"NDILEBN," A MONTHLY PUBLICATION OF ICOR

From Confidential Informant T-4 it was ascertained that "Neilebn" had stated its objectives as follows:

"To present a Marxist-Leninist analysis of the international minority question in the United States; to educate the membership of the Communist Party and the Jewish masses generally in the fundamental aspects of the national and Jewish questions; to creat a broad Jewish people's front as part of the American people's front, which will fight for Jewish rights and against discrimination and anti-Semiticism; to mobilize the Jewish workers and toilers to recognize their leading position in the Jewish community; to bring into the closest solidarity with the progressive movements and oppressed minorities in the U. S. A.; to build the Communist Party among the Jewish masses, the Party in the vanguard of Socialism which alone can fully and completely solve the problems of all national minorities."

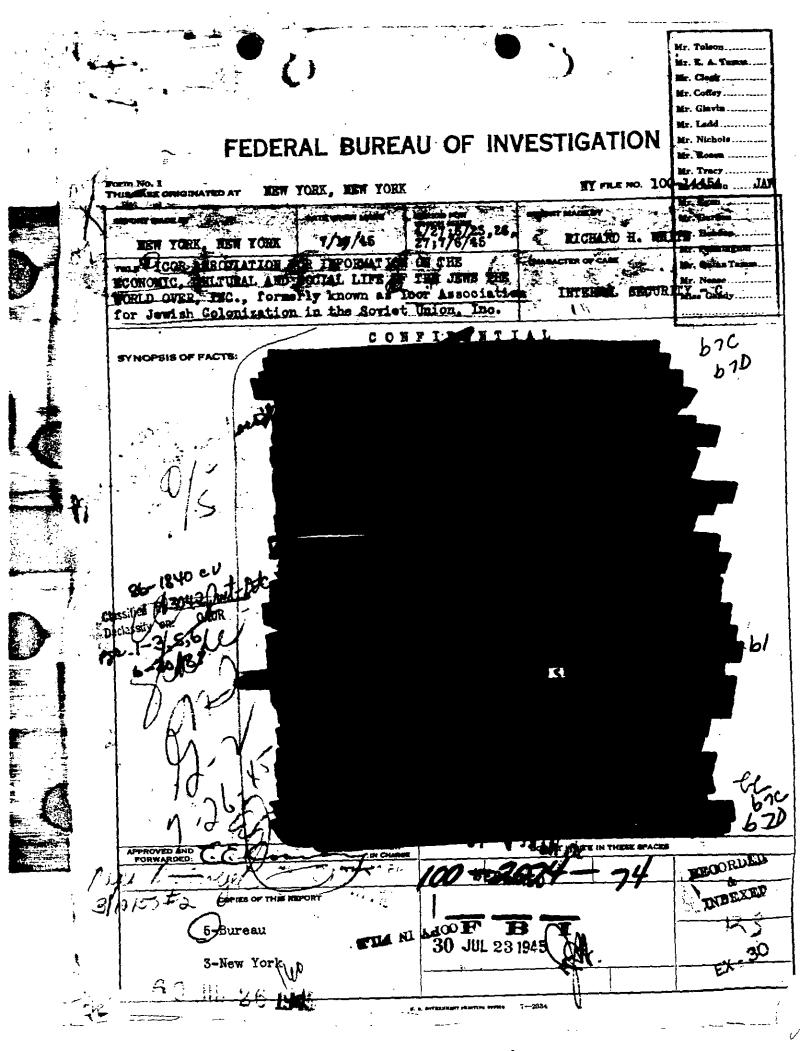

The above statement was published also in the "National Republic Magazine" for September, 1937. The article states that the above statement as received from Informant T-4 was a statement of the objectives of "Neilebn" according to the Communist officials.

In October, 1937, information was received by the Bureau that ICOR had decided to start a campaign among the Jewish population to last from October, 1937, to March 28, 1938. The campaign was for the purpose of obtaining 15,000 new sucscribers for the publication "Neilebn" and for the raising of $25,000.00 to be used for organizational purposes and propaganda.

The issue of April 5, 1945 contains an article concerning the Moscow Exhibits of Prefabricated Houses which was held at the Moscow Architects Club on March 15. The article states that the display was organized by the USSR Society for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries (VOKS) and the Union of Soviet Architects. The article states that the exhibit was arranged by the Architects Committee of the Fational Council of American-soviet Priendship. The Chairman of VOKS and the Chairman of the Architect Section of the Union of Soviet Architects, and Mr. W. AVERELLAGARRIMAN, United States Ambassador to the USSR, were principal speakers.

This issue also carried an announcement that a branch of the Armenian Youth of America has been organized in Chicago during a banquet given by the ARMENIAN PROGRESSIVE LEAGUE on March 18. The Executive Committee consisted of ARA IGNATUS, President, DIANA IGNATUS, Vice-President, communicants in 371 parishes, issued a statement through RALPH MONTGOMENT ARKUSH, attorney for the Council which set forth reasons for its refusal to accept the conditions laid down by the Orthodox Church in Russia, headed by Patriarch ALEXEY for reunion of the two bodies.

The article revealed that the statement rejected the recent ukase issued by Patriarch ALEXEY in Moscow, ordering the reunion of the Russian Orthodox Church in this country and Canada with the Church in Russia, as suggesting "the high-handed methods of an autocratic bureaucracy".

According to the article the Council's statement declared that the Russian Orthodox Church in America was an "American Church and an American Church it must continue to be", and therefore, rejected the demand that the church in America express loyalty to the Soviet Government.

The statement entailed the possibility of diplomatic and legal action by the Soviet Government to compel obedience of the Council to the Moscow patriarchate, involving also a conflict over control of the property held by the Russian Orthodox Church in this country.

The "New York Times" for September 23rd, 1945 carried a wireless dispatch from Moscow, dated September 21st, which stated that after a considerable period of silence about affairs in Turkey, Moscow newspapers published on September 21st a petition from the Armenian National Council of America to the London meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers for the return of the Kars and Ardahan regions to Soviet Armenia. According to the petition, these areas belonged to Soviet Armenia, "in fact, Turkey removed all Armenians from these provinces by systematic murders and deportations, which does not justify Turkey's retaining them".

According to this article the Soviet Armenian Republic contains a little more than 11,000 square miles and they cannot find room for more than 40,000 Armenian refugees. According to the National Council there are 1,500,000 Turkish Armenians all over the world who want to return to Armenian soil under the protection of the Soviet Union.

A pretext telephone call to the subject at his residence 7814 Laycock Avenue, reflected that NEUNSON was still employed in the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Eddystone, Pa, in the capacity of a machinist.

On June 2, 1950 the subject was interviewed by Special Agents FRED C. BIRKBY and JACK WALDMAN relative to NEUNSON's contacts with YAKOVLEV. Information obtained from this interview is herewith set forth as follows: [W]

NEUNSON claimed that he first met YAKOVLEV at the Hotel Savoy in Moscow, Russia, in 1930, at which time this acquaintance was very casual. NEUNSON advised that he believed YAKOVLEV was employed possibly as a Russian army clerk and that he (NEUNSON) was then employed by the Zernotrust of Moscow and was attending an interpreters school in Moscow and that this meeting with YAKOVLEV was purely social.

NEUNSON stated that he next met YAKOVLEV some time in 1936 and again in 1937 in Moscow. NEUNSON advised during those years YAKOVLEV addressed at least two or possibly more semi-annual conferences of technicians who attended the Engineering and Technical Institute in Moscow. He recalled that Yakovlev's addresses dealt with problems of industrial production and were only partly political.

NEUNSON stated that he believed that at that time YAKOVLEV was possibly employed by the GPU and claims that he met YAKOVLEV on at least one occasion in the corridors of the GPU. Building in Moscow in which NEUNSON was visiting in an effort to expedite his passport and visa for a return to the United States. NEUNSON advised that YAKOVLEV never actually told him that he represented the GPU.

NEUNSON stated that he had no official dealings with YAKOVIEV or the GPU and had no knowledge as to YAKOVIEV's duties or scope of authority. NEUNSON further stated that he met YAKOVIEV on several occasions in 1936 and 1937 at social meetings and that YAKOVIEV's friends generally addressed him under the nick name "KOIYA".

ANATOLI ANTONOVICH NEUNSON advised that he did not see or hear of YAKOVLEV again until they met at the Russian Consulate, New York City, in July, 1944. He stated that he called on YAKOVLEV on several occasions at the Consulate during 1946 and YAKOVLEV restricted their conversations to innocuous comments about old times in Russia.

NEUNSON also stated that YAKOVLEV never discussed the scope of his activities with him except to complain about being continually overworked and homesick. He advised that he had never met YAKOVLEV's family either in the United States or Moscow and had no details as to YAKOVLEV's personal or official life.

Rebutel dated 2/4/52.

On 2/8/52, NEUNSON was interviewed at his residence, 7814 Laycock Avenue, by SAs JACK WEST and MAURICE C. CARROLL, at which time he advised no contacts or approaches had been made to him by USSR personnel since 19th when a person who he now recalls as BALANOV or BOLOVNO from the Russian Government at Washington, D. C., came to see him in Philadelphia. (%)

In view of the above and the numerous discrepancies in information previously furnished by the subject, there are no indications that NEUNSON has any double agent potentialities and no further efforts will be expended by the Philadelphia Office to develop NEUNSON. Information obtained from NEUNSON through previous interviews andinstant interview on 2/8/52 have reflected NEUNSON to be obviouslylying about his experiences and Russian contacts and the Bureau's attention is directed to the report of SA MAHLON F. During this interview, NEUNSON advised that BALANOV wanted to see the Navy Yard and Baldwin's and asked questions about the Russians who were working at Baldwin's. According to NEUNSON, BALANOV wanted him to report on the activities of "Russian traitors" in this country, especially at Baldwin's and NEUNSON refused to do this. (*)

Previous information given by NEUNSON was to the effect that at BALANOV's insistence, he drove around the entire area confining the Baldwin Locomotive Works and watched a Russian locomotive being tested. After this, NEUNSON's wife was let out at the main gate and he took BALANOV to the 30th Street Station.

Mrs. NEUNSON was interviewed alone by SAs JACK WEST and M. C. CARROLL on 2/8/52, shortly after the conclusion of the interview with the subject, it being noted Mrs. NEUNSON was not present during the interview with the subject.

Relative to BALANOV's visit, Mrs. NEUNSON stated that she and her husband with BALANOV in the car drove to the main gate of Baldwin's where the subject left the car and reported for work. According to her, she then drove BALANOV eithr to 13th Street or Broad Street in center city, Philadelphia. She stated that BALANOV had arrived around noon as she was in the kitchen preparing dinner and had left around 3:00 P.M. She could furnish no information on the conversation between her husband and BALANOV as this conversation was held in the Russian

Mrs. NEUNSON concluded that "WALTER has a tendency to exaggerate" and "I don't think he knows as much, as you people think he does."

When the subject was interviewed on 6/2/50, he informed that he had met YAKOVLEV at the Hotel Savoy in Moscow in 1930 that YAKOVLEV addressed at least two, or possibly more, semi-annual conferences of technicians who attended the Engineering and Technical Institute in Moscow and that he had met YAKOVIEV in the corridors of the GPU Building at Moscow.

CONTACTS WITH RUSSIAN IV. OFFICIALS IN THE UNITED STATES

On December 2, 1947, NEUNSON advised SAs FRED C. BIRKBY and WILLIAM B. WELTE, JR., that in June 1944 he received a letter from the American Embassy in Moscow stating that his wife, ZOYA, had written to them stating that she was unable to get in contact with him. NEUNSON said that he then wrote to the Soviet Consulate in New York City asking what arrangements he could make to send packages and supplies to his family in He stated that he received a reply stating that he should come to the Soviet Consulate, and that their visiting hours were from 10:00 to 1:00 on Fridays.

NEUNSON stated that a few weeks later, probably in, July 1944, he went to the Soviet Consulate in New York. He said he went on a Saturday, and upon arriving there, the Door Man sent him to some official, whose name he did know. NEUNSON stated that he explained to this official that he was desirous of sending food and clothing to his wife and three children in Russia. The official said he did not know the procedure in doing this, and told NEUNSON he would have to get in touch with one YAKOVLEV, who handled that type of matter. NEUNSON advised that YAKOVLEV was not in at that time, so he returned to Philadelphia and wrote a letter to the Soviet Consulate in New York, directed to YAKOVLEV, requesting an appointment. NEUNSON stated that he received an appointment from YAKOVLEV by a return letter.

In approximately two weeks after his first visit, NEUNSON advised that he returned to the Russian Consulate in New York where he saw YAKOVLEY, NEUNSON later identified YAKOVLEV as ANATOLI ANTONOVICH YAKOVLEV, the individual by whom he was interviewed at the Soviet Consulate in New York.

According to NEUNSON, YAKOVLEV asked NEUNSON where he worked, and upon being informed that NEUNSON was employed by the Baldwin Locomotive Company, he asked him if he knew IVANOV, who was the head of a group of Russian Inspectors stationed at Baldwin Locomotive Works to inspect locomotives being manufactured for the Soviet Union. NEUNSON stated that YAKOVLEV also asked him if he knew anything about the Russian Inspectors, and asked if the locomotives being manufactured at Baldwin Locomotive Works measured up to specifications, and also asked general questions regarding the attitude of Americans toward Russians. NEUNSON said that he told YAKOVLEV that he was merely a laborer at the Baldwin Plant; that his movements were restricted to a small section, and that he was not in a position to know anything about the quality of the locomotives or their schedule of production, and was not in a position where he would have any contact with the Soviet Inspectors. he would have any contact with the Soviet Inspectors. militation and the second of the second of the second

NEUNSON said YAKOVLEV questioned him concerning his nationality and asked him questions about his family in the Soviet Union. He told NEUNSON that the Americans were helping the Russians fight the war, but only because the Russians were paying a lot of money for material being supplied. He stated that the Russians were doing the fighting. YAKOVLEV, according to NEUNSON, said that the Americans wanted the Russians to lose the war.

NEUNSON claimed that YAKOVLEV asked him if he would like to return to Russia, whereupon NEUNSON stated that he replied that he did not since he was an American citizen and was employed at a good salary in this country. NEUNSON said that he then asked YAKOVLEV how to send packages of food and clothing to his family in the Soviet Union, and YAKOVLEV referred him to the U.S. Service and Shipping Corporation, 212 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

NEUNSON said he then left and went over to the U.S. Service and Shipping Corporation, but the office was closed when he arrived, and he then returned to Philadelphia.

NEUNSON stated that he later learned that these packages could be sent through the Pennsylvania Company, Seventh and Girard Avenue branch, Philadelphia, Pa., and he has been utilizing this company for the purpose of sending packages to his family in Russia. (%)

NEUNSON said that when he left YAKOVLEV, YAKOVLEV told him that if anything went wrong at the Baldwin Locomotive Works, NEUNSON was to get in touch with YAKOVLEV and advise him. NEUNSON said that he related to YAKOVLEV that he was nothing but a machine worker and was not in a position to know whether anything that would affect the manufacture of locomotives for the Soviet Union would occur or not. [W]

NEUNSON stated that shortly after this visit with YAKOVLEV, an individual came to NEUNSON's apartment at 823 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, Pa., and announced that he was a friend of YAKOVLEV. NEUNSON stated that from the manner of this individual, he assumed that he was a Secret Police Agent. NEUNSON later identified this individual as BELANOV, (phonetic), and subsequently identified him as PETR PAVOLICH BELIANINOV. NEUNSON stated that at the time of this visit, he and his American wife were both employed on the second shift at the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

NEUNSON related that this individual came right into the apartment as the door was open, and spoke to him in Russian. He said that this man stayed at their house from early morning until late afternoon when he and his wife left for work. He asked NEUNSON if he knew the Russian Inspectors at the Baldwin Locomotive Works, and did he talk to them, and what kind of a continued by saying that he drove to the Baldwin Locomotive Works at Eddystone, Pa., and, at BELIANINOV's insistence, drove around the entire area confining the Baldwin Locomotive Works. He stated that from a point on one of the roads back of the plant it could be seen that a Russian locomotive was being tested. NEUNSON said that BELIANINOV had him park his car, and they watched the testing of this locomotive from a point where the car was parked. NEUNSON said that when he let his wife off at the main gate of the plant, BELIANINOV instructed NEUNSON to tell his wife that she should make no mention of the fact that he had been to see the NEUNSONS.

NEUNSON related that BELIANINOV then instructed him to drive him to Philadelphia, whereupon NEUNSON stated that he took him to the 30th Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad. NEUNSON advised that BELIANINOV told him that he was going to Washington, D. C., and told him that should NEUNSON be in that city, he should get in contact with him. NEUNSON advised that BELIANINOV did not request him to secure any information, but told him that he must stick with the Fatherland and not work for the capitalists. He said that BELIANINOV stated that NEUNSON should consider which side he was on, the American or "our side"

NEUNSON stated that when BELIANINOV was at his apartment, he noticed that NEUNSON was taking a course with the De Forest Radio Institute inasmuch as NEUNSON had the instruction material in plain view at his home. NEUNSON stated that BELIANINOV told him to become well acquainted with radio work and study hard "as you may be useful to us". NEUNSON said he was told by BELIANINOV that should he try to turn against the Russian Government, anything could happen to him. He reminded NEUNSON that he had many relatives in Russia, in addition to his wife and children, and said, "You don't want them to suffer".

According to NEUNSON, the next contact he had with Soviet officials was in approximately November of 1944 when he and his American wife and daughter, TATIANA, who was then about one month old, went to New York City. NEUNSON said that on this occasion, he went to the Soviet Consulate and asked for He said the visit to see YAKOVLEV was only incidental to his trip, and that they went to New York for the purpose of seeing the Russian motion picture, "Hello Moscow".

said that YAKOVLEV was not in, but was expected, so he waited. NEUNSON stated that a short time later YAKOVLEV entered the Consulate and NEUNSON was interviewed by him.

He stated that YAKOVLEV asked him if he had been to the U.S. Service and Shipping Corporation. NEUNSON said he told him he had, but that they were closed, and he had written a letter to them, but had never received an answer. NEUNSON said that YAKOVLEV told him he should have followed this up, and then asked him, "Did anybody visit you?". NEUNSON said he understood YAKOVLEV to mean by this whether BELIANINOV had been to see him. NEUNSON said he told him that a man had been to see him, but he could not recall the name and was not sure that he had even gotten the man's name. He stated YAKOVLEV then told him to forget about the name.

NEUNSON said that he then discussed bringing his Russian wife and family to the United States, and during the discussion, asked YAKOVLEV if he could go to Russia to see his wife. According to NEUNSON, YAKOVLEV told him he could go on a Russian passport. NEUNSON stated that he maintained that he was an American citizen, and did not want to go on a Russian passport as he intended to keep his American citizenship. He said YAKOVLEV told him to get an American passport and turn it in to the Russian Consulate, that they would then get him a Russian passport in its place. NEUNSON said that YAKOVLEV told him that if he desired to go to Russia, he should use his Russian citizenship.

According to NEUNSON, YAKOVLEV told him that he should not think of bringing his family to the United States because as soon as the war was over, there would be widespread poverty and unemployment in the United States, and he would be unable to find work. NEUNSON maintained that he persisted in attempting to obtain some assurance that his family would be allowed to come to the United States, whereupon YAKOVLEV told him that so long as he persisted in this desire, he was only making it difficult for his wife and family in Russia. NEUNSON said that YAKOVLEV told him that it would be better for him to return to Russia and remain there rather than endeavor to bring his family to the United States. (11)

NEUNSON said that YAKOVLEV questioned him closely as to what happened during BELIANINOV's visit to him. He asked such questions as, "Did you do what he asked?", "Was he in your house?", and "Did he go to the Baldwin Plant to see anyone there?". NEUNSON said that he told YAKOVLEV that he had taken BELIANINOV to the area of the Baldwin Plant, but that he was unable to give him the information he desired concerning the Russian Inspectors since he did not have the information, and was not in a position to get it.

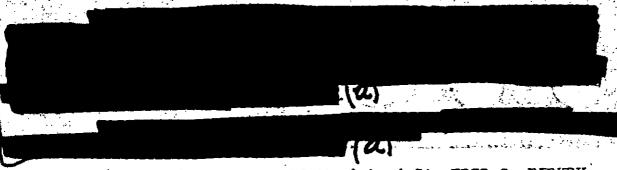

NEUNSON stated that prior to his last contact with the Soviet Consulate during the winter of 1945 and 1946, he received a letter stating that his wife, ZOYA, could get an American visa if she received a Russian passport, but that she was unable to get authority from the Russian Government to come to the United States. He said that he went to the Soviet Consulate in New York in an attempt to see YAKOVLEV and ask him for aid in getting a Russian passport for his wife, ZOYA, and his children.

NEUNSON stated that when he arrived at the Soviet Consulate, he asked for YAKOVLEV, and was told that he was not He said he waited in the outer office for at least 30 minutes, and was then taken by a man on the reception desk to an individual who was standing nearby. He said that he was introduced to this individual as the man from Philadelphia who had a family in Soviet Russia for whom he was attempting to obtain a passport to come to the United States. He said that this individual and another man took him into another room and interviewed him. NEUNSON said that these two individuals were very rough and nasty in their questioning. He said they told him he had no business trying to get his family into the United States, and was told that his continual writing to diplomatic. officials in an attempt to get a passport for his wife and children was only making trouble for them. He said they told him that it was his fault that his family in Russia was not living well. NEUNSON said that apparently the letter he had: from his wife, ZOYA, which contained complaints about her living conditions, angered the Russian officials.

NEUNSON stated that it was difficult for him to recall the names of these two individuals as he had heard the names very rapidly, and could not be positive of the names. However, he later identified these individuals as EUGUENI YAKOVLEVICH MELNIKOV and VSEVOLOD VSEVOLODOVICH KUZNETSOV. He said that on each of these occasions, he furnished MC KEE with information concerning Red Army motor transport that he had been able to obtain during the course of his employment.

SAS WILLIAM B. WELTE, JR., and FRED C. BIRKBY, of the FBI, can testify that NEUNSON advised them of the above information on December 2, 1947. (6) on June 2, 1950, NEUNSON advised SAs FRED C. BIRKBY and JACK WALDMAN, of the FBI, that he first met ANATOLI ANTONOVICH YAKOVLEV at the Hotel Savoy in Moscow, Russia, in 1930. NEUNSON said he next met YAKOVLEV sometime in 1936 and again in 1937 in Moscow. NEUNSON stated that during those lears, YAKOVLEV addressed at least two or more semi-annual conferences of Technicians who attended the Engineering and Technical Institute in Moscow. NEUNSON stated that he believed that at that time YAKOVLEV was possibly employed by the GPU, and claims that he met YAKOVLEV on at least one occasion in the corridors of the GPU Building in Moscow, in which NEUNSON was visiting in an effort to expedite his passport and visa for return to the United States. Report of Special Agent ROBERT K. McQUEEN dated July

Philadelphia teletype to Bureau, Mashington Field and New York dated December 3, 1947.

DETAILS:

WILLIAM B. WELTE, JR., and the reporting agent on November 29, December 2 and 16, 1947. The material hereinafter reported consists of statements made by NEUNSON during these interviews unless otherwise noted. (%)

The interview on November 29, 1947 was conducted at the home of the subject, 7227 Faschall Avenue, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Subsequent interviews were conducted at the Philadelphia Office. On December 2, 1947, NEUNSON brought with him his personal file of correspondence relating to his nationality, history of employment and contacts with both Soviet and U. S. Diplomatic Officials. The bulk of this material was in Russian. This file was photographed and has been submitted to the Bureau for translation.

to them stating that she was unable to get in contact with him. NEUNSON said that he then wrote to the Soviet Consulate in New York asking what arrangements he could make to send packages and supplies to his family in Russia. He received a reply stating that he should come to the Soviet Consulate and that their visiting hours were from 10 to 1 on Fridays. (W)

NEUNSON stated that a few weeks later, probably in July, 1944, he went to the Soviet Consulate in New York. He said he went on a Saturday because that was his only day off. On arriving there, the doorman sent him to some official whose name he did not know. He explained to this official that he was desirous of sending food and clothing to his wife and three children in Russia. The official said he did not know the procedure in doing this and told NEUNSON he would have to get in touch with one YAKOVLEV who handled that type of matter. YAKOVLEV was not in at the time.

NEUNSON returned to Philadelphia and wrote a letter to the Soviet Consulate in New York directed to YAKOVLEV and requesting an appointment. NEUNSON said that YAKOVLEV gave him an appointment by a return letter.

In approximately two weeks after his first visit, NEUNSON returned to the Russian Consulate where he saw YAKOVLEV. At a later interview, photographs were exhibited to NEUNSON and he definitely identified ANATOLI ANTONOVICH YAKOVLEV as the individual by whom he was interviewed at the Soviet Consulate. The statements made by NEUNSON regarding identification of various photographs exhibited to him are set out in a later section of this report.

According to NEUNSON, YAKOVLEV asked NEUNSON where he worked and upon being informed that NEUNSON was employed by the Baldwin Locomotive Company, he asked him if he knew IVANOV who was the head of a group of Russian inspectors stationed at Baldwin Locomotive Works to inspect locomotives being made for the Soviet Union. YAKOVLEV also asked NEUNSON if he knew anything about the Russian inspectors and asked if the locomotives being manufactured at Baldwin Locomotive Works measured up to specifications. He also asked general questions regarding the attitude of Americans toward Russians. NEUNSON said that he told YAKOVLEV that he was merely a laborer at the Baldwin plant; that his movements were restricted to a small section and that he was not in a position to know anything about the quality of the locomotives, their schedule of production and was not in a position where he would have any contact with the Soviet inspectors.

NEUNSON said YAKOVLEV questioned him concerning his nationality and asked him questions about his family in the Soviet Union. He told NEUNSON that the Americans were helping the Russians fight the the war but only because the Russians were paying a lot of money for material being supplied. He stated that the Russians were doing the fighting. YAKOVLEV, according to NEUNSON, said that the Americans wanted the Russians to lose the war.

NEUNSON claims that YAKOVLEV asked him if he would like to return to Russia. NEUNSON said that he said he did not since he was an American citizen and was employed at a good salary in this country. NEUNSON then asked YAKOVLEV concerning the method of sending packages of food and clothing to his family in the Soviet Union and YAKOVLEV referred NEUNSON to the United States Service and Shipping Corporation. NEUNSON furnished the agents with a small piece of paper on which appears the address - United States Service and Shipping Corporation, 212 Fifth Avenue, New York City. NEUNSON says that this is in the handwriting of YAKOVLEV and was given to him by YAKOVLEV the first time he talked to him.

OBUNSON said he then left and went over to the address on this piece of paper. NEUNSON said that the office was closed when he arrived and he then returned to Philadelphia.

Subject claims that he wrote a letter to the United States Service and Shipping Corporation asking about shipping relief packages to mussia but never received a reply. In the meantime he learned that these packages could be sent through the Pennsylvania Company, 7th, and Girard Avenue Branch and he has been doing business with them for this purpose. As far as could be ascertained during the interview, the name of United States Service and Shipping Corporation had no significance to MEUNSON other than a mode of shipping relief packages to the Soviet Union, NEUNSON stated that he had also corresponded with the World Tourist and the Amalgamated Bank in New York City regarding the sending of packages to Russia, and that he had contacted both of these companies as a result of advertisements he had read in the Russian language newspaper "Rusky Slovo". (W.)

NEUNSON said that when he left YAKOVLEV, YAKOVLEV told him that if anything went wrong at the Baldwin Locomotive Works, NEUNSON was to get in touch with YAKOVLEV and advise him. NEUNSON said that he related that he was nothing but a machine worker and was not in a position to know whether anything that would effect the manufacture of locomotives for the Soviet Union would occur or not.

Shortly after this visit with YAKOVLEV, and believed by NEUNSON to be sometime in August of 1944, an individual came to NEUNSON apartment at 823 N. 6th Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and announced that he was a friend of YAKOVLEV. NEUNSON said that from the manner of this individual he assumed that he was a Secret Police agent, NEUNSON was very reluctant to state this individual's name, claiming in the first interview that he was unable to recall the name; however, the second time NEUNSON was interviewed, he gave the name (RELANOV, (phonetic), as the name of this individual. When photographs were exhibited to NEUNSON, he identified this individual as PIR PAVOLVICH BELIANINOV, NEUNSON said that at that time, he and his American wife were both employed on the second shift at the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

NEUNSON said that this individual came right into the apartment as the door was open and spoke to him in Russian. He said that this man stayed at their house from early morning until late afternoon when he and his wife left for work. He asked NEUNSON if he knew the Russian inspectors of the Baldwin Locomotive Works and did he talk to them and what kind of a job they were doing. NEUNSON told BELIANIKOV that he had seen them there but had never had any occasion to talk to them and did not know whether they were doing a good job or not. BELIANINOV then became visibly irritated and asked NEUNSON if he was not interested in the Fatherland. He pointed out to NEUNSON that his family was still in Russia and. NEUNSON said, that he did so in such a manner that the implication was clear that it was intended that NEUNSON should be reminded that his family could be used as hostages to bring pressure upon him. He told NEUNSON that the United States and Russia were merely temporary allies. NEUNSON said that he replied that he was an American citizen and was doing very well in this country. NEUNSON claims that he vigorously informed BELIANINOV that he had no intention of doing any harm to the United States. [20]

BELIANINOV then asked NEUNSON if he had any friends in the South and later specifically asked him if he had any in Tennessee. NEUNSON claims that at that time that meant nothing to him. BELIANINOV, upon seeing that the mention of Tennessee was of no significance to NEUNSON, became irritated and called him a "dope". NEUNSON said that it was not until very recently that he became aware of the fact that an Atomic Energy facility was located at Oak Ridge; Tennessee, and that at the time he failed to understand BELIANINOV's attitude.

According to NEUNSON, he was asked whom the Russian inspectors at the plant associated with. NEUNSON said that he continued to point out his position at the plant and protested that he was not in a NEUNSON claims that when he was told that he should study the radio material as it would be good for his future, he told Belianinov that he had wanted to study radio in Russia but could not get permission to do so. Neunson said that Belianinov told him he had been in the Russian-American Club at 735 Fairmount Avenue and that he knew several people in Philadelphia. Neunson said that Belianinov told him that when he was needed, he would be called. He maintains that he gave no information to Belianinov since he did not have the information concerning Baldwin Locomotive Works and could not have given it even if he had so desired. Neunson claims that he has never had any contact with Belianinov since he left him at the Railroad Station in Philadelphia.

According to NEUNSON, the next contact he had with Soviet officials was in approximately November of 1944, when he, his American wife and daughter, TATIANA, who was then about one month old, went to New York City. NEUNSON said that on this occasion, he went to the Soviet Consulate and asked for YAKOVIEV. He said the visit to YAKOVIEV was only incidental to his trip and that they went to New York for the purpose of seeing the Russian motion picture "Hello Moscow". NEUNSON said that YAKOVIEV was not in but was expected, so he waited. A short time later, YAKOVIEV entered the Consulate and NEUNSON was interviewed by him. [X]

YAKOVLEV asked him if he had been to the United States Service and Shipping Corporation. NEUNSON told him he had but that they were closed and that he had written a letter to them but had never received an answer. YAKOVLEV told him he should have followed this up. YAKOVLEV then asked NEUNSON, Did anybody visit you? NEUNSON said he understood YAKOVLEV to mean by this whether BELIANINOV had been to see him. NEUNSON told him that a man had been to see him but could not recall the name and was not sure that he had even gotten the man's name. YAKOVLEV then told NEUNSON to forget about the name.

According to NEUNSON, YAKOVLEV then asked if the FBI had been around or had bothered him. NEUNSON told YAKOVLEV that he had not been contacted by any representatives of the FBI, YAKOVLEV told him that he would probably be checked on since he had spent some time in Russia.

NEULISON said that he then discussed bringing his Russian wife and family to the United States and during the discussion asked YAKOVLEV if he could go to Russia to see his wife. According to NEULISON, YAKOVLEV told him he could go on a Russian passport. NEUNSON maintained that he was an American citizen and did not want to go on a Russian passport as he intended to keep his American citizenship. YAKOVLEV told him to get an American passport and turn it in to the Russian Consulate and that they would then get him a Russian passport in its place. He told NEUNSON that if he desired to go to Russia, he should use his Russian citizenship.

According to NEUNSON, YAKOVLEV told him that he should not think of bringing his family to the United States because as soon as the war was over there would be widespread poverty and unemployment in this country and he would be unable to find work. NEUNSON maintains that he persisted in attempting to obtain some assurance that his family would be allowed to come to the United States whereupon YAKOVLEV told him that so long as he persisted in this desire, he was only making it difficult for his wife and family in Russia. YAKOVLEV told NEUNSON that it would be better for him to return to Russia and remain there rather than endeavor to bring his family to the United States.

NEUNSON said that YAKOVLEV questioned him closely as to what happened during BEJIANINOV's visit to him. He asked such questions as "Did you do what he asked? Was he in your house? Did he go to the Baldwin plant to see anyone there?" NEUNSON said that he told YAKOVLEV that he had taken BEJIANINOV in the area of the Faldwin plant but that he was unable to give him the information he desired concerning the Russian inspectors since he did not have that information and was not in a position to get it. (21)

During the discussion regarding the possibility of NEUNSON returning to Russia, he asked YAKOVIEV if he could take his automobile. YAKOVIEV said of course he could take his car, he could take anything he wanted. NEUNSON asked if he could take his short wave receiver and his radio material. NEUNSON told him he did not need to take that because there is plenty of that type of material in the Soviet Union now. YAKOVIEV told him he should get a late model car and take it to Russia. (CL)

NEUNSON said that as he was leaving YAKOVIEV accompanied him to the street and looked at NEUNSON's automobile. He told NEUNSON that he had a friend that needed a car and offered to buy NEUNSON's car for w1,000.00. NEUNSON told him that he did not want to sell it but that if he should, he could get $1500.00 for it. YAKOVIEV told NEUNSON that he should sell it to him for w1,000.00 since they did not get much money and could not afford to pay a big price for a car. NEUNSON told him he did not want to sell the automobile and YAKOVIEV told him that should he ever want to sell the car to be sure and let him have the opportunity of buying it ()

NEUNSON claims that he had only one more contact with Soviet officials. It is extremely difficult for him to place the exact date of this contact; however, he believes that this occurred during the winter of 1945 or 1946. NEUNSON, at this point in his story, was obviously less willing to furnish details and exhibited fear of Soviet officials. He stated to the agents that he was afraid to talk too much since he felt that the Soviet authorities could by some means learn what he had said when interviewed by American authorities, (W)

No. UNSON stated that prior to his last contact with the Soviet Consulate during the winter of 1945 and 1946, he received a letter stating that his wife ZOYA could get an American visa if she received a Russian passport but that she was unable to get authority from the Russian government to come to the United States. He said that he went to the Soviet Consulate in New York in an attempt to see YAKOVLEV and ask him for aid in getting a Russian passport for his wife ZCYA and his children. He maintains that he made no previous arrangements to make this trip.

When he arrived at the Soviet Consulate, he asked for YAKOVLEV and was told that he was not in. He waited in the outer office for at least thirty minutes. He was then taken by a man on the reception desk to an individual who was standing nearby. NEUNSON was introduced to this individual as the man from Philadelphia who had a family in Soviet Russia for whom he was attempting to obtain a passport to come to the United States. He then handed the letter referred to above to this individual to read, whereupon this man called another Russian and they took NEUNSON into another room and interviewed him. NEUNSON said that these two individuals were very rough and nasty in their questioning. They told him he had no business trying to get his family to the United States. ne was told that his continual writing around to diplomatic officials in an attempt to get a passport for his wife and children was only making trouble for them. They told him that it was his fault that his family in Russia was not living well. NEULSON said that apparently the letter, which was from his wife ZOYA, and contained complaints about her living conditions, angered the Russian officials

MEUNSON at first insisted that he had not heard the names of these individuals. He then said that he had heard the names very rapidly and could not be positive of these names; however, he said that he believed their names to be KUZNETSOV and either MILENOV or MEUNICOV. He expressed the opinion that MEINICOV was probably the correct name since it was a common Russian name. At this point, he explained that it was difficult for him to remember last names since, through long habit, he followed the Russian custom of referring to persons by their first name and their father's name.

UP

PH FILE #100-1888

NEUNSON said that the interview with MINIKOV and KUZNETSOV lasted approximately three hours. However, he claims that no proposition was made to him to become a Soviet agent or an informant of the Soviet Consulate. He said that most of the interview was taken up with veiled threats that his family would be harmed if he did not cease trying to get them into the United States.

NEUNSON maintains that he has had no contact with Soviet officials in any manner since his interview with MEINIKOV and KUZNETSOV. He stated that all his contacts with Soviet personnel in the United States have been either in person or by letter with the exception of one instance when he contacted the Soviet Consulate by telephone. NEUNSON claims that the occasion of this telephone call was sometime prior to his last visit to the Soviet Consulate. His reason for calling, he claims, was to obtain permission to visit a Finnish ship, the "VIINA", being operated by the Russians which was in the Philadelphia harbor. NEUNSON claims that he attempted to visit this ship and was told by the ship's officers that it would be necessary for him to have authority from the Soviet Consulate to get on board. He claims that his only reason for desiring to visit this ship was to obtain news of conditions in Russia and that his desire to obtain this news stemmed from his concern about his family.

NEUNSON claims that he does not know to whom he talked at the Soviet Consulate. He said that he asked the man who answered the telephone at the Soviet Consulate whether he could obtain permission to visit this ship. He said that he told them his name and told them that he had come here from the Soviet Union and had a family in Russia. He said that the man agreed that should they grant permission to him to visit the ship that he would be notified by telegram. He said that he never received a telegram or any other authorization to visit the ship. NEUNSON maintains that he did not discuss obtaining a passport for his family during this conversation, stating that he knew the Soviet officials would not discuss that type of business on the telephone. [KL]

NEUNSON said that he asked for YAKOVLEV when he made this telephone call since he felt that YAKOVLEV would remember him and would probably give him permission to visit the ship. He said that he was told that YAKOVLEV was not in at the time he called. NEUNSON maintains that this is the only time he communicated with any Soviet officials in the United States other than by letter or in person. (2)

NEUNSON stated that the individuals mentioned as having been contacted by him in the contacts previously set out are the only Soviet officials to whom he has talked or to whom he has written.

J(S)

IDENTIFICATION OF SOVIET CONTACTS

During the interviews with NEUNSON, he was extremely reticent to furnish names of Soviet officials with whom he had had contact. The only person whose name he readily admitted recalling was YAKOVIEV. He had first maintained that he did not

(3)(1)

During the course of the interview on December 2, 1947, NEUNSON stated that as near as he could recall the individual who visited his home in Philadelphia had a name very much like PELANOV and that the two men who interviewed him at the Soviet Consulate at the time of his last visit were, he believed, an individual named KUZNETSOV and another man named either MILENOV or MULNICOV.

At the request of the Philadelphia Office, the Lashington Field and the New York Office furnished a number of photographs of Soviet officials bearing similar names to the three mentioned. On December 16, 1947, these photographs were exhibited to NEUNSCN for identification. All the names appearing on the photographs were covered and the photographs were spread at random on a desk. NEUNSCN immediately identified the photograph of ANATOLI ANTONOVICH YAKOVLEV as the Consulate official he had contacted in New York City on two occasions.

By letter dated January 10, 1948, the New York Office advised that YAKOVLEV originally arrived in the United States in February, 1941, as a clerk in the USSR Consulate, New York City. The New York Office advised that in May of 1946, YAKOVLEV made a trip to Moscow and on his return was made a Vice-Consul. YAKOVLEV apparently had no regularly assigned duties, kept irregular hours and was the only employee of the Consulate who had a personally owned automobile. According to informants of the New York Office, YAKOVLEV appeared to be shown more respect by the associates at the Consulate than his official position warranted. YAKOVLEV left the United States on December 27, 1946, to take up duties at the USSR Embassy in Paris, France.

After considerable hesitation, NEUNSON said that the photograph of PETR PAVOLVICH BELIANIOV looked to him like the man he previously stated had a name similar to BELANOV and who visited him at his home in Philadelphia. This photograph was among those furnished by the Mashington Field

According to NEUNSON, his wife ZOYA, was likewise interviewed in Moscow at the same time and subsequently, before he left for the United States, his wife told him not to send any letters as described above; that she could take care of herself in Russia and he should not enter into any such activity. NEUNSON insisted that he has never sent any letters to Russia describing the activities or attitude of Russian Nationals in the United States.

In previous interviews with NEUNSON, he has generally denied knowing any Russian official by the name of CHOUNDENKO. During the present interview, however, he stated that at the time of his most recent visit to the Russian Consulate in New York City there was a person in the office of the Consulate by the name of CHOUNDENKO, and that while he was not actually introduced to this individual or interviewed by him, he, nevertheless, was aware his name was CHOUNDENKO inasmuch as YAKOVLEV showed some papers to CHOUNDENKO which dealt with him, NEUNSON; that YAKOVLEV made some comments concerning NEUNSON to CHOUNDENKO.

At this time it was pointed out to NEUNSON that he had previously denied knowing that there was an individual by the name of CHOUNDENKO at the Russian Consulate. NEUNSON attempted to explain this by explaining that during previous interviews he had not recalled the name "CHOUNDENKO" and since he never had any direct dealing with CHOUNDENKO, he had not felt that this was important. Upon further questioning, NEUNSON admitted that he had seen CHOUNDENKO on two separate occasions at the Russian Consulate but insisted that at no time had he ever had any direct dealings with CHOUNDENKO and on the first occasion he had seen CHOUNDENKO at the Consulate, he did not know what his name was, that he had not learned the name until the occasion of his last visit to the Consulate, when YAKOVIEV had shown CHOUNDENKO some papers relating to him. NEUNSON stated that on one occasion during the summer of 1941, when he visited the Russian Consulate in New York shortly after his employment at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, he was interviewed by an official of the Consulate, whose name he was never told but who, in his opinion, was a military man, even though he was not wearing a

During a previous interview with NEUNSON, he told interviewing agents that he had furnished information concerning Red Army Motor Transport on more than one occasion to ED://IN.MCKEE. American Vice-Consul in Moscow.

NEUNSON was questioned concerning whether or not his mother had told him she was an American citizen and stated that he was not definitely aware whether she had become a full American citizen or not. He said she had told him she had come to this country in about 1900 and that she had taken some papers out regarding citizenship but that he had never definitely learned whether she had become a full fledged American citizen or not.

A further discrepancy in NEUNSON'S previous interview was pointed out to him in that he claimed when he was interviewed just before leaving Russia for the United States, he was told that he would never be permitted to return to Russia but that he also had stated that during his most recent interview with YAKOVLEV at the Russian Consulate in New York City, YAKOVLEV urged him to return to Russia. NEUNSON attempted to explain this discrepancy by stating that it was obvious to him that the Russian authorities wanted to get hold of his American passport in order that it could be used to bring a Soviet agent into this country. (U)

NEUNSON was questioned as to whether there had been any further contacts with him on the part of YELIANINOV, MELNIKOV or KUZNETSOV and insisted that he had never again been contacted by these individuals. ()

The following description of NEUNSON was obtained by personal observation and interrogation:

NEUNSON'S activities from the time he first went to Russia from the United States were reviewed and he adhered to the basic story previously furnished by him, as set forth in reference reports. Some changes were made, however, by him as concerns the spelling of certain names and some additional information was furnished.

NEUNSON furnished additional information concerning the identity of persons who interviewed him on behalf of the NKVD at Voronezh prior to his departure from Russia to the United States in 1940. This information is set forth hereinafter during his discussion of one contact with Russian Consulate personnel in New York City during 1946.

There was no change in the information furnished previously concerning his original contact with the Russian Consulate in New York City in 1940. He explained that his next contact with the Consulate was in either 1944 or 1945, at which time he had proceeded personally to the Consulate concerning the transmission of packages to Russia. At this time, he was turned over to YAKOVLEV. During the conversation, YAKOVLEV inquired concerning the quality of the work being done by the Russian inspectors at the BALDWIN LOCOMOTIVE WORKS, where NEUNSON was employed. He did not, however, request that NEUN-SON observe or report to any Russian official concerning work done in the future by these inspectors. He advised NEUNSON that at some time in the future, which time was unspecified, a Russian political worker would contact him. At the same time, and in an apparently joking manner, YAKOVLEV chided NEUNSON for not having furnished the Consulate with his Philadelphia address, inasmuch as the latest address they had for him was one in Detroit. His specific comment was, "Do you forget and two or three months later was contacted by an individual whom he now names as BOULANOV; that BOULANOV told him he was from Washington; that he had a brief case which contained a file from which he took a page which he referred to in his conversation with NEUNSON. BOULANOV further said that there was an order that he must see the place where the trials were held for the locomotives being manufactured for the Russian Government; that in addition, there was an order for NEUNSON to take him to that place. He did not elaborate as to who had issued the order During his conversation with NEUNSON at this time, he criticized the nature of the trials given the locomotives in question, and likewise criticized the actions of the Russian inspectors at the BALDWIN LOCO-MOTIVE plant. NEUNSON them proceeded to take BOULANOV to the BALDWIN plant at Eddystone, Pennsylvania, as previously set forth in reference reports. He has advised that he did this in an effort to avoid antagonizing BOULANOV. Upon the return from the BALDWIN plant to Philadelphia, BOULANOV criticized NEUNSON and accused him of not being a "party member" and not having attended Russian clubs and advised that if NEON-SOM had any information at any time concerning anti-Communist feelings on the part of Russians or Poles living in the United States, that he should bring this information to Washington, where he should inquire for BOULANOV at the Russian Embassy. BOULANOV also asked NEUNSON why he did not accept Russian citizenship, to which NEUNSON claims he told BOULANOV that he was an American citizen and considers this country first. BOULANOV then replied that NEUNSON should remember Moscow. NEUNSON states that this to him was an implied threat against relatives and friends in Russia. BOULANOV also mentioned to NEUNSON that he had attempted to reach him before but had been unsuccessful. []

NEUNSON them stated that during the summer of 1946, he had been in New York City and he decided to stop in at the Russian Consulate and see YAKOVLEV on a friendly basis and to advise him of the fact that he had been contacted by BOULANOV. At this time, YAKOVLEV informed NEUNSON that some "guests" had tried to visit NEUNSON, unsuccessfully, on a couple of occasions. YAKOVLEV also gave to NEUNSON at this time a number of copies of Russian articles, including copies of "New Times" and "Moscow News." YAKOVLEV instructed NEUNSON that he was to distribute this literature to his friends in Philadelphia. NEUNSON, however, advised that he never did distribute this literature, and ultimately destroyed it.

NEUNSON advised that there had been no further contact with Russian officials until the spring of 1947. At this time, he again went to New York City and visited the Consulate to inquire of YAKOV-LEV the reasons why his family was not permitted to come to the United States. He said that on this occasion, YAKOVLEV was not available at the Consulate and that he was taken to an individual by the name of KOUZNETZOV, whom he recognized as having been a lieutenant in the NKVD at Voronezh when he had been previously arrested in about 1933. He said that KOUZNETZOV was one of the individuals who had questioned him at Voronezh and had decided on his case concerning the degree of punishment. He further stated that KOUZNETZOV recognized him on the occasion of his visit to the Consulate in 1947 and asked him how he had gotten to this country. KOUZNETZOV advised NEUNSON that the troubles of his family in Russia had been caused directly by his efforts to get them out of Russia, and that he should cease such efforts. KOUZ-NETZOV also advised NEUNSON that he should "hold his tongue" and not speak concerning conditions in Russia and of his arrest, and not to think of returning to the USSR because he knew what would happen. He also told him that NEUNSON was not "too far away for them to reach."

SEGINE

During the interview with KOUZNETZOV, an individual whom NEUNSON identified as either VORONOV or VORONIN, brought some papers to KOUZNETZOV concerning a separate matter. KOUZNETZOV showed this individual the letter which NEUNSON had furnished from the American Consul in Moscow concerning his attempts to have his family brought to the United States. NEUNSON said that he also recognized VORONOV as being a member of the NKVD who had participated in his interrogation at the time of his arrest in Voronezh.

It should be noted that in reference report dated February 13, 1948, NEUNSON has previously stated that the instant interview at the Russian Consulate was conducted by KOUZNETZOV and MELNIKOV, rather than KOUZNETZOV and VORONOV. This discrepancy was pointed out to NEUNSON, who advised at this time that MELNIKOV had not participated in the interview, but that he had merely overheard MELNIKOV'S name mentioned while he was in the reception room of the Consulate awaiting the interview with KOUZNETZOV.

NEUNSON returned to a discussion of matters incident to his departure from the USSR for the United States in 1940, and pointed

In a column written in the Detroit News on Jamery 29, 1945, by PHILLIP ADIER, it was revealed that a conference preliminary to the city-wide clothing drive was held by the Jewish Committee of the Russian War Relief at Webster Hall on instant date. ADIER revealed that the conference was an alleay affair and that more than two hundred delegates representing seventy-four organizations participated in instant conference. He revealed that Sionistis, Assimilationists, Orthodox Rabbis and free thinkers, business man, professional and labor were represented at instant conference. Furthermore, that the conference went on record in the name of Detroit's one hundred thousand Jews. It was decided they would do this in view of all they did to help the drive for the clothing for Russis.

It is to be noted that ANATOL-MAKOVLEV, Secretary fo the Soviet Consulate in New York was a Soviet representative at this conference. He conveyed his government's greeting and gratitude to the work of the Jewish organizations in Detroit in connection with the Russian War Relief activities.

Dr. MORAY stated that in the late 1920's he invented a device to extract electrical energy from the air. He has attempted to interest the United States Government in this invention, as well as many private organizations in this country, without success. Finally JOHN and DANIEL MAGDIEL stated that they would like to see Russia use this new invention in their second Five Year Plan, and in this regard JOHN MAGDIEL contacted the Russian Embassy in this country. In October, 1929, JOHN MAGDIEL contacted Dr. MORAY, stating a Russian scientist was in town to see his invention. JOHN MACRIEL subsequently brought a Russian, whom Dr. MCRAY knew as A. A. ORDERED TO LEAVE AMERICA, UKRAINIAN VISUATOR DECLARES

Moscow, December 22 (AP) .-- Andre Malyshko, who recently returned to Kiev after a threemonths tour of the United States and Canada, charged in an article in Ukrainian Pravda that the United States department of justice forbade his group to appear before a Ukrainian organization in Detroit and "requested that we leave America immediately".

(Anatol Yakovlev, vice-consul of the Soviet consulate-general in New York, said October 10 that 11 U.S.S.R. citizens, including Malyshko, who were among 17 delegates to the third American Slav Congress in New York had been ordered home rather than comply with a justice department order for them to register as agents of a foreign power)

OS

Malyshko, a young poet, further charged that "progressive" Ukrainian newspapers in the United States, as well as the New York Russian-language delly Russki Golos were "terrorized" declaring that editors and contributors to these papers had been arrested and fined.

members of the Army, Havy, and Marines at Cornell University, was listed CORLISS LAMONT, "widely known as probably the leading figure in the movement to sell Russian Communism to the American people". As previously reported, LAMONT is the Chairman of the MCAST.

On October 23, 1943, the first public announcement of speakers for the Congress appeared in the Daily Worker. It was announced that the Secretary of the Interior, HAROLD L. ICKES, would be the principal speaker at the Movember 8 mass meeting. Also mentioned as speakers were the new Soviet ambassador ANDREI A. GROMINO, Senator CLAUD D. PEPPER, and others.

The Daily Worker continued, "Leaders in government, education, labor, science, prominent representatives of nationalities groups, and experts on women and child care will participate in the three day Congress. Among those who will speak are: LOUIS ADAMIC, famous anthor and head of United Committee of South Slavic Americans; Mrs. anthor and head of United Committee of South Slavic Americans; Mrs. ELANOR S., GIMEN, DONALD, DU SHAME; The Mational Education Association; ELLANOR S., GIMEN, DONALD, DU SHAME; The Mational Education Association; DONOTHY THOMPSOH, noted columnist; Mrs. HORMAN de R. WHITEHOUSE, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs; Dr. VLADIMIR I. LEREDENKO, Russian Red Cross representative in the United States; Dr. FRANK B. JEWETT, President of the Mational Academy of Sciences; Dr. V. K. JEWETT, President of the Mational Academy of Sciences; Dr. V.

The Daily Worker on October 26, 1943, announced that LOUIS ADANIO would be chairman of the Panel discussion entitled "Soviet Union A Family of Mations", and stated that papers would be presented by the following speakers:

OUSS "The Mational Policy of the Soviet Union"; Mrs. CATHERIES ouss "The Mational Policy of the Soviet Union"; Mrs. CATHERIES STANGLOV, prominent Lithuanian leader, who will discuss the "Yoice of the Newst Republic"; Dr. S. FRANKLIN/PRAZIER of Harvard University, who will talk on "A Megro Looks at the Soviet Union"; JOSEPH A. SALEREO, president of the Massachusetts State CIO, who will talk on "Italy and the Soviet Union".

Also expected, the article stated, was a talk by a prominent Armenian on "The Family of Mations by a Former Member of the Family", as well as "The Jew and the U.S.S.R.". It is interesting to note that at this late date, the MCASF has apparently been unsuccessful in its attempts to secure a prominent Jew to speak at the Congression.

GIRBS of the Girl Scout Council of Greater New York, who spoke briefly on the contribution of Girl Scouts for the help of children in foreign countries, including Russia.

Following the discussion a resolution was proposed and adopted endorsing the Moscow Pact, the work of the N.C.A.S.F. and called for the establishment of a committee of education by the N.C.A.S.F. to formulate plans for the inter-change of educators with the USSR. The resolution had been typed out and was obviously prepared in advance; also evidencing previous planning was a message of greetings to the teachers of the Soviet Union from the teachers of New York City, proposed by an un-named member of the audience who had been noticed constantly in conference with the girls in attendance.

A youth of high school age then arose and read a message of greetings from the high school students of New York to the high school students of Russia. The education panel dosed with the adoption of another resolution which had been proposed and was patently given previous consideration. This resolution called for the N.C.A.S.F. to arrange a nation-wide committee to examine and review material available and used on the subject of the USSR, which would "vigorously" recommend changes, improvements and enlargements of such material. As the audience left the north ballroom, their attention was called to many books on Soviet topics on sale at the rear of the room, and distributed gratis were copies of the American-Russian Institute's bulletin "Russia At War". The issues circulated were No. 24 of February 5, 1942, which contains an article on "Soviet Schools And Defense Preparedness", and No. 30 of April 30, 1942, which consists of a four page article on "Youth In The Soviet War Effort". Copies of these bullstins are available in the New York file of this case.

Further evidence of the N.C.A.S.F.*s plans to organize a committee of educators were printed cards distributed to the audience which read "I am interested in hearing further about the plans for forming a committee of educators to work for closer relations between the teachers and students of the United States and the Soviet Union". The card contains space for the signer's name and address and organization representative. A copy of this card is also available at the New York Office in the file of this case.

NATIONALITIES PANEL

This panel was held on the following day, Sunday, November 7, 1943, in the grand ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker, beginning at 11:00 A.M.

and continuing until shortly after 1:30 P. M. This panel, attended by approximately 600 people, was chaired by LOUIS ADAMIC, listed on the program as President of the United Committee of South Slavic Americans. Mr. ADAMIC opened the panel on the note that only the United States, the USSE, and India were countries composed of so many different racial groups and that the United States, in a sense, is an experiment in developing and interpreting the expression of so many racial groups. He praised Russia's handling of the question of racial and sex equality, referring to Article No. 123 of the Soviet Constitution which calls for the equality of the rights of citizens of the USSE, irrespective of their nationality or race in all spheres of economic, state, cultural, social and political life. He declared there was no conflict between the United States and Russia since their common objective was the equalization of all opportunities. He then introduced ANATOLY TAKOVLOV as a Soviet engineer and a graduate of the University of Moscow.

TAKOVLOV also referred to the motley array of nations incorporated in the Soviet Union and Russia's masterful handling of racial and national equality. He told how in order to raise its level to that of other nations, Russia had developed her own engineers, artists, writers, etcetera. He explained the opportunities given the natives of the minority Soviet Republics to further their education in universities and colleges of their own without discrimination. TAKOVLOV quoted statistics on the progress of the Republic of Kirghizia as an example. He figuratively unfurled the banner of Russia against the Nazi horrors and called for the equality of all nations and the brotherhood of man.

The next speaker was Professor D. N. KABAKJIAN of the University of Pennsylvania. Professor KABAKJIAN entitled his talk "Comments On The Family Of Nations By An Armenian" and traced his advancement in this country, attributing it to the opportunities available. He said he has been for twenty years a friend of the Soviet Union and that his friendship and love for it was based on its treatment of Armenia. He launched into a justification of Russia's "acceptance" of Armenia into the Soviet Union following her devastation in the First World War and subsequent horror. He assured the audience that Armenia had been invited to join the Soviet Union as a full member and not as a protectorate, and that its prosperity today springs from the help that was given by the USSR. He denied that any attempt had been made to absorb Armenia as a cultural nation and said that she had been allowed to develop her own culture and language. He closed by saying that the United States stood for the equality of allmen and that the USSR stood for the equality of all nations and that they would fight until all nations admitted this.

On June 10, 1945, the MCASF sponsored a public lecture by JOHANNES STEEL entitled "Europe Today." The event was held at the John Hancock Hall at 8 pm and the day was a Sunday evening. This lecture was attended by Informants T12 and T13. The following information was obtained from these informants concerning STEEL's lecture:

The hall was filled to capacity, an estimated 800 people being in attendance. Each paid 78 cents for his ticket. The program was opened by an unidentified individual believed possibly to be HUGH BABB who simply and without embellishment introduced ELIA WINTER. ELIA WINTER described herself as a Moscow correspondent for the "New York Post" and declared that she was exceedingly pleased to introduce so learned a fellow as the featured speaker. Miss WINTER's true name is Mrs. LINCOLNYSTEFFINS, according to "The Red Network," which further describes her as a Soviet propagandist.

Miss WINTER in her complimentary introductory remarks concerning STEEL stated that he was a far-famed journalist and radio commentator who enjoyed the respect of his fellow workers. She further asserted that STEEL had been barred from Radio Station WHDH in Boston, Mass., and that in the question period following the lecture someone in the audience should ask him how the ban was placed upon him. Miss WINTER said that she believed that the "liberal and progressive people of Boston here present" would then take some affirmative action to protect the right of free speech of which Mr. STEEL had been deprived.

Mr. STEEL opened his lecture with the statement that he was biased and prejudiced just as every person was apt to be. He asserted that his bias was caused by a desire for truth. He then launched into a tirade directed against the American press and radio. He asserted that 75 per cent

It will be noted that other leads set out in referenced report, dated August 28, 1946 in the TASS NEWS AGENCY file concerning individual employees of TASS in New York City, are being disregarded inasmuch as they will be covered in separate investigations which have now been started concerning these individuals.

On January 9, 1947, LAN ADOLIAN, suspected NKVD Agent and formerly the principal contact of ANATOLE YAKOVLEV, Vice Consul, Russian Consulate, New York City, while under surveillance by Special Agents R. P. WORTH and R. J. WORTH, contacted the TASS NEWS AGENCY office at Room 501, Associated Press Building, Rockefeller Plaza, New York. ADOMIAN was at the TASS office for about ten minutes and left alone.

RE: AHATOLI ANTOHOVICH AKOVLEV

(b)(7)(d)

This portion of the Comrap investigation was conducted by Special Agent Robert J_{\bullet} Wirth:

The subject was born at Borisoglebsk, U.S.S.R., on May 31, 1911. He was a passenger aboard the S.S. Ecuador, his United States visa having been issued by the American Embassy at Moscow. He was accompanied by his wife and gave his destination as the Russian Consulate, New York City, where he assumed his duties as a Clerk on May 8, 1941. He was a student at the Engineering and Economic Institute, Moscow, from 1936 to 1941. Subject resides at 3 West 108th Street, Apartment 19, 1941. He was a privately owned automobile. This is believed to be of some significance in view of the fact that information has recently been received from a reliable source to the effect that

After NEWISON was identified by the Philadelphia Field Division

After MEUNISON was identified by the Mulladelphia Field Division, it was ascertained that he was born in Pennsylvania on March 19, 1908 of Russian parents and went to Russia in 1926 with his parents. He resided there until 1940 where he secured a machinist's education and was employed by the Russian Government. He reentered the U.S. in 1940 or 1941 and was employed at the Philadelphia Navy Yard for a month. He then secured employment at BALLWINGS LOCOIDTIVE TORKS at Eldystone, Pennsylvania, in 1941 and is still employed there. He has an American wife, EDNA IME EDIONSON TEUNISON who resides with him:

on the ground that the Army was not YUGOSLAVIAN but Pan-Serbian, and anti-Yugoslav. Among other statements ADAMIC declared "the LIKHAILOVICHEVISI are apparently cooperating with the Nazis ----. These are facts, not 'Communist propaganda' by which characterization the propagandists of the YUGOSLAV GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE have tried to dismiss them".

On October 13, 1943, the DAILY WORKER on page two, column seven, in an article - "BETWEEN THE LINES", written by the DAILY WORKER'S FOREIGN DEPARTMENT, reference was made to LOUIS ADAILC and the UNITED COMMITTEE raising the question in its October publication as to whether or not the State Department looks forward to the evolution of MILAN NEDITCH from the Quisiling of Serbia to the Yugoslavia Darlan.

The DAILY WORKER on Uctober 23, 1943, page three, column six, maken mention that LOUIS ADALIC would be one of the speakers at a mass meeting at Madison Square Garden on Monday, November 8, to celebrate the tenth anniversary of AMERICAN-SOVIET relations.

The DAILY WORKER on October 26, 1943, on page three, column six, in an article captioned

"ADMMIC TO HEAD PANEL SUNDAY ON USSR"

advises that leaders of nationality groups in the United States would participate in a panel discussion on the "SOVIET UNION" A FAMILY OF NATIONS" on Sunday, November 7, at 11 AM in the GrandBBallroom of the Hotel New Yorker. It was stated that "LOUIS ADAMIC famous author and head of the UNITED COMMITTEE OF SOUTH SLAVIC-AN ERICANS will be chairman of the panel and will deliver the opening remarks". Among other speakers on the schedule, according to the DAILY WORKER, was ANATOLY YAKOVLAY of the Russian Consulate in New York City

The DAILY WORKER on November 7, 1943, on page three, column five, carried an article captioned - "ADAINC TO SPEAK IN CLEVELAND", which related to the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the AMERICAN SOVIET DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS at a rally scheduled for November 14, 1943, in the Main Hall of the Public Auditorium in Cleveland. It was stated that the meeting would be addressed, among others, by LOUIS ADAMIC.

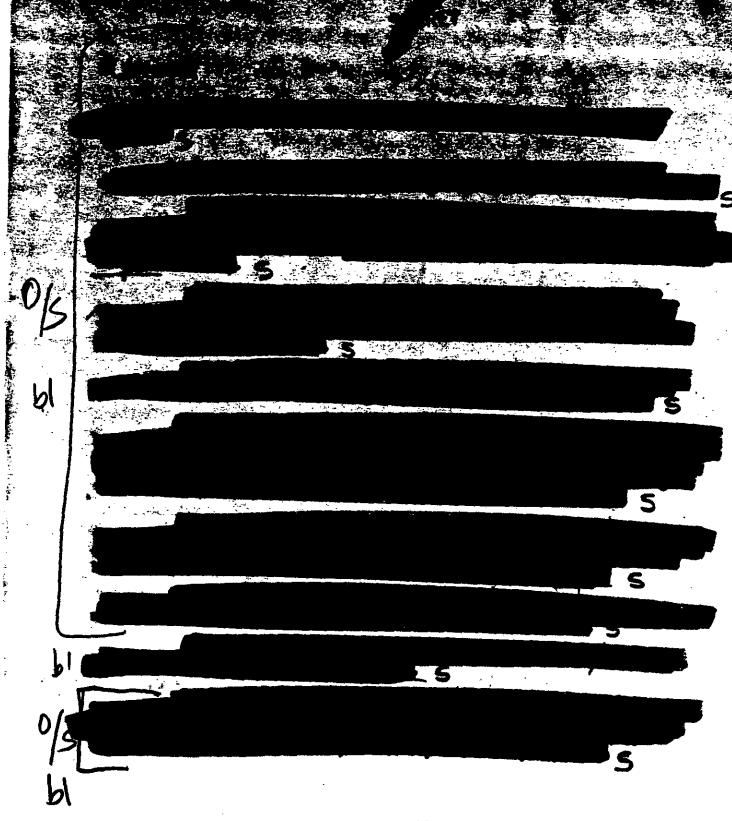

The DAILY WORKER of November 8, 1943, page five, column four, contained a review of LOUIS ADAMIC's book "MY NATIVE LAND" reviewed by LOUIS BUDENZ. BUDENZ in his comments on the book states - "This is, of course, a book written by one who is not a Communist. That is quickly to be noted in various passing phrases to the Soviet Union, to the head-on way in which he scores the British, to his uneasy feeling about Roosevelt. is also to be observed even in the manner in which he makes choice of of the writings of Stalin on the National question, although it must be
