DATE: 10/30/59

FROM : SAC, NEW YORK (65-15773)

SUBJECT: EDWARD JAMES WEINSTEIN, aka.
SECURITY MATTER - C
(OO: NY)

Re NY letter to Bureau, dated 9/10/59, requesting authority to interview subject.

On 10/23/59, JAMES WEINSTEIN was interviewed by SAS DOUGLAS L. BURAU and WILLIAM E.
FOLKNER.

After the Bureau's jurisdiction in matters concerning the internal security of the US was explained to WEINSTEIN, he agreed to discuss his activities, but was adamant in his decision to refuse to discuss the activities of others.

WEINSTEIN was very vague in discussing his activities with regard to dates and places and club names, apparently fearful that he would disclose the identities of his associates.

WEINSTEIN stated he joined the LYL in approximately 1950, "while in New York", and at one time held the position of Organizational Secretary of New York County LYL. He could not or would not recall dates this office was held, or explain the exact dates.

The subject advised he joined the CP in approximately 1953 and attended club meetings on the Lower East Side on practically a monthly basis.
With regard to exact location and business discussed at the meeting WEINSTEIN would not elaborate.
He could not recall any offices held in the CP.

It is to be noted the subject, during the interview, implied that he considered the LYL an integral part of the CP and not a separate organization, even though some others did.

According to WEINSTEIN the overthrow of the US Government by force was not advocated by the CP organization; however, there were some individual members who did. He further stated the CP, USA, Never admitted to dominance by the USSR, but in his opinion in practice it, the CP, USA, was controlled by the USSR.

WEINSTEIN stated he withdrew from CP and LYL activity in approximately 1956. He stated he never took any formal steps in withdrawing, but just became inactive. He gave as the reason, for the withdrawal, "political disagreement. WEINSTEIN stated he considers the CP a defunct organization.

WEINSTEIN was questioned regarding subscription to the "Daily Worker" which he denied. After further questioning he admitted subscribing to "The Worker" as late as 1954. He stated he had not been approached by anyone since that time with regard to renewal; however, he subsequently stated he had received correspondence in this effort.

Throughout the interview, WEINSTEIN continued to state he would not discuss others and he stated if any information concerning his wife (JACLYN CRONICK WEINSTEIN, Bureau file 100-411662; a current Security Index subject of the NYO) was desired, she would have to give the information.

As it was believed the subject had discussed his activities as far as he intended to at that time, the interview was concluded.

The subject was asked if he would consider discussing his activities further on a subsequent date. He stated he might, and "may change his mind about others".

The following description was obtained at the time of the interview:

|-----------------|-----------------|
| Name | JAMES WEINSTEIN |
| Race | White |
| Sex | Male |
| Height | 5'11" |
| Weight | 150 pounds |
| Build | Slender |
| Hair | Brown |
| Characteristics | Wears glasses |
| Complexion | Medium |

Inasmuch as the subject appeared to be cooperative, to a limited extent, he will be recontacted in the immediate future as a continuation of the past interview.

No steps toward directing the subject's activities will be made without prior Bureau approval, if he is cooperative, in compliance with existing instructions.

FROM : SAC, NEW YORK (65-15773)

SUBJECT: EDWARD JAMES WEINSTEIN aka
SM-C
(OO:NY)

ReNYlet to Bureau, 10/30/59.

Subject was reinterviewed on 1/12/60 by SA WILLIAM E. FOLKNER in the vicinity of 97th Street and West End Avenue, NYC.

WEINSTEIN advised SA FOLKNER that he had not changed his mind since the last contact at which time he stated he may change his mind about giving information with regard to others in the CP.

WEINSTEIN stated that his beliefs are the same as previously reported, that is to say that the discussion of other members of the CP would be strictly political and he does not intend to discuss the political affiliations of other individuals at this time.

WEINSTEIN stated that if he receives any information that he considers of value to the FBI in the execution of its duties with regard to the internal security of the US, he would immediately report same to the FBI at the NYO.

During the course of the conversation WEINSTEIN advised that he continued his business of boat rental at his residence and he did not maintain any other employment.

Inasmuch as there are no additional leads in this case it is being placed in a closed status by the NYO.

EDWARD JAMES WEINSTEIN
SECURITY MATTER - C

Rerep of SA [REDACTED] dated 8-30-60.

Our investigation has not uncovered any activity on the part of the subject in the Communist Party (CP) or front groups since 1956. When interviewed in October, 1959, subject admitted former membership in the Labor Youth League from approximately 1950 to 1956, as well as membership in the CP from 1953 to 1956. In view of the foregoing, his Security Index card has been canceled at the Bureau and you should take similar action.

Subject reportedly inherited a great deal of money and in view of this, would be a logical target for solicitation by the CP for funds. You should remain alert for any renewed activity on subject's part, particularly in connection with CP funds.

NOTE ON YELLOW:

Administrative data submitted with rerep recommended continuance in Security Index in view of CP activity in 1956.

Synopsis: SAMUEL SUCKOW, periodic correspondent of subject, identified as New York attorney who is member of Executive Board of National Lawyers Guild and who was reported by HUAC witness to be one of CP leaders on Cornell University campus during period 1951-1953.

-C-

Details: Identification of SAMUEL SUCKOW, periodic correspondent of subject

The Martindale-Hubbell Law Directory, 1960, sets forth the following background concerning SAMUEL SUCKOW:

Born 1929. Admitted to New York Bar 1958. Graduated Cornell University, Ithaca, New York; Fordham Law School, New York City; offices at 20 Vesey Street, New York City.

EMANUEL ROSS RICHARDSON, self-admitted former Communist Party member from April, 1951, to August, 1953, testified before the House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC) Sub-Committee at Ithaca, New York on April 7, 1954 that SAMUEL SUCKOW was one of the Communist Party leaders on the Cornell University campus during the time he, RICHARDSON, was a Communist Party member.

"The New York Guild Lawyer," which is self-admitted as a publication of the National Lawyers Guild (NLG) in its March-April, 1952, edition listed SAMUEL SUCKOW as a new member of the Executive Board of the NLG.

The Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications, issued by the HUAC, revised December 1, 1961, characterized the NLG as follows on page 121:

NATIONAL LAWYERS GUILD

1. Cited as a Communist front
(Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House Report 1311 on the CIO Political Action Committee, March 29, 1944, p. 149).
2. Cited as a Communist front which "is the foremost legal bulwark of the Communist Party, its front organizations, and controlled unions" and which "since its inception has never failed to rally to the legal defense of the Communist Party and individual members thereof, including known espionage agents."
(Committee on Un-American Activities, House Report 3123 on the National Lawyers Guild, September 21, 1950, originally related September 17, 1950).
3. "To defend the cases of Communist lawbreakers, fronts have been devised making special appeals in behalf of civil liberties and reaching out far beyond the confines of the Communist Party itself. Among these organizations are the  National Lawyers Guild. When the Communist Party itself is under fire these offer a bulwark of protection."
(Internal Security Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Handbook for Americans, S.Doc. 117, April 23, 1956, p.91).

The 6-29-64 issue of "The Nation" contains captioned critical review of the book "Race and Radicalism." The review, entitled "A Pacifier for J. Edgar," states that the book, which deals with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and its successful attempts to resist communist infiltration and influences, is inept and dull. He criticizes the author for playing up the NAACP as the hero of the Negro while portraying other groups such as the Communist Party as a villain. Weinstein claims that the author ignores the fact that it was the communists who saved the lives of the Scottsboro boys in the famous Scottsboro case. He also notes that "'Race and Radicalism' reads as if it were commissioned by the NAACP to answer J. Edgar Hoover's discovery that the civil rights movement is absolutely honeycombed with Reds."

JAMES WEINSTEIN:

Weinstein is identified in "The Nation" as an editor of "Studies on the Left." Bufiles reflect a closed Security Matter-C case on him. He has been the subject of a Reserve Index Card (Section B). In 1959, he was interviewed by the FBI and stated he had been a member of the Communist Party from about 1953 to 1956, when he withdrew because of political disagreement. Bufiles also reflect that he is a member of the editorial board of "Studies on the Left," a quarterly publication in New York dedicated to the leftist point of view.

WILSON RECORD:

Bufiles reflect that Record, a Professor of Sociology, Sacramento State College, Sacramento, California, is on the mailing list to receive the Uniform Crime Reports bulletin. In 1951, the Bureau reviewed another book by him "The Negro and the Communist Party" which appeared to be a sound book containing much historical

RACE AND RADICALISM: The NAACP and the Communist Party in Conflict. By Wilson Record. Cornell University Press. 237 pp. $5.95.

James Weinstein

John P. Roche tells us in the preface to this book that it was originally commissioned as a chapter for a larger work on Communist infiltration, but that Professor Record's unexpectedly lengthy manuscript so impressed his editors that they rushed it into print as a book. They rushed in the wrong direction. Even as a chapter, Record's material would probably have been redundant and superficial. How often, in this day and age, do we have to be reminded of "the American CP's subservience to the Soviet Union and . . . the incidental character of its concern with racial matters"? Certainly not on every fifth or sixth page.

Race and Radicalism teaches us nothing about either, although it is brimful of facts concerning the sinister twists and turns of the Communist Party since 1919, and the steady, admirable efforts of the NAACP to improve the lot of the Negro within the context of liberal capitalism while shrewdly avoiding contamination by the "radical" party. The latest volume in the series on Communism in American Life, sponsored by The Fund for the Republic, Record's book is at least consistent with most books in the series published to date. It is heavily descriptive; its point of view is entirely predictable; it fails to examine the social context in which its subjects act; it is filled with unexamined judgments and ideological assertions; it is dull. The only partial exceptions to this composite characterization of the series are Theodore Draper's two books on the early years of American communism, which have the faults listed but are also extremely valuable works of research, both painstaking and accurate; and Clinton Rossiter's delicious spoof: Marxism: The View from America, which is so densely uninformed and so delightfully pompous and trivial as to warrant a category all its own.

Race and Radicalism reads as if it were commissioned by the NAACP to answer J. Edgar Hoover's discovery that the civil rights movement is absolutely honeycombed with Reds. Let anyone still be in doubt, let it be said: the NAACP is not now, and never has been, Red, successfully infiltrated by Reds or sympathetic to Reds (not even to black Reds). Indeed, Record goes so far as to tell us that "the NAACP and the CP have markedly different historical roots. The former was organized in 1909, eight years before the Bolshevik Revolution and a decade before the tortured birth of the CPUSA." Moreover, the NAACP was never "led by people with binding commitments to either a Socialist or a Communist international apparatus." This last truth, however, could only have been told to obscure the fact that among the NAACP's outstanding founders and early leaders were many Socialists: Charles Edward Russell, William English Walling, Mary Ovington White, Florence Kelly, and even W. E. B. Du Bois, who was a party member until 1912. It is true, of course, that after 1916 the NAACP drifted away from Socialist influence and that its early history was unencumbered by contact with Communism, and for this we are all to pat the Association on its head.

Record's simple-mindedness extends beyond his account of the Communists and goes to the core of the political and ideological problems of the Negro movement in the United States. He views the Black Nationalist tendencies of the Garvey movement in the early 1920s and the Black Muslims today entirely in terms of their rivalry with the NAACP and, therefore, as villains. First, Record informs us that the NAACP was handicapped in the early 1920s by "extremist groups operating among both whites and Negroes." On the white side was the Ku Klux Klan, one of whose chief targets "in addition to Catholics, Jews, and 'foreigners,' was Negroes—and the NAACP." (No kidding!) But, "as if this were not enough," the NAACP came under attack from the Garvey movement, too. Then follows a recounting of some facts about Garvey and his movement, without the slightest analysis of why Garvey's appeal to race pride and self-esteem, his rejection of the dominant white culture, and his identification of American Negroes with the anti-colonial movement in Africa, had an immeasurably greater appeal to the Negro masses the 1920s than did the NAACP. To top this off, Record displays his sense of historical continuity by concluding that "Garvey's present-day counterpart, Elijah Muhammad (Poole), of the Black Muslims . . . presents the same kind of challenge, and is willing to make the same kind of alliances, in this case with George Rockwell and the American Nazis."

History, like life, is almost endlessly complex. In order to make sense of it the historian, like the social critic, must select his facts, identify trends and find order by evaluating the relative importance of his data. To clarify and make coherent the events of the past, however, requires an appreciation of its complexity. A historian can easily conclude that the NAACP better answered the needs of the Negro people in the United States than did the Communist Party in the years from 1919 to 1964. But to present everything the Communists did simply as a cynical maneuver to capture unwitting support for the Soviet Union, and everything the NAACP did as the best possible under the circumstances, is to make a caricature of history and to obscure its relevance to the present.

An example is Record's treatment of the roles of the NAACP and the CP in the Scottsboro case. In this instance, as in all others, our hero (the NAACP) is out to save the nine defendants in an orderly and respectable manner. On the other hand, the villain (the CP) is out to make propaganda for the Russians. The fact that in the course of making propaganda—that is, by organizing demonstrations throughout the United States and Europe, and by stressing the political nature of Negro oppression—the Communists saved the lives of the Scottsboro boys, is ignored. Worse, Record's obsession with kicking the corpse of the Communist Party leads him to announce that "obviously" one "cannot simultaneously pursue and denounce established legal procedures." How can serious appeals be made, Record asks, "when the appellants are at the same time denying that the courts can act independently of political considerations"? That might have been a good question to ask before the emergence of SNCC and CORE, or before the whole series of desegregation decisions running back to the school decision of 1954, although even then it would have been narrowly self-serving and an impediment to progress. Now such a question serves only to expose the rest to ridicule.

through the Negro section of to were recognized by the crowd that had gathered near Williams' house as people who had carried an "Open Season on Coons" banner on their car the day before. Williams, as he relates the story, saved the couple from the angry crowd by inviting them into his house. Following a telephone conversation with the Chief of Police, in which that official threatened his life, Williams fled Monroe, made his way to Canada, and finally to Cuba where he lives today. Shortly after leaving Monroe, Williams was indicted—with four others—for kidnaping the white couple. Those four (Mae Mallory, Richard Crowder, Harold Reape and John Lowry, who is white) were recently tried and convicted in Monroe.

What does Monroe mean? Here are men who work and demonstrate for their rights in a town with a history of Klan influence—and they take their guns with them. In the context of the story as related by Robert Williams this makes sense. The working class (and unemployed) composition of the Monroe group was obviously the most important factor in the evolution of the tactics they used. There are very real differences in the orientation of the Negro middle class and the Negro lower class. Furthermore, the climax of the Monroe story might have been entirely different if the Freedom Riders hadn't come into the picture. Williams' tactics were carefully timed and applied; the Freedom Riders, despite their good intentions, only managed to take the situation out of his hands, and when it came back to him a week later, things had already gotten out of control.

An argument frequently heard against Williams' self-defense, and in favor of King's masochistic attitude of "if blood must be shed, then let it be ours," is that the former will alienate white liberal support for the civil rights movement. But when deprivation of the Negro's rights is sustained by violence, who is to limit his choice to either inaction or martyrdom? Williams says repeatedly in his book that he is in favor of non-violence where it works. But self-defense of life and property—an established American right—should not be historically excluded from the Negro's tactical arsenal. Today, self-defense does seem to be the mood of the Negro rank and file even if it is not the policy of the national organizations.

If it requires guns in black hands to bring federal authority into the South, then guns must be readied in every community where the Negro is prevented by physical terror from becoming a viable political force. It should also be apparent that terror is practiced and condoned, in varying degrees, from St. Augustine to New York. In the North, certain militant groups will want to concentrate on pushing all forms of white power out of their communities. They will learn karate; they will arm; they will shoot policemen. Some innocent whites will be hurt but so many more innocent Negroes have been and will be hurt that, from the Negro viewpoint, white casualties won't matter.

Negroes With Guns was edited by Marc Schleifer; I've heard the tapes from which he worked and he has put them together in a readable manner. The book includes excerpts from an article and a speech by Martin Luther King, who rejects Williams' position on the grounds that there are alternatives besides submissiveness and guns, as well as because "there is more power in socially organized masses on the march than there is in guns in the hands of a few desperate men." There is also a statement by author Truman Nelson, who supports Williams over King, and photographs.

Williams' presence in Cuba today has clouded the issue raised by his tactics and philosophy with cold-war politics. It is also unfortunate that the façade of this book—its sensational-sounding title and the American Minuteman on the cover—is perhaps too much of a camp. The definitive history of Monroe and Williams has yet to be written, but Negroes With Guns remains a personal statement of great significance.

James Boggs's The American Revolution is not about the rights movement per se. It is a rambling series of brilliant and startling insights into the American past and the probable American future. Boggs, who contributed to the recent Triple Revolution statement, is a radical's radical. He starts from an assumption that the American power elite is innately evil, and he is not addressing people who might think otherwise. Nor does he expect much from groups which are supposed to be applying pressure, whether the AFL-CIO, NAACP or Marxists.

The AFL-CIO, Boggs notes in a lengthy survey of American labor, represents very little of the labor force, its leadership today is more concerned with securing pensions than with protecting jobs. Membership and influence have thereby declined. Millions of workers in the South remain outside the unions. What will they do? Boggs answers, "Historically, workers move ahead by the new. That is, they bypass existing organizations and form new ones uncorrupted by past habits and customs."

Boggs believes that the NAACP has been by-passed by harsh realities today. He sees an imminent armed conflict and he believes the Monroe movement and the nationalist movements are more realistic than the NAACP. "... the Negro revolt will lead to armed struggle between Negroes and whites, Negroes and Negroes, and federal troops and armed civilians, and will have to move through political power and economic power." In industrial centers like Detroit (where Boggs works in an auto factory) and Chicago, which have over 20 per cent unemployment, such conflict seems almost logical.

Though some of his premises and conclusions are Marxist, Boggs sees conventional American Marxism as suffering from crippling misconceptions, the most important of which is expressed in the old slogan, "Black and White, Unite and Fight." There is little evidence that white workers anywhere in America are at all interested in forming a united front with Negro workers.

In Boggs's view—a now familiar one—the unemployment produced by automation, combined with social revolutionary movements here and abroad, will bring about the American Revolution. He sees no realization of Negro goals within the present limits of our society; the Negro revolution is inherently, by definition, a movement toward a classless society.

The answer to the question, can the race problem be solved in American society as we now know it, appears to be no. The choice is more and more between stumbling liberalism—pouring money into welfare agencies which will certainly benefit some but won't break up the ghettos—and fascism: tripling the police forces to cope with Negro militants who reject nonviolence.

Or so it appears from Harlem.

PERSONAL

Dear Mr. Brady:

I want to take this means to express my personal appreciation to each Agent assigned in Brazil for the services rendered in the accomplishment of "Overhaul".

Admiration for the dynamic and efficient manner in which this large scale operation was carried out in a foreign land and under difficult conditions, has prompted me to express my gratitude. The CIA people did their part well and accomplished a great deal; however, the efforts of our agents were especially valuable. I am particularly pleased that our participation in the affair was kept secret and that the Administration did not have to make any public denial. We can all be proud of the vital part the FBI is playing in protecting the security of the Nation, even beyond its borders.

I am quite aware that our agents often make personal sacrifices while fulfilling their duties. Living conditions in Brazil may not be of the best but it is indeed encouraging to know that because of loyalty and realization that you are contributing a vital if not always a glorious service to your country you stick to the job. It is this spirit which today is enabling our Bureau to successfully discharge its very grave responsibilities.

Sincerely yours,

J. Edgar Hoover

Bufiles reflect a closed Security Matter-C case on James Weinstein. He has been the subject of a Reserve Index card. In 1959, he was interviewed by the FBI and stated he had been a member of the Communist Party from about 1953 to 1956, when he withdrew because of political disagreement. He is reflected in Bufiles as a member of the editorial board of "Studies on the Left" which is described as a quarterly publication in New York dedicated to the leftist point of view. Bufiles also reflect that various editorial board members of this publication have been identified either as active members of the Communist Party or having participated in the activities of the Labor Youth League which has been designated as subversive pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

When the forged Brady letters first appeared in South America, we determined that we do not have an Agent named Thomas A. Brady. A clerk, Thomas Anthony Brady, terminated in 9-46, and an Agent, Thomas Aquinas Brady, terminated in 2-47. We have had no other employees with this name. State Department, after checking with us, authorized U. S. Embassies in South America to deny authenticity of Brady letters and state that neither Mr. Hoover nor anyone else in the U. S. Government wrote them. Correspondent only inquires about the 4-15-64 letter which purports to congratulate Brady and indicate participation by the Bureau and CIA in an operation called "Overhaul" in Brazil.

This is the second inquiry received in two days from individuals with subversive backgrounds inquiring about the authenticity of these forged letters to "Brady."

Morrell to DeLoach Memo
RE: James Weinstein

[REDACTED] who is subject of a pending investigation based on past activities and recent allegation of a source that he must be a "seasoned and well-trained communist," and who is editor of [REDACTED] which publication has in the past been critical of the Director, the FBI and other government agencies, made a similar inquiry by letter dated 10-30-64. (See memo D. J. Brennan, Jr., to Mr. W. C. Sullivan 11-4-64 and letter to [REDACTED] 11-5-64.) b7C

OBSERVATIONS:

While Weinstein states he will destroy remaining copies of this letter upon affirmation of its fraudulence, there is no reason to believe he will do so in view of his background. Inasmuch as a similar inquiry from an individual with suspected communist affiliations was answered by a denial of the authenticity of the letter in question, it is felt that this communication should be handled in the same manner.

RECOMMENDATION:

That Weinstein be furnished a communication denying the authenticity of the letter in question and advising him that we do not have an Agent named Thomas A. Brady and of the action taken by the State Department in South America denying its authenticity.

Mr. James Weinstein

New York 24, New York

Dear Mr. Weinstein:

Your letter of November 3rd, with enclosure, has been received.

In response to your inquiry, your enclosure which purports to be a letter from me to a "Mr. Brady" is a complete fabrication. This Bureau does not have an Agent named Thomas A. Brady in its employ at the present time and has not had an employee with this name for more than fifteen years.

Upon appearance of the letter you enclosed in some South American newspapers, the U. S. State Department, after confirmation from this Bureau, authorized United States Embassies in South America to deny its authenticity and to state that neither I nor anyone else in the United States Government had ever written such a letter.

Sincerely yours,
J. Edgar Hoover

APPENDIX

FREE SCHOOL OF NEW YORK

The New York Times, a daily newspaper published in New York City, contained an article in its July 11, 1965, issue entitled, "Radicals Set Up Own University". The article indicated that this school, called the Free University of New York (FUNY) opened on the previous Tuesday in an old loft building at 20 East 14th Street, New York City, and reportedly had 210 students registered. The article also indicated that the funds for establishing the FUNY and funds for its operation were supplied in part by non-salaried faculty members most of whom contributed $30 each and also by the students who pay $24 for each eight week course.

The May 28, 1965, issue of "Newsday", a daily Long Island, New York, newspaper, contained an article entitled, "Krebs To Open His Own School". This article related that ALLEN KREBS, a former Adelphi University professor, who claimed he was fired from Adelphi University for his avowed Marxist views, was planning to open a university of his own in a rented Manhattan, New York, loft.

The New York Times, in its issue dated December 12, 1965, contained an article entitled, "Students Of Left Set Up Colleges". This article indicated that a number of "Counter Universities" or "Anti-Universities" have been established in various cities throughout the United States like the FUNY. The article mentioned that these institutions vary in many ways. Some are operated under the auspices of a specific organization belonging to the so-called New Left, however, others like the FUNY say they are independent of any organization and try to offer courses of a broader cultural orientation.

A source advised on March 14, 1966, that ALLEN KREBS, an expelled former secret member of the Progressive Labor Party (PLP), is the Director of the FUNY.

The same source advised on February 23, 1966, that

00-15773

the FUNY was originally meant to be a loose arm of the PLP (even though all individuals from pacifists to Trotskyites were allowed to teach), but the PLP members in control of the FUNY have removed it as such. The source indicated that during January, 1966, KREBS removed permission for a PLP high school group to meet at the FUNY, causing rumblings that he was breaching party discipline.

The Fall, 1966, Catalog from the FUNY reveals on the cover that the name of the school has been changed to the Free School of New York with an explanation that "New York State law forbids the use of the term 'University' without proof of $500,000.00 in assets".

The above catalog contains a list of 30 courses ranging from discussions of various radical movements, classes on Marxism, labor movements, racial prejudices, the draft, to classes on Vietnam and MAO TSE TUNG.

LOUIS M. RABINOWITZ FOUNDATION, INCORPORATED

Records of the Secretary of State, Corporation Department, State of Delaware, as made available on March 30, 1961, reflect that a Certificate of Incorporation was filed on August 24, 1944, for the Louis M. Rabinowitz Foundation, and the nature of business was - to undertake, promote, develop and carry on religious, charitable, scientific, literary and/or educational work. VICTOR RABINOWITZ was recorded as President of this foundation.

A source advised on May 18, 1965, that VICTOR RABINOWITZ is President of the foundation, and the address of the foundation is 30 East 42nd Street, New York 17, New York.

In early, 1962, a second source advised that GUS HALL, General Secretary of the Communist Party, United States of America (CP, USA) and others in the CP, USA leadership, complained about VICTOR RABINOWITZ because of information indicating that he had been donating money to and was listening to the "left faction" which included a number of people who were expelled from the CP, USA.

On April 2, 1965, a third source advised that the foundation forwarded $6,000.00 to HERBERT APTHEKER to further the work of APTHEKER in preparing a bibliography of the public writings of Doctor W. E. B. DU BOIS.

A fourth source advised that HERBERT APTHEKER was elected to the National Committee of the CP, USA, at the 17th National Convention of the CP, USA held in December, 1959.

It is publicly known that W. E. B. DU BOIS died on August 28, 1963. At that time he had been residing in Ghana, having become a citizen of that country. He was the guest of President KWAME NKRUMAH, and he had become Director of the Encyclopedia Africana, which was sponsored by the Government of Ghana. In the fall of 1961, at the age of 93, he joined the CP.

FREE SCHOOL OF NEW YORK

The New York Times, a daily newspaper published in New York City, contained an article in its July 11, 1965, issue entitled, "Radicals Set Up Own University". The article indicated that this school, called the Free University of New York (FUNY) opened on the previous Tuesday in an old loft building at 20 East 14th Street New York City, and reportedly had 210 students registered. The article also indicated that the funds for establishing the FUNY and funds for its operation were supplied in part by non-salaried faculty members most of whom contributed $30 each and also by the students who pay $24 for each eight week course.

The May 28, 1965, issue of Newsday, a daily Long Island, New York, newspaper, contained an article entitled, "Krebs To Open His Own School". This article related that ALLEN KREBS, a former Adelphi University professor, who claimed he was fired from Adelphi University for his avowed Marxist views, was planning to open a university of his own in a rented Manhattan, New York, loft.

The New York Times, in its issue dated December 12, 1965, contained an article entitled, "Students Of Left Set Up Colleges". This article indicated that a number of "Counter Universities" or "Anti-Universities" have been established in various cities throughout the United States like the FUNY. The article mentioned that these institutions vary in many ways. Some are operated under the auspices of a specific organization belonging to the so-called "New Left", however, others like the FUNY say they are independent of any organization and try to offer courses of a broader cultural orientation.

A source advised on March 14, 1966, that ALLEN KREBS, an expelled former secret member of the Progressive Labor Party (PLP), is the Director of the FUNY.

The same source advised on February 23, 1966, that

the FUNY was originally meant to be a loose arm of the PLP (even though all individuals from pacifists to Trotskyites were allowed to teach), but the PLP members in control of the FUNY have removed it as such. The source indicated that during January, 1966, KREBS removed permission for a PLP high school group to meet at the FUNY, causing rumblings that he was breaching party discipline.

The Fall, 1966, Catalog from the FUNY reveals on the cover that the name of the school has been changed to the Free School of New York with an explanation that 'New York State law forbids the use of the term 'University' without proof of $500,000.00 in assets'.

The above catalog contains a list of 30 courses ranging from discussions of various radical movements, classes on Marxism, labor movements, racial prejudices, the draft, to classes on Vietnam and MAO TSE TUNG.

The "Wisconsin State Journal," a daily newspaper published at Madison, Wisconsin, on November 26, 1959, announced that a new scholarly magazine, "Studies on the Left," (SOTL) a historical review dedicated to the leftist point of view, edited by present and former graduate students at the University of Wisconsin (UW), but having no connection with the UW itself, would begin publication soon.

Records of the Wisconsin Secretary of State reflect SOTL was incorporated under law of Wisconsin July 16, 1959, as a non-stock, non-profit corporation with headquarters P.O. Box 2121, Madison, Wisconsin. The first issue contained a policy statement from the editors stating SOTL was primarily a magazine for national circulation designed to give younger men with radical views a place to voice their opinions.

Volume #3, Number 2 issue of SOTL, published in February, 1963, contained an announcement that effective March 1, 1963, the new mailing address of SOTL would be "Studies on the Left," Box 33, Planetarium Station, New York 24, New York.

A source advised on May 7, 1965, that SOTL has the mailing address Box 33, Planetarium Station, New York 24, New York, and that JAMES WEINSTEIN is President and MARTIN SKLAR is Secretary-Treasurer of SOTL.

JAMES WEINSTEIN advised SAs of the FBI on October 23, 1959 that he joined the Labor Youth League (LYL) in 1950, and joined the Communist Party, United States of America (CP, USA) in 1953, and attended CP meetings on practically a monthly basis. WEINSTEIN stated that he withdrew from the CP and LYL in about 1956. He never formally withdrew from the CP and LYL but just became inactive.

A second source advised in 1953 through 1955, that during this period MARTIN SKLAR, a UW student from New York City attended public meetings of the LYL and associated and roomed with leaders of the LYL at UW.

The LYL has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

SOTL ceased publication in 1967.
