the social level, but also through institutional policies of government, religion and medicine. At the same time, the history of western domination of the Third World and organized racism is well documented. Not least among the weapons used have been genocidal programs of population control, medical experiments, and counterinsurgency, including chemical and biological warfare (CBW) against revolutionary movements and states. Sometimes the three programs have overlapped. (See CBW article in this issue.)

A variety of international media have proposed that AIDS is a product, accidental or purposeful, of this history. If AIDS did, in fact, result from CBW, we will probably never find the "smoking gun"; that is the nature of such schemes.[1] It is important nonetheless to examine all strands in the complex web of social, political, and environmental influences on this disease syndrome.

This article, along with the accompanying historical overview, will analyze the major alternative theories of the origin and spread of AIDS. These studies include not only a discussion of the hypotheses of CBW and medical experimentation, but also of the "normal" functioning of western medical and political institutions which may have originated or facilitated the spread of this disease and others. Even if all these theories prove wrong with respect to AIDS, they provide an educational—and chilling—journey through the sordid worlds of U.S. CBW, "development" programs, and profit-oriented western medicine.

Six Theories of AIDS Origin

Six theories which propose a particular virus or toxin as the primary cause of AIDS will be examined. First, the "official theory" of the natural origin of the HIV virus. Then, five alternative theories: a genetically-engineered HIV virus; dioxin; maguari and dengue viruses; African swine fever virus; and, finally, multiple factors (no single microbe).

Growing numbers of scientists have concluded that HIV is not the agent causing AIDS. For that reason, it seems extremely unlikely that HIV was genetically-engineered in a CBW research project. Beyond that, it seems too early to draw article is the first of a two-part series; the second will appear in the next f CAIB.

author will be continuing this investigation in the months ahead. He nyone, especially those with scientific or medical expertise, to con- c/o the CAIB New York office.

1. Because of the absence of a "smoking gun," some left groups have dismissed the possibility altogether. For example, a booklet on AIDS published by Line of March asserts that the CBW hypothesis "actually undermines a truly effective critique of the U.S. government's backward role [in fighting AIDS] by putting forward a headline-grabbing claim with no substantiation." Nancy Krieger and Rose Appleman, The Politics of AIDS (Oakland: Frontline Pamphlets, 1986), p. 10.

conclusions. Each of the other theories are powerfully suggestive. And new evidence of an AIDS-CBW link may yet come to light.

But whichever agent plays the central role in AIDS, it will not provide the full explanation for this complex syndrome. That depends on the presence of various co-factors which may make one vulnerable to AIDS. An analysis of these co-factors, and the role of western institutions in creating them, will be the subject of the second part of this article (to appear in the next issue of CAIB).

The "Official" Theory

According to most mainstream scientists investigating AIDS, the syndrome is caused by a retrovirus (a newly discovered form of virus) originally called HTLV-III or LAV, and now labeled HIV. Dr. Robert Gallo of the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Maryland, and Dr. Luc Montagnier of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, France, both regarded as distinguished research scientists, each claim to have discovered HIV in 1983-4.[2]

In spite of recurrent challenges by other scientists, and significant questions about some of the laboratories involved,[3] the HIV explanation for AIDS has been disseminated so widely in the medical community—and the popular media—that it is now an article of faith. But constant repetition of a theory does not render it proven; it is still only a theory. In fact, several well-researched critiques of this theory have appeared in print, the most comprehensive of which was published by Dr. Peter Duesberg, a molecular biologist at the University of California.[4] (For a full critique of the HIV theory, see Nathaniel Lehrman, "Is AIDS Non-Infectious?" in this issue.) Duesberg concludes that HIV may simply become activated after a prior microbe-caused infection produces immune suppression. At most, he maintains, HIV may produce a mild infection that in only some cases is followed by full-blown AIDS. Thus HIV can be a good marker to screen

2. Gallo and Montagnier waged a lengthy legal battle before reaching a settlement in March 1987 sharing credit and assigning royalties for the HIV-antibody test (widely used in blood tests) to an AIDS research foundation.

3. A Wall Street Journal investigation in December 1986 concluded that the CDC AIDS laboratory "has been crippled by ego clashes, professional jealousies and perhaps worse. For months it has been dogged by allegations of hampered research, political meddling, and even sabotaged experiments." The article also described the inexplicable failure of the CDC lab to analyze a sample of HIV isolated "from a batch of blood samples collected in Zaire in 1976—the oldest AIDS virus ever found." A technician involved was barred from sending the samples out for analysis, and his records of the work, which might have yielded "important clues to the evolution of the disease," later "mysteriously disappeared." After the disillusioned technician had quit, the samples were apparently sent out. AIDS: The Medical Facts

AIDS, Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, is the destruction of immune systems, leaving the body defenseless against a myriad of normally harmless micro-organisms. AIDS causes the development of unusual diseases called opportunistic infections (because they take the opportunity of immune deficiency to infect the body). Many such infections—viral, bacterial, and parasitic—have been listed by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control (CDC). Among the more common are pneumocystis carinii pneumonia (PCP), a lung infection, and candida albicans, a fungus creating scabs and lesions on the lips, mouth and throat. In other cases, AIDS results in Kaposi's sarcoma, a previously rare skin cancer which produces purple ulcers. More recently, it has been recognized that AIDS can also directly cause degenerative brain disorders.

In the generally accepted theory of how AIDS works, "HIV [human immunosuppressant virus], the so-called 'AIDS virus,' infects the T cells [a type of white blood cell], especially the T4 or helper T cells, which control the immune system. The helper T cells normally recognize foreign proteins, and instruct the B cells ([another type of white blood cells which comprise] a different part of the immune system) to produce specific antibodies which attack the invading organism. In AIDS, the virus kills most of the helper T cells, so the immune system cannot identify the disease-causing organism. The B cells do generate lots of antibodies, but they are the wrong ones. Therefore, the body cannot resist certain opportunistic infections and cancers which, normally, it could easily control." (John S. James, "DNCB AIDS/ARC Treatment," New York Native, December 15, 1986, p. 21.)

ARC, or AIDS-Related Complex, is a condition of mild immune suppression which may include swollen glands, extreme fatigue, weight loss, fungal mouth infections, decreased blood platelets (cells preventing excess bleeding), and chronic diarrhea. ARC often remains stable; in some cases it progresses to AIDS.

Means of Transmission

Most of the transmission methods of AIDS are well established, although there remains some controversy. This much is clear: AIDS is first and foremost a blood-borne disease. That is, it is most efficiently transmitted through direct transmission of infected blood or semen into a person's bloodstream. That can happen via contaminated hypodermic needles—either in a clinical setting where scarce disposable syringes are reused, or among intravenous drug users who share their "works." Another such mode is the transfusion of infected blood, or in the case of hemophiliacs, an infected dose of "Factor VIII," a blood-clotting substance vital for their survival. (However, blood screening tests instituted since 1985 have probably eliminated much of this problem in the western world.)

Sexual transmission of AIDS is most likely during anal sex, when tiny tears in the rectal mucous membranes can create openings through which infected semen may enter the bloodstream. (Some doctors believe semen can directly enter the blood even without such tears.) This is the most stored blood for possible AIDS infection, but it is unreliable in individual blood tests, except among members of groups at high risk for AIDS.

Mainstream scientists say that HIV was a harmless virus in Central African green monkeys which jumped species to humans through bites or meat consumption, and mutated to a form that produced AIDS. According to this theory, after its "natural" origin in poor, rural areas of Central Africa, AIDS spread to the region's cities as residents of the countryside migrated there. As for the timing, Gallo cites evidence of HIV antibodies in frozen blood samples of Africans taken as far back as 1959 to demonstrate that the disease clearly began in Africa long before its appearance elsewhere (generally agreed to be 1977-78).[5]

But a host of evidence challenges this speculative line of thought. First, the green monkey theory has major problems. (See Lehrman article in this issue.) Second, scientists note that as frozen blood gets older, if not stored properly, it will often register "false positive" readings of antibodies.[6] Third, if in fact there were many HIV-infected people in Africa beginning in the 1960s, why wasn't a major AIDS outbreak recorded then? U.S. AIDS "experts" argue that the poor quality of medical facilities in much of Africa—and the fact that several AIDS-related illnesses were around long before the 1970s—might have prevented its identification until U.S. doctors noted the syndrome in 1981. But surely such an epidemic as suggested by the blood studies would not have gone completely unnoticed. And urban upper-class Africans and European residents have always had access to quality medical care. Indeed, it is among these classes that AIDS was first diagnosed in 1982 when they visited Europe desperately seeking medical care for a new seemingly incurable disease; then, retrospective evaluation of others' medical records dated the first African cases to 1978.[7]

5. Several retrospective studies of blood samples purport to show HIV widespread in Africa in the 1960s and early 1970s. The largest such study, widely quoted, was based on Ugandan children, taken in 1972-73, which shows two-thirds with HIV antibody but none with AIDS. Ann Giudici Fettner and William A. Check, The Truth About AIDS (New York: Holt Rinehart & Winston, 1984), p. 203.

7. A study of cases of cryptococcal meningitis (CM), an AIDS-associated infection, at the University Hospital in Kinshasa, Congo/Zaire, showed that the infection, very rare before 1978, dramatically increased that year, as did the mortality rate (up from 43 to 100 percent). Study by Antwerp Institute of Tropical Diseases, quoted in Graham Hancock and Enver Carim, AIDS: The Deadly Epidemic (London: Victor Gallancz Ltd., 1986), p. 120. Four researchers who studied blood test results of 4,000 Africans in seven countries concluded, "It would seem that the epidemic of AIDS in Africa started at about the same time as, or even later than, the epidemics in America or Europe." G. Huntsman et al., reported in British Medical Journal (date unstated), as quoted in Hancock and Carim, op. cit., p. 119.

common means of spread among gay men, but is also a risk for women who engage in this practice. Similarly, penile-vaginal sex where the vagina is injured or has an open sore can provide another means of transmission (from male to female). However, the tougher nature of the vaginal membranes renders the chances of semen entering the bloodstream vaginally much less likely than rectally. (The question of female-to-male transmission is highly controversial. Although there may be some such cases, the evidence is slim.) None of these points, however, means that sexual intercourse without a condom is a practice without risk of AIDS.

The final established mode of transmission is from mother to unborn infant, through means thus far undetermined. Some cases have been recorded where the mother did not have AIDS at the time of giving birth, but did test positively for HIV. In any event, the result has been the horrible reality of babies born with AIDS. In the U.S., 90 percent of these infants are non-white.

One unconfirmed transmission mode is insects, with particular attention to mosquitoes and ticks in tropical regions. (See "Alternate Theory #3: Maguari and Dengue Viruses," in accompanying article.) From evidence in some poor neighborhoods in Florida, there seems to be a strong case that bad sanitation—open sewers, stagnant water supplies, windows without screens—may be breeding grounds for AIDS.

All medical researchers, except a few with clearly stated rightwing biases, agree that AIDS cannot be spread by casual contact, whether in the workplace, school, or home. This includes human touch, food handling, sharing bathrooms and beds, sneezing, coughing, etc. Long term studies of people with AIDS living with their families have clearly established this, as have scientific examinations of fluids from people with AIDS once outside the body. A 1985 study showing the presence of minute amounts of HIV in saliva and tear drops was consciously distorted by sensationalist media and rightwing politicians to generate needless hysteria. There has never been a documented case of AIDS spread through sharing cups or kissing. However, as a precaution, some doctors advise avoiding deep kissing involving exchanges of large amounts of saliva.

Measures to prevent the spread of AIDS, as recommended by experts, include avoiding taking semen into one's body or sharing intravenously used needles. The use of condoms is essential, though not foolproof. More specific lists of sexual "do's and don'ts" are available from many AIDS service organizations. What is unfortunately not so often mentioned are equally important health practices to maintain one's immune system. It is increasingly clear that a damaged immune system makes one susceptible to AIDS. Thus, it is important to maintain good nutrition and try to avoid highly processed, devitalized foods in general, and sugar and white flour in particular. Also important is avoidance of "street" drugs, some of which are profound immune suppressors. This is particularly true of "poppers," or nitrite inhalants, a popular drug among gay men. Also important health-maintenance measures are stress reduction, adequate sleep and exercise. (For more specific advice on immune-strengthening measures, consult the Resource List following this article.) •

The "official" theory of the spread of AIDS from Africa to the Western Hemisphere has been stated by Gallo: "It appears that after remaining localized for some time [in limited parts of central Africa], the virus began spreading to the rest of central Africa during the early 1970s. Later in that decade it reached Haiti and may have reached Europe and the Americas from there."[8] After the Belgian Congo won its independence in 1960, several hundred Haitian teachers moved there to help their sister French-speaking country. It has been suggested that some may have become infected with AIDS and spread it sexually upon their return home. It is then speculated that North American gay tourists in Haiti, a popular gay vacation spot in the 1970s, may have contracted the disease from male prostitutes—of which there were (and still are) many. From there, it is theorized, traveling gays spread AIDS throughout the U.S. and Europe, and gay intravenous (IV) drug users spread it to other IV drug users through shared needles.

But this theory is purely speculative, and there are other equally logical explanations for the international spread of AIDS.[9] For now, any dogmatic adherence to a particular place and time of origin, or a particular path of transmission, should be looked on with suspicion until more complete information is available. This means that all of the various alternative theories should be fully explored.

Alternative Theory #1: Genetically-Engineered HIV

Two East German microbiologists, Jakob and Lilli Segal, have published the most detailed argument for a chemical-biological warfare (CBW) origin of AIDS.[10] This is the current theory widely quoted by the Soviet Union and reprinted in the international press. The Segals agree with establishment scientists that HIV is the cause of AIDS, but maintain it was genetically engineered by the U.S. Army and then released unknowingly through an experiment on human guinea pigs. They call AIDS "a military blunder." Asserting that AIDS first appeared in New York in 1979, then in Europe and Africa in 1982, they posit the following scenario:[11]

First, the U.S. Army's CBW laboratory at Fort Detrick, Maryland, in violation of the treaty signed by the U.S. in 1972, continued CBW research and development. Then, as the technology of genetic engineering emerged in the mid-1970s, the military moved to harness it for CBW use.

At Fort Detrick, the Segals continue, it was customary to use, in experiments with disease-causing agents, "volunteer" prisoners promised release if they survived. In 1977 "the first test persons were probably infected" with genetically engineered HIV. But since no serious symptoms were noted, even after a year, apart from cases of apparently harmless swollen lymph glands, the newly created pathogen was regarded as ineffective and the "volunteers" were released.

Finally, they say, "Criminals who had engaged in homosexual practices during the long time of their imprisonment obviously concentrated in the nearest big city after their release; it is therefore logical that after the end of the incubation period, i.e., about 1979, the first AIDS cases should have been registered in New York, to begin with, exclusively among homosexual men.... AIDS cases were reported in Europe and Africa three years later [1982].... In many cases the primary infection may be traced back to the USA [via sexual contact with visiting gay or heterosexual men.]"

Analysis of the Theory

Let us examine these premises. The Army's continued CBW activity, in violation of the 1972 treaty, is clearly true. Army use of genetic engineering in CBW work since at least the 1970s is also known.

The use of prisoners as guinea pigs is also borne out by historical data. (See accompanying article on CBW.) As the Segals accurately note, there is a long history of illness among experimental subjects at Fort Detrick, though never a recorded epidemic. However, there is no information as to whether prisoners were actually infected with AIDS there in 1977. Moreover, the description of the movements of released prisoners is questionable. The "nearest big city" to Frederick, Maryland, is either Baltimore or Washington, (each about 45 miles away), not New York City (200 miles away). Since Fort Detrick has historically used prisoners from local institutions, many from Baltimore or Washington, it would bolster

9. For example, AIDS might have spread by the corporate purchase of human blood—a common practice in Haiti and central Africa through the late 1970s—for use in transfusions and vaccines in the West. The blood transmission theory will be explored in the second part of this article, in the next issue.

Also, Ben Dupuy, editor of the New York newspaper Haiti Progres, told the author that most Haitians who left the Congo went directly to the U.S. and Canada, rather than returning home, where repression had worsened by the late 1970s. Dupuy and others have called the African/Haitian origin theory "racist." If anything, they argue, AIDS was more likely spread to Third World countries by traveling westerners, instead of the reverse. In addition, it has been suggested that there is a secret CBW facility at the U.S. base at Môle St. Nicholas, Haiti.

It is true that some racists have used the official theory to blame Africans and Haitians for AIDS. However, several of the alternative theories in this article suggest that valid evidence of an African or Haitian origin of AIDS, implicating western institutions, may yet emerge. See also CBW article in this issue, n. 36, for suggestions of CBW facilities on secret U.S. military bases in Congo/Zaire and Haiti.

the Segals' arguments if AIDS had first appeared in those cities.

The later onset of AIDS in Africa is also questionable. Growing epidemiologic evidence suggests outbreaks of AIDS in 1977-78 in the U.S., Haiti, Brazil, and central Africa. The first cases in the rest of the world apparently came a few years later.

What of the science behind the Segals' theory? They devote seven pages to a specific analysis of the HIV genetic structure. In addition, John Seale, a London specialist in veneral disease, and Robert Strecker, a Los Angeles internist, have each put forward the theory of a genetically-engineered HIV, with slight technical differences, although the two have blamed the Soviet Union for AIDS.[12] (See sidebar.)

These advocates of the artificial HIV theory all note the structural similarities of HIV to visna virus, a pathogen in sheep which causes a serious brain disease with some similarities to AIDS. The Segals say, "There could not have been a coincidental, spontaneous transition from visna to AIDS virus [HIV]." Rather, they argue that the visna virus was artificially combined with the HTLV-I virus, another retrovirus which some scientists say causes human lymphoma, a cancer of the white blood cells.

According to the Segals, HIV is "a system of two components of different origin, artificially joined through genetic engineering."[13] Seale and Strecker agree that visna is one of the components; as the second part of HIV, Seale proposes equine (horse) infectious anemia virus while Strecker suggests bovine (cow) leukemia virus. The two doctors note that the techniques for laboratory growth of such animal viruses in human cells had just been developed in the early 1970s.

These theorists argue that certain traits noted in HIV give support to the idea that it was artificially created. The Segals say HIV's "numerous mutations" demonstrate that it is a recently created combination, "both parts of which have not yet had time to co-ordinate with each other.... It could hardly be assumed that a system with such a marked genetic instability should be the result of a biological evolution."[14] Seale claims that "the modes of transmission of AIDS are highly suggestive of a man-made virus."[15] He explains that the blood-borne spread of AIDS "would be expected" if HIV had resulted from a laboratory combination of viruses in human cell cultures.

However, other authorities disagree strongly. Dr. Richard Tedder, consultant virologist at Middlesex Hospital in England, rejects the theory, saying it is not possible for visna virus to have been changed into an agent that attacks human beings.[16] A more detailed critique comes from Dr. David Dubnau, Chairman of the Microbiology Department at the Public Health Research Institute in New York and research professor of microbiology at the New York University School of Medicine.

Dubnau has been active for years in the movement against U.S. CBW research, and testified in the 1986 suit brought by the Foundation of Economic Trends against the Army's Dugway Proving Grounds in Utah, forcing the preparation of an environmental impact statement. Dubnau studied the analyses of the Segals, Seale, and Strecker, and told the author, "They are simply wrong. They claim that HIV is closely related to visna. It is somewhat related but not closely. There are hundreds of individual differences distributed along the length of the virus. If recombination with another virus had occurred, HIV would have a big section of each parent, but each section would be nearly identical to its parent. That is not the case."

Dubnau also rejects the argument that HIV's mutations show its artificial origin. "Many recombinant molecules are perfectly stable. On the other hand, the reason we keep having new flu epidemics is that the influenza virus mutates in nature." Dubnau also says that "you can't tell from the mode of transmission how a virus originated—that's not evidence of anything."

Finally, it must be pointed out that the entire artificial HIV theory rests on the assumption that in fact HIV is the virus which causes AIDS, a theory which has become increasingly questionable.[17] Still, if the artificial-HIV theory is wrong, that does not rule out a role for CBW-related genetic engineering in AIDS. Given the military's heavy involvement in such hi-tech CBW research, investigations in this area must proceed.

Alternative Theory #2: Dioxin

Dioxin, one of the world's most toxic chemicals, is a component in a formula of herbicides called "Agent Orange." This CBW agent was used by the U.S. military in massive quantities during the Vietnam War to defoliate jungles believed to shelter guerrillas. Similar herbicides have been used domestically and internationally in commercial agriculture. Dioxins are also released when PCB, another herbicide, is burned. There are herbicide factories and waste dumps near several major U.S. cities. Could AIDS be one unrecognized

17. In another article in this issue, Dr. Nathaniel Lehrman persuasively argues against HIV as the cause. However, he also agrees with the Segals, et al., that HIV was engineered. He reconciles the two ideas by speculating that AIDS results from a toxin mixed with genetically engineered HIV to deceive medical investigators. He believes that substance may then have been spread among the affected populations in a U.S. CBW operation. Dr. Lehrman's double-layered hypothesis, accepting both genetic engineering and toxic co-factors, poses logical difficulties.

result of dioxin poisoning? This theory has been proposed by two separate researchers, Dave Bergh, a Minnesota veterans' rights and environmental activist, and Earl Zeta Tex Aldredge, Director of the Hazardous Waste Task Force for Jersey City, New Jersey. Both are Vietnam veterans. Many of these veterans developed severe dioxin poisoning through exposure to sprayed regions of Vietnam. Among the Vietnamese themselves, the toll in illness, deaths, and congenital defects has been horrendous. (See accompanying article on CBW.)

Parallels: Dioxin Poisoning and AIDS

What evidence is there that AIDS patients may be suffering from dioxin poisoning? Dr. Susan Cavin, a political sociologist, Women's Studies lecturer at Rutgers University, and editor of Big Apple Dyke News, a New York lesbian journal, researched this theory and published a series of articles on it in 1983.[18] She suggested that the most likely connection to AIDS is through indirect dioxin exposure.[19]

Dow Chemical, a major dioxin producer, continually claims that the substance's only proven effect is chloracne, a mild skin eruption. But this is only in cases of direct exposure, and only the first symptom. Indirect exposure produces a host of secondary symptoms. Citing studies by Vietnamese Prof. Ton That Tung, the world's foremost expert on dioxin poisoning, Cavin found 23 symptoms of indirect dioxin exposure which parallel those of AIDS.[20] A federal health report noted in 1983 that "epidemiological evidence has suggested that immunotoxic chemicals or factors may act as pre-disposing agents in patients who develop AIDS." Specifically listed was a category of chemicals including dioxin.[21] The immune-suppressive characteristics of dioxin have been documented in laboratory, workplace, and environmental studies.[22]

The second clear similarity between AIDS and dioxin poisoning is the delayed onset of symptoms. AIDS has been estimated to have an incubation period of anywhere from one to seven years. The period for dioxin poisoning also varies substantially depending on dosage, with small exposures taking a long time to manifest symptoms.[23]

A third parallel is the fact that both syndromes are communicable to other people. Although the studies most often cite surface spread of dioxin through clothing and close personal contact, a possible sexual transmission route has also been suggested.[24]

Exposure of Vietnamese people and U.S. troops to aerial spraying is the best known source of dioxin poisoning. But within the U.S., according to the federal Environmental Protection Agency, "the most notable human exposures to 2,3,7,8-TCDD [dioxin] have occurred through accidental releases in chemical factories or by exposure to contaminated materials or areas."[25] Among other exposures cited were agricultural applications of herbicides, ingestion of dioxin-exposed food, and inhalation of burning dioxin wastes. Bergh and Cavin found a strong correlation between U.S. states with many dioxin factories or dumps and high rates of AIDS.[26]

But if this theory were true, why would AIDS in the U.S. strike primarily gay men, IV-drug users, hemophiliacs, transfusion recipients, and the sexual partners of these people? The CDC uses the hepatitis-B model to explain AIDS; that is, both diseases affect very similar groups. According to Cavin, "the Vietnamese dioxin experts are now pursuing the theory that dioxin poisoning follows the Hepatitis-B model of disease." Cavin argues that if the AIDS-dioxin theory is true, "this previous history of Hepatitis-B...may explain why these subgroups get AIDS first."[27]

Testing the Theory

To prove or disprove this theory would require at least two

Indirect exposure may also include sexual contact with a contaminated person. The seriousness of poisoning, and the time for symptoms to manifest, depend on the degree of exposure. Ibid.

20. Among these are: soft tissue sarcomas (cancerous tumors), weight loss, lung disorders, thymus and spleen depletion, liver damage, brain disorders, and personality changes. Perhaps the most important AIDS parallel is the dramatically decreased resistance to infection, accompanied by severe depletion of T-lymphocytes and leukocytes (white blood cells key to immune functioning). According to Prof. Ton, serious dioxin poisoning "shows the clinical table of a true Addison's disease," which is characterized by fungus infections, often found in AIDS patients. Aldredge's Hazardous Waste Task Force adds that several rivers and bays in the New York-New Jersey area are also assumed to be contaminated. New York City and Newark are among the cities with the highest per capita AIDS rates in the U.S. Based on EPA information on dioxin sites and CDC statistics on AIDS, Cavin found that 8 out of 9 states (89 percent) high in suspected or confirmed dioxin dump sites also had high rates of AIDS, while 25 of 26 states (96 percent) with no known sites were very low in AIDS cases. steps. First, relevant epidemiological information would have to be gathered on people with AIDS (PWAs) with possible dioxin exposure.[28] But obtaining comprehensive statistics on such matters will be difficult.[29] Second, tests for dioxin poisoning of a large sample of PWAs would be needed. Given the likely dioxin exposure of many vietnam veterans, tests of such vets who have AIDS would seem a fruitful beginning. Prof. Ton writes, "Only the examination of chromosomes has made it possible to attribute [particular symptoms] to a serious poisoning by defoliants."[30]

But major political obstacles stand in the way of verification.[31] Independent of any questions regarding AIDS, continual efforts by veterans to have systematic studies done of dioxin contamination—which could be done through blood and fat testing—have been frustrated. In particular, the CDC and Veterans' Administration have dragged their feet on such tests and downplayed the possibility that dioxin has serious adverse health effects.[32]

However, in the 1960s the chemical industry was quite willing to run a different kind of dioxin test in total secrecy, exposing prisoners to dioxin to examine its short-term effects. (See accompanying CBW article.) We will never know whether some of those prisoners developed early cases of AIDS. By the time the scandal broke in 1980, none of the subjects could be located.

Questions About the Theory

But questions about the dioxin-AIDS theory abound. Has there in fact been a disproportionate development of AIDS among Vietnam veterans? If so, why have not more veterans' advocacy groups called attention to this? How does the theory explain the dioxin poisoning symptoms apparently not present in AIDS patients—especially cancers other than Kaposi's sarcoma and chromosomal damage (which has already produced birth defects in the next generation)? If the theory is true, why doesn't Vietnam report an inordinately high rate of AIDS? If, as the industrial accident studies show, dioxin poisoning takes one to two years to manifest, why was AIDS not found among veterans in the 1960s and early 1970s (after its first use in Vietnam)? And how would the theory account for the high AIDS rates in Central Africa, Haiti, and Brazil? Is dioxin being used in those countries as an herbicide in agriculture?

Further investigation may yet yield satisfactory answers to these questions. In the meantime, perhaps dioxin poisoning should tentatively be added to the list of co-factors for AIDS. That is, perhaps dioxin contamination weakens one's immune system, so that when later exposed to whatever agent triggers AIDS, one is more likely than others so exposed to develop the disease.

Alternative Theory #3: Maguari and Dengue Viruses

The maguari-dengue theory was developed by Mark E. Whiteside, M.D., and Caroline MacLeod, M.D., M.P.H., co-directors of the Institute of Tropical Medicine in Miami, Florida. They have researched and treated AIDS since 1982, having examined over five hundred PWAs in both Miami and Belle Glade, Florida. The small rural town of Belle Glade has the highest per-capita AIDS rate in the U.S.[33] This poor migrant worker community has a majority Third World population which includes North American Blacks, Jamaicans, Cubans, and many Haitians who arrived as refugees in 1980. The town also has a segregated, white middle-class neighborhood, with no known AIDS cases.

Questions about Heterosexual Spread

In analyzing Florida AIDS cases, Whiteside and MacLeod were struck by the high percentage in the CDC's category of "unknown cause" or "no identifiable risk" (NIR)—PWAs who are neither gay men, IV drug users, hemophiliacs, or blood transfusion recipients. NIR figures range from 22 percent for Florida to 30 percent in Miami to 50 percent in Belle Glade.[34] Since separate CDC figures (4 percent in Belle Glade) account for heterosexual sex with "risk group" members, the CDC can

29. The CDC told Cavin that their standard AIDS questionnaire includes no question about prior military service. And when Cavin queried VA officials, they refused to acknowledge the existence of gay veterans in their hospitals. Similar resistance could be expected—from patients as well—to any acknowledgment of IV drug use history.

(For decades, members and former members of the armed services have been barred from suing the government for injuries sustained in the course of their military service. That law is now undergoing change, as the Supreme Court modifies what is known as the Feres doctrine.) In 1984, the manufacturers settled out of court for $180 million, partly to avoid revealing their medical information. Some veterans are challenging the settlement, charging that it only allows meager compensation per person and denies the airing of the facts.

33. Among Belle Glade's population of 20,000, there have been 75 reported cases of AIDS and 200 of AIDS Related Complex (ARC). Whiteside believes there were 100 more "suspect" cases among those who died without time for full diagnosis. Surveys show 10 percent of the population in poor neighborhoods tests positive for the HIV antibody. The male to female ratio of Belle Glade's AIDS cases is three to one, much closer to that of the Third World than to the rest of the U.S. (Interview with Mark Whiteside.)

only attribute these large numbers of NIR cases to "heterosexual transmission," one step removed from people who have had sex with "risk group" members.

Whiteside and MacLeod emphatically disagree. They challenge government studies showing that "heterosexual transmission" is the major factor spreading AIDS in tropical regions.[35] Such studies, Whiteside argued in a 1986 letter,[36] were "seriously flawed by overwhelming bias, inadequate controls, and lack of prospective data." Noting that 15 to 22 percent of AIDS cases in Africa are among children (only half of whose mothers tested positive),[37] he asked how the sexual

U.S. Reaction to AIDS: Malign Neglect and Social Repression

Of all the western nations, the United States has been the most resistant to implementing needed programs. After the identification of AIDS in 1981 and the rapid recognition of its disproportionate presence in the gay and Third World communities, the Reagan administration moved with criminal slowness, and then only under strong pressure, to institute AIDS programs. This is in stark contrast to the rapid federal research effort after the 1976 Legionnaire's Disease outbreak, which killed 29 members of the nearly all-white, heterosexual, male American Legion. As a gay Boston City Councilor noted, "AIDS among Central Africans, IV drug users, Haitians, or Florida's poor has been easy for our government to ignore because these groups are perceived as politically powerless."[1] Indeed, a federal health official told a delegation of gay elected officials that "AIDS funding must be adjusted to accommodate the Administration's military priorities."[2]

Eighteen months and thousands of lost lives into the epidemic, the first meager federal funding was diverted from existing health programs, including the already underfinanced Indian Health Service. Today, the AIDS budget has increased, but much money goes to high-tech research into a possible vaccine which looks increasingly dubious. Meanwhile, "the testing of new drugs for AIDS proceeds at a snail's pace."[3] Trials on several promising drugs and natural therapies have yet to begin.[4] Widespread public education, a critical priority to prevent the spread of AIDS, has yet to get off the ground. A 1985 congressional study on AIDS education programs criticized the "minimum funding" allocated, adding that "one reason may be that providing advice on preventive practices may be viewed as condoning bisexuality, homosexuality, or intravenous drug abuse."[5] For Black and Latino communities, the federal unwillingness to fund AIDS education has directly contributed to the devastating spread of the disease. Some activists have also denounced the refusal either to distribute free needles to IV drug users or to enlarge grossly underfunded addiction treatment programs.

The AIDS crisis has been exacerbated by what many call "the other epidemic": AIDS hysteria and discrimination. Throughout the western world, government officials and rightwing groups have consciously used public fears of AIDS to advance a dangerously repressive political agenda.

The corporate media have generally been willing allies in this process, which builds on long-established popular revulsion towards gay men (and lesbians too, though they have virtually escaped AIDS), intravenous (IV) drug users, Blacks, Latinos, and Third World immigrants. Thus, those suffering from AIDS are blamed for their disease and support for treatment is undermined. Among the results has been a dramatic rise in violence against gays and lesbians, some of it explicitly in response to AIDS. Both people with AIDS (PWAs) and gay people overall have been fired from jobs, evicted from housing, and denied insurance in increasing numbers; children with AIDS have been excluded from schools. In the early 1980s, when the U.S. Centers for Disease Control (CDC) listed Haitians as an AIDS "risk group" (a thoroughly unjustified step later revoked under community pressure), Haitians in the U.S. experienced vast increases in discrimination and violence which was already a problem for them.

At the same time, manipulated public hysteria over the spread of AIDS has been used to gain support for racist, anti-immigrant, anti-gay, and anti-worker measures, and to accelerate a growing trend towards sexual repression—issues on which the well-financed and well-organized New Right has been developing its forces since the mid-1970s.

The range of repressive consequences of AIDS is led by the increasing mandatory use of the misnamed "AIDS transmission theory could explain this. Furthermore, he maintained, "an untreatable, sexually-transmitted disease (like herpes) does not confine itself to a single poor neighborhood."[38]

Whiteside concluded, "the conviction that AIDS is due to sexual habits ('promiscuity') among poor people in the tropics or in South Florida seems to me a narrow and quite prejudiced attitude."

A Theory of Environmental, Insect-Borne AIDS

Whiteside and MacLeod believe instead that AIDS is a tropic-based, environmental disease, caused by at least two arboviruses (insect-borne viruses) called maguari and dengue, both endemic to tropical regions. According to their theory, the primary means of AIDS transmission is repeated bites by blood-sucking insects—mosquitoes or ticks—carrying the virus from person to person. The secondary means, they maintain, is through blood transmission, via transfusions, needles, and certain forms of sex. Whiteside proposes a correlation between AIDS and long-established tropical diseases:

test"—which is not that at all, but rather a test for antibody to HIV, the alleged cause of AIDS. Putting aside the substantial rate of false readings, a positive result merely shows one has a limited possibility (20-30 percent within five years, by CDC estimates) of later developing AIDS.[6] So-called "confidentiality" rules about test results are often breached, and once the information is in a government file, it is always subject to release in the future if such protective rules are repealed. Positive results are already becoming the basis for discrimination in employment, insurance, and immigration.[7]

The antibody test has become mandatory for U.S. military personnel, foreign service officers, and Job Corps applicants (the latter being primarily poor Third World people). More institutions are imposing this test on their employees. (It is worth noting that this coincides with drug-hysteria-induced mass urine testing for drug traces. Both kinds of tests are similarly aimed at intimidating workers. See Richard Hatch, "Drugs, Politics, and Disinformation," in this issue.) Federal prisons now require the antibody test for new inmates and state institutions using these tests have subjected positive testers to segregation and harassment.[8] The Reagan administration has announced mandatory testing for immigrants applying for permanent resident status.

At all governmental levels, there are proposals to legalize discrimination against PWAs, people who test antibody positive, and even people perceived to be at risk for AIDS. In June 1986 the Justice Department ruled that all these categories of workers may legally be fired by their employers. The ruling was widely condemned by public health organizations and a range of political figures.

Quarantine, a measure totally unjustified and inappropriate for a syndrome like AIDS which cannot be spread through casual contact, has been proposed in several states. No sooner had California voters defeated an AIDS quarantine referendum (in November 1986) initiated by ultra-rightist Lyndon LaRouche, then the California Department of Health began considering a measure that would authorize such a step.[9]

The June 1986 Supreme Court decision in Hardwick v. Bowers, that states may make sex between consenting gay adults a felony, was clearly influenced by rightwing organizing blaming gay people for AIDS. It represented a stark reversal of years of political advances by a well-organized lesbian/gay rights movement. The ruling sparked massive angry protests in gay communities around the country.

In the face of the government's refusal to meet the desperate needs of PWAs, combined with rising discrimination and repression, PWAs and their supporters have become more politically active. Until recently, lesbians and gay men have borne the brunt of the organizing work, both in political action and a vast array of self-help programs. The wide scale of grassroots education programs has dramatically reduced risky sexual practices in the gay community, as studies have shown. Increasingly, Third World people (especially lesbians and gays and health workers) are becoming active in such efforts, often in autonomous programs controlled by their communities.

As the crisis has escalated, and quiet lobbying has failed, these movements have become louder and more confrontational. The Haitian community in New York mounted angry protests early in the epidemic which successfully stopped their false stigmatization as an AIDS "risk group." In recent years, New York City and San Francisco have seen angry demonstrations and civil disobedience in support of gay rights and PWA rights. A newly insistent demand has been the release of drug and natural therapies which have shown promise for AIDS, but have been held up by federal drug regulations. For PWAs, a key lesson of this organizing has been the important of taking control of their lives and making their own decisions. As part of this principle, they have insisted on the term "People with AIDS," or PWAs, since they do not consider themselves to be passive "AIDS victims." •

7 The discriminatory potential is enormous. Studies show HIV antibody rates ranging from 17-67 percent among U.S. gay men, 50-87 percent among IV drug users, and 4-20 percent among people in Haiti and central Africa. (By contrast, the figure is 0.5 to 1 percent for the overall U.S. population.) Peter H. Duesberg, "Retroviruses as Carcinogens and Pathogens: Expectations and Reality," Cancer Research, March 1987, p. 1212.

8 Such testing may be used to identify HIV-positive inmates for possible use as guinea pigs in AIDS research. According to the June 4, 1987 Boston Globe, U.S. government plans for testing an AIDS vaccine include the use of federal prisoners. In addition, Attorney General Edwin Meese has suggested denying parole to inmates who test positive to "protect society."

9. Recalling the World War II internment of thousands of California's Japanese residents, one can understand the potential for racist (and in this case, anti-gay) application of such power. Is it impossible to imagine a rightwing government attempting to quarantine the mostly Puerto Rican South Bronx or the heavily gay Greenwich Village, both New York City neighborhoods, invoking the "health risk" of large numbers of PWAs there?

AIDS corresponds to the insect belt in many parts of the world. Before modern-day AIDS, the region of greatest density of Kaposi's sarcoma (a tumor associated with AIDS) was on the border of Zaire and Uganda. Such tropical tumors as Kaposi's sarcoma and Burkitt's lymphoma were always linked to environmental conditions of climate, rainfall, and altitude.[39] The distribution of these tumors correlated with malaria and the insect-borne virus (arbovirus) infections. Even more recent studies show a correlation of antibodies to HTLV-III/LAV (HIV) and antibodies to malaria.[40]

Whiteside notes that HIV, other retroviruses, and several opportunistic infections common in AIDS have been shown to be transmissible by insects or rodents. Further studies are under way in several countries.[41] He also cites other arboviruses which are known to be transmissible through blood or sexual means.[42]

Clinical experience and home visits by Whiteside and MacLeod in the slums of "Little Haiti" (a Miami neighborhood) and Belle Glade have convinced them that ample opportunities exist for insect transmission of AIDS. They documented such serious public health problems as inadequate housing, overcrowding, open waste, and high mosquito and rat populations. One result of these conditions is a high rate of tuberculosis (TB), which produces mild immune suppression. Whiteside and MacLeod believe TB is sometimes a precursor to AIDS. They noted that among their Haitian AIDS patients, 80 percent had previously been treated for TB. Indeed, cases of TB, which were quite rare, have been skyrocketing in the very same Third World communities—in both tropical and temperate climates—where cases of AIDS are also dramatically on the rise.[43]

The doctors further hypothesize as follows: A person already weakened by TB or other serious infections is then particularly vulnerable to AIDS if repeatedly bitten by insects carrying arboviruses. When two or more arboviruses are present in one's body in sufficient quantity, they can blend and form a new, more virulent virus. In addition, antibodies to one virus can paradoxically increase the growth of another.[44] The result can be severe damage to the immune system. Like in test-tube and animal studies, dormant retroviruses are then "switched on" or activated.[45] HIV is one of those. Opportunistic infections can then invade the body.

Evidence of Arboviruses in PWAs

Attempting to test the theory, Whiteside and MacLeod ran tests for antibodies to over 50 arboviruses in the blood of PWAs in tropical Florida. The results were striking, showing large percentages having antibodies to two arboviruses in particular: dengue and maguari.[46] Dengue causes dengue fever, a painful, flu-like illness with four separate viral varieties. The parallels between AIDS and dengue are quite striking.[47] Maguari has not yet been shown to cause human or animal illness, but is in a family (bunyamwera) which includes viruses with a documented role in African cases of Kaposi's sarcoma before that disease became a manifestation of AIDS. In any event, the presence of these two arboviruses in PWAs seems to suggest that insects may play a role in AIDS, at least in South Florida.

Also the CDC, in a report on Puerto Rican dengue patients, noted "mild or moderate depression in leukocytes (white blood cells) and platelets (red blood cells)." This is also a feature of AIDS. The authors add that "mild or unrecognized cases may be common," and among the list of diseases dengue is confused with is Epstein-Barr virus infection and toxoplasmosis, two conditions sometimes found in PWAs. Whiteside says several AIDS symptoms are also present in DHF, which is known to kill T-lymphocyte cells, a classic sign of AIDS.

Origin and Spread of Dengue

Why would these two arboviruses, presumably carried by insects for thousands of years, wait until this moment in history to combine with such disastrous effects? Whiteside and MacLeod say that only recently have both been present in the same location. Maguari is endemic to the Western Hemisphere. Dengue type 1 (one of the types for which Florida PWAs tested positive) had been limited to Southeast Asia and Africa until 1977, when it appeared in Jamaica, Cuba and Puerto Rico.[48] It later spread to Haiti and other Caribbean islands. According to the Caribbean Epidemiology Center, Cuba's 1977-78 epidemic was not only the first one involving dengue type 1, but the first of any dengue type since 1944.[49] Whiteside and MacLeod call the 1977 appearance of dengue type 1 "an epidemiological marker [sign of disease] for the introduction of AIDS into the Western Hemisphere."[50]

As to dengue type 2 (for which Florida PWAs also showed positive blood tests), there had been periodic Caribbean epidemics over the years, including in Puerto Rico (1977) and the Virgin Islands (1976-77). In 1981, Cuba had an epidemic of dengue type 2—but in the unprecedented hemorrhagic shock form, with internal bleeding and shock—which resulted in 300,000 illnesses and 158 fatalities, including 101 children under 15.[51]

A 1978 article by a U.S. health official, looking ahead, expressed concern that dengue might spread from the Caribbean to North America.[52] Indeed, Whiteside and MacLeod's tests showed that not only dengue virus, but also maguari—never before isolated in the U.S.—had made the international leap. Studying records of 400 gay AIDS patients in South Florida in 1983, the doctors found that from 80 to 90 percent "had either traveled to the Caribbean since 1977 or had sexual contact with Puerto Ricans, Dominicans, Haitians, Jamaicans or Cubans."[53]

Was Biological Warfare Involved?

How might dengue type 1 have been "introduced" into the Western Hemisphere, and maguari into Central Africa (the latter being the two doctors' unproven theory)? Beginning in 1976, Cuba sent troops to Angola at the request of that newly independent government to help defend it against invading South African forces. MacLeod, noting that Jamaica was then providing Cuban troops with a stop-off point, has asserted that the 1977 dengue type 1 epidemic began in the military barracks in Kingston, Jamaica. She believes dengue type 1, endemic in West Africa, was brought back by the Cubans from Angola, and perhaps maguari was left in Angola, from which it spread to other parts of Central Africa. But this theory assumes many AIDS cases in Cuba and Angola, two countries that have reported very few.

There are, however, other possibilities worth considering. Might the 1977 Cuban dengue epidemic have been the result of a U.S. biological warfare operation? Could the Haitian dengue epidemic have occurred following a U.S. biowar experiment? Could dengue and/or maguari have been introduced by the U.S. military into the Congo/Zaire? All are possible given the previous and subsequent history of U.S. CBW testing and use. (See accompanying article on CBW.)

A 1982 CAIB investigation concluded that the 1981 hemorrhagic dengue type 2 epidemic in Cuba was almost certainly the result of U.S. biological warfare.[54] Given other documented CBW operations against Cuba, it seems reasonable to suggest that the 1977 dengue type 2 epidemic was another. The U.S. Army's Biological Warfare Laboratory at Fort Detrick, Maryland, has for years done experiments with insect-borne disease in general and dengue in particular. In the 1950s, the Army carried out "field tests" releasing huge quantities of mosquitoes in Black communities in Georgia and Florida. A 1980 article in the Bulletin of the World Health Organization noted that Ft. Detrick researchers had isolated dengue type 1 virus in the South Pacific in 1974.[55]

Government Response to the Theory

Whatever the origin of dengue and maguari in particular countries, Whiteside and MacLeod have presented evidence that suggests a preventable environmental cause of AIDS. Predictably, neither the CDC nor Florida health officials have welcomed their conclusions. "We have butted heads several times with the CDC," Whiteside told the author. One of the loudest CDC voices attacking their theory has been Dr. Charles Calisher, an arbovirus expert at the CDC's Fort Collins, Colorado laboratory. According to CAIB's 1982 investigation, Calisher successfully sought to visit Cuba in 1975, ostensibly to study dengue fever. The article added: "Calisher predicted at that time that Cuba might face an epidemic within two years because, he said, of their relations with Africa. Then, in 1977, for the first time in 33 years, there was a dengue epidemic in Cuba. When Cuban officials charged that the 1981 epidemic was a clandestine operation of the U.S., Dr. Calisher was one of the U.S. experts who publicly belittled the accusation...." Could Calisher be leading a new disinformation campaign?

Whiteside and MacLeod have also had to resist pressure from the ultra-right Lyndon LaRouche organization to support publicly its repressive AIDS quarantine proposal. (See sidebar, "Lyndon LaRouche and AIDS Theorists.")

Whiteside and MacLeod have charged that "the CDC's concept of 'AIDS risk group' [such as "gay" and "Haitian"] has not helped research, has contributed to discrimination, and has led to public apathy, not treating this as a true medical emergency." Their repeated efforts to persuade CDC and state health officials to investigate possible insect transmission of AIDS have been rebuffed. In addition, the CDC denied their request to run blood tests to confirm or deny their positive arbovirus results.

Recommendations by Whiteside and MacLeod for "emergency mosquito control programs" and education on reducing mosquito exposure in Belle Glade were ignored. Instead, in early 1987, the CDC approved $250,000 for "AIDS education" in Belle Glade, focusing on "safe sex" advice. Whiteside commented, "There's no question you'll still have an epidemic if you don't clean up the slums." Government officials clearly have no intention of changing the conditions that have long served local agricultural interests by providing a pool of cheap Third World labor.

Questions about the Theory

Although many aspects of Whiteside's and MacLeod's theory seem compelling, questions remain. For centuries, people have brought new viruses from continent to continent. Yet never has this resulted in the creation of a new disease. How does the theory explain such a drastic change in evolutionary history? Is there an exact correlation between maguari, dengue, and AIDS in each country? How does the theory account for the minority of PWAs who tested negative for maguari or dengue?

The theory would suggest a high number of AIDS cases in Cuba, due to the 1977 and 1981 dengue epidemics there and the presumable presence of maguari (which was first isolated in nearby Jamaica). Yet the Cuban government reports having very few PWAs. Does the theory suggest the Cuban government is lying? Cuba is noted for having one of the best health care systems in Latin America. It would seem very difficult to hide an epidemic from its own people or the world. Could public sanitation measures have contained the dengue and maguari viruses and prevented the possibility of virus blending that the theory says caused AIDS elsewhere?

Finally, if insect bites are an important mode of AIDS transmission, why are there so few AIDS cases among Caribbean children below the age of sexual maturity?[56]

56. Whiteside concedes that this is "a weak point" of the theory. But, noting that the theory posits repeated bites, perhaps hundreds, he predicts that, over time, the Caribbean's childhood AIDS rate will increase to the high level found in Africa. The African rate, he argues, may be a function of an earlier origin of AIDS there.

Despite these questions, Whiteside and MacLeod's theory unifies much of the evidence about AIDS and offers a credible answer to the vexing "no identified risk" cases. It may also prove compatible with other theories, since its authors do not insist that maguari and dengue are the only viruses involved. For instance, they do not rule out the possibility that African Swine Fever Virus (also an arbovirus) may play a role in AIDS. Even if all such viruses can be excluded as original causes, the evidence seems persuasive that arboviruses—and thus insect transmission—are at least co-factors in the development of AIDS. In any case, these two doctors' research, medical care, and political advocacy have spotlighted the urgent need for environmental improvements in poor Third World communities to stop the spread of disease in general.

The conclusion of Part I in the next issue will cover the remaining AIDS theories: Number 4, African Swine Fever transmitted from pigs to people; and Number 5, multiple factors—no single microbe. Then, in the same issue, Part II will analyze theories of co-factors which make people vulnerable to AIDS, or which help spread the disease. Among those examined will be: street drugs, including heroin and poppers; vaccines; commercially available blood; other diseases, particularly venereal diseases such as syphilis; environmental pollutants; and stress.

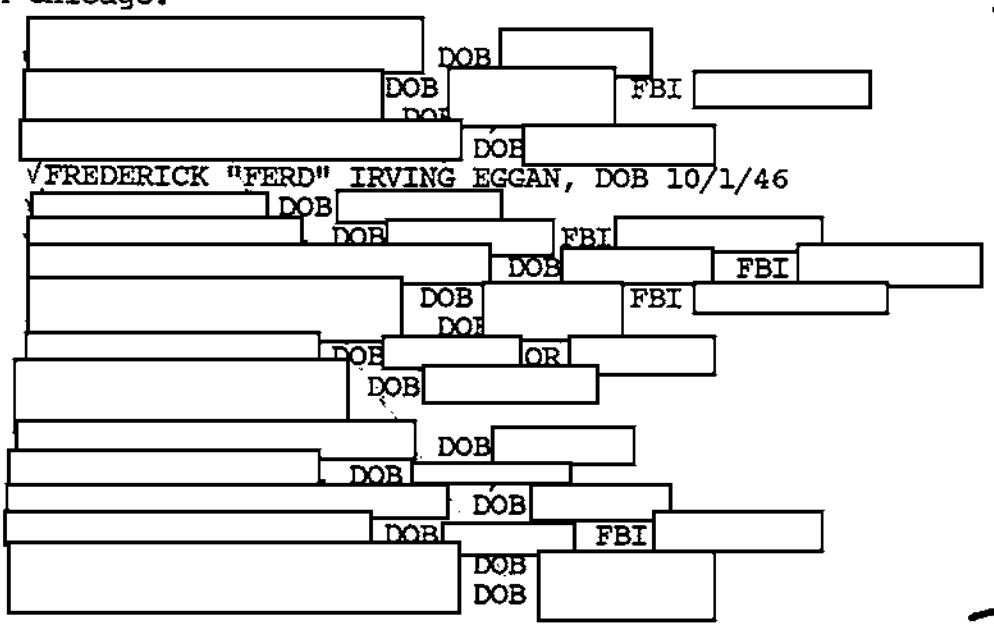
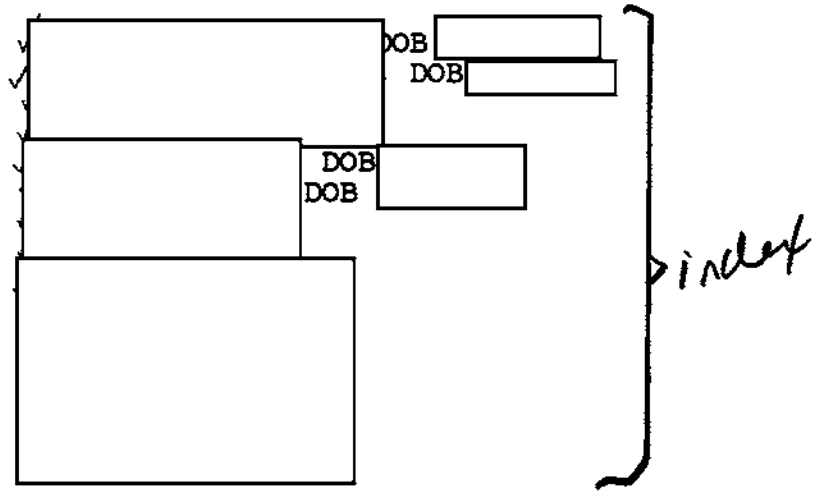
The following is a summation of Chicago's DS/T investigation of captioned matter during the period 11/4/87 to the present:

The following individuals are believed to comprise the M19CO in Chicago:



b6
b7C

Peripheral members/supporters/sympathizers of Chicago M19CO include the following:



Chicago M19CO members continue to be involved with numerous organizations in the Chicago area. This involvement runs the gamut from total organizational control of some organizations to heavy influence and/or strong support of other organizations.

Chicago M19CO appears to be in complete and total control of groups calling themselves the following: the JOHN BROWN ANTI-KLAN COMMITTEE (JBAKC); the FREE PUERTO RICO! COMMITTEE (FPRC) which is also called the FREE PUERTO RICO! SOLIDARITY COMMITTEE which is the new name given to the group which was formerly called the NEW MOVEMENT IN SOLIDARITY WITH PUERTO RICAN INDEPENDENCE AND SOCIALISM (NMS); the PRAIRIE FIRE ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (PFOC); the COMMITTEE TO END THE MARION LOCKDOWN (CEML); the NATIONAL CAMPAIGN TO ABOLISH THE LEXINGTON WOMEN'S CONTROL UNIT (NCALWCU).

The JBAKC continues to utilize P.O. Box 7239, Chicago, Illinois 60680, which was initially opened on 8/24/79. The JBAKC in Chicago uses telephone #312/989-2991 on JBAKC pamphlets and flyers as its Chicago contact number. This telephone number is an answering service.

The FPRC in Chicago utilizes Box 295, 2520 North Lincoln Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60614, which is a private lockbox service. Box 295 was opened on 7/14/79 under the NMS. The FPRC utilizes telephone #312/278-6706, which is subscribed to by [redacted] Chicago, which is the law office of Chicago M19CO member [redacted]

b7C

The PFOC utilizes Box 253, 2520 North Lincoln Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60614. This lockbox was opened on 2/12/81.

The CEML's mailing address is listed as 343 South Dearborn Street, Suite 1607, Chicago, Illinois, telephone 312/663-5046, which is the office number for the PEOPLES LAW OFFICE, a law firm which is consistently used by FALN defendants.

The mailing address for the NCALWCU is listed as Box 295, 2520 North Lincoln, Chicago, Illinois 60614, telephone 312/278-6706 (supra).

During the past six months, the M19CO in Chicago utilizing the organizational names of JBAKC, FPRC/NMS, PFOC, CEML and NCALWCU sponsored numerous lectures, forums, conferences, films and demonstrations. The M19CO in Chicago remains particularly supportive of activities which are sponsored by the MLN. Chicago M19CO members regularly frequent the MLN operated PUERTO RICAN CULTURAL CENTER (PRCC) in Chicago.

In addition to being supportive of the MLN, the M19CO in Chicago is supportive of the philosophy espoused by the REPUBLIC OF NEW AFRIKA/BLACK LIBERATION ARMY/NEW AFRIKAN FREEDOM FIGHTERS. The M19CO in Chicago appears to be supportive of activities promoting the Sandinista Government in Nicaragua, promoting the armed clandestine movement in Puerto Rico, detesting apartheid conditions in South Africa, detesting racism in the U.S., promoting the PROVISIONAL IRA, detesting U.S. policy and actions against Libya, detesting treatment being afforded "political prisoners" in U.S. prisons, promoting activities which are anti-U.S. military and anti-nuclear power and promoting gay rights activities. Chicago M19CO is supportive of the WOMAN TO WOMAN CAMPAIGN, which is an organization which sponsored several pro-Nicaraguan government functions in Chicago, and the PLEDGE OF RESISTANCE (POR) which is an organization concerned with Central American issues, particularly Nicaragua and contra aid.

Chicago M19CO appears to be heavily involved in a Chicago group called the NO PASARAN WOMEN'S AFFINITY GROUP, which describes itself as a women's action group. Chicago M19CO members regularly involved with this group are [redacted] and [redacted]

Chicago M19CO members were regular participants in numerous functions which were held in Chicago during trial proceedings against FALN members [redacted] and others who were arrested on 7/3/86 for engaging in a conspiracy to break out incarcerated FALN leader [redacted] from the Federal Prison at Leavenworth, Kansas. Chicago M19CO member [redacted] was an unindicted co-conspirator in this matter.

[redacted] furnished the following pertinent information regarding the M19CO in Chicago:

[redacted] learned that as of 11/87 Chicago M19CO member [redacted] believed that her residential telephone and her apartment were bugged. [redacted] related that because of this "important conversations" should be held outside her apartment and in public type places.

[redacted] advised that members of NO PASARAN WOMEN'S AFFINITY GROUP spray painted sidewalks in downtown Chicago during the early morning hours of 11/16/87 to express support and solidarity for the POR which was to have a demonstration and rally beginning at 4 PM on 11/16/87 in downtown Chicago. Source learned that the members spray painted the phrases "No contra aid" and "U.S. out of El Salvador" from pre-made stencils on numerous sidewalks in downtown Chicago.

b7D

The NCALWCU held a national meeting at the MLN operated PRCC in Chicago on 3/26/88 to launch an emergency campaign to stop the new 108 unit Marianna Control Unit for Women in Marianna, Florida, from opening as scheduled in 7/88. Attendees from outside Chicago included:

[redacted] of NCALWCU

[redacted] (LNU), from San Francisco, described as a white female, age 35, 5'7", 110 pounds, long reddish blonde curly hair
[redacted] (LNU), a law student from Tallahassee, Florida,
Two white females from a lesbian organization in San Francisco

It was decided at this meeting that the next national meeting of this group will be held in San Francisco on 6/18/88. The NCALWCU will sponsor a trip to Puerto Rico for its members in 7/88. The NCALWCU will sponsor a trip to New York, New York, sometime during 8/15-30/88 for its members to participate in decolonization hearings being held at the UN at this time.

The FPRC held a national meeting at the PRCC in Chicago on 3/27/88. All of the aforementioned individuals at the aforementioned NCALWCU national meeting with the exception of BRIAN (LNU) attended this meeting. Chicago representatives were current members of the steering committee of the Chicago chapter of the NCALWCU who were [redacted] and [redacted]

[redacted] advised that at a POR planning meeting held in Chicago on 3/23/88 concerning a major POR demonstration being held in Chicago on 3/24/88, Chicago M19CO member [redacted] was seeking individuals to assist [redacted] and [redacted] who had formed FPRC affinity group for the 3/24/88 POR demonstration. [redacted] related that these individuals were going to engage in some spray painting during the evening of 3/23/88. During the evening of 3/23/88 the [redacted] Federal Building in downtown Chicago was spray painted with graffiti pertaining to U.S. policy in Honduras. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] advised that the NO PARASAN WOMEN'S AFFINITY GROUP which included M19CO member [redacted] met the morning of 3/24/88 to decide what actions this group would take during the 3/24/88 POR demonstration [redacted]

[redacted] advised on 4/11/88 that Chicago M19CO members [redacted] and [redacted] are part of a group of 30 to 35 individual which does not have a name but has been formed to mobilize around one action. This group will initiate an action in response to the next big escalation by the U.S. Government in Central America (excluding Panama). [redacted]

Copies of this communication are being directed to all offices which have an investigative interest in the M19CO.

Arrested 6/16/81 at Chicago for damge to property. Sentenced one year probation, 240- restitution.

C. FREDERICK IRVING EGGAN, major figure in the CHICAGO MAY 19 COMMUNIST ORGANIZATION, is the established link between the M19CO and the PUERTO RICAN INDEPENDENCE MOVEMENT in Chicago. EGGAN is a self proclamined "full-time member of the PUERTO RICAN INDEPENDENCE MOVEMENT" and is deeply involved in both the every day activity of the MOVIMIENTO DE LIBERACION NACIONAL (MLN) as administrator of the Puerto Rican High School and as such is responsible for the planning of events and functions in conjunction with the MLN, NEW MOVEMENT, and the M19/JBAKC. EGGAN has been a very conspicuous supporter of the MLN, attending nearly all scheduled events.

Like other M19CO members, EGGAN apparently enjoys a joint membership in the JBAKC, PFOC, and the NEW MOVEMENT organizations which support the activities and philosophies promoted by the FALN/MLN, RNA, NAFF, BLA, and CISPES; EGGAN has surfaced at numerous events held by seemingly diverse political causes. EGGAN is also known to attend a number of MLN sponsored functions, albeit not in a leadership role. ON occasions he is the lone M19C) representative, or is one of two, appearing to enjoy defacto membership in the MLN.

EGGAN is known to be a close confidant of Puerto Rican High School [redacted] the acknowledged and recognized head of the MLN in Chicago. On one occasion EGGAN engaged in a conversation with [redacted] concerning the FBI's capture of Top Ten Fugitive [redacted] In it EGGAN questioned how the FBI had located [redacted] and [redacted] responded that they would be finding out from New York shortly.

Finally, EGGAN appears to be a central contact point for other M19CO members, and has through a six month phone billing period received over 400 telephone calls from M19CO members and MLN members. EGGAN has also placed over 135 long distance telephone calls through GTE Sprint Communications access numbers.

although he has no Sprint account. The use of an alternative long distance service for placing telephone calls is now being recognized as a technique currently employed by the NAFF to mask or hide the number called, indicating possible fertive activity.

On December 1, 1984, FREDERICK EGGAN participated in a closed door meeting with several Chicago M19CO members in the library at the Puerto Rican Cultural Center. Those in attendance discussed events surrounding the November 29, 1984 arrest of [redacted] and [redacted] in Cherry Hill, New Jersey. EGGAN responded to a question from the group as to why "everything" (referring to dynamite) was being moved at once, stating that "We had a new location to store everything." When questioned about "the other places" EGGAN said that they were going to stay away because "we don't know if they are bing watched or not. We have to wait to see what happens", and that if anyone hears anything "they sould contact [redacted] or EGGAN." The conversation demonstrated knowledge that explosives were being stored and that there was other locations involved.

On March 8, 1985, EGGAN followed the lead of other M19CO members and attended for the first time a Disarm Now Action Group sponsored demonstration in Downtown Chicago, held at Federal Square. M19CO member [redacted] claiming representation of the New Movement, addressed the group consisting of approximately 100 to 150 demonstrators, and spoke of incarcerated FALN prisoner complaining of the deplorable condition being afforded them at the MCC. She orchestrated the hanging of a poster in the square at the METROPOLITAN CORRECTIONAL CENTER (MCC). Several M19CO members were involved in spray painting pre-made stencils on to the Federal Building, as well as attaching stickers. Apparently, having taken up the cause of the Nicarguans, [redacted] and [redacted] addressed the group regarding the exploitation of women in Central America, and of the U.S. intervention there.

On December 17, 1986, EGGAN participated in a group demonstration at Chicago FBI Office Reception area. This group consisted of approximately 15 individuals who called themselves "The Committee to End Repression". Said group's purpose was to protest the prison conditions and inhuman treatment of political prisoners in the U.S. When asked to leave FBI Office space the group refused, subsequently they were escorted from the area by the Federal Protection EGGAN has travelled to numerous Chicago area demonstrations including demonstrations at the Rock Island, Illinois Arsenal, the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, North Chicago, Illinois and the Glenview Naval Air Station, Glenview, Illinois.

EGGAN's travel to San Juan, Puerto Rico in August, 1986, to attend a "Human Rights Conference" was in support of the 8/30/85, arrested Marchetors members. There he had contact with suspected members of known terrorist groups.

E. EGGAN's only known source of income is from his employment.

F. Photographs are derived from surveillances during June, 1983.

May 19th Communist Organization;
Domestic Security/Terrorism Investigation
Authorized November 4, 1987, extended to May 4, 1988.

Characterization/Background

The May 19th Communist Organization is a Marxist-Leninist group that advocates the overthrow of the United States Government through armed struggle and revolution. Members of the May 19th Communist Organization are linked through evidence to known terrorist organizations such as the New Afrikan Freedom Fighters (NAFF), a clandestine organization comprised primarily of black revolutionaries engaged in terrorist activities, and the Fuerzas Armadas De Liberacion Nacional (FALN), an armed clandestine Puerto Rican terrorist group dedicated to ending the United States control of Puerto Rico. The May 19th Communist Organization evolved directly from the Weatherman Underground Organization (WUO) and the Prairie Fire Organizing Committee (PFOC).

Apparent financial considerations caused the M19CO to move their offices from 326 Livingston Street, Brooklyn, New York to 243 West 98th Street, Apartment 5C, New York, New York 10025, telephone (212) 864-2376 during 1987. This condominium was purchased in the name of [redacted] and is occupied by [redacted] and [redacted] all M19CO members. Most administrative business is conducted at this apartment, with meetings held at alternate locations throughout Greenwich Village, Manhattan. b6 b7C

The M19CO has been forced to reorganize following the recent government prosecutions. While remaining as the umbrella organization, there has been a realignment of committees. [redacted] and [redacted] comprise the Free Puerto Committee (FPRC) leadership, with [redacted] and [redacted] in leadership of the Committee to Fight Repression (CFR). It has been indicated that the FPRC is synonomous with the New Movement in Solidarity.

Over the past decade, members of the M19CO, acting in concert with various members of the FALN and NAFF, have participated in the following acts of criminality:

On May 21, 1976, [redacted] (FALN/MLN member), escaped from the Bellevue Hospital prison unit, East 27th Street, New York, New York. Upon his arrest in Mexico, in May, 1983, [redacted] stated that bolt cutters used by him to effect his escape were smuggled to him by [redacted] New York, New York. [redacted] is a M19CO member and shares [redacted] M19CO members and [redacted] and [redacted] Their office manager is M19CO member [redacted]

On November 2, 1979, convicted murderer, [redacted] was taken from the Correctional Institution for Women, Clinton, New Jersey, in a successful prison break orchestrated by members of the RNA known as the "Family," and supported (through vehicle surveillance and transport) by M19CP members Marilyn Jean Buck, [redacted] and [redacted] b6 b7C

On February 20, 1980, M19CO members Marilyn Jean Buck and [redacted] participated with the "Family" (namely [redacted] and [redacted] in an aborted attempt to rob a Coin Depot Armored truck at Greenburgh, New Jersey.

On October 20, 1981, M19CO members [redacted] Marilyn Jean Buck, [redacted] and [redacted] participated in the robbery of a Brinks Armored truck at Nanuet, New York, in which one guard was killed, and the subsequent shoot-out at Nyack, New York, in which two Nyack police officers were killed and one wounded.

On November 5, 1981, a communique was issued to a New York radio station stating the October 20, 1981 Brinks robbery was a joint effort of black and white combatants who were all members of the Revolutionary Armed Task Force, stating further that robbery was part of their larger plan to "accumulate millions of dollars."

On September 26, 1981, five M19CO members were arrested in an altercation with Port Authority Police at John F. Kennedy International Airport during a protest of the visiting South African Spring Bok rugby team. During this demonstration acid was thrown in the face of a Port Authority police officer, blinding him. Arrested on riot and assault charges were M19CO members [redacted] and [redacted] Four were sentenced to six month to 18 month jail terms on these charges. [redacted] is currently subject of a Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution warrant (UFAP) issued September 14, 1982, by the EDNY.

On February 28, 1982, a series of four bombs exploded in the financial district of New York City, causing damage to the Merrill Lynch building, the Chase Manhattan Plaza, the New York Stock Exchange and the American Stock Exchange. A five page communique was left in a telephone booth on Riverside Drive in Manhattan, stating the FALN was responsible for the bombings. On November 9, 1982, a federal search warrant was issued for the residence of [redacted] New York, New York. Nine items were seized pertaining to the bombings including a cut-and-paste communication identical to the FALN communique, and what was later determined to be an exact carbon of that original communication. Fingerprint analysis revealed positive print identification to M19CO members [redacted] and [redacted] and [redacted] were convicted and jailed for contempt of Grand Jury when they refused to testify before an EDNY Grand Jury investigating the bombings.

On January 23, 1983, a bomb exploded in the ladies room adjacent to the offices of the FBI, Staten Island, New York. Responsibility for this was claimed by the Revolutionary Fighting Group (RFG).

On April 5, 1984, a bomb exploded at the office of Israeli Aircraft Industries, 50 West 23rd Street, New York, New York. Claiming responsibility for this through a written communique was the Red Guerrilla Resistance (RGR).

On September 26, 1984, a bomb exploded at the South African Consulate, 425 Park Avenue, New York, New York. Claiming responsibility for this through a written communique was the Red Guerrilla Resistance (RGR).

On February 23, 1985, a bomb exploded in the ladies room adjacent to the Police Benevolent Association offices, 250 Broadway, New York, New York. Claiming responsibility for this through a written communique was the RGR.

A search of a safehouse located at 5714 The Alameda, Apartment D, Baltimore, Maryland was conducted on May 11, 1985, which was residence for fugitive Marilyn Jean Buck, [redacted] and [redacted] Items obtained during this search included a coded message, deciphered by FBI Lab to read, "Did you hear we bombed the PBA Office in support of the struggle against killer cops?" Also found was a written communication stating, "....We would like to more formally describe our organization, the Red Guerilla Resistance. We are a clandestine communist political/military organization. We are comprised of revolutionaries from the North America oppressor nation. A number of our members were formerly part of May 19, but we have been a totally independent organization for the last two years. During this time we have tried to consolidate a rudimentary political and military infra-structure as well as obtain the skills necessary to survive. We have done a number of armed propaganda actions claimed under the names of the Revolutionary Fighting Group, the Armed Resistance Unit, and, more recently, the RGR."

On September 2, 1984, M19CO members [redacted] and Alan Berkman, armed with handguns, robbed a grocery store in Cromwell, New Jersey, posing as Drug Enforcement Agents trying to serve a search warrant. The "warrant" was left by mistake at the location. Berkman's fingerprints, plus a positive identification of [redacted] tied them both to this robbery.

On November 29, 1984, M19CO members [redacted] and [redacted] were arrested while unloading 14 weapons and 749 pounds of explosives into a storage facility at Cherry Hill, New Jersey. They were sentenced on May 20, 1985, at Newark, New Jersey, to 58 years imprisonment.

On May 11, 1985, Marilyn Jean Buck and [redacted] were arrested at Dobbs Ferry, New York. Buck at the time had been a fugitive. The vehicle they were driving was registered to [redacted], known alias for M19CO member [redacted] Both Buck and [redacted] were armed with handguns when arrested.

In conjunction with the arrest of Buck and [redacted] on May 11, 1985, a search warrant was issued for a safehouse located in Baltimore, Maryland. Among items seized was a New York Telephone identification card of M19CO member [redacted] and written instructions, later determined to be [redacted] handwriting, indicating the use of the telephone truck and location of underground cables to the Holmes Protection Agency, New York, New York, with the words, "If a stick of dynamite is strapped to the cable and lit, the whole central office will blow up putting out most of Manhattan.

Om May 23, 1985, M19CO National Central Committee member [redacted] was arrested with fugitive Alan Berkman at Doylestown, Pa. Both were carrying numerous pieces of false identification and three loaded weapons, including a sawed-off shotgun. After being charged with federal firearms violations, harboring a fugitive and false identity statutes, [redacted] was released to the custody of her sister, and has since jumped bail. A UFAP warrant was issued by EDPA on October 13, 1985.

These incidents are samples of the criminal activity engaged in by members of the M19CO in New York. Although some have been prosecuted and jailed for their actions, there is no indication their goals of revolution through force or violence have changed, nor those of the remainder of the organization. In fact, on October 7, 1987, M19CO member Alan Berkman, being sentenced before United States District Court Judge Charles Haight, SDNY, told the court his political and revolutionary goals have not changed and that he intended to pursue them again upon release.

May 19 Communist Organization Activities Within the Past Six Months

Members of M19CO have closely monitored the SDNY trial of Marilyn Buck and co-defendent [redacted] ("family"). Prominent members, including [redacted] and [redacted] have been observed in the courtroom. Similar diligent coverage has been given the various hearings conducted in Federal District Court in Hartford, Connecticut for incarcerated EPB-Macheteros members (a group advocating Puerto Rican independence). Sixteen members are awaiting trial for the September, 1983 robbery of a Wells Fargo depot at Hartford. Most recently, [redacted] and [redacted] have travelled to Washington, D.C. in anticipation of the Federal Grand Jury indictments pertaining to the eight bombings.

On March 5, 1988, a demonstration was staged on the lawn area opposite the Metropolitan Correctional Center (MCC), 150 Park Row, New York, New York. This demonstration was in honor of National Women's Day and in protest of the Lexington Women's Control Units, Lexington, Kentucky. Sponsored by many groups, including the MLN, the Free Puerto Rico Comittee, and the National Committee to Free Puerto Rican Prisoners of War, the rally was attended by many known M19CO members, including [redacted] and [redacted] At the time of demonstration, Marilyn Jean Buck was housed in the MCC, under trial at the Southern District of New York for NYROB, Major Case Number 37; RICO-TERRORISM; ITSP-MURDER. b6 b7C

On April 12, 1988, Japanese Red Army member [redacted] was arrested by New Jersey State Police with three pipe bombs in his vehicle. A known associate of [redacted] and fellow Japanese Red Army member [redacted] (DOB [redacted] had been arrested at Amsterdam Airport, Holland during 1986 with explosive and blasting caps in his possession. On [redacted] person at the time of arrest was the name of [redacted] (M19CO member), a notation "com fight - repr." and the telephone number [redacted] This number was subscribed to by [redacted] from October, 1986, through January, 1988 at 243 West 98th Street, Apartment 5C, New York, New York.

Further investigation conducted at New York indicated [redacted] had been in attendance at a New Movement meeting during May, 1985, when [redacted] (DOB December 19, 1955) had addressed the group. [redacted] is the leader of Arbeitskreis Antiimperialistische Solioaritaet (Working Group for Anti-Imperialistic Society) based in Duesseldorf, West Germany, and had briefed the group on plans by the Red Army Faction to attack NATO bases in Europe. [redacted] was observed opening a communication addressed to the M19CO from the Red Army Faction/Direct Action. b6 b7C

On February 6, 1988, [redacted] jailed M19CO member and convicted NYROB participant, received a letter at Bedford Hills Correctional Facility, Bedford, New York, postmarked Newark, New Jersey, but with a return address inside of "PLFM, Apartment 237, Antigua, Guatemala." Information contained in this letter indicated "two people" were currently staying at that location in Guatemala, but would be moved to Nicaragua within the next two months. Also mentioned in the letter was M19CO member [redacted]

On January 14, 1988, Movimiento De Liberacion Nacional (MLN) member [redacted] Bronx, New York. In attendance were M19CO members [redacted] and [redacted]

On February 21, 1988, [redacted] and [redacted] were observed attending a fund raising dinner for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP), held at the Grand Prospect Hall, Brooklyn, New York. The dinner is the annual fund raising event for the group.

100A-182933

On April 6, 1988, an interview was conducted with an Undercover Detective (UCD), New York City Police Department Intelligence Unit, assigned to the M19CO. This UCD advised the M19CO has been abandoned by its revolutionary comrades, the FALN and the MAFF, after ideological/ethnical differences. Because of this, the M19CO is striving to find another group or cause through which to re-establish their legitimacy and assert their supremacy over other active communist groups in the United States.

Conclusion

The M19CO has consistently stated that United States imperialism is a major issue to be attacked, and that armed struggle is the only way to achieve its goals. It has opposed United States involvement in Central America and supported Puerto Rican independence. It has used these issues as ideological underpinnings for a hard-core revolutionary movement dedicated to the overthrow of the United States Government. Past participation in criminal activities by some members indicates the groups willingness to use violence to achieve its goals.

There are serious indications that an aspect of the M19CO re-organization and re-affiliation is the alignment with international anti-imperialist/terror groups. Certain dedicated members of the M19CO have demonstrated they will not be intimidated by government prosecutions and will pursue their objectives with disregard for the consequences. Based upon the above, the M19CO remains a criminal enterprise deserving of continued federal interest.

FACT SHEET ON THE LEXINGTON WOMEN'S CONTROL UNIT

In October, 1986, the Federal Bureau of Prisons opened the first special prison-within-a-prison for 16 political women in Lexington, Kentucky. The prison was built as a sensory deprivation unit on the model of Marion prison (for men) in Illinois and the West German political prisons. There are now five women in this unit, including three political women: a Puerto Rican Prisoner of War, Alejandrina Torres, a North American anti-imperialist poltical prisoner, Susan Rosenberg, and Italian national and anti-imperialist, Silvia Baraldini. The purpose of the HSU (High Security Unit) is explicitly political and explicitly designed to isolate and break the women. Conditions there include:

ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED

* Constant video surveillance.

* Erratic, loud noise day and night, making sleep difficult.

* The light switch is on outside the cell.

* One woman with a severe heart condition is being forced to work.

* Most political literature is denied entry.

* Visiting is severely limited.

* Prison officials have told the political women that they are in HSU because of their affiliations with the Puerto Rican independence movement and other revolutionary movements. If they would renounce those associations, they could leave the unit. THEY HAVE REFUSED.

The U.S. government has housed in the HSU women it considers a big threat because they are uncompromising fighters. The government is afraid of the example these women provide.

After a campaign of letter writing, women's protests, church visits, a formal report from the ACLU on the Unit's inhuman conditions, the Bureau of Prisons reported that it would close the Unit. However, they then announced that the women will be moved by June, 1988, to Marianna, Florida, to a new 100 person, high security unit for women, with almost exactly the same conditions as Lexington as stated by the BOP. The guidelines for assignment to Marianna include any women with political associations to groups who have "attempted to disrupt the U.S. government. . . ."

The HSU exists at a time when the U.S. prison system, always racist and discriminatory, is increasingly overcrowded and inhumane. Control Units are a threat to all women in prison who rebel against these conditions. It is also being held over the heads of all of us on the outside who are trying to fight racism and to work for peace and justice. They want to keep protest within acceptable, legal bounds. The women at the HSU are a constant example of resistance. And resist we must!

"Let me assure you that as a Puerto Rican Prisoner of War and as a woman, I will continue to struggle until the day I die against any country that dare to wage terrorism against a people under the guise of 'democracy.' What is most important in my life is that Puerto Rico will be free."

--Alejandrina Torres

"The HSU belies the government's position that there are no political prisoners in the U.S. . .Our movments can, with dignity, demand that we be free and all the control units be closed. . .Venceremos!"

--Susan Rosenberg

Prisoner Charges Poor Conditions Are U.S. 'Psychiatric Experiment'

By B. DRUMMOND AYRES
Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, June 7 — One of seven women held in a special security unit of a Federal prison in Kentucky charged in court here today that conditions were deliberately made inhumane as apart of a "psychiatric experiment" to control prisoners. Several of the prisoners in the unit have been linked by the authorities to terrorist groups.

Department of Justice lawyers denied the prisoner's allegation, and a psychiatrist hired by the Federal Bureau of Prisons to study the unit testified that he had found no evidence to support the charge.

The unit, established 18 months ago at the Federal Correction Institution at Lexington, is the subject of a lawsuit filed in Federal District Court here by some of the prisoners. They were assisted by the American Civil Liberties Union and several prison rights' groups and church organizations.

The suit charges that the Federal Government has violated the constitutional rights of the inmates by isolating them in an underground cellblock where guards harass them; where light, heat and food are inadequate; where personal privacy is almost nonexistent, and where recreational facilities are severely limited.

Prisoners Seek Reassignment

The suit refers to the inmates as "political prisoners" and to the unit as a "political prison" and it demands that the cellblock be closed and that the women be reassigned to the general population of other prisons.

The inmate who made the charge in court, Susan Rosenberg, is serving a 58-year Federal term as a result of a 1985 police raid in New Jersey in which she was found to be possessing large quantities of weapons and explosives. More recently, she was one of seven people indicted in the 1983 bombing of the United States Capitol.

"The conditions at the high security unit have convinced me that what's going on there is a psychiatric experiment on us," Ms. Rosenberg told the court. "My capacity as a human being has been diminished because of the physical and mental effect. The isolation and the control and the dependency have taken away any semblance of self-control of my life and nobody should have that done to them, no matter what they have been convicted of."

Dr. William Logan, the psychiatrist hired by the Bureau of Prisons to study the Lexington unit, said he had found some faults with it and had recommended some changes. But he testified there was "no comparison" between the Lexington prison unit and other prison units were inmates had been deprived of normal prison privileges to an extreme degree.

"Over all, I though the unit was a very clean, neat facility but rather barren," said Dr. Logan, who is on the staff of the Menninger Clinic in Topeka, Kan.

Another inmate in the unit is Sylvia Baraldini, convicted of racketeering and conspiracy in the robbery of $1.6 million from a Brink's armored car in Nyack, N.Y., in which a guard and two police officers were killed. The authorities said the robbery was carried out by members of the Weather underground, a revolutionary group.

Also in the unit is Lynette Fromme, who was sentenced to life after attempting to shoot President Ford.

Neither Ms. Baraldini nor Ms. Fromme was in court today.

Shortcomings Called Corrected

Prison authorities contend they have corrected the shortcomings in the unit that were uncovered by Dr. Logan and that have been the subject of legitimate complaints by prisoners. Those corrections, they say, include the addition of a shower curtain to provide bathers with privacy and the shifting of prisoners from cells with little natural light to cells with windows that open onto a courtyard.

They said there are plans to shut the unit in another month or so and transfer the inmates to a new high-security unit in Marianna, Fla.

In one document submitted as evidence in the trial, J. Michael Quinlan, the director of Federal prisons, says that "security needs," both those of the government and those of the prisoner, are used in determining assignment to the special Lexington unit.

No inmates are assigned "on the basis of political beliefs and/or ideology," he said.

MAKING NEW MUSIC — Rehearsing for their first concert together, Julie Kabat accompanies herself on glass harmonium, an instrument she created from water goblets and a saw, as Steve Gorn plays classical Indian bansuri flute. They are featured in the Traditions of Improvisation series at Union College on Friday.

To Perform at Union on Friday—

Kabat's Unique Sounds Win Listeners

By BILL RICE

Traditionally, musicians as avant-garde as Julie Kabat have trouble wooing friends and influencing people — in their own time, anyway.

Julie Kabat is different.

Her music is about as progressive and unique as music of our time can be, but she wins admirers with every performance — and some of her fans are in high places.

John Hammond, executive producer for CBS Records, called her a "unique artist who appears once in every decade." The distinguished American conductor Edwin McArthur stated, "Her creations as a composer are formidable and her ability as a performer exceptional. She communicates not only with her talent, but with a rare charm as well."

Julie Kabat's next concert will be in Union College's Traditions of Improvisation series on Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Arts Department Recital Hall.

In this concert she will share the spotlight with Steve Gorn, a specialist in Indian music.

The totally uninhibited Kabat makes music with her voice, but she uses it as no one else ever has: making sounds which often defy description and combining them with sounds made by goblets, musical saws and African drums.

She attributes her acceptance to a combination of factors.

"I have to reach out to people who have never heard this kind of music," she says. "It's appealing and fun for me to get people curious about sounds and to set up a warm relationship with an audience."

She describes her own music as "accessible and sometimes playful," but at the same time, says it is "intuitive and emotionally moving."

"I don't shy away from expressing feelings," she adds.

"My songs contain music and theater," she explains, "and I think people are grateful to hear something different."

"You don't have to be a musician to enjoy my work and people can't categorize what I do. I think it sometimes taps sources of creativity in my audience."

Although she has known Steve Gorn for some time, this will be their first concert together. Kabat is excited about it.

"Steve has accompanied storytellers, she explains, "and he is very sensitive to the human voice."

Gorn is a master of the classical Indian bansuri flute and he has studied classical and folk music in Indonesia, Japan and India. "He's a masterful improviser," Kabat says.

"When I heard him play I thought the sound of the glasses would be wonderful with his flute and it is," the Albany resident bubbled. "It's a very exciting sound," she bubbled some more.

Gorn has also performed jazz and the music of both musicians is largely improvisational, in a structured way.

Kabat and Gorn will perform four new pieces together and each will play at least one solo piece.

* * *

Julie Kabat, by the way, is also excited about her first album, which is being released this month.

"Kabat on the Edge" was recorded by Leonardo Records in St. Michael's Church in New York City. "The music is entirely my own," Kabat says proudly.

One side contains pieces for voice, glass harmonica and violin. The violinist is Ben Hudson of New York City.

The album is dedicated to Amnesty International, an organization which brings world attention to mistreatment of people.

For the second side, Kabat created a series of pieces which explore the experience of grieving. The cycle opens with the text of Dylan Thomas' poem, "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night."

Poems from South America are also included and the album title is derived from a piece called "On Edge" for voice, African drums and piano. The pianist is Marilyn Crispell, who was originally scheduled to appear with Kabat at Union rather than Gorn. The African master drummer on the album is Abraham Adzenyah.

"I'd reached a point where I felt my work should be more political," Kabat explained. "I wanted to make a political statement based upon human values, not propaganda."

Copies of the album (LP) $10 are available at the Boulevard Bookstore on Northern Boulevard in Albany or by writing to Concerned Effort, 101 Homestead Ave, Albany, N.Y., 12203. Records can also be obtained from Leonardo Productions, P.O. Box 126, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10101.

(S) In a recent circumstance [redacted] were reviewed by several members of the Domestic Terrorism Task Force (DTTF) in an attempt to identify one specific unidentified subject. This subject was readily identified as [redacted] FBI [redacted] a former leader and founder of the Students for Democratic Society (SDS), the Weather Underground Organization (WUO) and the Prairie Fire Organizing Committee (PFOC). All of these groups abdicate the overthrow of the US government by force or violence and have been the subject of investigation by the FBI for criminal activity conducted in the past.

[redacted] was a WUO fugitive following the investigation of a number of bombings around the US in the 1970's and finally surrendered to law enforcement authorities in the early 1980's to be sentenced to three years probation. [redacted] is still considered to be active with other radical groups espousing the same type of rhetoric with regard to overthrowing the US government, but her movements as well as specific contacts have been pretty much unknown since her release.

For background information, numerous members of the May 19 Communist Organization (M19CO) have, over the years in affiliation with the aforementioned groups as well as the FALN and the John Brown Anti-Klan Committee (JBAKC), traveled to Cuba under the auspices of the Venercemos Brigade (VB). The VB is still active and is headquartered in NYC. Some M19CO members who are known to have participated in VB activity in Cuba are as

HYPOTHESIZED THAT ONE VERY PLAUSIBLE THEORY WAS THAT THE "SEQUEL 6" FUGITIVES HAD RELOCATED TO THE MIDWEST WHICH CAUSED THEIR SURFACE SUPPORT PEOPLE TO RELOCATE TO CHICAGO. CHICAGO DECIDED TO INTENSIFY ITS EFFORTS AND FOCUS ITS ATTENTION ON [redacted] AND [redacted] BY TELETYPE DATED MARCH 14, 1987, CHICAGO SET OUT WHAT IT CONSIDERED TO BE EXCELLENT REASONS TO FOCUS ON [redacted]. BOTH [redacted] AND [redacted] HAD RELOCATED TO CHICAGO FOR UNKNOWN PURPOSES. [redacted] WAS A CONVICTED CLANDESTINE TERRORIST BOMBING CONSPIRATOR WITH LONG TIES TO THE PFOC AND WEATHER UNDERGROUND ORGANIZATION (WUO). BOTH HAD BEEN ASSOCIATES OF ONE OR MORE OF THE "SEQUEL 6". INASMUCH AS NEITHER HAD RECEIVED ANY ACTIVE INVESTIGATIVE ATTENTION SINCE THEIR ARRIVAL IN CHICAGO AND NO EFFORTS HAD BEEN MADE TO INTERVIEW EITHER, IT WAS BELIEVED THAT BOTH WOULD BE "COOL" WITH RESPECT TO [redacted] SURVEILLANCES.

PHYSICAL SURVEILLANCES (FISURS) WERE INITIATED ON [redacted] AND [redacted] ON FEBRUARY 11, 1987, BY CHICAGO TERRORIST TASK FORCE (CTTF) SURVEILLANCE TEAMS. TWO CTTF SURVEILLANCE TEAMS WERE ASSIGNED TO [redacted] FROM 6:00 A.M. TO 2:00 P.M. AND 2:00 P.M. TO 10:00 P.M. DURING THESE FISURS IT WAS DETERMINED THAT [redacted] WAS VERY SURVEILLANCE CONSCIOUS AND HAD ENDEAVORED TO DETECT SURVEILLANCES BY DOUBLING BACK HIS PATH OF TRAVEL AND STOPPING HIS VEHICLE AT CURBS FOR NO APPARENT REASON EXCEPT TO OBSERVE PASSING TRAFFIC. SUSPICIONS THAT [redacted] WAS AWARE THAT HE WAS BEING SURVEILLED WERE CONFIRMED ON MARCH 10, 1987, WHEN HE TOOK A PHOTOGRAPH OF ONE OF THE CTTF SURVEILLANCE AGENTS WHO WAS SURVEILLING HIM AT THE TIME.

ON MARCH 16, 1987, SA [redacted] OF CTTF WAS CONTACTED BY AN INDIVIDUAL WHO IDENTIFIED HIMSELF AS [redacted] CHICAGO, IL, 60605, TELEPHONE [redacted] IN THIS TELEPHONIC CONVERSATION, [redacted] ASKED IF HE WAS SPEAKING TO SA [redacted] HEARD AND WHEN ADVISED IN THE AFFIRMATIVE, [redacted] STATED THAT HE REPRESENTED [redacted] AND [redacted] HAD INDICATED TO HIM THAT HE WAS BEING FOLLOWED BY SOMEONE WHOM HE BELIEVED TO BE THE FBI. [redacted] STATED THAT HE WAS NOT SURE OF THE ALLEGATIONS CONCERNING FBI SURVEILLANCE OF HIS CLIENTS, BUT INDICATED THAT IF THE FBI DESIRED TO SPEAK TO EITHER THEM, THEY SHOULD DO SO THROUGH [redacted] OFFICE. [redacted] INDICATED THAT HE WANTED THE FBI TO BE AWARE THAT [redacted] FELT HE WAS BEING SURVEILLED BY SOMEONE AND THAT

[redacted]

HE WOULD FOLLOW UP THIS CONVERSATION WITH A LETTER TO SAC JAMES D. MC KENZIE OF THE CHICAGO DIVISON.

SA [redacted] NEITHER CONFIRMED NOR DENIED ANY SURVEILLANCE ACTIVITY OF [redacted] AND [redacted] AND ADVISED [redacted] THAT IF HE SO CHOSE TO FOLLOW UP THIS CONVERSATION IN WRITING, THE LETTER SHOULD BE ADDRESSED TO SAC JAMES D. MC KENZIE.

BY LETTER DATED MARCH 18, 1987, [redacted]

THE PROTRACTED PERIODS OF PHYSICAL SURVEILLANCE CONDUCTED ON [redacted] AND [redacted] FROM FEBRUARY THROUGH AUGUST, 1987, WERE ESSENTIALLY NEGATIVE IN TERMS OF OBSERVING [redacted] BEING ENGAGED IN CLANDESTINE ACTIVITIES. [redacted] AND [redacted] WERE FOUND TO BE IN FREQUENT CONTACT WITH FELLOW CHICAGO M19CO/PFOC MEMBERS. THEY ATTENDED NUMEROUS PUBLIC FUNCTIONS HELD IN CHICAGO WHICH WERE SPONSORED AND/OR PROMOTED BY THE M19CO/PFOC OR MLN. THERE WAS SOME QUESTION AT TO WHETHER [redacted] WAS ENGAGED IN SUSPICIOUS ACTIVITY ON WEDNESDAY EVENINGS. HOWEVER, THIS WAS PROVED TO BE UNFOUNDED.

ON AUGUST 20, 1987, [redacted] TELEPHONICALLY CONTACTED JAMES D. MC KENZIE OF THE CHICAGO DIVISION. The following contains certain information of a sensitive nature obtained from a confidential informant of the New York City Police Department-Intelligence Division. Careless dissemination of this information could place this source in extreme jeopardy.

This memorandum is submitted in conjunction with a surveillance request, substantiating the need for an interstate surveillance of M19CO New York leadership [redacted] and [redacted] from August 25, 1988 through September 5, 1988 (Labor Day).

The NYO has learned the above three persons plan a "working vacation" for this ten-day period. They will travel in [redacted] vehicle, 1987 Nissan Sentra, Maine license [redacted] Information to date indicates they plan to retrace their Labor Day 1987 ten-day "vacation", which would ultimately place them in the vicinity of North Conway, New Hampshire.

Significant surveillance support was afforded this trip last year, however [redacted] and [redacted] were extremely surveillance conscious. The group was lost to surveillance at Littleton, NH on 8/28/87, and not located again until 9/4/87 when they were spotted by the NH State Police at a remote guest cabin at Bartlett Intervale (near N. Conway), NH.

Follow-up investigation in this area yielded possible sitings of M19CO fugitive [redacted] and SEQUEL (UCO) fugitive [redacted].

Informant information has continually asserted these travels to be "working vacations", however the exact nature of this "work" has never been determined.

[redacted] is the president of the COMMITTEE TO FIGHT REPRESSION, an M19CO arm increasingly participating in international terror group contacts. [redacted] is the president of the FREE PUERTO RICO COMMITTEE (FPRC), the M19CO support arm of the FALN . [redacted] until 1987, was the Chicago M19CO president, however relocated to New York for the probable purpose of revitalizing revolutionary activies in New York. b6 b7C

AS [redacted] and [redacted] are all past associates of M19CO fugitives [redacted] and [redacted] it is possible contacts or meeting might be attempted while in the remote NH locale. Likewise for PRAIRIE FIRE ORGANIZING COMMITTEE (PFOC)/M19CO associates and fugitives [redacted] (Top Ten), [redacted] (Top Ten), [redacted] and [redacted] (SEQUEL SIX).

Photographic surveillance is requested of subjects, persons with whom they meet and vehicles within the investigative area.

New York will coordinate surveillance with available units from the Boston Division, and utilize state police contacts along the route. Heavy foliage, remotness of those locations selected by targets, and the often deserted country roads travelled may be surveillance hindrances.

Further information will be provided as it becomes available.

(NYO investigation has determined M19CO supporter [redacted] Austin, TX has four mobile home vehicles registered in her name. Surveillance should be alerted in the event these vehicles are spotted. Details provided in request).
